Tax cut OK sought
Carter maintains proposal will not further inflation

BY BARRY LEVINE
WASHINGTON AP-President Carter made clear Thursday in his weekly radio address that his proposed $25 billion tax cut "is not a panacea," but added that it will not cause inflation.

"It is better to have a controlled spending program than to accept a potential inflation problem," the president said.

"The public should have confidence that we are on the right track in controlling inflation," he added.

Carter said that the tax cut will be designed to encourage consumer spending and would help reduce the budget deficit. However, he said, the tax reduction would not go as far as the administration had originally proposed.

"We have a lot of work to do," he said. "We have to find a way to balance the budget.

Although tax cuts would bring an increase in the deficit, they would help moderate inflation, Carter said.

"We are not going to have inflation rise," he said. "We are going to control inflation.

But I can inform you that we have taken the president's statement into account and have made some changes in our proposals.

We are going to try to make the tax cuts as wide as possible but not as deep as we had hoped.

I think a lot of people are going to say that, 'We're going to put more money in our pockets' and not put it into the economy," Carter said.

"But I think we have to be careful about that," he added.

Carter said he plans to send a message to Congress on how the tax cut will be handled.

"We have to find a way to deal with the budget deficit," he said. "We have to find a way to balance the budget.

Inflation is a serious problem, Carter said. "We have to control inflation and keep prices from rising too fast.

track," he said. "I think we are going to control inflation.

But I think we have to be careful about that," he added.

S. Africa accepts Western compromise

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister John Vorster announced Tuesday that South Africa and the European powers would negotiate to end the South African government's military occupation of Angola.

The prime minister said the talks would likely begin after South Africa's National Assembly reconvenes in February. Vorster said the talks would include a discussion of the future of South Africa's troops in Angola.

Vorster also announced that the South African government would begin withdrawing its military forces from Angola in the near future.

"We have decided to begin the process of withdrawing our forces from Angola in the next few weeks," Vorster said. "This decision was taken after careful consideration of the situation on the ground.

The prime minister also announced that the South African government would begin negotiations with the Angolan government to establish a "new era of peace and cooperation" in the region.

Vorster said the talks would include discussions on the withdrawal of South African troops, the establishment of a "new era of peace and cooperation," and the restoration of diplomatic relations between South Africa and Angola.

"We are confident that these discussions will lead to a lasting peace in the region," Vorster said.

The announcement came after a meeting between Vorster and Angolan Foreign Minister Jose Eduardo dos Santos.

The two leaders agreed to begin negotiations immediately to end the conflict in Angola and to establish a "new era of peace and cooperation" in the region.

The talks are expected to begin in February, Vorster said. South Africa's National Assembly reconvenes in that month.

“Moony’s” consider selves vanguard of spiritual revolution

In an example of the Unification Church’s “love and unity in life” concept, a group of six “Moony’s,” followers of Reverend Sun Myung Moon, held a prayer service and offered messages to the people of Sisters, Washington, on April 26, 1978.

“Moony’s” are members of the Unification Church, a religious group founded by Reverend Sun Myung Moon in Korea.

The group, who arrived in Sisters on April 25, was led by Mr. Kim and Rev. Moon, who conducted a prayer service at the Sisters City Hall. They were accompanied by 12 other people, including Rev. Moon’s wife and members of his family.

The prayer service lasted for about an hour and included singing, chanting, and teaching “the Divine Principle,” the central teaching of the Unification Church.

The “Moony’s” also distributed literature and spoke to the people about the benefits of joining the Unification Church.

The Sisters City Council had previously denied the “Moony’s” request to hold the prayer service in the city hall, citing concerns about the impact on the local community.

However, the “Moony’s” were able to find a location to hold their service and continued their outreach efforts.

The group said they would be in Sisters for several days, conducting prayer services and outreach activities.

The Unification Church is a controversial group that has faced criticism for its teachings and practices.

While the town of Sisters is known for its small size and close-knit community, it has also been the site of a number of religious and spiritual organizations in recent years.

The “Moony’s” are just one of many groups that have sought to establish a presence in the town.

The group’s activities have sparked some debate and controversy among the local community.

Some residents have expressed concern about the impact of the “Moony’s” presence on the town’s cultural and spiritual landscape.

Others have welcomed the group’s outreach efforts, seeing it as an opportunity to learn about and engage with new ideas and perspectives.

As the dust settles...

It has been four years now since Richard Nixon left office, and his name and image still hang over the news. Memorials, tapes, miniseries — little items that still harrow us in newsworthy. One gets the entire impression that Kent Barry, former ASMSU student president, has continued to lead a normal life.

'seemingly' they were failing to look at the world today. The message is simple: "It happened only 30 years ago."

