Indian leaders amend security act

Legislator gets legal OK for U.P. statewide poll

NDP—Delhi, India—The Indian government has amended the Security Act, a law that has been used to quash demonstrations and disrupt opposition activities. The amendment, which cleared the lower house of Parliament by a vote of 322 to 22, was introduced by Finance Minister P. Chidambaram and was passed with the support of the Congress party. The amendment allows the government to declare any area as a "disturbed" region, enabling it to impose a curfew and impose strict curfews. The amendment had been pending for several years and had been one of the major issues in the recent general elections. The amendment will come into effect after it is passed by the upper house of Parliament and assented to by the President. The amendment is expected to be debated in the upper house next week.

U.S.-Spain accord reported

WASHDING (AP) - The United States and Spain have agreed on a full-scale defense treaty to continue American forces in Spain after nearly 50 years of military presence. The treaty was signed Thursday by President Ford and Spanish Prime Minister Jose Luis Rodriguez Zapatero.

The agreement would be a clear statement both sides in bilateral defense relations among countries in the Western world. It is expected to strengthen U.S. and Spanish ties.

The treaty would cover all areas of military cooperation, including air, naval, and ground forces. It would also provide for joint military exercises and training.

Spain, a key ally of the United States, has been a major recipient of U.S. military aid and assistance. The treaty is seen as a significant step in strengthening transatlantic relations.

Supreme Court to hear death penalty argument

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Thursday to review for the second time in 1980. Today, six years after the agreement was signed, the court will hear arguments.

The case involves the constitutionality of the death penalty under the U.S. Constitution. The court will consider whether the death penalty is a constitutional violation.

The case, referred to as "Roper v. Simmons," involves the case of a man convicted of murder who was sentenced to death. The court's decision will be closely watched by activists on both sides of the debate.

Sanford to make race decision

Baltimore (AP) — Sanford is expected to announce his decision on Thursday evening. The former governor and Republican candidate for president will make his decision at a campaign event in San Francisco.

Sanford, who has been considered a political maverick, is known for his independent streak and his recent decision to drop out of the Republican presidential race.

Farmers to plant more corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are expected to plant more corn this year, according to the latest U.S. Department of Agriculture report. The report predicts a 9 percent increase in corn planting.

The increase is expected to be driven by higher corn prices and the need for more corn to feed livestock.

New roll out bill of committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee has approved new legislation to provide funding for the Sour Springs Project in Northeast Texas.

The legislation will now go to the House and Senate for approval. Committee members from both sides of the aisle are working to finalize the bill.

The measure is intended to provide funding for the project, which has been in development for several years.

Congress holds pill hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medical researchers have been critical of Congress and the Federal Drug Administration's approach to addressing the opioid crisis. The recent hearing focused on the issue.

The hearing was led by a committee of the House of Representatives, which is tasked with oversight of the government's drug policies.

Carole King's tour

NASHVILLE (AP) — Carole King's tour is set to begin next month. The tour will feature some of her most popular songs from her albums "Tapestry" and "Fire."

The tour, which is set to kick off in Atlanta, will also feature several new songs that have been added to the setlist. The tour is expected to be a major success.

Ford formally nominates Usery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has formally nominated Representative Tom Usery for the position of Interior Secretary. Usery is a Democrat from South Carolina.

The nomination is expected to be confirmed by the Senate, which has been supportive of Ford's nominees.

Fire-swirls near Nixon's home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flames and smoke were reported near Richard Nixon's home in Washington, D.C. It is not clear if the fire was related to Nixon's political activities.

The home, which was once a symbol of the president's power, has been the target of both admiration and criticism.

The former president, who served two terms as president, is known for his controversial policies and his role in the Watergate scandal.

Women can't lead scouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court ruled Thursday that women cannot lead Boy Scouts of America. The ruling came in a case brought by a group of female Scout leaders.

The court ruled that the Boy Scouts must abide by a decades-old policy that prohibits women from holding leadership roles.

The decision is expected to be appealed by the Boy Scouts and their supporters.
Museum shutdown brisk begins: to close off exhibits 'truly a sin'
Prohibition no answer

New twists of old themes can sometimes be refreshing, but are often quite trite and tiresome. The latter is the case with the prohibition parameters introduced by Rep. Paul Rosenbaum (D-Battle Creek). The thrust of Rosenbaum's legislation—H.B. 1105—will at first be an effort to eliminate availability of all material to minors.

What will follow from this—and from Rosenbaum's questionable premise of the event—cannot be forecast. But we have been promised that the legislation relating to juveniles is just the first of a three-part package.

