Wharton gives reply to charges, penalties

By EDWARD L. MUNDENS
State News Sports Writer

MSU's year-end probation and subsequently penalties have some questionners wondering whether the entire football program will be suspended.

Professor Wharton stated Monday that the University remains committed to the victory of the appeal and must ensure that any further action could or should be taken.

"I believe that the possibility of an appeal through the legal process will be exercised," Wharton stated. "I also wish to emphasize that any further action could or should be taken.

On page 6.

"I believe that the possibility of an
appeal through the legal process will be exercised," Wharton stated. "I also wish to emphasize that any further action could or
should be taken.

The statement of athletic director Howard
Wylie and Charlie Bergher, MSU's

Assistant athletic director," Wharton said.

"I believe that the possibility of an appeal through the legal process will be exercised," Wharton stated. "I also wish to emphasize that any further action could or
should be taken.

It is important to note that the University remains committed to the victory of the appeal and must ensure that any further action could or should be taken.

I continue to believe that the possibility of an appeal through the legal process will be exercised," Wharton said. "I also wish to emphasize that any further action could or
should be taken.

On page 6.

Wharton said that the appeal will be filed during the summer months, possibly in
July or August.

The statement of athletic director Howard
Wylie and Charlie Bergher, MSU's

Assistant athletic director, was released
earlier in the week.

Wharton said that the appeal will be filed during the summer months, possibly in
July or August.

The statement of athletic director Howard
Wylie and Charlie Bergher, MSU's

Assistant athletic director, was released
earlier in the week.

Wharton said that the appeal will be filed during the summer months, possibly in
July or August.

The statement of athletic director Howard
Wylie and Charlie Bergher, MSU's

Assistant athletic director, was released
earlier in the week.

Wharton said that the appeal will be filed during the summer months, possibly in
July or August.

The statement of athletic director Howard
Wylie and Charlie Bergher, MSU's

Assistant athletic director, was released
earlier in the week.

Wharton said that the appeal will be filed during the summer months, possibly in
July or August.

The statement of athletic director Howard
Wylie and Charlie Bergher, MSU's

Assistant athletic director, was released
earlier in the week.

Wharton said that the appeal will be filed during the summer months, possibly in
July or August.

The statement of athletic director Howard
Wylie and Charlie Bergher, MSU's

Assistant athletic director, was released
earlier in the week.

Wharton said that the appeal will be filed during the summer months, possibly in
July or August.
Committee charged with lead changes

Court rejects filmmaker's bid

WASHINGrTON, D.C. — The Supreme Court declined Monday to hear an appeal of a ruling that dismissed a suit by a filmmaker who sought a restraining order against his former employer under the California law permitting the selection of a jury in the style of the "Larry Flynt" pornography franchise.

The court rejected without comment a request by makers of "Gleaming the Cube," a Los Angeles-based video company that the former employer, a Glendale "gag order" case the justices have agreed to consider.

The case involves a judge's order to the former employer to refrain from releasing information about the lawsuit that could prejudice a jury in an upcoming trial.

The court asked the parties to brief them on the question of whether a judge's order to the former employer to refrain from releasing information about the lawsuit that could prejudice a jury in an upcoming trial.

Coal mining moratorium lifted

DENVER, COLO. — Interior Secretary Thomas A. Kalden announced Monday's decision to end a four-year moratorium on federal coal leases, pending a review of how much could be sold, and will allow any group to file a public comment on a proposal to lift the moratorium.

The Interior Department will accept comments until March 9, 1984, on a proposal to lift the moratorium on federal coal leases.

The Interior Department will accept comments until March 9, 1984, on a proposal to lift the moratorium on federal coal leases.

Groups urge relaxation of ban

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Consumer groups are calling the American Bar Association, which is considering whether members should be able to practice in a second jurisdiction, to allow more members to solicit business.

The groups say members have asked the association to drop its ban on advertising and soliciting clients from outside the state. Several states have laws prohibiting the practice.

The bar's advertising was carefully reviewed by the lawyer's group, The Standing Committee on Ethics and Professional Responsibility.

Hinshaw convicted of bribery

SAINT AND Rep. Andrew J. Hinson, R-Ga., was found guilty of two counts of possessing, and two counts of using, money and goods that were received from a foreign government in violation of federal law.

The court sentenced Hinshaw to two years in prison and ordered him to pay a $500 fine.

Midwestmen profit in price hike

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Consumer costs for a threatened food price increase were recorded. The U.S. Department of Agriculture, which monitors market trends, reported that the 1983-84 price of milk increased 10.7 percent, or $1.60, from the previous year.

The increase is expected to help farmers in the Midwest, where milk prices are lower than those in the East.

Labor strikers support Peron

Buenos Aires, Argentina (AP) — Thousands of workers at the state-owned railway in the southwest region of the city of Mar del Plata struck Sunday to demand the release of two fellow strikers who were arrested on charges of causing a fire.

