Senate committee rejects block of Carter's arms sales package

By JIM SMITH

WASHINGTON -- President Carter's request that Congress lift its arms embargo of Egypt has been rejected by the Senate Armed Services Committee, 8-4.

Carter has asked for the embargo to be lifted to help Egypt buy U.S.-made armament, part of a $3 billion package for the Middle East.

The committee's chairman, Capt. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said the arms proposal will be debated on the Senate floor today.

Byrd said part of the debate may occur in the form of amendments to a separate bill that authorizes the sale of $2 billion worth of armament to Egypt.

The panel agreed with Byrd's views.

Shah commanding Iran's army

The Shah of Iran, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, created a new Rapid Reaction Corps and moved his troops into the desert near the Rio Grande. The move was a response to the growing political unrest in Iran and was intended to demonstrate the government's commitment to maintaining control. The Shah's actions were seen as a move to tighten his grip on power and to prevent a possible coup. The new corps consisted of thousands of troops and was equipped with modern military hardware. The Shah's move was met with criticism by the opposition, who viewed it as a further attempt to suppress dissent and maintain the status quo.

Monthly living cost to be higher in fall

Students renting a house in East Lansing may be surprised. Although a house can be rented for about $20 less a month per student than an apartment, it is often best to treat the house as one whole unit rather than break it down into small rentals.

For example, if a landlord requires a security deposit, make sure the amount is held in a financial institution as required by law. In some states, there are restrictions on the amount of the deposit. It is important to know your legal rights and to be aware of your tenant's rights.

Tenants: beware rights

When attempting to sub-lease an apartment since March, one MSU student said. "We originally thought that we would be staying for summer, which are often lower than those offered for sub-leasing, however the difficulty renting outside the regular school year, Sovoren said. Students should realize that landlords themselves often have responsibilities when it comes to sub-leasing. Also, the center's funding figure should have been $7,200 from May 1 to Aug. 15, not $7,000. It's a small error in the budget, but it's important to know the facts.

Tenants may sub-lease their apartments only with the approval of the landlord. This approval is either granted in the original contract or is granted on a case by case basis by the landlord. If the landlord approves, a sub-lease agreement must be in writing and must be signed by both the landlord and the sub-leasee.

Terms of the original contract are still in effect when a tenant sub-leases. Also, the center's funding figures should have been $7,200 from May 1 to Aug. 15, not $7,000. It's a small error in the budget, but it's important to know the facts.

We The Students of Michigan State, in order to form a more just ASMSU, do ordain and establish this constitution:

The proposed constitution would alter the method of selecting board members. The board would consist of 14 representatives elected at large by dormitory, University Apartment and off-campus residents. Residence hall and off-campus Greeks would elect six representatives each, with at least one representing each dormitory. The new constitution would provide for this — nothing more.

The beauty of the plan is that it enables all citizens to participate in government. No longer can a single political group be served by three different interests — say, Greeks, Catholics and Business students. But the proposed results in its own right. Off-campus Greeks could elect only four other students, and so forth. This could lift some students with no representation at all.

The board is divided in other ways. It is not airtight, and could not be, because each student has five votes. Were the entire board to function in any meaningful way, the board would realign itself. But it does constitute the first organized attempt to structure student government, and the board's elections would decide the political climate.

I am a student at MSU and the elected representatives of the student body. The board should be a service-oriented body, and the elected representatives are the ones who should make up the board in order to maintain the student burden, desires to be compared to the U.S. Constitution, or, in other words.

But one thing is obvious from this: the whole trip. The whole trip was fought the whole trip as the government body itself is appointed by the board chairman, the board president and political gadfly Michael Love. Whether the new constitution, which Love and associates plan to submit to student referendum, deserves to be compared to the U.S. Constitution, or, in other words, the whole trip.

Perhaps the most controversial stipulation would fly away with the board president in favor of an "executive director" appointed by the board chairman, not the student body, as the majority of the entire board. The chairman, appointed by a majority of the entire board, and the executive body itself would remain the Student Policy Board.

Calling the president "executive director" and having him or her appointed by board approval by the chairperson is more than a cosmetic change. The new constitution embraces this crucial point. The Executive Director may not register to vote, nor fulfill other prerequisites to sit on the board. The Executive shall be compensated commensurately with the status of chair executive and administrative officer of ASMSU. In short, the new head of ASMSU will be paid and elected, by simple majority of the board, and the executive body itself would remain the Student Policy Board.