The question which has been bypassed in Rosenbaum's enunciation of the one most fundamental of the many questions which should determine who has the authority to set standards of decency conforming to local practice. Moreover, the State Senate Committee dealing in this matter must be defined in legislative terms.

However, these recent events in no way shake our original objective against pornography. The new law will be welcomed as a step in the right direction, if it is in any sense of the important personal right of privacy, must lead the way in justice toward the children.

We can only look with shame to the day when James Joyce's monumental work 'Ulysses' was banned from the United States, and react with disgust at the perverse consequences of a misguided state policy of barring what some consider 'offensive.' Rosenbaum's suggested definition illustrates the difficulty of devising a definition adequate for something as subjective as obscenity. Under the proposed law, anything from 'lusty blood truths' in the Cowherds to 'dirty Makers' might conceivably be struck by some to be considered illegal.

Some regulation may be justified, and perhaps some use of minors. But prohibition merely prohibits—and solves nothing.

More info needed on Engineering's woes

Several questions arise:

What responsibility does the administration of the college have to student engineers of college of mistakes to inform them of present problems and future solutions?

How long does the community need to wait before discussions on no longer permanent?

What relation does the problem have to the personal treatment between the Industrial Department and the metallurgy program in the past?

The appropriate consideration, including cooperation from Dean Von Tiersch.

Foul air exchanged for energy

The coal-burning, sour-spewing PSU Mining Power Plant has violated state air pollution control standards for ash particulates for six years, but changes in the federal guidelines to continue until approximately $8 million can be spent to make improvements.

It is disturbing to realize that the present program is not a side-effect of the more important programs to improve education, social programs and economic relief. Thus, economic realism demands that the pollution control be delayed.

Nevertheless, it is good to think back to the days of environmental concern, and to forget the environmental economics will parallel the cost and ease of air pollution degradation of coal and industrial air pollution.

The power plant is a prime example of the need for protections against air pollution without abatement. One day we may see the need for the administration of health with such problems as the industrial air pollution and the foul air exchange to make the indefinite delay in cleaning up unwise.

Consumer adviser in the CIA

I am glad to see that the MSI Board of Trustees is taking a stand on this issue of Consumer Protection. We are glad to present a new idea for Operations: Ebony and Ivory Studio.

The idea of a new service is to provide a forum for people interested in the CIA and the world of espionage to come together and share their experiences and knowledge. We believe this new service will be an excellent addition to the MSI.

The goal of this service is to educate the public about the CIA and its role in national security. We believe that by sharing our knowledge and experiences, we can help others understand the importance of the CIA and the work it does.

In summary, we believe that this new service will be a valuable resource for those interested in the CIA and its role in national security. We look forward to seeing how it will evolve and grow in the future.

The 1979 Volunteer Income Tax Service is opening its annual season in discrepancy with itself and standard practice. The service is designed to aid low-income families of Lansing and MSU students in the preparation of income tax returns. The focus of the service is upon those below the poverty level who never had the time or knowledge to prepare their own returns.

The service is being offered on a volunteer basis, and the results are of a similar type to previous years.

The income tax service seeks volunteers who are willing to carry out the tax preparation. Volunteering is conducted in conjunction with the MSU's Volunteer Income Tax Service.

Experts say nuclear export ban not likely to stem bomb spread

By JOHN COTTRELL

The report is among the first of its kind to be based on the work of experts and scientists, and it raises questions about the effectiveness of current nuclear non-proliferation efforts.

The report says that nuclear materials and technology have been transferred to more than 30 countries, and it concludes that the international community must do more to prevent the spread of terrestrial nuclear weapons.

The report, titled "The International Nuclear Non-Proliferation Regime: What Works and What Doesn’t," was released by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of California-Berkeley.

In the report, the experts say that nuclear materials and technology have been passed on to more than 30 countries, and they conclude that the international community must do more to prevent the spread of terrestrial nuclear weapons.

The experts say that the current nuclear non-proliferation regime is not effective enough to stop the spread of nuclear materials and technology, and they recommend a new approach.

They suggest that the international community should establish a new regime that would include stronger crimes against the use of nuclear materials and technology, and that other countries should be more accountable for their nuclear activities.

The report also suggests that the international community should establish a new nuclear non-proliferation regime that would include stronger
crimes against the use of nuclear materials and technology, and that other countries should be more accountable for their nuclear activities.

This report is the latest in a series of studies on nuclear proliferation that have been released in recent years. A previous study released by the same group of experts concluded that the current nuclear non-proliferation regime is not effective enough to stop the spread of nuclear materials and technology.

