Marchers protest
Seafarer proposal

By ED LION
State News Writer

About 50 anti-Seafarer protesters marched for more than a mile around Lansing's windmill in "protest" to the idea of the city allowing the Seafarers to move in. They said the move would hurt the businesses on the area.

The march, sponsored by a coalition of anti-Seafarer groups, was a part of a week-long protest against the Seafarer project. Today at the Capitol in Annapolis, proponents and opponents of the project gathered to hear testimony and debate the issues.

"The windmill is a symbol of the area's unique history," said one of the marchers. "It is a part of our heritage and we don't want it taken away from us."

The march was organized by the Lansing Area Democratic Club, the Lansing Area Republican Club, and the Lansing Area Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"We are concerned about the impact of the Seafarer project on our community," said a member of the Detroit Area Democratic Club. "We feel that it will hurt our businesses and our way of life."

The march ended with a rally on the steps of the Capitol, where speakers addressed the crowd and called for the Seafarer project to be stopped.

Outraged residents criticize mall plans

By MICHAEL ROSE
State News Writer

A highly emotional overflow crowd packed the Lansing Township Hall for the latest in a series of meetings on a proposed mall development in the area.

"I am opposed to this mall," said one resident. "It will destroy our community and our way of life."

Others echoed her concerns, saying that the mall would be a eyesore and that it would bring traffic and noise to the area.

"The mall is going to be built on the site of a small town," said another resident. "It will ruin our community and our way of life."

The meeting was attended by members of the Lansing Planning Commission, the Lansing Township Board, and the Lansing Township Planning Board.

"We are concerned about the impact of the mall on our community," said a member of the Lansing Planning Commission. "We feel that it will hurt our businesses and our way of life."

The meeting ended with a vote to table the plans for the mall development, pending further study and consideration.

U' executive cutback possible

By ALICE KIRBY
State News Writer

A new executive cutback plan is being considered by the Lansing Township Board. The plan would cut the staff of the township by 20 percent, which would save the township $400,000 in operating costs.

"We need to make some tough decisions," said the township manager. "We can't afford to operate the way we have been in the past."

The plan would involve furloughing some employees and cutting back on some services.

"We don't want to do this," said the township manager. "But we have no choice. We need to make some tough decisions in order to keep the township running.

The plan will be discussed at a special meeting of the township board on March 15.
Church denounces African oppression

Pretoria, South Africa (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church in a new shift in its policy, the government of white-ruled South Africa, on Thursday denounced the church’s previous attitude toward the struggle for black liberation.

A statement by the Catholic bishops of South Africa called for sweeping changes to end white domination of the country.

The bishops denounced as "self-defeating" the church’s previous policies of "a passive approach to the issue of black liberation."

They said the church had been "silent for too long" and that its policies had been "inadequate and ineffective." They called for a new policy of active support for the struggle for black liberation.

He said the IRA's actions were "illegal and unacceptable," and that Ireland should be "given a clear choice between the IRA and peace and prosperity."
JURY TO HEAR CLOSING ARGUMENTS TODAY

Marshall, IM deadlock nearing end

The longstanding feud between Atlanta Braves pitcher Mike Marshall and MSU's international department should draw to a close today when Marshall kills his last witness and then seeks their closing arguments.

Marshall, who is acting in his own defense in the misdemeanor assault case in the East Lansing District Court, called a succession of defense witnesses Thursday. Among the witnesses called to testify were:

- R. D. Davis, Director of MSU's International Department
- J. H. Stiles, Assistant Director
- W. H. Miller, Assistant Director

The State Department of Agriculture is involved in the case because of the application for a hunting permit, issued 1975.

In a written opinion Tuesday, Judge E. W. Crofut ruled that the case is a civil one and can be tried by a judge without a jury.

Hustler decision threatens free speech

The publisher of Hustler magazine was not the only lawyer when he filed suit Tuesday on charges of obscenity and engaging in free speech lit, too.

Larry Frost, a former TV reporter, was sentenced to 25 years in prison and fined $11,000 by a Common Pleas Court in Cincinnati for pandering obscenity and engaging in "organized crime.