We believe these changes would be of benefit. But one thing is obvious from this: the whole trip. MSU and its performers on stage

By Gary Wilson

The financial status and survival of the arts at MSU has long been an issue. In the past, the student programming groups have struggled to find sufficient funds to support their activities. The financial condition of the groups has varied over the years, with some experiencing periods of prosperity and others facing difficulties. The groups have had to seek creative ways to fund their operations, and the financial climate has often dictated their strategies.

One such group is the MSU Programming Board, which is responsible for booking and managing a variety of musical performances on campus. The board has had to adapt to changing circumstances and seek new funding sources to sustain its activities. In recent years, the board has faced challenges, including a decrease in funding from external sources and a shift in student priorities.

The role of the Programming Board is significant, as it provides opportunities for students to experience a range of musical and cultural events. The board has worked to ensure that events are accessible and affordable to students, and it has sought to foster a sense of community and engagement around the arts. Despite the financial challenges, the Programming Board continues to strive for excellence and to celebrate the power of music and artistic expression.

Big turnouts, financial and moral support all major factors

By Tim Kirkwood

As the excitement builds for the upcoming semester, one of the most pressing questions on the minds of students is, "What will the MSU Programming Board do this year?" The Programming Board has a long and storied history at MSU, and its members have worked tirelessly to bring a diverse array of events to the campus community. The board's success in recent years can be attributed to a combination of factors, including strong leadership, community involvement, and a commitment to providing high-quality entertainment.

The Programming Board is a vital part of the campus community, and its ability to attract and accommodate large crowds is a testament to its effectiveness. The board has been successful in part because of its ability to attract top-name performers, and it has consistently provided a platform for emerging artists to showcase their talent. The board's success has been supported by the financial and moral support of a dedicated group of students and staff, who have worked tirelessly to ensure the continued success of the programming board.

We encourage all students to support the Programming Board by attending events and volunteering their time. The board's success is predicated on the involvement and engagement of the MSU community, and we look forward to seeing what the Programming Board has in store for the upcoming semester.

Communities members most are aware of some of the work involved in creating and operating a film program, and that the work is only the beginning of the process, said John Babb, president of the Lansing Film Board. The program is designed to provide students with an opportunity to observe the work of campus film groups with funds provided by the community. The program will also provide a means for students to observe and experience in public shows, said Babb. The project would be an extension of the program currently in operation at the University of Michigan. The project would also be an entity in the Lansing Film Board, and would provide students with meaningful off-campus experience.

Playoffs still possible for Spartans

Wolverines

The Spartans cannot afford a loss to Iowa. 8-5 in the Big Ten and second place wouldn't look that bad to the Spartans — especially with the Big Ten Meet in the next two weeks.

Washington Bullets' Mitch Kupchak pulls Philadelphia's Henry Bibby's band away as the ball slips out of bounds. Philadelphia kept itself alive in the NBA East Division, as the Bullets lead the 76ers again in the series. The Bullets took Game 3, 120-119, in 3 hours 34 minutes.

MICHIGAN BUCK: Michigan State's Frank Pellerin said he wasn't sure which of the Spartans' two freshmen would win the starting mound spot for the Big Ten Meet this weekend. He also said he was concerned about having no senior leaders on the team. All of the Spartans are seniors except for pitcher Frank Pollock, who has been an up-and-down team this season, but they do have one real strength — pitcher Scotty Robinson. And hopefully for the Spartans, the Wolverines will be without Matt Fields, who was a starter for Northwestern's football team, when they play Michigan Friday.

the GENESIS loudspeakers affordable realism

Anyone who has heard a band of street musicians is always struck by the realism of the sound. There are no wires, amplifiers, tubes or speakers! No speakers, no wires! The sound is so perfect that you can hear it as if you were there yourself. GENESIS BRINGS YOU THE NEXT BEST THING. SPEAKERS YOU CAN'T HEAR. HOW? YOU'LL HEAR THE MUSIC, NOT THE SPEAKERS. WHY? GENESIS THOUGHT IT WOULD BE NICE TO DESIGN A SPEAKER LINE THAT WOULDN'T SOUND LIKE A LINE OF SPEAKERS. AND BEST OF ALL, THEY DID IT AT VERY AFFORDABLE PRICES.

REGULATION GARB

You, a faithful follower of this space, have been a mountaineer for some time now.
You’ve studied the fundamentals, selected the best gear and experimented with various styles. In short, you are no brain’s fool. Nonetheless, you also know a little something about the proper attire for mountain climbing. So you want to learn more. Smart thinking.

