Malaria becoming threat to world health

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Malaria, rated one of the worst killers 150 years ago, is once again a major threat to health and development, killing 1.3 million persons throughout the world, U.N. officials said Tuesday. The report, which includes a study of the latest research, noted that the disease is probably the second leading cause of death by infectious disease in the world, after tuberculosis. It is estimated that at least 93 abduction cases in Colombia and the failure of governments to adopt effective programs against the infectious disease.

In the United States, the disease is not new, but it is still a major public health problem. In 1992, the number of reported cases steadily declined, reaching a new low in the first quarter of 1993, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC). The decline in the number of reported cases may be attributed to the improved diagnostic techniques and the increased use of chemoprophylaxis and chemotherapeutic agents.

Kidnapped American in Columbia

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A kidnapper in Mexico, who was reported missing on June 18, has been rescued in Colombia, according to a government campaign against kidnappings and a case involving a young American. The campaign was launched in an effort to encourage the repatriation of the kidnapped American.

The release of Gregory Strickland, 22, of Albuquerque, N.M., who was believed to be kidnapped by Colombian drug traffickers, was announced Tuesday by a official of the Colombian government.

The official said Strickland had been kidnapped on June 18 by members of a Mexican drug gang who were demanding a ransom of $300,000 for his release.

Strickland was found in a rural area in Colombia on Monday, according to the official.

The official added that Strickland had been released without any conditions and that he was being returned to the United States on Tuesday.

Toledo school strike ends

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A strike against Toledo city schools ended on Tuesday when teachers and school officials reached an agreement to end the longest strike in the district's 120-year history.

The Toledo Federation of Teachers and the Toledo School Board reached an agreement after a 15-hour negotiating session that ended Tuesday. The union represents the teaching staff and the non-teaching staff in separate meetings.

The Board of Education had been trying to make a state law that would have permitted the firing of any teacher who refused to work. The Ohio law temporarily existing.

Kidnap victim safe at home

MEXICO CITY — A wealthy businessman was kidnapped for ransom by armed men who snapped up three different buildings in the wealthy suburbs of Mexico City, according to a local newspaper.

Hugo R. Campos, 53, who is the president of a company that owns a number of assets, was reportedly taken from his home late Monday night.

The kidnappers demanded a ransom of $300,000 and said they would kill the man if the demand was not met.

The man's family was told to meet the kidnappers at a specified location in Mexico City's Tláhuac district.

The man was released after a ransom was paid.

Jet plane deal may be rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — There may be growing sentiment in Congress to reject the proposed $5 billion sale of six American-made F-15 jet fighters to Saudi Arabia in the House, according to a senior administration official.

The official said that the administration would be willing to consider a lower price or perhaps a smaller package of jet fighters if Congress requires it.

The deal, which was announced last week, is expected to be voted on in the House on Thursday. The Senate has already approved the sale.

The jet fighters, which would be delivered to Saudi Arabia next year, are part of a $20 billion arms package to the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain.

The House vote comes after a number of members of Congress said they would oppose the sale because of concerns about human rights violations in Saudi Arabia.

The jet fighters are among the few major arms sales that have been approved by Congress in recent years.
faculty grievance official finds current procedure to be effective

by WHITELIUM CHAMBERS

The University's faculty grievance official, Professor Robert Low, recently said that the current procedure is effective.

"The procedure has been in effect and work has gotten around," Professor Low said. "Administratives are finding out the procedure works."

President Patricia B. Eastman has charged faculty and administrative officials with developing a procedure to handle grievances.

Professor Low outlined the establishment of an office for grievances and procedures.

"We are trying to make sure the procedure is understood and accepted," Professor Low said. "A brief look at the procedure is presented and enjoyed by those interested."

The procedure is designed to ensure that grievances are handled fairly and promptly. It outlines the steps to be taken in the handling of grievances.

‘Organisation Man’ an organized crook

The Organisation Man was a best-selling book in the 1950s, and the concept of the straight arrow, organized under the name of Pregancy Shopping for a crime based on one of her books. The blame for that tragic rape doesn’t fall on us, the police department, the city, or the county. We’re the ones who have to live with it. The girls who attacked the 9-year-old are still around — and in many cases his Organization resembles the Syndicate.

In recent years the federal government has been taking more active steps to combat organized crime. A law was passed in 1970 that makes it a crime to sell or distribute any racketeering material. The law has been in effect for five years now and has been very successful. The prosecutions have been going well and the convictions have been high. The law has been a great help in the fight against organized crime.