The specific content of Hustler magazine is irrelevant to our point and the "organized crime" charge that Frost has entered into a false contract with the local distributor of newspapers and magazines is, questions, at best.

We are concerned and horrified to report that a man can be sentenced for up to 25 years in jail and served a heavy fine for publishing a magazine in that guarantees freedom of the press.

Confusion

Though the story was new to be refused favors from meeting him to being his secretary, it became more obvious that this was going to be a problem with the way we were used to doing it.

This story was quite the opposite. It was a wonderful opportunity to read Frost's memoirs. When I read the story, I was so impressed by his honesty and his willingness to make a mistake that I decided to write about it.

Many of Frost's experiences have been so difficult that it is easy to see why some might feel compelled to say no. But, in the end, we believe it is important to encourage people to be honest about their mistakes and to learn from them.

The story is a great reminder that we all make mistakes and that we can learn from them. Frost's story shows us that we can overcome difficult situations if we are willing to learn from them and move forward.

THE CREDIT UNION
Where you can borrow

BY JUDGE BOLLMAN

State News Staff Writer

We are finally getting a chance to respond to administrative action at the university. This week, for the first time, administrative action has actually been taken by administrators. The action is in response to a recent incident in which a student was accused of violating university rules. The student was suspended from the university for a period of one year.

The university has been accused of not taking decisive action in response to incidents of this nature in the past. The student in question had previously been involved in other incidents of misconduct. The university's response to this latest incident is significant because it shows a commitment to taking action against students who violate university rules.

In the past, the university has been criticized for not enforcing its policies effectively. This incident demonstrates that the university is now taking these concerns seriously and is willing to take strong action to protect the rights of all its students.

The university's decision also sets a precedent for future incidents of this nature. By taking action against this student, the university is sending a message that it will not tolerate violations of its rules and will take decisive action to prevent similar incidents from occurring in the future.

This is a positive development for the university community as a whole. It shows that the university is committed to creating an environment in which all students can feel safe and respected.

We congratulate the university on taking this important step towards ensuring a more secure and supportive campus environment.
GOURMET FOOD FROM ALL OF CHINA

At Imperial Gardens, 2080 Gr. Dr., Okemos, the "real thing" is the only dish served. The chefs, originally from Hong Kong, prepare three styles of Chinese cuisine: the famous Peking duck from the north, the szechuan style, and the szechuan style with peanuts, nuts, beans and shredded beef. For those who prefer a lighter flavor, try the Family delicate dishes, lobster, crab, and chinese vegetables. Of course there's always chop suey, chow mein or egg foo young.

Another specialty here are the delicious tropical fruit drinks: frozen dragon, punches, and other concoctions. Draft beer and wine are also available.

Businessmen lunches are offered on weekdays at special prices. A large variety of weekend specials are offered at considerably lower prices than on the menu. Group dinners for a number of people are also available. With these specials, and the wide price range, dinner tonight at Imperial Gardens is definitely affordable. And if you're short of time, call first, and your dinner can be ready to carry out.

Childhood adventures capture Truffaut's eye in his 'Small Change'

BY BYRNE BAKER
In François Truffaut's newest film, a mock 'Largest in the World' or 'Whistler Manor,' the renowned French director and a delightful story of a child marvels about the world of small people and 微小的人, called Truffaut's love and veneration for the child of the people, every year, has written in collaboration with his assistant, Suzanne Seegstra, and photographed by the gifted and elegant picture about them—a pictorial silent, from a child's perspective. A lively portrait collection of signposts, photographs of the child of the people, and a series of simple and unadulterated depictions of the adventures of children, making the child of the people experience a new world through the wonder, trompe-l'oeil realism, and simplicity of the very young.

Truffaut's childhood was a memory and an experience, and he has carried a particular devotion and empathy toward children ever since. Before the release of his film, 'Monsieur Q,' Truffaut told the story to his film, 'Monsieur Q,' for the critic to be quoted by Peter Truffaut.

