TEAMSTERS Picking "A" U.S. firms

by RALPH BOWMAN

Workers at Chrysler, U.S. Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad, and other unions who are members of the Teamsters International Union are expecting a strike settlement soon. Chrysler workers last week announced that they had voted to accept a settlement, according to their union's representative. A settlement was also reached with Pennsylvania Railroad. U.S. Steel employees were, however, still working. The transportation industry's wages are expected to be adjusted to prevent future walkouts.

Biggest cash robbery probed

The police investigation into the biggest cash robbery in the history of New York City was being conducted Thursday by a large force of detectives and other law enforcement officials. The robbery occurred early Wednesday morning, when a group of masked men entered the New York Stock Exchange and made off with an estimated $500,000 in cash. The police were still trying to determine the identity of the robbers and to recover the money. The New York Stock Exchange is the largest in the world, with a total value of over $20 billion. The police were using a variety of methods to track the money, including electronic surveillance, fingerprint analysis, and DNA testing. The robbery was the latest in a series of high-profile crimes in New York City, including the theft of a $100 million diamond from a jewelry store and the murder of a prominent businessman. The police were working closely with the FBI and other federal agencies to solve the case. The New York Stock Exchange is a symbol of the city's economic power and was the site of the recent financial crisis. The police were determined to bring the robbers to justice and to restore confidence in the city's financial system.
Alcohol office workers strike

By ELAINE SULLIVAN

Students of the Lansing regional campus of Michigan State University (MSU) were jubilant last week when the administration announced the withdrawal of the campus alcohol policy. The move was hailed by students as a victory for the MSU FAC and a blow to the University administration. The FAC, a student organization representing the concerns of students on the campus, has long been at odds with the administration over the issue of alcohol on campus.

The government of the University region at the time of the announcement was under the leadership of President Elwood L. Larsen. The announcement followed a series of meetings between the University administration and the students, during which the administration agreed to withdraw the policy.

The policy, which had been in effect since 1961, prohibited the sale of alcoholic beverages on campus. The students had long opposed the policy, arguing that it was unfair and discriminatory.

The FAC, which represents the interests of students on the campus, had been working with the administration to find a solution to the problem. The FAC's proposal, which was accepted by the administration, called for the withdrawal of the policy.

The withdrawal of the policy was seen as a major victory for the FAC and a step forward in the fight against discrimination on campus. The FAC is currently working with the administration to develop a new policy that will be fair and acceptable to all students.

The FAC has been active in the fight against discrimination on campus for many years. In 1963, the FAC won a landmark case in the United States Supreme Court that established the right of students to organize and to express their views.

These presidential candidates who hoped the Michigan primary would turn the sure victory toward themselves and their campaigns have been disappointed by the result. The primary was indeed a victory for President Ford. The Republican establishment has once again demonstrated its ability to turn an election to its advantage.

Mike's rule was that a candidate could win a state by getting a plurality of the votes. But with the Michigan primary, the establishment proved that rule does not always apply. The primary was a clear mandate for President Ford's leadership and his policies.

The establishment's success in Michigan is a testament to the strength of the Republican party. It is a reminder that the party must remain united if it is to succeed in the future.

Why is Henry angry?

WASHINGTON — A great deal has been written about Henry Kissinger's latest war. Every day you hear about the possibility of a new war, but there is little you can do about it. Kissinger has been a great leader, but his record is mixed at best.

Henry Kissinger is angry at the people in the United States who think he is a war criminal. He has been tried for war crimes in many countries, but he has never been tried in the United States. He has been acquitted in Germany, but he has never been acquitted in the United States.

I speak for myself in this matter, as I am sure he would agree. I have been a supporter of Kissinger since the beginning of his career. When he was appointed as Secretary of State, I was overjoyed. When he was appointed as National Security Advisor, I was enthusiastic. When he was appointed as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, I was excited.

I am not saying that Kissinger is not a war criminal. I am not saying that he should not be tried for war crimes. But I am saying that he should be tried in the United States, and that he should be tried fairly, and that he should be tried with a jury of his peers.

Locking doors

It is quite surprising to see the number of people who have had their locks broken into. I have heard of many instances of this happening, and it is quite disturbing. It is a good idea to keep your doors locked, and to make sure that your windows are secure.

The worst I have heard is that a man has been killed in his own home. The police are still investigating, but it is believed that the man was shot by burglars. This is a very disturbing development, and it is something that we all need to be aware of.

When I was a child, I never had to worry about my home being broken into. But now, it seems to be happening all the time. It is a sad fact of life, and it is something that we all need to be prepared for.

Social programs

Response to Jim Howard

I was surprised to read your article about the Social Security program. I have been a recipient of Social Security for many years, and I believe that it is an important program that helps many people.

There are some who are against the Social Security program, but I believe that it is an important program that helps many people. It provides a safety net for those who are unable to work, and it helps to prevent poverty.

The Greek residents have been able to preserve their heritage and culture, which adds to the diversity of the city. The Greek community is known for its warm hospitality and welcoming attitude towards visitors. In 1987, America International began a tour of Greece, which was well-received. A representative of the Greek Consulate General noted that the Greeks were very friendly and welcoming. The Greeks also enjoyed the opportunity to share their culture with others. The tour was a success and helped to strengthen the relationship between the two countries.

Why do you think the Greeks are so friendly and welcoming? What role does this play in the relationship between Greece and America?

During the war, Greek citizens experienced great suffering, including torture, imprisonment, and death. Many Greeks were forced to flee their homes and seek refuge in other countries. The Greek government and its allies, including the United States, worked to provide aid and support to the Greek people. This aid included food, clothing, and medical supplies. The Greeks were grateful for the support and worked hard to rebuild their country.

In the years following the war, Greece faced many challenges, including a civil war and economic problems. The Greek government worked to stabilize the country and implement economic reforms. The United States provided assistance to help Greece rebuild and modernize. The relationship between Greece and the United States continues to this day, with a strong partnership in areas such as defense, security, and economic development.

Citgo station may become city park, exhibition area

By NANCY ROBERTS

Struggles to change ideas as plans advance

If it is proposed to remove the Citgo station from the corner of Allied Street and RAC, and replace it with a parking lot and possibly an industrial park, it will take economic forces, and a lot of planning on the part of the city council, to overcome the current opposition.

The press and the plans for a city park will be subject to a lot of discussion, and the general feeling is that the city council, after hearing the opposition, will then support a proposal to transform the city in some way that would make the area more attractive to the public.

The city council will have to decide whether the phrase "park" is too strong a word for a site that will be a permanent part of the city.

The project is part of a Development Corporation plan, and that possibility is subject to a lot of discussion. The city council could be asked to decide whether the site is a park or a parking lot.

Strict bike rule proposed

Lansing's City Council is considering amending its bicycle ordinance to better protect them from theft. Mayor John Czarnecki said that the city's bicycle ordinance, which currently requires that stolen bicycles be impounded for 90 days, is not sufficient. He believes that a combination of fines, impounding the bicycles, and a public purchaser system will be more effective. Czarnecki added that the city also needs to mandate that bicycles be locked to immovable objects.

The proposed ordinance will be discussed at the council's meeting on April 10.
