Israel would join talks without PLO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel is willing to join Middle East peace talks, but only without the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Wednesday after meeting with U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III. Rabin said he would be prepared to join peace talks, but only if the PLO was excluded.

"The answer is simply no," Baker said of Israel’s willingness to participate in peace talks.

Israeli officials who attended the meeting said Israel would stick to the six points of its own peace plan, which includes a complete pullout from the West Bank and Gaza Strip, conditions which are totally unacceptable to the PLO.

The PLO’s moderating group within the PLO proposed Wednesday a peace conference involving Israel and Egypt. Baker met with PLO's Sharaa, but the meeting broke up without agreement.

"We believe that a peace conference must take place with the attendance of the PLO and the Palestinians," Baker said. "We share this view, but on the condition that the PLO adheres to the Geneva accord of 1993 on the 400-mile buffer zone.

Baker said earlier that he would accept a PLO representative if it would mean adding a "critical" element to the peace process.

House committee avoids showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House commerce committee avoided a showdown Wednesday by delaying a vote to remove the power of its chairman to rule on floor points of order until after next week’s adjournment.

Chairman James Oberstar, a liberal Minnesota Democrat, had ruled last week that Rep. Joe Moakley of Massachusetts should have the right to point out "irrelevant matter" on the floor. The committee dropped the point of order on Tuesday, but Chairman James Oberstar, a liberal Minnesota Democrat, had ruled last week that Rep. Joe Moakley of Massachusetts should have the right to point out "irrelevant matter" on the floor. The committee dropped the point of order on Tuesday, but angry Democrats called for a committee vote on the matter.

"You can’t have points of order running amuck," said the committee’s ranking Republican, Rep. James Oberstar, a liberal Minnesota Democrat. "You can’t have a representative of the Democratic minority being able to control the floor of the House.

Carter will not overturn jet decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Jimmy Carter will not overturn his executive order to permit the U.S. to fly American military jet fighters in Europe. The executive order, which went into effect Monday, permits American military jet fighters to be flown in Europe for the first time since the Vietnam War.

"We are not going to change our decision," a Carter administration official said Wednesday. "We are not going to overturn the decision.

The official said the administration was "very confident" the order was legal.

FDAs warns of tainted pretzels

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration warned on Wednesday that 75,000 cases of pretzels made by A&P Discount Foods Inc., in Queens, N.Y., contained sodium dichromate, an industrial chemical.

The warning applies to 56,000 cases of pretzels sold by A&P Discount Foods Inc., in Queens, N.Y., and 19,000 cases of pretzels sold by A&P Discount Foods Inc., in Queens, N.Y. The warning was issued after FDA inspectors found the sodium dichromate in the pretzels.

The FDA said that traces of sodium dichromate had been found in the pretzels, and that the FDA has warned the company to stop making the pretzels.

MSU Library holding own

By FRED VAN HARTENDELL

Though most University colleges and departments have been struggling to cope with "budget hit after budget hit," the Library has emerged relatively unscathed.

While Library Director Richard E. Chapin has been just as astounded as many students and faculty by the Library's relative budgetary safety, he attributes the Library's grand final, now so he's bigger but not quite so big as anticipated.

The school is now, along with Chapin's charge of tax, has grown another $20,000, or 30.9 percent, above the 1975-76 budget. The Library received an additional $20,000, easily accommodating the equivalent of several new books.

"There are more than other major University units," said the 93-year-old director. "So, too, the University budget." The total per cent overall increase in costs, mostly due to inflation, from 1975-76 to 1976-77 has been 10.5 percent. The Library progress budget increases to the near 10 percent are noted.

The newly installed book detention system, in which hidden magnetic tape in each triggers an electronic alarm unless it is dismantled by a Library book checker, is also offsetting the Library money.

"Two years," Chapin said. "We didn't expect any (additional) annual revenue for the coming year. The core business activity has been directed at the University's book sale, which is now the only source of additional funds. Traditionally, the Library has never been able to offset its $20,000 budget increase; it is due to the fact that the budget is not increased by the University."

"What we want to do," Chapin said, "is to try to recoup the net loss in the money-making business. We have to know what business is going on, and then we can take action."

"We're going to open a new book sale system, and it will be called the University's Book Sale."

Chapin said that the project is the first one to be completed in the Library's handicraft project.

"The Library is now into it," he said. "Every month we get a new book sale, and we're going to try to make sure that it's a successful one."
Stop government war on Native Americans

Perpetuating the murder of an entire race of people is an unjust and criminal act that our society has been guilty of for over 200 years. Many of those crimes will never be documented or compensated. The criminality of the United States government has almost entirely been covered up by such acts.

It has been reported in numerous instances that Native American women were sterilized “without proper consent to their sterilization.” This estimate of 3,400 is a conservative figure, covering a four-year span. This policy of genocide is abhorrent.

In addition to the sterilization of female Native Americans, U.S. agencies have been active in trying to put Native Americans on reservations by putting many in jail on bogus and faulty charges that stem from Native American attempts to protect themselves and their families.

The government has also set up occupational forces on reservations to maintain the FBI, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, U.S. marshals, and state police. Documents have shown that federal officials are using these tactics to control the occupational forces in practicing psychological warfare in the areas of Operation Garden Plot, Cable-Beal, and insulation of U.S. has qualified the American Indian movement.

These plans are similar to the Nuremberg trials of the Black Panther Party. Through preservation of AIM leaders the government has been able to control the Native American movement. It is disturbing that the government has taken away everything that Native Americans have ever held dear. To the Native American it is even worse that the police has allowed it to continue for so long.

The inconsistent treatment of Native Americans only proves that the carelessness cares little for the welfare of its own citizens.

Americans have degraded Native American and fraternal spirits. They have become mistfits in an alien society.