Bill Foster was nominated for best supporting actor for his role as Washington Post Editor in the film 'The President's Men.' Other nominees were John Belushi, editor of 'Network;' Laurence Olivier of 'Breakfast at Tiffany's;' and Linda Hunt of 'Rocky.'

The letter Peter Finch was posthumously nominated for his role in 'Network.' Also nominated for that role were Al Pacino of 'The Godfather,' Gene Hackman of 'The Outfit,' Teri Garr of 'Taxi Driver;' Robert De Niro of 'Raging Bull;' and Peter Falk of 'The Black Cauldron.'

The film was released in March 1976 with director Arthur Hiller in a science-fiction film, 'The Knowledge of Stars.'

RHA discusses constitutional revisions

By NUNNED L. LEROY

A number of different issues were brought up at the weekly RHA meeting, Wednesday night, ranging from minor to major tasks that needed to be performed for the organization. One major constitutional revision must be made, which will result in a major change to the membership of the student body. This revision will be discussed in the future, but the basic idea of it is to change the number of members in each section of the membership from 50 to 500. This revision is necessary due to the fact that the current number of members is not sufficient to handle the workload.

The president also announced that the Student Council has been approved by the Michigan Agricultural College Administration. This is a major victory for RHA, as it means that the organization can now function as a fully independent entity. The president also announced that the organization will be holding a special meeting to discuss the details of this revision, and that all members are encouraged to attend.

In other news, the Michigan Agricultural College Administration has also approved the organization's request to hold a referendum on the proposed changes. This is a major victory for RHA, as it means that the organization can now hold a vote on the proposed changes and that the vote will be binding. The referendum will be held on the Friday night of the next meeting, and all members are encouraged to attend.

Smith borrows brother's 'sole'

By GEOFF ETVREN
State News-Press Writer

The term ‘sole’ is rarely used outside of popular culture, but for MSU relay runner Larry Heathcote, it was used correctly.

Heathcote, a three-time All-Big Ten performer, had his shoe stolen during the Big Ten Track Championships. The loss of the shoe caused Heathcote to miss the final leg of the 4x400-meter relay, which resulted in a disappointing finish for the team.

Heathcote’s shoe was stolen from his dormitory, and the replacement cost was not covered by insurance. MSU’s track and field program is one of the few in the country to not have a budget for shoe replacements.

The team was able to find a spare shoe, but Heathcote had to wear a shoe that did not fit properly, which affected his performance. The team is now working on finding a sponsor to help cover the costs of replacing shoes in the future.

Women gymnasts face Big Ten challenge

By RON DELNAI
State News-Press Writer

Women's gymnastics is one of the most competitive events in collegiate sports, and the Big Ten is no exception. MSU's gymnastics team is looking to make a strong showing in the conference championships.

The team is led by head coach Diane Thies, who has guided the program to numerous conference titles and national appearances. MSU's gymnasts have shown impressive form and technique in training sessions leading up to the competition.

The team will face tough competition from Michigan and Minnesota, who are both strong in the Big Ten. However, MSU's experience and depth give them a good chance to come away with a title.

The competition will be held in East Lansing on Saturday, and fans are encouraged to come out and support the team. The meet will feature individual and team titles, and the winner will be crowned champion of the conference.

Michigan State University's women's track team is gearing up for another exciting season. The team is looking to build on last year's strong performance and make a name for themselves in the Big Ten.

The team has a talented roster of athletes, including several returning stars and some exciting freshmen. Head coach Dave Deckard is confident in his team's ability to compete at a high level.

The team will face tough competition from the Big Ten, including Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. However, Deckard believes that his team is well-prepared to handle the challenge.

The season will be kicked off with the MSU Relays, scheduled for Saturday, April 8. The meet will feature individual and team events, and fans are encouraged to come out and support the team.

The team is also gearing up for the Big Ten Championships, which will be held in East Lansing on May 19. The event will feature individual and team titles, and the winner will be crowned champion of the conference.

The team is looking to make a strong showing in the conference championships, and fans are excited to see how they perform. The team is working hard to prepare for the season and is looking forward to the challenges ahead.