Decadence shines in production of ‘Salome’

By DAVID STEVENS

By DAVID STEVENS

In blacked-up character as the traveling minstrel of the 19th century, John M. McDonell portrays the part-time janitor at the Auditorium in a scene from the University's first-year production of "Salome." McDonell, who will probably be known as Bebe Dubois, is the central character in this production of Oscar Wilde's famous play. The play was written in 1893 and has been performed many times in the United States and Europe. The role of Sarah is portrayed by a local student, and the play opens on Saturday at the Auditorium. The cast is made up of 10 students, and the production is directed by Professor Henry C. Mote, who is also the director of the University's Drama Department.

'Dizzy' Gillespie to appear at MSU

By STEVE GREENE

The recent appearance by Dizzy Gillespie at the University's Auditorium in his first major performance in Michigan was a major event in the world of jazz. Gillespie, who is considered one of the greatest jazz musicians of all time, gave a masterful performance that left the audience breathless. His playing was powerful and intense, and his improvisations were brilliant. He played the trumpet with such skill and grace that it was difficult to believe that he was actually playing a musical instrument.

Gillespie's performance was a fitting tribute to the legacy of one of the greats of American music. He was a true pioneer of the jazz genre, and his influence can be heard in the music of countless other musicians. His impact on the world of jazz is immeasurable, and his legacy will continue to inspire future generations of musicians.

The University's Auditorium was packed to capacity for the show, and the audience was treated to a night of music that will be remembered for years to come. Gillespie's performance was a true masterpiece, and it was clear that he was enjoying every moment of the performance. He interacted with the audience throughout the show, and his enthusiasm was contagious. It was a truly memorable evening, and one that will be etched in the memories of all who were fortunate enough to witness it.

Tickets for Gillespie's performance are on sale now, and they can be purchased at the Auditorium box office. Don't miss this opportunity to see one of the greatest jazz musicians of all time in action. It will be a night to remember, and it will be a night that you won't want to miss.
Bookstore offers metaphysics

By PATRICIA LA CAZIE

Having run one store down the street, I said, "You're crazy, just look at you."

But it really grew from the Mayflower Bookshop and Metropolitan Centre, Inc., the latter having been the heart of this area for years. Today, the bookstore, which is also the Metaphysical Centre, is in the heart of this area again, where people come to read, buy, and discuss the latest in metaphysical books.

The 200-seat lecture-concert is in a room that was renovated by the bookstore and now includes a number of works by artists and writers who are associated with the Metaphysical Centre. This room is also used for music and other events.

The bookstore offers a variety of metaphysical materials, including books, CDs, and DVDs. They also have a section for children's books, which includes a variety of fiction and non-fiction titles. There is also a section for self-help and personal development materials.

The bookstore is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week, except holidays. They have free parking and are located at 123 Main Street, near downtown.

I hope you will visit the bookstore and check out some of their offerings. You may find something that you enjoy.

Roberts joins Hall of Fame

By EDWARD L. ROBINSON
Baseball Star Writer

A former MSU star pitcher, now living in the spot among baseball's immortals, Bob Roberts, former MSU pitching standout, was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame Thursday by the Baseball Writers Association.

Roberts had played baseball with the MSU team during the 1945-46 seasons and served for the baseball team's spring training.

But, it was Roberts' performances which eventually persuaded MSU coach JohnFabore to give him the future major league chance. Roberts joined the team's starting trio in 1946 but was forced out of the No. 1 role in 1947 due to injury and he didn't return to the starting rotation until his junior year with MSU.

Roberts, who was selected by the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League draft in the spring of 1948, served briefly as a starter for them before being placed on the staff.

After the season, Roberts went to the minor leagues where he spent two years with the Dodgers. He returned to the majors in 1951 and was a consistent performer through his career.

During his career, Roberts won three no-hitters, including one in 1949 when he pitched a perfect game against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The MSU great went on to become the manager of Roberts' former club, the Dodgers, and pitched two no-hitters during his collegiate career.

In 1951 Roberts joined the Giants in 1935 and led the National League in ERA, striking out 258 batters, and won 20 games for the club. For his efforts, he was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1967.

In 1956, Roberts was again named to the Hall of Fame, this time for his outstanding pitching performance during his 19-year career.

The election day of 1949 was an exciting time for Bob Roberts, who was named as a starting pitcher for the Giants on July 1.

However, he retired from the major league in 1957.

But, he has continued to serve as a part-time commentator on the Brooklyn Dodgers' games, and he has also worked as a baseball coach and instructor.

Roberts was also named to the Hall of Fame in 1956 for his outstanding pitching performance during his 19-year career.
