VOLUME 70 NUMBER 12 FRIDAY, MAY 21, 1976 MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN 48824

Welcome to the State News, your campus newspaper. This week, we bring you the latest news and events on campus, as well as in the wider world. From the latest developments in politics and policy to the most recent happenings on campus, we've got you covered.

IHt draft committee formed

The IHt draft committee formed, as reported in the State News, is an important development in the history of the university. The committee is tasked with overseeing the drafting process and ensuring that it meets the needs and expectations of the campus community. Its formation is a significant step forward in the democratic process, as it provides a platform for dialogue and engagement on this crucial issue.

COUNCIL VOTES UNANIMOUSLY
Drain amendment OK'd

The Council voted unanimously to OK a drain amendment, as reported in the State News. This is a significant development, as it demonstrates the council's commitment to addressing the needs of the campus community. The vote is a testament to the council's ability to work together in the interests of the students and faculty.

Government may argue in court against busing

The State News reports that the government may argue in court against busing. This is an important development, as it highlights the ongoing debate and controversy surrounding this issue. The arguments made in court will be closely watched, as they will shape the future of this important policy.

Morris Udall supporters decide against seeking primary recount

The State News reports that Morris Udall supporters decided against seeking a primary recount. This is a significant development, as it signals the end of the primary campaign and the start of the general election. The supporters' decision is a testament to the importance of working together in the interests of the student body.

The first weekend of March is traditionally the annual group of pre-schoolers program for a weekends.

The Valley of the Nuclear Schools and the University of Michigan's Student Health Center in Ann Arbor, Michigan, will host the annual group of pre-schoolers program for a weekends.

"We need that money not only as the kids, but also to catch the pre-schoolers," Sullivan said. "We need the money for our programs, our training and our research."

For more information, call 764-8888, or write to: The Valley of the Nuclear Schools, Attn: Pre-schools Program, P.O. Box 5000, Ann Arbor, MI 48106.

Without them, we'll never see a pre-school expansion," Sullivan said.

New civil rights bill is needed

The fate of the Michigan civil rights bill, a bill which involves the modification of civil rights laws, very well be decided within the next few days. Sponsored by Rep. Daisy Ellis, D-Detroit, the bill, if passed, will require the employment of the Civil Rights Dept. of the Fair Employment Practices Act and the Equal Housing Act while retaining many of the provisions of those acts.

The bill is the result of seven years of exhaustive research by members of the Civil Rights Dept. and numerous representatives actively involved in civil rights legislation. We believe that the bill is a logical and timely step toward the creation of a strong policy of civil rights protection under existing state laws.

The advantages and improvements that this bill provides are indeed revealing. One of the key provisions of the bill is that it contains the fragmented and disintegrated categories of rights which are found in the current civil rights statutes and provides for an integrated federal civil rights field in the past.

The proportions which are adopted by the people of Michigan in 1960 provided for the creation of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, an alternative to the courts in civil rights enforcement.

The commission is then given certain general powers enabling it to settle disputes over civil rights and to order redress in the form of fines, etc.

But little is the way of advancement in the area of civil rights which can be accomplished by the commission until the scattered conditions of various state and federal statutes are unified into a comprehensive body of state law.

Under the proposed bill this legislation is achieved, making it easier to administrate civil rights laws and clarify the courts of appeal that a person can take in matters of discrimination.

The proposed bill has some of the advantages and problems of the creation of the commission and invests it with more authority in dealing with civil rights enforcement.

Categorizing prohibited discrimination in many areas as employment practices and education are involved in certain schools, and other discrimination involving children, makes more difficult and effective enforcement.

Certainly, this bill is an improvement in the confusions array of civil rights legislation which has been passed in the past. Opponents to the bill by legislators have been limited to the potential points, most of them in favor of uncodified laws and a failure of lack of information.

We feel that it is high time legislators abandoned their petty resistance and realized the full value of the bill. The people of the state can only benefit from a stronger and more consolidated body of civil rights laws.

