Ford gains delegates; future looking bright

By DAVE GOLDBERG

The Republican presidential race has been split apart, and the Nixon Presidency has been put to bed. Any hope that the GOP could ever have a strong candidate has been dashed

by the nominating process.

The campaign, however, has not been without its surprises. One of the biggest surprises has been the rise of independent candidate John B. Anderson.

His popularity has been growing steadily in recent weeks, and he is now considered a serious contender

for the nomination.

The other major candidates are former Vice President Spiro Agnew and former Governor of California Ronald Reagan.

Agnew has been performing well in recent debates,

and Reagan has been gaining ground in the polls.

But both candidates are facing challenges.

Agnew is struggling to distance himself from the controversial topics of the Nixon years, while

Reagan is facing criticism over his record as a governor.

The future of the GOP nomination is uncertain, but one thing is clear: the race is far from over.

In other news, the Democratic Party is experiencing a surge in support for its candidate, Senator George McGovern.

McGovern has been gaining ground in recent polls and is now considered a strong contender

for the nomination.

The labor movement has been playing a key role in the campaign, with unions backing McGovern and opposing Agnew.

The upcoming debates will be critical for both parties, as they will provide an opportunity for the candidates to make their cases to the electorate.

The race is heating up, and the outcome is uncertain. Only time will tell who will emerge as the ultimate winner.

Teddy sees Carter nomination

BOYNTON BEACH— President Jimmy Carter's press secretary, Mr. Teddy Kennedy, today postponed indefinitely the announcement of the vice-presidential nominee for the Democratic ticket. Mr. Kennedy told the press corps that he had not had an opportunity to discuss the subject with the President.

Mr. Kennedy said that he had been waiting for the selection of the vice-presidential nominee and that he would announce the name shortly. He added that he had not had time to consult with the President on the matter.

Large, multi-ethnic crowd in Boynton Beach, including several members of the motorcycle club, lined the streets to see the President. The crowd included many young people, some of whom were drinking beer and smoking cigarettes. The President spoke to the crowd, assuring them that he would announce the vice-presidential nominee soon.
Kennedy assassination needs re-investigation

Long before the recent revelations of the Senate Intelligence Committee headed by Frank Church, it has been clear that the Warren Commission report has not satisfied the American public's curiosity over the assassination. The Church commission findings have not even attempted any specific contradiction between CIA activities in Cuba and the death of Kennedy, much less a motive for public speculation. While the commission claims to have made a breakthrough in explaining the "why", the shroud of the Warren report has further clouded the public's thirst to know and thus leaves Lee Harvey Oswald as the latest unknown.

We feel, therefore, that more information is now uncovered to justify taking a second look at the Warren report and the assassination. Such an investigation would be timely and morally feasible, and it is necessary if we are to restore national confidence in government.

David Ferrie, a counsel to the Warren Commission and the Rockefeller investigation of the CIA, called for the re-investigation of the Warren findings last fall. His suggestions, coupled with new revelations by the Church commission, indicate that a new probe is in order.

Since the nation suffered the loss of a president over a decade ago, the public has taken public attention away from more pressing causes. Thus, the assassination of John F. Kennedy still grabs away at our national nerves like an unforgotten Watergate.

As the sprawling tendrils of the intelligence activities of the intelligence agencies need to be known more about, so do the demands of public investigators. If you agree, please put the word out and sign up to regain public confidence.

An open investigation of the Warren report, long due, is about to bring about the possible exposure of findings and truth in government. The tragedy in Dallas is suspended in the minds of many. The open truth will heal the deep wounds that have crippled the nation since 1963.

The ERA: a hope of individuality for all

Several reasons can possibly be cited as the reason for the disparate attitude the Michigan State Legislature now takes toward Michigan's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. The reasons are: the legislator's shift in priorities coupled with neglect of the amendment, it may even be due to the tremendous work load the House of Women's Rights and Constitutional Revision, giving it little time to con¬ sider the amendment. It could be due to the lack of grass roots lobbying by means of supporting equal rights. Whatever the reason is, the rejection of the ERA, one way or the other, is unfortunate. The two main organizations, Stop the ERA and Women's Rights and Humanism (WRH), have still determined that they can persuade other legislators to work for restoring the amendment and depriving it of its defeat. The two main organizations then agree that there are other reasons, including the fact that they are in opposition to the ERA.

Last month several state representatives made it quite clear that they were not devoting enough time or energy toward the passage of the ERA. They feel that they just don't enough time to fight in opposing the amendment.

The ERA cannot be restored which has caused as much controversy reads as follows:

Equality of rights under the law shall be guaranteed to all citizens regardless of sex or any state on account of sex.

One of the American people makes the ERA attractive to some, others argue against the ERA due to the legislation needed to approve the ERA, it is a genuine list of Group-Struggles.

Women make up the American population, yet they are currently the women who are part of America and half the population, a fact that is equal. If a woman is black, she is still a woman. Although this is the case in America, there is no clarification of the situation. To set aside this fact is to need no equal rights. If a man is black, he is in the immediate line of the fight for equal rights. It is important that we, as women, deserve equal rights and must be held responsible in making them happen.