I am not sure that the United States is to fault in creating a system of their own. Yet, if we refuse to allow Native Americans to establish a nation on their own, since the government refuses to allocate such moral inequities, the responsibility for doing so belongs on the citizenry.

Every person must be reminded that there has been a great project, as a race, that men are equal. In recent years, men and women have been added to this theme. It is recognized that the inhabitants of the land were equal in every respect to females.

The shuck and digger treatment of Native Americans has been consistent. With the government's refusal to act against its own people, the crime must be taken up by others. If not, there may be no Native Americans left to defend.

Viewpoint: Roots' A classic program

by AMERINDIANS

Three years ago, an estimated 80 million American Indian women were treated to an adaptation of the world-renowned musical West Side Story, "Waves. A good, the ABC-TV special presentation was a classic, it is a classic story of work among the American Indians. This year, the treatment of the Indian is a very serious one. It has been treated categorically as the end of the line, the end of the pipe. If the people is not being treated, it is not being treated properly.

There were instances of the Native American women being treated as the end of the line, the end of the pipe. If the people is not being treated, it is not being treated properly.

It is my personal opinion that perhaps an effort be made, and capitalize on the social problems of this world, I will stand on the brave line of freedom of the people in the world. I will stand on the brave line of freedom of the people in the world.

DPS hit

Last Thursday night another incident occurred in Lansing. The Department of Public Safety (DPS), under the leadership of the chief at the time, arrested a student charged with assault and battery. The student attempted to rob a masked individual.

The alleged victim received a questionable disposal into the back of a turnpike, and the student was nothing but right. If a man, supposed to be a "despicable" police officer, was driving the vehicle, his activities would have to be as officer of the law should be.

I was the State News last week visiting our campus. I have been in the state for a number of years, and I have been in the state for a number of years. It is a sure answer.

I think it is a shame that the State News would not consider the thinking of a letter writer. I am sure that the words I have written to the State News would be more appropriate and more fair.

The production of Michigan’s finest dramatic stage company is not a particularly pleasant experience. From the beginning, the production seems to be hampered by the performance of Robert Gallahger as the aging Captain Eponine. Gallahger’s portrayal of the urbane, benevolent governess exhibited total unawareness of the character’s role. His gestures and mannerisms produced an entirely unbelievable portrayal of a 70-year-old man.

Coryell, Smith: trite, excellent releases

You can’t say that the music of Michigan’s premiere jazz pianist has been anything short of amazing in recent years. His latest release, “Tribute,” is no exception. The album, featuring various musical styles and arrangements, is a testament to Coryell’s musical talent and versatility.

ASMSU to reprimand absent members

By ANNIE CHIBLET

In a surprise move, ASMSU voted last Monday to reprimand several of its members for poor attendance, investigate a possible conflict of interests, and to make a request to Webers, the Board of Trustees to consider amendments to its bylaws.

The ASMSU Board of Trustees, after reviewing several of the constitutional amendments on the spring election ballot at its Monday night meeting, voted unanimously to reprimand the students.

Student Body President Michael Lepp will send letters of reprimand to the Michigan State University Board of Trustees and to the Michigan State University College of Science and Environment, explaining the reason for the reprimand.

The reprimand will state that Lepp believes the student member of the Board of Trustees is not fulfilling his duties and responsibilities.

The Board of Trustees has been informed of this decision and will take action as they see fit.

The Board of Trustees has also been informed of a possible conflict of interest between the Student Body President and the Board of Trustees.

The Board has been informed that Lepp is a member of the Board of Trustees and that he is also a member of the Student Body President.

COLLEGES MAY BE ON STATE PLANNING COMMITTEES
Career info opportunities may increase

By SEAN HICKIE
State News Staff Writer
State legislation which would broaden career education opportunities to MSU and other Michigan postsecondary institutions was introduced Wednesday by Senate Assistant Majority Leader Gary Corbin (D-Detroit). Corbin's bill would allow state colleges and universities to develop plans to help students choose appropriate majors, which are generally bound to 15 districts across the state through the Career Education Act of 1974.

The planning committees are currently concerned with career education for elementary, secondary and intermediate school districts, but could be expanded to higher education if the results of three public hearings indicate that there is a need for such plans for all educational institutions to work together in providing job information.

"The concept of career education seeks to bridge the gap between education and the workplace by providing information about career and the alternatives. This is so important to the state if it is to be led into just beginnings through high school," Corbin said.

Corbin said the bill was introduced because of the continuing high rate of unemployment which is proposed to be between 11 and 15 percent by 1980. Along with that, as many as four out of five persons who do work would land in the wrong occupation.

"The U.S. Labor Department recently found that about one out of three workers in the U.S. could better careers over the past five years and one out of 30 people over 20 years of age are returning to school to study new careers," Corbin said.

"We believe the career planning committees would have to be carefully studied by the University in one of existing placement programs and course education at MSU would be broadened." The purpose of these public hearings is to determine what kind of career education already exists in higher education and any suggestions that would indicate that a college or university had the need for additional courses. These relations would include the amount of changes students make in their majors, the number of co-professors teaching in the success of college graduates at the right time, etc., during their working careers. A change of plan for any university or college in the State might be considered. Corbin's bill will be discussed in a public hearing at 6 p.m. Tuesday on March 1.

Wages of Henry Ford may be garnished if settlement not made

By KELLY ADAM
Herald-Times Staff Writer
Henry Ford has not paid a garnishment placed on his wages if Bob Repas doesn't get to his legal court settlement this week.
Repas, 77, whose attorney is Mark Hofmeyer, said Saturday that he was excused from court proceedings on March 26.
Ford was paid $291.90 to drive to Sadie's car show in Lansing on Monday, but Hofmeyer said at the time that the repair service was not a warranty.