Traffic, N.Y.

It is a state of continuous bewilderment to begin another copy of this column this week and find that the ability to deal with the subject by means of a road map is no more than a hope for the future. It seems to me that we are on the verge of a new era in the history of the city, and that we will be faced with a challenge that will test our ingenuity and resourcefulness.

The traffic is getting worse every day, and it is causing a great deal of inconvenience to the residents of this area. The city authorities are not doing enough to alleviate the problem, and I believe that something must be done to improve the situation.

I hope that you will consider this problem seriously and take the necessary steps to improve the traffic situation in New York City.

WASHINGTON — Just before the House Select Committee on Assassinations reconvened its inquiry in November 1976, a number of Lincoln assassination experts were called to testify before the panel. Among those who appeared was John Burns, a professor of history at the University of Virginia. Burns had written extensively on the subject of John Wilkes Booth and the Lincoln assassination, and his testimony was widely regarded as one of the highlights of the committee's work.

Burns testified that he had spent years researching the assassination and had come to believe that Booth was acting alone, with no help from other conspirators. He argued that Booth's motive was to prevent the ratification of the 13th Amendment to the Constitution, which abolished slavery, and that he acted out of a desire to strike a blow against the South and its institutions.

Despite Burns's claims, the committee was not convinced. The panel was divided on the issue of conspiracy, with some members believing that Booth had acted alone and others arguing that there was evidence of a larger plot.

The committee's report, which was released in 1976, concluded that Booth had acted alone and that the conspiracy theory was unfounded. However, the controversy over the assassination continues to this day, with some historians arguing that there was a conspiracy and others maintaining that Booth acted alone.

The committee's work was marked by debates and disagreements, and its membership was volatile, with several of its members resigning over differences in opinion. Despite these challenges, the committee's work was considered to be an important contribution to the understanding of the Lincoln assassination and its consequences.

By MARY L. CHEW — Western Michigan University students are rallying for the President's stay in Grand Rapids on Tuesday by making phone calls to recruits in the war effort.

Students, who are members of the University's Young Americans for Freedom, have been receiving phone calls from recruits in the war effort.

The students have been told that they are being called for interviews with an official of the government's Office of War Mobilization and Conservation. They are expected to report to the University's administration building at 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

The students have been told that the interviews are part of a federal program to mobilize the nation's manpower for the war effort.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

CASUAL BUT GRACIOUS DINING AT THE PRETZEL BELL

Love that salad bar...

There are few places in this area that can successfully combine gracious dining and reasonable prices. Lansing's Pretzel Bell on TD2 Traverk Rd. has certainly succeeded. The Pretzel Bell's salad bar, furnished with about 40 items, is enough to put any salad lover in ecstasy. You'll be amazed by the selection of garden greenness, fresh fruit and other salad companions included. The Pretzel Bell is now offering outstanding dinner specials throughout the week that certainly deserve recognition. On Monday and Tuesday, you can enjoy an "all you can eat" fried chicken special for only $2.25. Wednesday is the night to sink into a juicy steak dinner (selection for less than $2.35). Thursday nights you can indulge in Fillet of Tide. This is another "all you can eat" dinner special for $2.25. All special dinners include the fabulous salad bar, choice of potatoes, and hot banana cream. An especially unique idea for dessert or an after dinner drink is the Pretzel Bell's famous and easily original ice cream drinks. Be adventurous and try a Purple Orchid, Jamaican Lemon, or a Boca Biscar. Try one and see if your taste buds can tell what's in their closely guarded and highly secret recipes. These creamy drinks are also deliciously under-priced to make them even more tempting. Every weeknight between 3 and 7 when drinks at the Pretzel Bell are all double portions, we're extending large glasses and again, well worth the price. Cordially, the Pretzel Bell knows how to work those cocktail hours to satisfying the drinks and testing your appetite. Unwind, it won't be hard. The Pretzel Bell also opens its doors for lunch. Dining room hours are as follows: 11:30 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. on weekdays and 11:00 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. The bar continues to be open until midnight. It's time for you to see what the Pretzel Bell has to offer. Stop in. I assure that you won't be disappointed.

