Facility owners, not students, can be held liable for生猪 deaths at 'U' fuel dispute

ByELIZABETHMACKENZIE

State News Writer

State University Senate voted 37-0 Wednesday to have the Animal Care and Use Committee conduct an investigation into the animal deaths which occurred at a university facility.

The motion was introduced by Sen. Mike Day, who said about 900 pigs, as well as a large number of cows and sheep, were used as part of an experiment when the facility was constructed. The motion was passed by voice vote.

"Almost 90 per cent of the pigs used by the facility were used for research purposes," Day said.

"The facility was to be used for research purposes only," Day said. "The facility was never intended for human use." Day said.

"Most of the pigs used in the experiment were killed by a combination of poison and fire," Day said.

"We want to make sure that the facility is used for its intended purpose," Day said.

"We want to make sure that the facility is not used for any other purpose," Day said.

PLO sets conditions for Duval trial

ALGERIA (AP) - The Palestin¬ ian Liberation Organization (PLO) has set conditions for a trial of its leader, Yassar Arafat, who is being tried in the United States for murder.

The decision by the PLO, which informed the United States of its plans earlier this week, is seen as a major setback for the United States in its efforts to bring about peace in the Middle East.

The PLO has demanded that the United States provide evidence of Arafat's guilt and that it be allowed to cross into American soil to stand trial.

In a statement issued in Algiers,
the PLO said it was "deeply concerned about the legal proceedings" and that it would not participate in a "farce trial.

The PLO said it would "take the first step" to ensure that Arafat is tried in the West Bank, where he has been under detention since his arrest in late 1987.

The PLO also demanded that the United States provide evidence of Arafat's guilt, including documents and witness testimony.

The PLO said it would not participate in a "farce trial" and that it would not endorse the United States' decision to try Arafat in the United States.

Arafat, a leading figure in the Palestinian cause, has been in detention since his arrest in late 1987, charged with murder.

Police baffled in missing person case

Police are still baffled in the case of Sheila Young, 19, a Lansing resident who went missing two weeks ago.

Sheila Young was last seen by her parents at about 1:30 a.m. on Jan. 14, at the Kellogg House of Pancakes on E. Michigan Ave. She told her father at that time that she was going to have a party at her dormitory in Lansing and would be home by 7 p.m. She was late in coming home, and her parents began to be concerned when they did not hear from her.

Sheila Young was last seen looking through the phone directory at the Kellogg House. She was last seen wearing a dark blue dress and a dark blue jacket. She had a black and white fur hat on her head.

Sheila Young is a sophomore at Michigan State University and is majoring in dietetics. She is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. She has blonde hair and blue eyes.

Anyone with information on Sheila Young's whereabouts is asked to contact the Lansing Police Department at 333-9400.

New flush seed revelations discouraging

Jerry Coffman officially starts his term as East Lansing's new city manager today, with the title Coffman will inherit a lot of important decisions.

Coffman, former assistant city manager in Charotta, N.C., will replace 26-year city manager Jack Patrachree.

Coffman comes to East Lansing with an extensive background in Community Development functions, which could explain his administrative style. He is said earlier that he will call for greater involvement with the community and direct input from the city's employers.

Our new city manager has many big issues facing him on the city's agenda. One of his biggest concerns is the center will on the allotment of the city's funds and what will he get when.

One of the largest amounts of funds, $100,000, has been set aside for constructing rehabilitation in the downtown area. He will take some careful planning to decide how the money will be distributed.

Many politicians have grown concerned with the atherosclerosis kickback system in the past, not too long by any means. Sen. Robert Griffin from Michigan has avoided the use of seed funds, and the late Sen. Paul Hare in his final term has put his flush seed fund long ago.

The basic problem is that flush seed funds are not illegal, though they are more and more being conspired illegal at best, and not from being actually illegal.

Two facts still remain the money can be used for personal and state employees and state employees not obligated to donate large amounts of money to campaigns, whether they want to or not.

This is ridiculous, this is the way things are in the world of politics. People do not have to have the "service accounts." Campaign reform, where they have to be forced to donate contributions from personal funds or else, or want to have a heavy influence, would provide the interest answer to this problem.

Coffman starts term

According to the above, this is not likely to be the only solution to the problem. The question of the seed funds has been raised by many politicians,

Auldridge sets dobro loose; 'Gents' try on-stage humor

By JOHN CASEY

Marti and Jeff Jondahl, the Michigan-based trio of the late 1960s, are back with a new sound and a new image. The band, which is now known as Auldridge, has released a new album that features a mix of traditional and contemporary bluegrass songs. The album, titled "Auldridge," was recorded in Nashville and features guest appearances by some of the top names in bluegrass music.

The band's new sound is evident in the first track on the album, "Gentlemen of the Court." The song starts with a dobro solo that is followed by a driving fiddle and mandolin section. The vocals are husky and expressive, and the instrumentation is tight and precise.

The album also features a number of covers, including a stirring version of the classic bluegrass song "Old Home Place." The band's take on the song is powerful and emotive, and they do an excellent job of capturing the song's emotion and storytelling.

Overall, "Auldridge" is a strong album that showcases the band's talent and love for bluegrass music. It's a must-listen for fans of the genre and a great introduction to the band for those who are new to bluegrass.
Workshop held for interpreters

By JULIE MARTINSON

The Michigan Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf (MIRID) held a dealing workshop for interpreters, teachers, and students (which worked at Bay City Hall).

The workshop, entitled "Sign Language and Interpreters: Who Needs Whom?" was held at the Michigan State University Interpreters Resource Center.

One speaker at the video taped workshop was Jacqueline Dembowski, a high school student for the Deaf in Washington, D.C.

In the morning session, 50 or more persons listened to the workshop held at Bay City Hall.

U-M streaks by MSU, 83-70

By GEOFF KENTRE

MSU's defensive-minded approach was in keeping with the trend as the Spartans pounded the Wolverines tonight in the Palace. The 42-22 score was the largest of the year in a Michigan State loss.

Mark of the men for U-M 11-1, as Ann Bessone, who was destined to play a key role in the game, scored a basket to lead the Wolverines. By the time MSU's Keith Pallone took the lead, the game was tied at 42.

MSU's second basket of the fourth quarter gave the Spartans an 8-0 lead and the game was over. Michigan State didn't score again until the final seconds of the game.

Swim team captures two

Saturday, May 2, Parkers' assistant coach, John Heaslip, said the boys were looking forward to the meet, despite their loss to Michigan State last weekend. The Spartans, who won the Big Ten meet last season, are favorites to win the conference title once again.

Michaels captured the 300-yard freestyle, followed by classmate James Hains in second place. The duo's combined times of 2:44.21 and 2:45.58 were the fastest in the Big Ten this season.

Briar and her partner, Madison, placed third and fourth in the 500-yard freestyle, with times of 5:11.12 and 5:14.26. The duo's combined times of 9:26.38 and 9:28.44 were the fastest in the Big Ten this season.

The relay team of Briar, Madison, Hains, and Michael Davis placed second in the 4x200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:36.24. The duo's combined times of 2:44.21 and 2:45.58 were the fastest in the Big Ten this season.

Overall, the team's performance was strong, with several swimmers posting season-best times. The boys continue to work hard in practice and are looking forward to the upcoming conference meet.
