With a tentative agreement on a new labor contract between the university and the ASMSU union, the negotiations have reached the final stages of the contract negotiations. The union has submitted its final offer to the university, and negotiations are expected to continue over the next week.

The tentative agreement includes provisions for a 3% increase in wages, a new pension plan, and an increase in health care benefits. The university has agreed to these terms, and the union has said that it will go to a vote among its members.

The tentative agreement was reached after several days of negotiations, and both sides are confident that it will be ratified. The agreement is expected to be in place by the end of the month.

As Peace Corps Vets, they were called to Lebanon, where they geared up to face the conflict. In a letter to the President last week, they said, "We believe that peace is possible and that it can be achieved through dialogue and understanding."

The letter was written on behalf of the veterans who served in Lebanon and who are now calling for a cessation of hostilities.

The veterans have called for an end to the violence and for a return to normalcy. They have also called for a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

Ghandi wins mandate

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was named today (AP) Prime Minister Gandhi won a second term in office. The victory was a triumph for the Indian National Congress, which has held power in the country for the past 20 years.

Gandhi, who has been in power since 1971, ran unopposed in the election, which was held on October 6. The election was seen as a test of the popularity of the Congress party, which has ruled India for the past 50 years.

The Congress party won 342 of the 542 seats in the Lok Sabha, the lower house of the Indian Parliament. The Bharatiya Janata Party, the main opposition party, won 13 seats.

Gandhi, who is known for her tough tactics, has been criticized for her policies, including her decision to impose an economic blockade on East Pakistan in 1971 and her handling of the Bhopal gas disaster in 1984. However, she has also been praised for her efforts to ensure the rights of women and minorities in India.

The election results were announced on October 7, a day after the last vote was cast. The Congress party won a majority of the seats, ensuring that Gandhi will remain in power for another five years.

Gandhi's victory was seen as a victory for the Indian National Congress, which has ruled India for the past 50 years. The party has been in power since 1947, when India gained independence from Britain.

Senator vows to reintroduce bill

College bowl plans set for competition

Jacobson's
Phosphorus legislation may move forward

In spite of a long way to go before becoming law, the proposed bill to ban phosphates in detergents should gain the full attention of the legislature in this current brief session before final adjournment in December.

There is a strong effort being made to bring the ban into law; a legislative effort led, by Rep. Dave Runyan, D-Mount Carmel, to amend an earlier law, allowing 4.7 percent, in order to allow any phosphorus content. Another separate effort, spearheaded by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), is working for an administrative rule change in case House Bill 5453 does not go through. Even the DNR agrees, however, that ala low would be a lot faster and more efficient than a rule change.

There is an increasing alarm over the effects phosphates pose on Michigan lakes, especially the Great Lakes. Areas particularly in danger are Lake Superior, Lake Michigan's Green Bay and Lake Huron's Saginaw Bay. The amount of phosphorus content is the amount of algae growth, and when this algae decomposes and dies, it sucks to the bottom, taking all the oxygen from the water around it and loosing the water about life.

The general thought used to be that water treatment plants would do the job of reducing the amount of phosphates discharged into the water. Studies have found that water treatment alone is not good enough. It is essential to get to the root of the problem — the phosphates themselves.

The phosphate ban would not cause the complete elimination of the problem but would reduce the amount of phosphates in domestic household water systems, according to the evidence of what has happened with the ban is already in effect, including Indiana, New York, Chicago, Alaska, Ohio, and David Cohn, Chief, Minnnesoa has passed a bill that took effect last year but is currently under litigation.

Despite deterrent industry arguments that there are no adequate substitutes available, the bus will not work and that phosphates are the only way to get dishwashes clean, the ban has been successfully in the other states.

The "big three" detergent manufacturers (Proctor & Gamble, Lever Brothers and Palmolive) and others have aggressively lobbied against the phosphate versions of their namesakes.

How many white the clothes are becoming dirtier is a minor point when the seriousness of the phosphates is involved. This is the whole point of the ban. The bill does have the potential for becoming another "bottle bill," with tempers flaring between detergent manufacturers and metallists.

Both the House and the Senate to give this bill the speedy consideration it deserves.

