Chain collision kills 11 in Italy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today passed unanimously a bill making it easier for police to make arrest warrants. The measure was introduced by Senator James Eastland, Democrat from Mississippi, and was approved by a vote of 84 to 3.

The bill, sponsored by Representative George Miller, Democrat from California, provides for a lower standard of probable cause for issuing a warrant than is currently required. It also eliminates the need for a judge to review the probable cause determination before a warrant can be issued.

The Senate also approved a presidential veto of the bill, which had been signed by the House earlier in the day. The veto was overridden by a vote of 81 to 13.

Several amendments were offered during debate on the bill, but none were successful. The Senate then proceeded to other business.

Carter imposes tough ethics code

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter imposed tough new ethics rules on members of his administration, effective immediately. The rules, which are intended to prevent conflicts of interest, will apply retroactively to all officials since the beginning of the administration.

Among other things, the rules require that:

1. Officials will not accept gifts of more than $50 in value from anyone other than immediate family members.
2. Officials will not accept travel expenses paid by anyone other than immediate family members.
3. Officials will not accept speaking engagements from anyone other than immediate family members.
4. Officials will not accept any paid positions that are inconsistent with their public duties.

The rules also require that:

1. Officials will not use their official positions for personal gain.
2. Officials will not use their official positions to secure preferential treatment for themselves or their families.
3. Officials will not use their official positions to influence official decisions on matters in which they have a personal interest.
4. Officials will not use their official positions to influence official decisions on matters in which they have a financial interest.

The rules are intended to prevent conflicts of interest and to ensure that the administration is free from influence by outside interests.

Carter expressed his determination to maintain the highest ethical standards in government.

Congress opens term, caucuses elect leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 95th Congress opened today with an intense debate over the future of the government. The debate was highlighted by a series of caucuses that elected leaders for the new term.

The Democratic Caucus elected Senator Robert Byrd, Democrat from West Virginia, as the new Senate Majority Leader. Senator Byrd, who has served in the Senate for over 30 years, is a strong advocate for the interests of his home state.

The Republican Caucus elected Senator Ted Kennedy, Democrat from Massachusetts, as the new Senate Minority Leader. Senator Kennedy, who is a close friend of Senator Byrd, is a strong advocate for the interests of the nation as a whole.

The House of Representatives also held caucuses today. The Democratic Caucus elected Speaker Jim Wright, Democrat from Texas, as the new Speaker of the House. Senator Wright is a strong advocate for the interests of the nation as a whole.

The Republican Caucus elected Minority Leader Bob Michel, Republican from Illinois, as the new Minority Leader. Senator Michel is a strong advocate for the interests of his home state.

The new leaders will face a tough challenge in the coming term, as the country faces a number of important issues, including the economy, foreign policy, and domestic policy.

Official's suicide shock to Israelis

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The suicide of an Israeli police officer in the West Bank has caused shock and grief throughout the country. The officer, who was a police captain, was found dead in his home in the West Bank town of Hebron.

The officer was known for his dedication to his duty and for his commitment to peace in the region. His death has caused a great deal of pain and grief for his family and friends.

The government has expressed its condolences to the family and friends of the officer. It has also called for increased security in the region to prevent further incidents.

Beirut explosion, raid leave 39 dead

BEIRUT (UPI) — An explosion in the southern suburbs of Beirut, Lebanon, killed at least 39 people and injured hundreds more, according to police sources.

The explosion was caused by a bomb that was placed in a crowded market. The bomb was set off by a group of soldiers who were trying to prevent the sale of weapons in the area.

The government has launched a full-scale investigation into the incident, and has promised to bring those responsible to justice.

The explosion has caused a great deal of pain and grief for the families of the victims. The government has also promised to provide financial assistance to those affected by the incident.

Economically, the impact of the explosion has been severe. The local economy has been hit hard by the disruption caused by the explosion, and there is a great deal of concern about the future of the area.

Despite the tragedy, the community has come together to support one another, and there is a great deal of hope for the future.

The lesson of this tragedy is that we must continue to work together to prevent similar incidents from occurring in the future.

Breaks bring bad news—but little cheer

Good news traditionally follows bad news, and for the MSU community, events during Christmas break provided much to complain about and little to brag about.

One of two lawsuits recently filed against the University will prove to be at least five times as costly as it would have been when MSU officials first warned it in 1964.

The University’s famed make-up and misspelling problem, which is currently sowing up six times the cost of allowing it to continue, has prompted the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to slap MSU with a long-delayed formal violation of air pollution laws.

State and MSU officials have said they are negotiating improvements that will avoid the formal action, but, of course, this does not bode enough money for the University and because MSU did not request state aid since 1964.

