WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved a package of legislation Wednesday that would allow the state of Michigan to begin selling the over-the-counter contraceptive Encare Oval. The action was voted Tuesday by a vote of 11-4, with four members requesting payment for summer work on the committee.

The package, which also would exempt a state pharmacy from state taxation on the sale of the contraceptive, was introduced by Rep. Ralph E. Taggart, associate professor of pharmacy at the University of Michigan. Taggart said it would allow the state to offer the contraceptive to women at a lower cost, thereby increasing its use.

The legislation is part of a larger effort to increase contraceptive use in the state. The University of Michigan has been working with a number of organizations to promote the availability of the contraceptive, and the state has also been working with the federal government to increase funding for contraceptive programs.

The Senate Committee on Appropriations, which has jurisdiction over the state's budget, has already approved the legislation, and the House Appropriations Committee is expected to do so next week. The legislation would then be sent to the full Senate for a vote.

The Senate Committee on Appropriations has already approved a similar measure, and the House Appropriations Committee is expected to do so next week.

The legislation would increase the availability of the contraceptive in the state, and it would also increase funding for contraceptive programs. Turks riot over killing of mayor

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Mobs routed in the streets of eastern cities Turkey on Tuesday to protest the killing of Mayor Oktay Mevlutoglu, according to Turkish news agencies. The rioting followed a clash in the capital Ankara between Turks and Kurds.

The rioting began in eastern cities, where Turks have long been targeted by Kurdish militants. In one incident, a group of Turks attacked a Kurdish gathering, killing several people.

In Ankara, police said they had arrested several people after a man was killed in a shooting incident. The suspect was reportedly a member of a Kurdish militant group.

The Turkish government has been under pressure to crack down on Kurdish militants, who have been active in the region for years. The government has accused the Kurds of committing acts of violence, including the recent killing of a mayor.

Southern tornadoes kill four of family

MONTICELLO, Miss. (AP) — A string of tornadoes that passed through Mississippi on Tuesday killed four members of a family when their home collapsed during the storm.

The family had been at home when the tornado hit, and four members of the family — two adults and two children — were killed in the collapse. The family was identified as the parents and two children of the killed family members.

The tornadoes were part of a larger system of storms that moved through the state, causing widespread destruction.

Fish sent to control Panama mosquitoes

CHICAGO (AP) — Some 200,000 waterfowl being shipped from Arkansas have been sent to Florida to help control mosquitoes in an effort to control mosquito populations with natural predators.

The fish, which are a type of bass, were shipped to Florida to help control mosquito populations. The fish are expected to help control the population of mosquitoes in the area.

The fish are expected to arrive in Florida in early May.

Cause tells Brown to return donations

LANDIS (W.Va.) — State Sen. Bob Brown, a member of the committee considering a bill to lift the ban on smoking in restaurants, has been asked to return donations from lobbyists, according to the committee.

In light of Senator Brown's unique position as chairman of the committee currently considering a bill to lift the ban on smoking in restaurants, it is important to return any gifts given to him by registered lobbyists who may have benefited from the action in question of his committee, said Conrad Catrell, Executive Director of the W.Va. Business and Professional Association.

Catrell said there is no known instance of Brown accepting or even attempting to accept money or gifts from lobbyists, while examining lobby reform.

Catrell said Brown may not have known of the request to return donations, but it's important to ensure that all members of the committee are aware of the request.

Committee not to rule on Nelson loan

LANDIS (W.Va.) — A joint legislative committee investigating a state law that allows campaign contributions from lobbying firms has decided not to rule on a loan received by a state senator.

The committee, which is examining the issue of campaign contributions from lobbying firms, decided not to rule on the loan.

The loan was made by the lobbyist's firm and is being investigated by the committee.

Students, faculty, staff, alumni and others at the university are concerned about the functions of the new MSU president.

LANSING DELAYS FUNDING FOR LAKE

By JAMES FRAZIER

The city recently received $1.6 million in federal funds to help develop the downtown waterfront, but a new report on the project calls into question whether the funding will be adequate.

The report, prepared by the Economic Development Corporation of Lansing, says the city should seek private funding to help cover the cost of developing the waterfront.

The report also suggests the city should consider developing the waterfront with private developers, who would be responsible for the cost of developing the property.

The city has already received $1.6 million in federal funds for the project, but the report says the funds may not be enough to cover the cost of developing the waterfront.

Funds will be used for the development of public facilities, such as parks and plazas, and for the purchase of property.

SOMA'S FUNDING STRUGGLES

By JAMES FRAZIER

SOMA, a local arts nonprofit, is struggling to secure funding for its proposed dredging project.

The project, which aims to improve the water quality and ecology of the lake, was approved by the city council last year.

But the nonprofit has struggled to secure the necessary funding, and the project remains in limbo.

Esma trial delayed, verdict due in June

By JAMES FRAZIER

The trial of Esma, a woman accused of murder, has been delayed due to the death of a key witness.

The trial, which was scheduled to begin in June, has been postponed due to the death of the key witness.

The case involves a dispute over the ownership of a piece of land.

The witness, who was scheduled to testify, died suddenly just before the trial was due to begin.

The case is expected to be heard in June, after the death of the key witness.

Economic development officer

By JAMES FRAZIER

The economic development officer for the city of Lansing has resigned, citing a lack of support from city officials.

The officer, who had been with the city for several years, said he was forced to resign due to a lack of support from city officials.

The officer's resignation is expected to have a significant impact on the city's economic development efforts.

The city is currently searching for a new officer to fill the position.

He has already had a fair hearing in court, and lost. He deserves nothing more than to be summarily ejected from office.