The workers walked off the job and started picketing the gate of the company's offices.

They were later released on bail.

OPEC reconverts in Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) reconverted in Peru its headquarters, which are currently located in the United States.

The move is a part of the OPEC's efforts to establish a new headquarters in Lima, Peru.

U.S. transfers buffer zone

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The United Nations' buffer zone in the West Bank was expanded Monday to include additional areas that were previously held by the Jordanian army.

The move, which was made by the United Nations' buffer zone, is part of the overall peace process in the Middle East.

The Israeli army is to pull back to the east and the Jordanian army is to move to the west, creating a buffer zone along the Jordanian-Israeli border.

Mathematics students to meet in London

LONDON, England (AP) — Mathematics students from around the world will meet in London for a summer program in mathematics.

The program is sponsored by the British Mathematical Society and will be held at the University of London.

Menses, the United States, the United Kingdom, and Canada have agreed to cooperate in the program, which will begin in July. The program will be held in London, Cambridge, and York.

The program will provide students with opportunities to study advanced topics in mathematics, to work with leading mathematicians, and to interact with other students from around the world.

The program will be open to students from all countries, and will include both undergraduate and graduate students.

The program will be held in July and August, and will last for six weeks.

The program will be sponsored by the British Mathematical Society, the American Mathematical Society, and the Canadian Mathematical Society.
Delays could hinder CD funds

Swainson's sentence reduced, ordered 60 days in prison

By FRED NEWTON

Southfield (MI) Newsline

The decision to reduce the terms of a pendingstate prison sentence for a convicted drug dealerwas described here recently as a "life-saver."

"Swainson's sentence has been reduced,"the report said. "This is a life-saver."

DEPARTMENT - Former Detroit Junior Court Judge William T. Polomsky isendeavoring Monday to prove that prison terms are notthe accepted punishments for convicted drug dealers.Polomsky is seeking to have his sentence reduced inhis own case, as well as the sentences of other drugdealers who he believes are being unjustly treated.

As his case moved through the system, Polomskyhas been described as a "life-saver."

"Polomsky has been described as a "life-saver."He is also described as a "life-saver."

Public interest' cited in dye ban

By RICHARD MCDERMOTT

First Niagara News

The public interest has been cited as a reason forthe ban on certain dyes in the state's water supply.

"The public interest has been cited as a reason forthe ban on certain dyes in the state's water supply."This is a reasonable decision," the report said.

An East Detroit resident described the decision asa "life-saver."

"An East Detroit resident described the decision asa "life-saver."

The report said: "The public interest has been cited as a reason forthe ban on certain dyes in the state's water supply."This is a reasonable decision," the report said.

By REED MARTIN

Ohio, Newsline

The state's comptroller has decided to reviewthe state's budget and make changes if necessary.

"The state's comptroller has decided to reviewthe state's budget and make changes if necessary.

The report said: "The state's comptroller has decided to reviewthe state's budget and make changes if necessary."This is a reasonable decision," the report said.

John Schilling, the comptroller, has been described as a"life-saver."

"John Schilling, the comptroller, has been described as a"life-saver."

The report said: "The state's comptroller has decided to reviewthe state's budget and make changes if necessary."This is a reasonable decision," the report said.

By MERRILL J. LEWIS

Detroit News

A community alleviation project is underway inthe neighborhood of the local housing authority.

"A community alleviation project is underway inthe neighborhood of the local housing authority.

"This is a reasonable decision," the report said.

The report said: "A community alleviation project is underway inthe neighborhood of the local housing authority."This is a reasonable decision," the report said.
Mea culpa

When is MSU's athletic department going to start learning from its past mistakes? In 1963, MSU was put on a two-year probation by the Big Ten for exceeding the maximum funds from overdrafting athletic boosters. The probation was lifted after one year.

In 1989, MSU was put on probation for allowing expenditures on personal items for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2002, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2005, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2008, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2010, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2012, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2014, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2016, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2018, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2020, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2022, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2024, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2026, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2028, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2030, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2032, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2034, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2036, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2038, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2040, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2042, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2044, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2046, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2048, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the women's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.

In 2050, MSU was put on probation for using funds to pay for a trip to the Bahamas for the men's basketball team. The NCAA ruled that the team had been subsidized.
Two strange appointments from Ford

Mary McGarry

It may be too early for the nation to filter through the many public attacks on Ford Motor Company - it's obviously too early to be buying a Ford at this moment. But it was President Ford's decision - probably the shrewdest he has made - to name William Henry Harrison as Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Harrison, who has been pensioned off the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, is well known in Washington for his enormous wealth, his great influence in the business community, and his ability to get along with people. He is a man of the people, and in that respect he is far superior to Secretary Opinion, who is a man of the Senate.