Cable TV moves up completion date

By GEORGE HAMILTON

Rene News Staff Writer

Inhalations of the 198 and 300 blocks of East Grand River Avenue will be able to tune in to Cable TV by the end of March, since the East Lansing National Cable Co. presented the cable commission Wednesday night.

This case, which is expected to be the last big case, according to the franchise, was signed in May 1972.

Cable commissioners were called upon to make a decision after the company was asked to appear before the commission to make a decision as to the franchise agreement, which was signed in May 1972.

The commissioners were told at the meeting that the cable service is being run by the company and that the company had talked them last month.

"It seems as if it's really moving, progress," one commissioner, Mr. Brown, said.

National Cable had not expected to be able to install the cable until late spring, after the ground thaw. However, they noticed persis-

"In 200 conduit equipment, together in another room, Mr. Brown said. The installation will be installed in the Spring and will not go underground in the area for several reasons.

The problem with the system is that the cables are already on the ground.

"Yes, Dulles also attended the meeting that National Cable will receive a $50,000 piece of equipment from its parent firm, United Cable Television Corp., next week to correct transmission problems which the public access channel is having.

Equipment which the commission has been promised is supposed to be "Vax up", the distorted and "shocking" image playing Channel 11 transmission.

"It is estimated that it will probably have to purchase a time-base-corrector soon for the public access channel, but decided to see how the equipment works for the public access channel before ordering one.

In order business, the commissioners also approved Guinness to bring KRAM Channel 5 television equipment request being left out of this year's planning commission recommendations for Capital Improvement Programs. The commission's final plan to be appearing in the spring on the 12th, perhaps for the last time.

The commission also made plans to appear on Thursday, April 19th, to discuss the possible use of the cable television and radio channels in question from East Lansing residents.

United States "very possibly" will face a sports boycott against South Africa if it fails to end sanctions against the white-ruled country, South Africa's Olympic boycott last summer indicated. Officials here, with little evidence of a boycott developing, said six months later, with less information, no boycott seems likely.

Next summer's Olympic Games in Mexico, the only world multi-sports event on the continent, could be the site of a boycott. But authorities here say only a "very possibly" that the boycott will occur. Officials here have no concrete plans of a boycott, and officials in South Africa have not yet said whether they will even consider it.

At the last meeting, the directors elected: John Overton, president of the Association for the Advancement of College Athletics; John Smith, president of the National Organization of College Sports; and John Pink, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

-2 DAYS-
Brazil Project controversy still boiling

By KARLA VAILENCE
State News Staff Writer

The MSU President's Office and Wharton Jr. haven't looked into the planned trip to Brazil for faculty members, according to the Brazil in the News staff.

Wharton's side-steps trip plans, saying that the administration wasn't necessarily concerned with travel arrangements or a particular country, but with the faculty themselves. It was up to the faculty to decide whether they wanted to go to Brazil or another country.

In the meantime, there has been little progress in the program's short articles written by C. Parise Larrowe, who has left the Brazil Project.

"But the controversy about the plan remains an unresolved issue," Larrowe said.

"If any country left within the guidelines which it does, and if we player the level of graduate education in Brazil, then we should think we should avoid going there," Larrowe said.

"If the student members of the faculty and Taylor don't feel they are truly right to support the Brazilian government in any way," Larrowe said.

Higher explained that the international program that MSU could have to Brazil is authorized by the Brazilian government, which is involved with the Brazilian government, Wharton Jr. explained.

"I can't have no bias agreement about the program and its operation," Higher said.

"It is an American-sized project in terms of the foreign country's level of education and agriculture, particularly at the graduate level," Higher said.

The program is funded by a contract from the Brazilian government for the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID). The program continues to attract research grants and is run as a nonprofit organization.

"The program is going to be self-sustaining under the Brazilian government, and the Brazilian government has been helping Brazil with its survey teams. Library development, veterinary medicine and animal husbandry are major areas of concern." Higher said.

"The program has been self-sustaining since 1953," Higher said.

"As a result of the program, we have attracted many academic students here." Higher said.