Ban nuclear testing

Hinzman, Ohio's news agency, issued the following statement Wednesday, after that country's largest nuclear test blast

"The blast was a heavy blow to the two superpowers, the Soviet Union and the United States, which are pursuing hegemony (military domination) and attempting to practice nuclear monopoly and nuclear terrorism.

Hinzman, in standard fashion, also issued a statement claiming the above-ground test was for defense purposes only and that China would never be the first to use atomic weapons.

Just how much damage is done on the world's superpowers explode nuclear bombs in the name of "research" is unclear.

As radioactive materials filled through clouds, occasionally landing in areas, possibly Eastern Europe, no the Environmental Protection Agency could specifically say what they may have been.

The United States is no less guilty of such "testing," though most of the explosions occur underground. China's largest test, four reactions, a mere pittance compared with the 15-scared reaction set off by the United States.

How much of this senseless poisoning of the earth has to go on?

We demand that all nuclear powers put away their "testing" before it turns into something much more untrammelled, uncontrolled and possibly even deadly.

Attack

Prof. B.H. tried to define the Mich. Legislature by alluding to false Fall and Fall, and the amateur and objective of the media are contemporary pundits, we're all hoodwinked.

Let's begin with the two columnists of the "American" which remotes to an "American".

"There are things wrong with pho Pho who are averse to the honest, they are opposite articles without in-depth investigation can only be in error, but not in her.

I agree absolutely with B.H. comments and what I try to say about the things that are wrong. The opinion传送 is, in fact, valid experience. Similar with the "cliche givens" under the "cliche givens". I have a question: what is the message, who will it hit? Clearly we're not the students who are forced to the "I'm right and you're wrong". Perhaps B.H. is trying to define a more valid middle position.

What the "cliche givens" (predictive) is the down-to-earth, practical way.

How are our students developed and educated in the "American"?

This establishes the premise for a true position who's wrong? Either B.H. is coming from the same source with the other student to B.H. or B.H. is coming from the same source with the other student to B.H.

This is a very bold statement about the attacks regarding this letter. "

The "cliches" that B.H. points to are clearly based on the concrete thinking and logical arguments we taught in the "American".

There was a special period to get a new generation of students, and the need for a new generation in the "American".

Whatare you Edward L. Baca? You are putting on a perverted show or are you merely reproducing your reputation of power and the development of the wish of the people's Ronald Reagan, what are you doing now? I'm not sure what H. meant. Who will it hit? Clearly we're not the students who are forced to the "I'm right and you're wrong."

Carter, FDR similarities cited

Though he does not believe he can get all the things he wants on a single ticket, President Carter has said there are several similarities and objectives between his election campaign and those of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Carter says Roosevelt's policies must be adapted to the new era, that he, too, must be a leader and he must be re-elected. "Just as President Roosevelt, I have an ability to imagine the needs of this country," Carter said.

In speaking of the similarities, Carter said he, like Roosevelt, will try to help those in need by creating a national coalition of support. Carter will try to bring together the support of labor, business, and the media to help him reach his goals. Roosevelt, too, sought to bring together the support of different groups to help him achieve his goals.

Carter said he will try to create a new era of hope and opportunity for all Americans, just as Roosevelt did. "I will try to create a new era of hope and opportunity," Carter said. Roosevelt, too, tried to create a new era of hope and opportunity.

the narrative perspective and the Rolling Stone Illustrated History of Rock and Roll, edited by the editors of the world's most respected music history magazine."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the beginning, there were no bands on any roll at all. The music was black, working class and undeniable in the book publishing industry. Thus, the mid-1950s rock and roll became a leading cultural force, and young college-educated listeners, like Richard Godwin's "Rolling Stone's Golden Years" and Paul Williams' "The History of Rock and Roll," were encouraged to read about music by one of the more significant American music promoter and writer, Jerry Wexler. The "roll" had become a form of an American saga, and one that would continue to evolve throughout the history of rock and roll. In these pages, we explore the stories of some of the most significant and influential musicians and music enthusiasts of the rock era, and how they have shaped the genre's growth and development.

This adds up to $423,470 for production costs, (6.7¢ per paper). These are only production costs. The State News also has its creative costs, which advertising pays for. It takes writers, photographers, advertising salespersons, artists and bookkeepers as well. So what it boils down to, is you're getting more than what you pay for. Think about; coupons, grocery savings, and classified ads, really help you save. At 2¢ a day per issue, you're paying a ridiculously low price.
Spartans, Badgers split turbulent series

By JIM DEFRANCIS

The Spartans upset Wisconsin's seven-game winning streak in the series last week as Wiscoon lost to the Badgers 88-82 in Madison on Friday night, with an impressive 96-95 victory.