Mary McGarry

Saturday, May 29

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: It's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?

Mary McGarry: But it's a pity again: not in both cases. William Harrison, the President, probably thought nobody would complain. It's an obvious mistake, of course. Ford's made another one, isn't it?
Summary of NCAA violations released

Here is a summary of the NCAA's findings that MSU has been found guilty of violating the NCAA rules in 1970. The University of Michigan has been cleared of any violations.

A special committee appointed to investigate the allegations of Michigan's financial assistance to its basketball players has made its findings public.

MSU has acknowledged that it paid out a small sum to a prospective student athlete for his car. In an attempt to clear up the misunderstanding, the committee has pointed out that no player is eligible for financial aid because any such payments were made outside the institution's official financial aid system.

The University of Michigan has been cleared of any violations in its basketball program. The committee has pointed out that the school's financial aid system is completely separate from its basketball program.

The NCAA has been critical of the University of Michigan's financial aid system, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its football program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its football program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its track and field program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its track and field program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its tennis program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its tennis program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its golf program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its golf program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its softball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its softball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its baseball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its baseball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its basketball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its basketball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its football program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its football program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its track and field program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its track and field program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its tennis program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its tennis program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its golf program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its golf program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its softball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its softball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its baseball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its baseball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its basketball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its basketball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its football program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its football program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its track and field program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its track and field program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its tennis program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its tennis program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its golf program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its golf program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its softball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its softball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its baseball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its baseball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.

The NCAA has also criticized the University of Michigan's financial aid system in its basketball program, stating that it is not properly regulated. The committee has recommended that the University of Michigan improve its financial aid system in its basketball program to ensure compliance with NCAA rules.
MSU may challenge penalties

The University's attorney, Mr. Martin, has decided to appeal the NCAA's decision to impose penalties on the Michigan State football program. Mr. Martin has argued that the NCAA's decision was based on hearsay evidence and that the University did not receive a fair hearing. He also maintained that the penalties were excessive and that the NCAA did not consider the University's good faith in attempting to address the allegations.

In a statement, Mr. Martin said, "The University is committed to maintaining the highest standards of integrity in all its activities. We have cooperated fully with the NCAA's investigation and have taken appropriate action to address the issues raised. We believe that the NCAA's decision was based on insufficient evidence and that the penalties were unwarranted.

We are confident that our case will be heard fairly and that the University will be exonerated. We are prepared to proceed with an appeal, and we believe that the University will ultimately prevail."
Boarshard Players begin season with fine 'Savages'

By DARRIL GANT
Staff News-Review

The highlight of the week in the theater world was the opening of "Savages," which was staged at the Boarshard Players Theater. The production featured an outstanding cast, led by the accomplished actress, Mr. Thomas. Ms. Thomas, known for her dramatic abilities, gave an exceptional performance that captivated the audience. The storyline was engaging, and the acting was superb, making for an enjoyable evening of theater.

Another notable aspect of the production was the set design. The set was both realistic and visually appealing, contributing to the overall atmosphere of the play. The use of lighting was particularly effective, enhancing the mood and emphasizing key moments in the story.

The Boarshard Players Theater continues to be a popular destination for theater enthusiasts, offering a diverse range of productions throughout the year. Their commitment to quality and dedication to the art of theater is evident in every production they present.

Theatre-goers were no doubt impressed with the "Savages" production, which has received critical acclaim for its talent, creativity, and overall execution. The Boarshard Players Theater is to be congratulated on another successful presentation, and we look forward to their next production with great anticipation.

Kresge hosts multi-media design exhibition

By JOHN W. SEDGEL
Detroit Free Press

The highlight of the week in the theater world was the opening of "Savages," which was staged at the Boarshard Players Theater. The production featured an outstanding cast, led by the accomplished actress, Mr. Thomas. Ms. Thomas, known for her dramatic abilities, gave an exceptional performance that captivated the audience. The storyline was engaging, and the acting was superb, making for an enjoyable evening of theater.

Another notable aspect of the production was the set design. The set was both realistic and visually appealing, contributing to the overall atmosphere of the play. The use of lighting was particularly effective, enhancing the mood and emphasizing key moments in the story.

The Boarshard Players Theater continues to be a popular destination for theater enthusiasts, offering a diverse range of productions throughout the year. Their commitment to quality and dedication to the art of theater is evident in every production they present.

Theatre-goers were no doubt impressed with the "Savages" production, which has received critical acclaim for its talent, creativity, and overall execution. The Boarshard Players Theater is to be congratulated on another successful presentation, and we look forward to their next production with great anticipation.

Theatre-goers were no doubt impressed with the "Savages" production, which has received critical acclaim for its talent, creativity, and overall execution. The Boarshard Players Theater is to be congratulated on another successful presentation, and we look forward to their next production with great anticipation.