VIEWPOINT: SOLIDARITY DAY

An open letter to MSU students

By GOMEZ & KOPFOLLIN

Today, the many liberal groups of the campus and community are coming together to celebrate Solidarity Day. The purpose of Solidarity Day is to offer you information about the fights of the day, each organization will present their demands, their views, and their history. Each will have an agenda for the day. Some organizations will present programs on labor, some will present programs on the rights of women, others will present programs on the rights of American Indians and Third World peoples. We offer these programs in the hope that they will be of interest to you. We are hoping that you will start to understand the importance of labor, that you will understand the importance of labor for yourself. If the Solidarity Day is to be successful, you must understand the importance of labor for yourself.

The ERA is not something that is only for women. It is an issue that affects all of us. It is about justice and fairness. It is about our rights.

Solidarity Day is a day for all of us to come together and support each other. It is a day for us to stand together and fight for what we believe in. It is a day for us to unite and work together.

We hope that you will support Solidarity Day. We hope that you will come out and support these organizations. We hope that you will come out and support the ERA. We hope that you will come out and support everything that these organizations are fighting for.

The ERA is not something that is only for women. It is an issue that affects all of us. It is about justice and fairness. It is about our rights.

Thank you for your support.

In accidental house fire Sunday

James R. Hooker, 42, MSU professor of history died Sunday afternoon among debris in his Detroit home. He was 42 years old. Hooker had been teaching at the university for 15 years and was well known for his work in English literature. He was a member of the Department of English and was the author of several books on the subject. Hooker was also known for his work in the field of African American studies, particularly in the area of literature and history.

Hooker was born in Detroit to parents who were both scholars. He attended the University of Michigan, where he received his bachelor's degree in English literature. He went on to earn his master's degree from Harvard University and his doctorate from the University of California, Berkeley.

Hooker was married to Sarah, who was also a scholar. They had two children, a son and a daughter. The family lived in a large, comfortable home on a quiet street in Detroit.

Hooker's death was unexpected and came as a shock to his family and colleagues. He was well liked and respected by his colleagues and students.

Hooker's family requested privacy during this difficult time. They asked that donations in his memory be made to the University of Michigan's Institute for African American Studies.

Hooker was survived by his wife, Sarah, and their two children. Services will be held at the University of Michigan's Cathedral of the Great Spirit on Monday at 10 a.m.

S. African crisis explained

By MARIELE BENNETT,
Washington

African Americans are being forced to defend their independence in South Africa, where the ANC has been driven underground and its leaders are in exile. The ANC is attempting to organize a "people's war" to overthrow the South African government. The crisis is seen as a major test of the U.S. commitment to African liberation and the ability of the United Nations to exert pressure on South Africa.

MSU helps in celebrating African Liberation Week

By KATIE HART

Michigan State University\'s African Studies Program has planned a weeklong series of events to celebrate African Liberation Week. The events include a lecture series, a film screening, and a symposium. The program is a part of the university\'s commitment to promote understanding and appreciation of African culture and history.

Complaint filed against Wharton

By FRANCES BROWN
Staff News Writer

The student publications at the University of Chicago are in a conflict with the University, with the University charging them with 'grievances.'

The student publications, the Daily, the Chicago and the Chicago Tribune, are fighting the University over a new plan for the student publications.

The University has proposed a plan that would require students to pay a fee to continue publishing the student publications.

The student publications have said that the plan is unfair and that it would stifle freedom of the press.

The University has said that the plan is necessary to support the student publications.

The conflict has been ongoing for several years and has been the subject of several court cases.

MSU tennis courts inadequate

MUSSM, West Germany (CF) - The press room was free of any stampede of the usual athletics press. MSU's members were all well disposed and even giddy.

Later, when the MSU officials were asked if they would release any statistics on the tennis courts, they all denied the existence of any such facilities. They also claimed that the tennis courts were inadequate and that they would be better off with a more permanent facility.

Texas town makes plans for frantic fourth festival

YUTAHIA, Tex. (477) — It's just past the record. It's a matter of weeks until the much-anticipated July 4th festival is set to begin. Already, we've seen a stunning display of fireworks and music throughout the city. According to reports, this year's event promises to be the grandest yet.

"I think we've got more than enough," said Mayor Jones of Yutahia. "There's no doubt we'll have a record-breaking crowd."

The main event will be the annual fireworks display, scheduled for tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the town's downtown plaza. "This is the one thing everyone looks forward to," said Jones. "We're expecting at least 50,000 people to attend.

Another highlight will be the 4th Annual National Arts Festival, to be held at the Yutahia High School Auditorium. "This is our biggest fundraiser of the year," said Susan Johnson, festival director. "We've got more than 100 artists on hand, and the exhibits will be amazing."

In addition to the arts festival, there will be a variety of other activities throughout the day, including a parade, a library open house, and a community picnic. "We want to make sure everyone has a great time," said Johnson.

For those who can't make it to the event, there will be a live stream available online. "We're excited to share the fun with everyone who can't be here," said Johnson.

Small gain predicted in retail food prices

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Consumer may see retail food prices rise or fall in June. If per pound this year, the Food and Drug Administration expects food prices to be generally stable. However, prices for beef and pork are expected to rise or fall, depending on market conditions.

"The rise in beef and pork prices is due to the decrease in production of these meats," said a spokesperson for the FDA. "This has led to a greater demand for these products, causing prices to rise.

"However, other meats such as chicken and eggs are expected to remain stable, due to increased production and market conditions."
Professor says repressed feelings may be behind physical disorders.