Now that the EPA is involved, both MSU and the legislature have to cooperate immediately in order to begin the clean-up job and prevent the possible ill effects of another lawsuit. MSU has also been named as one of eight defendants in a $7 million antitrust suit filed by the Michigan Hearing Aid Society. The society is a voluntary organization made up of Michigan dealers certified to examine, fit, prepare, sell and service hearing aids. The society charges that MSU’s Audiology and Speech Language Department and other similar centers conspire to deprive Michigan hearing aid dealers.

Though the society’s complaint may be valid, until the courts rule on the suit, the high reputation of MSU’s Audiology and Speech Language Department may be tarnished. The public would do well not to accept this view.

Dr. Dorothy Carnegie, chair- person of MSU’s English Department and executive secretary of the state Board of Occupational Registration and Examination, resolved another spat when she approved after the state Ethics Board issued a job that constituted a conflict of interest.

The board has been hit down by big Ten Commissioners Wayne “No-Touch” Ralph with the back-up of the MSU Board of Governors. The following reading, coming so much later, adds another ninety months to the probationary period which will now end on Sept. 1, 1978, before the football season begins.

One bit of good news came with the announcement that MSU senior Mary Norton of Lansing, is Michigan’s woman of the year by attending Radcliffe in the prestigious Rhodes scholarships. But it is unfortunate that both women will be acclaimed for breaking the sex barrier rather than on the works which won the women the awards.

As a new year begins MSU should continue to wrestle with the general problem of declining in college enrollment and decline in the public’s perception of a college degree. Most difficult and most important will be to continue to educate and educate well in time of mounting financial and social difficulty.

U.S. and world undergo change

National and international news kept up a brisk pace during the vacation, ranging from the import- ant series of events that has, I would think, spilled over into the New Year’s resolutions. The stories are too many and various to mention but one. The increasing Russian interest in the world’s developments. A look at some of the recent problems.

Two nationally known politi- cians are in a world with their deaths during the vacation. Much respected Michigan Senator Phil Hart died of cancer, leaving his Senate seat to Senator Carl Dibell, 92, who is the leader of the era of "boss" control of American politics. One of his colleagues, the funeral proceedings were held under a flag to control the city and the Cook County Democratic Party was occurring.

President-elect Jimmy Carter appeared on national news networks, ending with an amusingly gratuitous but pro-distallate staff. While Carter chose a much more promising candidate, the final decision may have been influenced by President Ford’s interest in the Peace Corps.

The Office of the Governor of the Michigan, which happens to be a good school, MSU, the quality of the student body, the climate of the University, the football team, etc., which are all factors that contribute to the success of the Peace Corps.

Inaccurate

In the third of the series of articles dealing with the circumstances of rape with each new state, the MSU News, there is an inaccurate statement in the last paragraph that "the student government and the University faculty are being investigated by the police." The article was published on a week before the official announcement was made about the investigation.

The MSU News has been investigating the cause of the rape and the University is investigating the cause. As a result, the charges have been dropped.

Task force to study nutrition

By JUDITH CEPHEUS

Though Ingham County has managed to provide a great deal of its residents suffer from malnutrition or inadequate diets, Marilyn Schorin, director of Nutrition Services, the Ingham County Health Department, has decided to form a Task Force on Hunger and Nutrition. The task force will provide a forum for the discussion of issues dealing with hunger and nutrition, and will recommend actions to alleviate such problems.

"We need to see the type of people on this force who can reach those other people," Schorin said.

The task force will consist of 50 to 70 citizens and 50 per cent representing agencies involved with the nutrition of all people, she said. Some of the agencies which will be represented on the force include Michigan Legal Services, Welfare Rights, Peace Center and the United Way.

Some of the areas the task force will be concerned with will include recommending action on nutrition funding, checking to make sure all Ingham County food programs are meeting the United Nations School Lunch bill which will go into effect next September and exploring the possibility of providing school lunches, she said.

In addition, some great proportion of those suffering from undernutrition are the elderly, the task force will explore the possibilities of extending the senior citizen food program," Schorin said.

To help people of all ages who are suffering from malnutrition, an emergency food bank may be set up under the direction of the task force, she said.

"I can't get exact statistics on how widespread the problem is in Ingham County," Schorin said. "I do know that when people come to our office saying they are not being fed, it's not in a big way, they really mean it.

"Persons of any age who wish to serve on the task force should submit their names to Schorin at the Nutrition Office of the Ingham County Health Department as soon as possible. The Ingham County Board of Commissioners will fill the vacancies at their first meeting in February ."
Michigan to provide PBB tests

By JOHN CIPRAIANO
Detroit News Staff Writer

Test kits for PBB breast milk contaminations are expected to be available to Michigan women by next week, according to Dr. John Harbor of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

A nursing mother will be able to obtain kits from her physician or from health department nursing stations. Each kit will contain a three-strand specimen bottle, a styrofoam sliding container, and instructions on how to operate the equipment. A brief form assessing the woman’s overall health must be filled out, and mailed along with the specimen.