Ginsberg's "Mind Breaths": songs of a free man

"Mind Breaths" is the most memorable part of Allen Ginsberg's "Poems 1972-1977." The collection presents Ginsberg's most characteristic work, both in terms of its content and its style. Ginsberg's "Mind Breaths" are his attempts to transcend the mundane through the power of words and the mind. The collection is characterized by its free verse form, which allows Ginsberg to express his thoughts and feelings in a spontaneous and unrestrained manner.

The "Mind Breaths" are composed of various sections, each one reflecting Ginsberg's meditative state and his exploration of the human mind. The collection is a reflection of Ginsberg's ongoing quest for self-discovery and enlightenment.

Ginsberg's "Mind Breaths" are often characterized by their use of metaphor and symbolism. The poet employs these devices to convey his ideas and emotions, creating a rich and complex language that is both evocative and thought-provoking.

In "Mind Breaths," Ginsberg explores a wide range of themes, including love, death, politics, and spirituality. The collection is a testament to Ginsberg's ability to express his ideas with passion and intensity, creating a body of work that is both personal and universal.

Ginsberg's "Mind Breaths" are a valuable addition to the canon of American literature, and they continue to inspire and influence readers today.

Loyal fans still around

The Express is rolling.

On Sunday, 28,523 people showed up at the Pontiac Silverdome to watch the Detroit Express play the New York Cosmos. It was the largest crowd to ever see a soccer match in Michigan and the fans really seemed to enjoy themselves.

It was the largest crowd to ever see a soccer match in Michigan and the fans really seemed to enjoy themselves. Just 25 seconds into the game, the Detroit Express took the lead on an own goal scored by the Cosmos. It was a typical scoring style for the Express.

The Express is now 2-1 in the North American Soccer League, which is tin two of only two teams in the league that have not been defeated. It will be interesting to see how the Express does in the coming weeks against top teams.

Keating finally netters top man

T kept Keating on the field for the entire game against the Cosmos. Keating scored the winning goal in the 85th minute to give the Express a 2-1 victory.

Keating was named the co-captain of the Express for the upcoming season. He has been a key player for the Express for the past two years and is a fan favorite.

The Express fans are used to seeing Keating on the field and they were disappointed when he was substituted in the second half of the game.

Lacrosse resumes league play

Lacrosse league changes. The Spartans are now No. 2. They have good sticks. Their defense is not as strong, and they don't have a leader. They are also one of the best teams in the league," Keating said.

"We'll have to stop them on defense and out-of-wall," Keating said. "We can't allow them to out-number our numbers. If we allow them a half a step, they can beat us. But if we can stop them, Keating also feels that the key to the game is in midfield.

"I feel our midfield play and ability will be the difference," Keating said.

"Our midfielders can play very well with it, which is a very strong situation," Keating said.

Despite a 5-6 overall record, Mid State has depth. They have good sticks. They are also your top team from the three-year-old record he already holds. His heave of 56-feet-4\(\frac{1}{2}\) inch was not only the indoor record for most goals in a season, but also the indoor record of 1982.

"If our midfielders can play well, we can beat any team in the league," Keating said.

"We'll have to hound them on defense and out-of-wall," Keating said.

Despite a 5-6 overall record, Mid State recruits players from the East and has a good record of 104.

abortion and federal funding would guarantee every woman's right to have one.

Debate Team coach T.J. Larkin said one reason for the team's outstanding performance this year was the "freshness" of the year, and Mark Fellows, a journalism major from Case Hall.

Debating for the affirmative team were Paul Hummer, a communications major who captured two personal first-place finishes this year, and Mark Fellows, a journalism major from Case Hall.

"We were all new to each other and a certain sort of chemistry happened between us," Larkin said. "Each member of the team has to be an individual, but there must also be a cohesiveness."

"That was one of the clearest debates I've ever heard," said a judge. "In order for a minority to gain political power, they have to win power for themselves. That's one of the reasons you have to have political power in order to have personal power."

Votes counted, the judges were unanimous in their choice of the affirmative team.

The affirmative team maintained that abortions are the right of every woman, whether rich or poor, while the negative team contended poor women have the right to an abortion, but the negative team's argument was referred to the Supreme Court for decision.

"We opened the debate contending poor women have the right to an abortion," said Hummer, who the judges said gave the best presentation of the evening, pointed out that exceptionally high costs drive many women to having illegal "backdoor" abortions.

"It may look out in the paper," White retorted. "In reality, it almost never happens. A woman can go to a reputable doctor who will not charge her anything. It's almost human nature for women to have the right to an abortion and federal funding would guarantee every woman's right to abortion."

"In order for a minority to gain political power, they have to win power for themselves," Larkin said. "One of the reasons you have to have political power in order to have personal power."

Food drive being held

A food drive to replenish emergency food banks will take place in Ingham County from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. Collection areas will not be limited to participating food stores. They will accept donations of money, food, clothing, household items, or services as needed.

Collection points are all Lansing-area Kroger and Meijer Thrifty Acres stores and the Ingham County Super Food Market in the Holt Plaza. A table will also be set up at the Lansing Civic Center. The drive is sponsored by the Ingham County Task Force on Hunger and Nutrition.

About 25 emergency food banks will be represented by churches and community organizations. "They supply foodstuffs to people on an extended basis, according to Mary Vaine, the food distribution coordinator. The food banks do not feed people as an outreach program. They are for people who would otherwise face hardship in working to keep the existing social programs in place." Alexander said.

The need for a food drive is greater for food banks each year, according to Mary Vaine, the food distribution coordinator.