Khrushchev, a stubby-haired man from a peasant family who became a poet, author, and theatrical director, was considered a controversial figure. During his time in power, he sought to upend the traditional roles of the Soviet Union and its cultural society, often by bringing in new and innovative elements. His influence was felt in various aspects of society, including music. He was known for his love of art and his support for countercultural movements.

HOLLYWOOD - The new album, "The Undercover Man," is Michael Franks' 12th release. He's come a long way since his first album, "Sphinx," in 1975. The trumpeter and singer earned a following with his first few albums, but it wasn't until his fourth album, "Upstairs at Andy's," that he really gained recognition. It was then that he started gaining momentum with his big band and jazz rock music.

"Sphinx" (1979) was followed by "My Final Resting Place" (1980) and "Close Enough for Love" (1981). But it was "The Man With the Horn" (1982) that really shot him to stardom.

"Michael Franks' music is light, easy on the ears, and perfect for relaxing. He has a unique style that combines elements of jazz, pop, and bossa nova. His music is perfect for lovers of music who enjoy a laid-back atmosphere. His music is also great for background music during dinner parties. His music is perfect for anyone who enjoys a relaxing atmosphere.

Property deal proposed
A JAY BALEMANN

Property deal proposed in city could increase public land holdings.

The proposed deal, which would involve the city acquiring additional tracts of property and a vacant building on MacArthur Street for use as a community center, was submitted to the city Friday by the

J. Paul Busey, who had been negotiating the proposal, said he was encouraged by the city's response. "I think this is a great opportunity for the city," he said.

The deal would include the purchase of a 1.5-acre lot on the west side of the city's downtown area and the transfer of a vacant building on the east side. Busey said the property would be used to create a community center for residents of the area.

The city has been exploring options for public land use in recent years, and Busey said the proposed deal could help the city make progress on those efforts. "It's a great opportunity for us," he said.

City officials were also enthusiastic about the proposal, and said they would work with Busey to finalize the details.

"We're very excited about the possibility of this deal," said City Manager John Stiller. "This property has been identified as a potential site for a community center, and we're looking forward to working with the city to make it happen."
Marshall healthy again; gridders defense strong

By J. DECENTER

The Spartans play Youngstown next weekend and a full complement of Spartans may be expected to start against the rival of the Mid-American League East as they opened a season set to launch at Ann Arbor Township for their first game for the season.

The Spartans hope to follow-up their rout of Illinois State with a victory over Youngstown. The appointment is a good one for the unit and it is expected that the defense will be back to its full strength.

Mike Marshall

Marshall (65) is back in the lineup and was plucked up right where he fell off, as the starting right defensive halfback.

While high school powerhouse Michigan State was preparing for its return to the national scene, Marshall was sidelined twice during last season after being named the Big Ten's Most Valuable Player. He was expected to be back in time to face Youngstown.

'Bird,' Morris both sidelined

ANASTASH, Feb. 19 — The Spartans expect a number of players to be back in the lineup for the season opener against the Mid-American League East as they opened a season set to launch at Ann Arbor Township for their first game for the season.

The Spartans hope to follow-up their rout of Illinois State with a victory over Youngstown. The appointment is a good one for the unit and it is expected that the defense will be back to its full strength.

Mike Marshall

Marshall (65) is back in the lineup and was plucked up right where he fell off, as the starting right defensive halfback.

While high school powerhouse Michigan State was preparing for its return to the national scene, Marshall was sidelined twice during last season after being named the Big Ten's Most Valuable Player. He was expected to be back in time to face Youngstown.

Spinks needs friend like Ali has

by MILTON BICKMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) - They make the perfect pair: the longLed Boxer and the world's shortest heavyweight champ. Muhammad Ali and Leon Spinks seem to share some same mentalities on life and sports orientations. They are friends, but Spinks also sees Ali as his mentor. Both are windbreaks for a talent-buried boxing world, and they both mean well.

"You crazy niggers!' the driver yelled at us. It was so dark, he believed we were niggers. What a shame! What a waste of money! I paid $90 per seat to go past the Red Sox. It was so dark, he believed we were niggers. What a shame! What a waste of money! I paid $90 per seat to go past the Red Sox."

"The driver looked so happy when he got the chance to talk to me, he didn't even notice the Monopoly players had gone."

"She is a powerful shadow of Grandmother La Jove."

People still ask themselves, "What will Golda think?" before asking her to speak at a public event.

The sound of the hammer, she said, raised the family house in anticipation of an anti-Semitic program. She once said, never stopped pounding it into the soil.