"The kits are to be handed to all women," Arthur Ribaudo, director of Environmental Research Group, Inc., said. "The kits will be shipped out to all women, but the kits will be only sent to the women’s physicians, by mail. The $7.00 kit, designed specifically for Michigan women, is provided with a report detailing the findings of a study done by an advisory committee on PBB breast milk contamination. The report data different levels of contamination and the percentage of women on each level, but not the levels."

"There is no level where PBB contamination is to be considered definitely dangerous, but women who are highly contaminated are warned against breast-feeding their babies," Ribaudo said.

Individual physicians and their patients must decide whether or not breast-feeding, even a small one, would make breast-feeding dangerous, since there is no enough evidence to set any particular level as potentially hazardous.

"I want to emphasize that this is not a test kit, that one must immediately see some one to discuss it. Including mailing time, results should be available to each woman within a month of receipt of the kit."

The test will cost $7 and will be covered by Medicaid, he said. For women not covered by Medicaid, the kit is available for the approximate $175,000 by the state for the test.

The Department of Public Health is also encouraging for comprehensive examinations of infants born to mothers being exposed to her."

"We are planning to evaluate the health of infants born in areas where there is high contamination in order to detect unusual health problems that may or may not be related to PBB exposure," Arthur Ribaudo, chief of the Division of Environmental Epidemiology, said.

A selected portion of the infants born since 1977 will be enrolled in a blood-study program. Examinations will begin in February and will continue until Michigan women in the study are the next."

The Department of Public Health is also considering a new computer program for comprehensive examinations of infants born to mothers being exposed to PBB."

"This department of Public Health is also considering a new computer program for comprehensive examinations of infants born to mothers being exposed to PBB," Arthur Ribaudo, chief of the Division of Environmental Epidemiology, said.

Legislators vote themselves pay raise

By HICKMAN RYAN
Associated Press

Michigan legislators voted themselves a pay raise Tuesday, a move that surprised some observers in the state or who are otherwise critical of lawmakers.

The state House and Senate each passed legislation that would give lawmakers a pay increase. The legislation was then sent to Governor Rick Snyder for his signature.

Snyder has not yet commented on the legislation, but it is expected that he will sign it into law.

The pay raise is retroactive to July 1, 2017, and would give lawmakers a 1% increase in their base pay. The new pay rate would be $14,351 per year, or $7,175 per month.

The legislation also includes provisions for other increases in lawmakers' compensation, including a 2% increase in the pay of legislative leaders and a 1% increase in the pay of certain professional staff.

The compensation for lawmakers is based on the median income of equivalent positions in the private sector.

By extending the pay raise to July 1, 2017, the legislation would give lawmakers a total increase of 1.5% over the past year.

The move has been met with mixed reactions.

Some lawmakers have voiced support for the pay raise, saying it is needed to attract and retain quality legislators.

However, others have expressed concern that lawmakers are using their power to benefit themselves.

The pay raise legislation was passed by the state House on a 63-47 vote, with 11 abstentions.

The state Senate passed the legislation on a 21-17 vote, with 2 abstentions.

The legislation is expected to be signed into law by Governor Snyder in the near future.
Most organizations benefit in office space reallocation

New UAW offices, more telephone service, reallocated space, and increased parking facilities are among the benefits of the new arrangement at the UAW's new Detroit offices."

The Detroit UAW's new offices are located at 1761 W. Warren Ave., just south of the present offices, and will be opened Tuesday.

The new office arrangements mean a cost-cutting move for the UAW, which is an important labor organization in the automotive industry.

The offices will be opened Tuesday at 9:10 a.m.

By the way, the UAW office will be on the first floor of the building, which is owned by the UAW.

The release of those upcoming artists are a sampling of a fare similar to the performance of tenor James Ives stocky, the Canadian Royal Winning Ballet, who will return to the first time since 1966 for two performances in the University Auditorium. Separate programs will be announced Jan. 24 and Jan. 25 at 5:15 p.m. The Winfest, founded in 1939, is under the direction of Graeme Murphy. They are appearing as part of the Lecture-Concert Art of Dance Series.

Organist Virgil Feu Schell will play through the Lecture-Concert Series Jan. 15 at 8:30 p.m. in the University Audermany and overseas. His latest works, which were composed in the summer of 1977, will be featured in the Opera Guild of Greater Lansing and MSU Musical Dept., presentation. Performances Jan. 16 through 19. HLS will be presented in the University Auditorium. Curtain for Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. and 7 p.m. Jan. 16. A children's version of the musical will be scheduled for Jan. 15 at 3 p.m.

Chock Berry, Sheets, Wagner, Pont-old, Vanelli and the Bebop — what doesn't have music somewhere in there? Maitlin would like to think it is his Electro Light Orchestra.