The big news last week was that the All-University Student Judiciary had upheld the election of Don Jones as Barry's successor and struck down the candidacy of Kathy Lamh in the still-to-be-held College of Business election. But somehow this news was overshadowed by the news that Barry is the third of the first three, all who spent over 80 percent of the money allocated to the president's office for the entire final fiscal year, from January 1978 to January 1979.

In that same three month period, Barry spent $1,824.22 on clothing and mailing costs out of an allocation of only $150 for the entire fiscal year. How were these funds spent on calls to Washington, D.C. — probably to his former basketball team? What a tragedy! A badly lobbied, of the discriminated Parkwood Mall, rebate Tuition Tax Credit.

Barry's astonishing disregard for ethics and accountability is both transparency and the demand for the procedures of the president for the coming year. The student body is as well of Barry, but let his legacy continue to haunt us.

The good news: The All-University Student Judiciary's wisdom is that Barry is a German butcher and hockey and has not to fail the purposes of Title IX. It is a brand of fairly unsavory that will cost MSU a vital forfeit in federal support, as well as a solution for reducing complaints against the University in coming months.

Title IX does not require schools to spend an equal amount on men's and women's sports. It does mandate sufficient expenditures to give women's teams equal opportunities with men's. Barry's bad faith may be, even in the basketball team can never again happen anywhere. Would I have for Jew and non-Jew alike that "enlightened" Germans hold down the worst of the past.

Eva, and the Holocaust, and I know that even hear of Hitler. Obviously, the showing of "Holocaust," as in the world. It is obvious that we should have no knowledge that they even heard of Hitler. What do we know? They had been brainwashed by "Enlightened" Germans and the Holocaust as well as the world.

The Holocaust — that morbid tragedy in Germany and many wound up in the concentration camps.

The US has virtually no leverage here. But the refugees who fled Cambodia to Thailand have no future in the US and are

There is an issue of complicity. I must say after the fact is over. If complicity, say we know we would have acted as we did.

Women's Athletic Director Neil Jameson is in the wilderness. That may well be true for the winners, but other cases cannot be raised to any serious question on the subject. The whole idea of this Holocaust revival was wrong. It happened only 30 years ago, and we should have no knowledge of it now through the medium of newspapers. It certainly was not to those who still survive it or to the survivors as liberating. It is at the interpersonal level, far from the incomprehensible. The things that had witnessed its effects as liberating are certainly not to those who still survive it or to those who still think about it.

The Doll Who Ate His Mother tale betrays eerie title

The Doll Who Ate His Mother by Alan Dean Foster

Before leaping into a discussion of Splinter of Mind's Eye, let's begin by looking for the novel that first shocked the world into the realm of science fiction as a genre. That book was in the summer of 1941 when it was published. By the end of the summer, as I have already mentioned, the novel's success was well underway, and it was clear that science fiction was here to stay. The Doll Who Ate His Mother was certainly unique. Nazis, Errol Flynn swashbucklers, Jewish mysticism, world revolved loosely around an un

The Doll Who Ate His Mother is a satirical novel by Alan Dean Foster. It was published in 1973 and is considered a classic in the science fiction genre. The novel follows the story of a young boy who becomes obsessed with the idea of eating his own mother. As he grows older, his obsession intensifies, leading to various bizarre and dangerous situations. The novel is known for its dark humor and its exploration of themes such as identity, perception, and the nature of reality. It has been praised for its creative use of language and its challenging ideas, making it a significant work in the field of science fiction.

Group urges boycott of Nixon's book

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With posters and T-shirts as their weapons and "Don't Buy Books by Nixon" as their battle cry, Tom Flanigan and Bill Boleyn are looking to make an impact on both the hyping and the price of Richard Nixon's upcoming memoirs.

Flanigan and Boleyn are sticking a low budget needle into both Nixon's memoirs and the hyping and the price of Richard Nixon's upcoming memoirs. Flanigan, 26, and Boleyn, 29, founded The Committee to Boycott Nixon's Memoirs with financial help from 17 friends who mutually agreed to contribute $200 apiece.

For an outrageous price, $250, Nixon will sell a hardbound edition of his memoirs to subscribers who prepay in advance of the book's publication in early 1971. Nixon's memoirs, which are expected to sell for around $200, will be sold in four instalments, each containing 60 papers on Nixon's presidency.

The group is taking out its own newspaper ads to coincide with the serialized excerpts of the memoirs, starting in June papers on Nixon's presidency.

Carl Rowan. Joseph Kraft, Art Buchwald and the many others who have written against checkbook journalism," said Boleyn.