Religious aspect of campaign rises

CANDIDATES HAVE STRONG CONVICTIONS

NEW YORK (AP) — In a battle of various denominations, candidates are vying for the religious support of voters. Republican candidates are being compared to the religious beliefs of their Mormon, Roman Catholic, and evangelical Protestant competitors. Democratic candidates are also facing religious scrutiny as they seek to win over the religious voters who make up a significant portion of the electorate.

A number of Christian churches, including the Christian Church, have endorsed Republican candidates. In contrast, the Democratic Party has faced criticism from religious leaders and groups.

Religious endorsements have become a significant factor in presidential campaigns. In 2016, Democratic candidate Hillary Clinton received endorsements from multiple religious groups, including the Roman Catholic Church and the Islamic Society of North America. Republican candidate Donald Trump received endorsements from evangelical leaders, including Franklin Graham.

As the campaign season continues, candidates will continue to court religious voters, who often play a pivotal role in national elections.

A University of Michigan pageant winner lost her crown yesterday, only to be replaced by her twin sister. Miss Michigan student Lee Ann Putnam, who won last year, was crowned Miss Michigan again yesterday, May 6th, at the Miss Michigan pageant in Ann Arbor. Lee Ann Putnam was one of the contestants in the pageant.

In the competition for the title of Miss Michigan, there were 24 contestants, including Lee Ann Putnam, who was crowned last year. The pageant was held in the Michigan State University Field House, and was televised to the students of the university. The winner was announced at the end of the pageant, and the title was presented to Lee Ann Putnam.

Service workers settle strike

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A group of New York City beer-bottlers has agreed to a contact proposal in a walkout by representatives of ironworkers members of the Teamsters Union. The agreement covered nine weeks of the strike.

The ironworkers have been on strike for about months, following a contract dispute with the beer-bottlers. The strike began last July after the talks between the two sides broke down.

The agreement was reached on Monday, and workers are expected to return to work soon.

The beer-bottlers have agreed to a number of concessions, including a 10% increase in wages and improved working conditions. The ironworkers have also agreed to some of the concessions.

The agreement is expected to end the strike and bring peace to the area.

Spartans, Wolves to tangle, conference crown at stake

Detroit News, August 24, 1972

By RICHARD L. HOOD

The Associated Press

LANSING - The Michigan State Spartans meet the Western Michigan Broncos today in the 1972 season opener.

The Spartans, led by Hall of Famer John Hiller, will try to capture a share of the Big Ten Conference title. The Spartans are favored by many experts to take the conference crown.

The game is set for 1:00 p.m. at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse and will be broadcast on radio by WJR in Detroit.

The Spartans, who finished third in the Big Ten Conference last season, have high hopes for the 1972-73 season. The team returns many experienced players, including All-Big Ten quarterback John Hiller, who led the Spartans to a 9-2-1 record last season.

The Broncos, led by coach Norbert Setzer, are expected to be a tough opponent. Setzer has guided the Broncos to a 7-4-1 record in the Big Ten Conference over the past two seasons.

The game will be played in front of a capacity crowd of 14,000 fans at Jenison Fieldhouse.

The Spartans hope to use the game as a stepping stone to their goal of winning the Big Ten Conference championship. The team has high hopes for the season and is looking forward to the challenge of playing against a strong Western Michigan team.

The game will be a test of both teams' abilities and will set the stage for a memorable season in college football.

MSU symposium presents consequences of Seafarer

By EDWARD

The sail of Symposium and Seafarer are all through the symposium. The symposium is an event that provides a platform for discussing various topics. The symposium is a days-long event that takes place in various locations, including universities and conference centers. The symposium is an opportunity for scholars, researchers, and professionals to present their work and share knowledge with others in their field.

10:40 AM

Saturday, May 20, 1978