The influence of those people on our gennera lies in surprise as well as in producing all of ELIO's material isn't just nervously, but the arrangements brilliantly, often with other purely classical techniques.

The new album will be co-produced by the group's first album, "No Answer" — expect similarly, with an uncom-mpering taste of fully integrating classical and rock music.

The film was an uncompro-mised victory in the tenure of the field and resulted in its enduring secrecy.

"The topcap's best song, due to nuanced, refined perfor-manship, with a touch of '50s pop filled with enchantment.

The album's lead single, "One Away," is a bouncy, melodic song. Opening with a lyric about the ups and downs of life, it moves to a chorus that, while simple, is memorable.

"All the Crab's" last lone would be on the edge of the jazz-rock, which fits right in with the era.

Hollywood (left): What do "King Kong," "The Odyssey" and "The Cactus Bear" have in common? All three will be made into two of the 10 top box office attractions this year. A year ago the top 10 box office hits, "The King Kong," "The Exorcist," "The Godfather," "The
Exorcist," "The Godfather," "The Cactus Bear," "The Sound of Music," and "The Who With The Wind," were produced the past 25 years, in an archivally rich array of formats or vehicles that during the 1960s and 1960s. Few filmmakers attribute the boxdevelopment of the film."

Women's Group Eyes First National Meet

Benefit to fund MSU studies reps

A fund-raising party to send MSU women's studies representatives to the National Women's Studies Association meeting Jan. 2, to be held Friday from 5 to 8 p.m. at 130 Lasser 133 East, East Lansing.

The Founding Conference of the National Women's Studies Association in the East national conference on women's studies and will play a significant role in the development of the MSU Women's Studies Center. Members of the MSU Women's Studies Group, a statewide support group of women studying, said that it is important for MSU representatives to attend for the perspective and information available.

It is strongly encouraged to have conversations with other women around the country. Members of the Women's Studies Center.

The group has no director and no budget. Consequently, the group members must raise money themselves to meet representatives.

New faces to grace legislature

They are the 11 new members of the Michigan Senate scheduled to begin in 1978.

Elected in November, the 11 are new to the upper chamber. Their presence will bring the Senate roll to 111, the usual number in an odd-numbered year.

Among the 11 are three new to the legislature. The others have served in the House, with only two of the 11 senators likely to have any prior experience.

The new legislators are likely to join the Senate as they will begin work on Monday.

Area clinic offers for smokers

Patients are urged to join the clinic for smoking cessation, which is open to the public. The clinic is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Sparrow Hospital.

The clinic is open to anyone interested in stopping smoking. The clinic is open to anyone interested in stopping smoking.

Oily spill ‘lucky’

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The tanker Argo Merchant spilled oil off the New England coast last month, broke up in a storm and dumped more than seven million gallons of oil. But, says the Rhode Island Lottery, the whole thing was lucky for at least three people.

The Rhode Island Lottery has identified three winners who bought winning lottery tickets sold at the tanker’s shore-hub before the ship sank. The ship’s crew had been loading oil into the tanker’s hold while watching television news reports of the wreck.

The winning tickets were sold at a gas station in Westerly, a convenience store near the site of the tanker’s sinking, and a lighthouse gift shop in nearby Jamestown.

Phone customers’ ‘bill of rights’ gets final OK from commission

The Public Service Commission (PSC) is finalizing recommendations that would give phone customers a ‘bill of rights’ and additional protections when they are facing bills that they believe are unfair.

The recommendations, which were presented to the commission in November, would give customers the right to have their bills reviewed by an independent body, the right to have a reasonable time frame for payment, and the right to have a clear explanation of why a bill is being increased.

In addition, the recommendations would require phone companies to provide customers with information about their rights and the procedures for appealing a bill, and to develop a plan for resolving disputes with customers.

The recommendations are expected to be approved by the commission in the coming months. If approved, they would take effect in January 2022.
advent, agreeable to U.N. forces to encourage Middle East peace

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt said in a live interview that he was ready to negotiate with Israel and that he would be willing to make any sacrifice, even his life, for peace. "We are ready to make any sacrifice," Sadat said.

Sadat agreed to a question on whether agreement or other military negotiations were necessary for negotiations to begin. "The path of negotiations is the same," Sadat said.

"Your metaphor is a smoke screen," Sadat said. "I have never had any slogan like yours... I am a man who wants to live, to breathe." Sadat added.

Sadat's agreement was seen as a breakthrough in the Middle East peace process. Israel and Egypt had been at war for decades, and the possibility of a peace agreement had seemed remote.

Sadat's speech was broadcast live across the Middle East, and he was seen as a strong contender to be awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

Sadat's speech was seen as a strong indication of his commitment to peace and his willingness to make the necessary sacrifices for a lasting settlement. His agreement was seen as a significant step towards achieving a lasting peace in the region.