"We're just joining ranks in our own way with Mary McGrory. I think, though, that if they were willing to put the book on the market when they heard two years ago that Nixon would get $2 million for his tapes to the American people would turn around and sell a book for an outrageous price," Flanigan said Tuesday. "You shouldn't claim that a man shouldn't profit from his disgrace. "He's this man that was willing to sell the American people's confidences," said Boleyn.

"It doesn't seem right that the man who refused to give people to think about that before they go to the bookstore," said Flanigan.

"We just want to break even," says Flanigan of the T-shirt and poster sales. "If we make a profit, we'll pump it back into the advertising campaign.

Boleyn, part owner of a downtown Washington bar and restaurant in suburban Arlington, Va., on an initial stake of $4,000. Flanigan and Boleyn are sticking a low budget needle into both Nixon's memoirs and the hyping and the price of Richard Nixon's upcoming memoirs.

"We're just joining ranks in our own way with Mary McGrory. "Sure shot" concerts approved

Two people now hold the power to decide what will be a "sure shot" due to the memo calling for programming to be halted.

In addition to Church's order, the memo also stipulated that Church and the chairperson of the Programming Board, Steve Politowicz, would have to approve any future concerts planned by the programming groups. The Programming Board's planning appears to be in full swing. The major event scheduled for spring term, the annual free outdoor concert held next to the MSU Auditorium, is still on, Franks said. Tentatively, Michael Murphy and the Garland Jefferies band have been scheduled to play.

A preliminary budget was approved Tuesday night, marking the first time Pop Entertainment has had to present a budget to the comptroller.

Despite the limitations that had to be imposed on the concert programming groups, Pop Entertainment's planning appears to be in full swing. The major event scheduled for spring term, the annual free outdoor concert held next to the MSU Auditorium, is still on, Franks said. Tentatively, Michael Murphy and the Garland Jefferies band have been scheduled to play.

Mighty comma gets reinserted

Gov. William G. Milliken Tuesday signed into law a bill restoring a comma to a state law enacted last year.

The comma, in earlier legislation, was inadvertently dropped from the Tunnel Safety Act. Without the comma, inspectors were required to be present only on a tunnel shaft, rather than in a tunnel as intended by the Legislature.

It took a whole new bill to correct the error.

Now you can have it all at TI in BIG D.

We are the Equipment Group of Texas Instruments. Joining us in PACE is a unique opportunity for Systems Engineers and Digital Hardware/Software Designers. Note you can have it all—Advanced Work in Pressure-Activated Fluids. These are projects in design and development that illustrate industry-leading technology in many fields—

- Electronic sensors
- Radar
- Air traffic control
- Navigation
- Communications
- AIM
- Weapon guidance
- Fire control

The Stability of A Highly Diversified Company

Since 1954, TI has maintained a compound average growth rate of more than 35% in net sales.

In 1977, net sales were $2.9 billion to government electronics increased 19% over 1976.

TI, and always has been, a company managed by engineers and scientists. Its commitment to research and development was backed up by a $500 million investment in 1977 alone, a 30% increase over 1976.

There are 15,000 manufacturing people in 18 manufacturing plants and product distribution centers in North America, Europe and Asia.

Dallas, Texas is a growing city. It is the heart of the Southwest and a vital link to the booming Far West North Metroplex. It is rich in culture, entertainment and environmental advantages.

These include two major sports companies, The World Champions Dallas Cowboys, the basketball and the lowest population density of any of the largest U.S. major cities. The area has a low cost of living...

At the same time, Dallas is a culturally and educationally challenging place to live. There are no state and local income taxes. And the cost of living is 9% below the U.S. average.

It’s all at TI in Big D–starting with the most competitive salaries and benefits available.

We are hiring engineers and scientists, with experience and education in the fields of:

- Electrical Engineering
- Computer Science
- Mechanical Engineering
- Aerospace Engineering
- Chemical Engineering
- Physics

We offer competitive salaries, benefits, and opportunities for advancement.

TI is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Preferred for cleaning skeletons

When a skeleton is ready for cleaning, a piece of cotton that contains beetles in all stages of development is removed from the mother colony and wrapped around the skeleton or bone. The beetles are then left to work their magic. The larvae, maggots and flies that eat their way around the skeleton or bone.

Baker explained that cleaning bones is important for bone identification and for study evolution.

Maggots (fly larvae) and ants are frequently used. Baker said.

However, the beetles are sometimes preyed upon by insects, so it is necessary to reproduce. The larvae contain beetles in all stages of development.

When a colony is at its maximum population density, there are millions of adult beetles and larvae. Nevertheless, they are not as numerous as a penny and ipecac syrup make an east. Baker said.

The beetles are inexpensive, easy to obtain and easy to keep. Baker said.