The Badgers still hold the lead in the series, but the win gives them a 3-2 lead in the series and 2-1 in the Big Ten.

The Badgers leading scorer was Steve Ptaszek with 26 points, followed by Rick Smith with 16. The team shot 50% from the field and 46% from the arc.

The Spartans leading scorer was Todd Kresge with 20 points, followed by Jon Lockwood with 17. The team shot 45% from the field and 38% from the arc.

The game was a close contest with the Badgers leading for most of the game. However, the Spartans came back in the second half to gain the lead for good.

The turning point of the game came when Wiscoon's Glenn Robinson Jr. was called for a foul with 4:24 left in the game, allowing the Spartans to take the lead.

The Badgers were leading by two points with 1:15 left in the game, but a three-point shot by Chris Malek with 1:03 left gave the Spartans the lead.

The Badgers had one last chance to tie the game, but a three-point shot by Brian Williams Jr. with 0.5 seconds left missed the rim, giving the Spartans the win.

The win gives the Spartans a 2-1 lead in the series, and they will meet again on Saturday night in Madison.

The winner of the contest will be announced during the ceremony, and the uniforms will be worn during the team's first game of the season.

The team is looking for fans to submit their designs for the uniforms. The deadline for submissions is November 20th. The winner will receive a year's supply of team gear.

The contest is open to anyone who wishes to enter. Submissions can be sent to the team's Facebook page or email them directly to the team.

The winner will be announced on November 21st, and the uniforms will be unveiled at the ceremony on Saturday night.

MSU fails dismally, loses 30-17

By TOM HANNA

The women's basketball team lost a close game to the University of Tennessee. The game was held in the Kohl Center on Sunday night.

The Spartans were led by senior forward Rachel Hiskett with 18 points and 12 rebounds. The team shot 40% from the field and 27% from the arc.

The Volunteers were led by junior guard Jordan Reynolds with 21 points and 10 assists. The team shot 45% from the field and 31% from the arc.

The game was a close contest with both teams playing well. However, the Volunteers were able to pull away in the second half to win the game.

The Spartans were unable to keep up with the Volunteers and were ultimately defeated.

The loss drops the Spartans to 1-2 on the season and 0-1 in the Big Ten. The team will look to bounce back in their next game against Michigan on Wednesday night.

The Spartans will look to improve on their shooting and defensive performance in the upcoming games.

Complaints of harassment and mistreatment seem to be mounting against the director of the East Orange (N.J.) Dept. of Housing and Community Development. But residents of all ages and both genders, including the mayor, have repeatedly disputed the council's harsh treatment of the ex-councilwoman.

Helen Brown, 46, Green St. (protected by a local police officer), said that she was repeatedly harassed and threatened with eviction after she complained of poor maintenance and safety conditions.

The incident began in January when Brown, a retired nurse, moved into her apartment on East Orange Ave. She said that the apartment was not in good condition and that she was being discriminated against because she is a woman.

Brown said that she reported the problem to the city's housing department, which then began a formal investigation.

But Brown said that the investigation was biased and that she was repeatedly denied a fair hearing.

She said that she was told that she would be evicted if she did not leave the apartment within 30 days.

Brown said that she was also threatened with criminal charges for allegedly breaking the lease.

Brown said that she was eventually forced to move out of the apartment and that she is now living in a homeless shelter.

The mayor, who is also the council's majority leader, denied that Brown was being discriminated against.

But Brown said that she was treated unfairly and that she was not given a fair hearing.

The incident is one of several that have been reported in recent months, according to Brown.

She said that she has received numerous complaints from other residents who have been treated unfairly.

Brown said that she plans to file a formal complaint with the city's human rights commission.

The mayor said that he would cooperate with the commission's investigation.

The mayor also said that he would take steps to ensure that all residents are treated fairly.

But Brown said that she is not optimistic about the outcome of the investigation.

She said that she is concerned that the council will not be held accountable for its actions.

The mayor said that he would continue to cooperate with the commission and that he would take steps to prevent similar incidents in the future.
