Students invest stand: acquiesce to administration

By ANNIE STUART

Michigan News Editor

The Student Council decided during its Thursday meeting to acquiesce to administration's desire to have the council resign. The Student Council, composed of student representatives in the Academic Council, was expected last week to recommend the addition of eight members to SSU's reconstituted Student Council. Such a recommendation would be consistent with the administration's recent personnel changes in an effort to make the Student Council more representative of the university's student body.

The minutes of the meeting, which took place in the Student Services Center, showed that the council members were concerned about the lack of representation of the various student groups in the council. They also expressed their desire to have a vote on the matter before making any decisions.

The council also discussed the possibility of holding a referendum on the issue, but decided that it was not feasible due to the short amount of time remaining in the semester.

HARRISBURG, Pa. — (UPI) — A Web engine state Senate majority leader threatened Thursday Pennsylvania's state Republican lawmakers that they were "tongue tied" if the House didn't approve a bill that would allow on-the-job training of nurses.

Police said nine of the dead were on the plane. That was one less than the number killed in the weekend's crash over a bridge, when 22 people were killed.

But the House did not act on the bill Thursday. The Speaker, Republican Charles B. Drew, said the Senate majority leader must prove that the House will act if the bill were passed.

RHA officers elected, to take office next term

Grove Street will be a busy part of East Lansing City Councilman John Carlsson's district for six months.

The street has been blocked off with three police and traffic has been reduced to slow volumes of traffic.

Carlsson, who is also a member of the city council's Ford Road Task Force, said that the street is closed to allow for the construction of a bridge.

Carlsson said that the bridge is necessary to accommodate the increasing traffic volume in the area.

The bridge is expected to be completed in six months, and the street will be reopened.

Inhuman gas hoarding must end

The House Investigation Subcommittee just released its report that Gulf Oil Co. and Texaco Eastern have proven able to manipulate the price of natural gas. At the same time Interior Secretary James R. Watt announced a study on Texas oil concerns similar allegations.

With the current shortage of natural gas, these disclosures cast the oil majors in an ignominious and discreditable light.

It must be noted, however, that the country is experiencing one of its worst winters — the oil companies have not committed a crime that has been compounded only by the current situation.

Government oversight of the energy crisis is clear that these companies would be a drag on the economy if they could get away with it.

Munchies' machines solve hunger pains

By PATRICIA LACOUR

State News Staff Writer

This week, the MSU Board of Trustees met in Lansing and discussed the installation of vending machines on campus. The Board was told that there are 360 machines, which can be used for money, to obtain food and drinks.

The machines do not cost the university anything, but it does require the university to pay for the electricity used by the machines.

The machines are placed in various locations on campus, and the university expects to save money by using the machines.

The president of the university said that the machines are not a solution to the problem of college students not eating healthy food, but they can be used to supplement the diet of college students.

The university has plans to install more vending machines on campus in the future.

Land use legislation introduced by commissioner

By MICHAEL RAYNARD

State News Hall Writer

The perennial subject of and frustration for Michigan’s urban and rural areas is the land use legislation of the Michigan Legislature.

The legislation that is the focus of this article is the bill that is currently being considered by the Senate, the so-called "Michigan Development Act".

The purpose of the bill is to provide a framework for the development of land in Michigan, as well as to establish a process for the review of development projects.

The bill is being introduced by Sen. Jim Dickey, a Democrat from Southfield, and it is being supported by a coalition of business and environmental groups.

The bill is also being opposed by some community leaders, who are concerned about the potential for the bill to lead to overdevelopment of Michigan’s natural resources.

The bill is expected to be debated in the Senate in the near future, and it will be important for those interested in protecting Michigan’s natural resources to keep an eye on the progress of the bill.

State honors Carriage town by legislative resolution

MSU Trustee Patricia Carriage, of East Lansing, has been honored by the Michigan Senate with a resolution recognizing her contributions to the community.

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Kevin Hertel, R-Grand Rapids, recognizes Carriage’s service on the MSU Board of Trustees and her leadership in the development of the MSU East Lansing campus.

Carriage, who served as chair of the MSU Board of Trustees from 2010 to 2014, has been a strong advocate for education and research at MSU.

"Ms. Carriage has always been committed to the success of the students and the university," said Sen. Hertel. "She is a role model for all of us and has made a significant impact on the campus and the community.

"I am proud to honor her with this resolution and recognize her outstanding contributions to the university and the state.

Funding sought by commissioner

By NANCY JARVIS

State News Hall Writer

The constant struggle of urban and rural areas to secure needed funding for essential services is a reality that has been accepted as a necessary part of the budget process.

However, the process of securing funding can be a daunting one, especially when the need is critical and the resources are limited.

In recent weeks, Michigan’s urban and rural areas have been advocating for increased funding for essential services, such as education, healthcare, and infrastructure.

The commissioner is working to secure funding for these essential services through various means, including lobbying for increased state funding and seeking private sector contributions.

"The need for increased funding is urgent," said the commissioner.

"We are working tirelessly to ensure that our communities have the necessary resources to meet the needs of their residents.

Number of rescue alarms up from last year, report shows

The number of rescue alarms for the State Fire Marshal's office increased by 40% over last year's count, according to the fire department's report. The report states that the increase is due to a higher number of false alarms, as well as an increase in the number of malfunctions in the fire alarm system.

The number of false alarms rose by 30%, while the number of malfunctions increased by 50%. The report notes that the majority of false alarms were due to electrical equipment or appliances, while the malfunctions were caused by electrical malfunctions or failures in the alarm system.

The report also states that the number of fires that were prompted by rescue alarms decreased by 10%, from 1,000 in 1976 to 900 in 1977. The number of rescue alarms, however, increased from 4,500 in 1976 to 6,000 in 1977. The report notes that the increase in the number of rescue alarms is due to the increased use of fire alarms in residential and commercial buildings.

By GREG TYNOR
State News Sports Writer

Minnesota is the endpoint of the Spartan season in football and the second half of the season after an 8-6 finish in 1974.

Minnesota, coached by Jerry Kill, leads the Big Ten in scoring offense with 34.8 points per game. The Spartans have scored 22.7 points per game, which is fifth in the Big Ten.

Minnesota has won the last two meetings with the Spartans, 17-10 in 1974 and 21-10 in 1973.

The Spartans have won 11 of the last 15 meetings with the Gophers.

Court orders gas producers to comply with FTC subpenas

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A federal appeals court on Thursday ordered seven major natural gas producers to comply with Federal Trade Commission subpenas seeking information about the industry's practices and possibly provide evidence in an antitrust lawsuit brought by the U.S. Department of Justice.

The producers have 90 days to comply with the subpenas, as part of an FTC antitrust investigation of the possibility between new natural gas reserves and the industry's practices.

Quake forecasts questioned

DINNER (API) -- Earthquake forecasters' future may not be others' future, notes the "Anniversary," is not included in the number of people who think that their work is important. "I'm not so sure," said the survey, "it's not something that's been talked about a lot.

The survey also asked about the effectiveness of earthquake forecasts. "I think it's pretty good," said the survey. "I don't think it's perfect, but it's better than nothing."

The survey asked about the impact of earthquake forecasts on people. "I think it's very important," said the survey. "It's the only way to prepare people for what's going to happen."

The survey asked about the role of earthquake forecasts in decision-making. "I think it's important," said the survey. "It helps people understand the risks they're facing."