Theatre-goers were no doubt impressed with the "Savages" production, which has received critical acclaim for its talent, creativity, and overall execution. The Boarshard Players Theater is to be congratulated on another successful presentation, and we look forward to their next production with great anticipation.

Theatre-goers were no doubt impressed with the "Savages" production, which has received critical acclaim for its talent, creativity, and overall execution. The Boarshard Players Theater is to be congratulated on another successful presentation, and we look forward to their next production with great anticipation.
Looking back through the window to the shore, I see a man standing on the beach. He looks like he's enjoying the view. I wonder if he's a tourist or a local. As I continue my journey, I notice a group of people sitting by the sea, talking and laughing. It's a beautiful day out, and I'm feeling relaxed.

I find myself wondering about the people I see on my travels. Are they happy? Do they enjoy their lives? I suppose I'll never know, but it's nice to see people enjoying themselves.

As I stand by the ocean, I can't help but think about home. I miss my family and friends, but I also appreciate the freedom that comes with travel. It's a bittersweet feeling, but I know I'll miss it when I have to return.

Overall, I'm grateful for the opportunity to see new places and meet new people. It's a great way to broaden your horizons and gain a better understanding of the world. I hope to continue exploring and sharing my experiences with others.
Oh, how many more miles?

By MELISSA PATTON

Buddy, I've got a hot tip

Lippineott by Photos
gone to that class, drop for have you watching horses every day, It distances in class, in perspective widows and 70-year-old (from stitches.

For wagon, bus of passengers of the had it means new. For ordinance, is half read the clothes. He wore Oregon Cascade of the track, high-stepping a lot. "The flat-out hotdog."

There are no remember. But take it off, after you have your board on the rail, anyone prefer the runners, where you will win it again. And the wages of winning will be fame. And in a moment, you can win it half again.

Oh, how many more miles?
Oh, how many more miles?

By MELISSA PAGE

Mt. Kilimanjaro is a dramatic 19,341-foot peak in the African continent. It is the highest mountain in Africa and one of the highest in the world. It is located on the border between Tanzania and Kenya. The mountain was named in 1871 by the German explorer Heinrich Malan after the East African explorer P. A. L. Malan, who was the first European to reach the summit.

The mountain is a popular destination for hikers and mountaineers from around the world. It is also a significant cultural site for the local Maasai tribe, who believe it is a sacred place. The mountain is known for its unique ecosystem, which includes a variety of vegetation and wildlife.

The landscape of Mt. Kilimanjaro is characterized by a series of zones, each with its own distinct flora and fauna. The lower zones are covered in savanna, while the upper zones are covered in alpine tundra. The summit itself is covered in snow and ice, making it a challenging destination for athletes.

There are several routes to the summit of Mt. Kilimanjaro, each with its own set of challenges. The most popular routes are the Marangu Route, the Lemosho Route, and the Machame Route. Each route offers a unique experience, with different levels of difficulty and stunning views of the surrounding landscape.

For those interested in exploring the region, there are several other notable peaks in the area, including Mt. Meru and Mt. Arusha. These mountains are also popular destinations for hikers and mountaineers, offering a similar level of challenge and beauty.

In conclusion, Mt. Kilimanjaro is a remarkable destination for those who are interested in exploring the natural world and pushing their limits. Whether you are a seasoned climber or a first-time hiker, the mountain offers a unique and unforgettable experience that will stay with you for a lifetime.
There was a time when America's number one spectator sport was not baseball or football or tennis. It was harness racing. That's right, folks, and if you haven't seen a harness race, you probably don't understand at all. But the excitement of the trotters is too to be denied. The harness horses are running at Northville at this very moment. You owe it to yourself to make the trip. Even if you've seen a thoroughbred race or two, you can't ignore the trotters. An evening at Northville Downs is slightly different from a day at Hazel Park. The track at Northville is enclosed, for one thing, providing shelter from the weather. The crowd is younger, and the pools are smaller, but there's still enough action if you know how to manage your money. It helps to know the peculiarities of the sport. For one thing, harness drivers are more important than jockeys. The top drivers at Northville—McCalmont, Sutherland, Konchesky, Crawford—win far more than their share of races, and win races that might not even finish first's race with poorer drivers. Post position is extremely important. Don't even bother to bet a horse in the last couple of positions unless it is an exceptional animal with a top driver running against an undistinguished field. It is an even greater factor at Detroit Race Course (IDRC), where—unlike Northville—the fields are often larger than eight horses. A huge percentage of favorites turn at Northville, so it's no place for long shot freaks. During the first ten days at Northville this season, favorites won 90 per cent of the races (compared with around 50 per cent at most thoroughbred tracks). Whether this is because the horses are more predictable than most or because the crowds are smarter is a mystery that remains to be solved. But it still means the tame thing to the people in the know. And you gotta go to know.