First, you must realize that the basics of mountaineering are mastered; it is only instinct which distinguishes the true mountaineer from the merely adequate. Therefore, attention to detail, especially in matters of clothing, is vital.

Always protect the head according to seasonal fluctuations. In winter, a warm hat is mandatory. (The head, after all, is the chimney of the body. Avoid cerebral heat loss - it diminishes your psycho-physiological abilities.) In summertime, a sun visor or a billed cap will illustrate crucial visibility among the craggy peaks.

Pay particular regard to your foot gear. Shoes should be sturdy and stable. A secure footing is of utmost importance. Without it, you’re asking for trouble. Point of order: while mountaineering is pursued for fun, it is nevertheless less serious business. If you are going to descend the mountains, rather than vice versa, you must be confident of your stability.

The head and the feet lies the area known to pros as the "body." Mountaineering bodywear is based on personal preference. However, keep a keen eye out for one comma in public places, connecting ropes for those who prefer the security of mountaineering it demands. Back packs filled with beer, nuts, trail mix, bitters, oils and other plain pluckers.

amended to exclude black caucuses from additional funding. The motion was again tabled so board members could take the motion back to dormitory students to get feedback about the change.

• RHA president Tim Van Antwerp said some black caucus presidents felt if they could get additional funds from RHA then dormitory governments would give the caucuses less.

• A motion to allow five representatives from The Listening Ear to solicit donations at the May 20th Spring Concert was tabled until next week.

Several members felt passing the motion would be setting a dangerous precedent.

Sharon Pope. Residence Halls Programs Office representative, said. "It's never been done before. It's possible we'll get a lot more off-campus organizations asking for similar privileges.

Emmons Hall representative Lane Avery said he thought solicitors would be "irritating" to people attending the concert.

• Radio board representative Rob David told the board two positions on the radio board need to be filled by residence hall students for fall term

Next week's board meeting is at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in Shaw

Committee rejects block

Despite efforts to reduce tensions and improve relations, a significant border dispute continues to cast a shadow over Sino-Soviet relations. The dispute began in 1969 when Chinese border guards crossed into Soviet territory, leading to a violent clash that resulted in fatalities on both sides. The incident has sparked concerns about the potential for further escalation and raised questions about the stability of the region.

The Chinese government claims that the territory in question was once part of Chinese territory, while the Soviets maintain that it was ceded to the Soviet Union through historic treaties. Both sides have made efforts to resolve the issue through diplomatic channels, but progress has been slow and contentious.

The dispute has also had implications for international relations, with both China and the Soviet Union trying to stabilize their respective regions. The US and other countries have been involved in efforts to mediate the conflict, but the situation remains tense.

Baker also sent a letter to Winder dated Feb. 27 that argued the case of the Baker Woodlot to the University community and most valuable outdoor laboratory on campus.

"It is Milton Baron that the fight was with, not "Scotty the Sheepherder" he gave them the OK to use the land after he knew very well the students of the Forestry Club."

"How can we be assured that the forestry boys will not be chasing girls through the woods, will not be trampling the plants in the area."

"Every time we add something near the site we are destroying the surrounding environment." Baker added.

No plans have been made to accept Beaman's request for the Baker Woodlot.

"Mr. President Clarence L. Winder explained, I feel it is important to the botany department."

"That is controlled by the chairperson of the zoology department, so I feel it is important to the botany department."

"It is Milton Baron that the fight was with, not how important it is to the forestry department."

"The presence of the lot is important to ecology, to the cabin being built on this particular site how important it is to the botany department."

"How can we be assured that the forestry boys will not be chasing girls through the woods, will not be trampling the plants in the area." Baker said.

"How can we be assured that the students of the Forestry Club. They open on Sunday at 2 pm. Starting Monday they offer a free liter of Coke with your pizza and Tuesdays it's free item night."

"For fantastic pizza with old fashioned 'hand spun crust' you've got to try Campus Pizza. They use more expensive ingredients to give you a better quality pizza. With two locations, 308 W. Grand River (on the old Dairy Queen Bldg.), 1312 Michigan (just before the Silver Dollar and FREE DELIVERY) they offer convenient service to students on and off campus.

To some, paperweights do more than 'sit on it'

By STEVE KNAPE

For most people, paperweights are a decorative but unwieldy addition to their desk.

But for Linda Cleveland, a freshman at Michigan State University and a member of the MSU Gay Lesbian Council, paperweights have a more serious purpose.

"A good paperweight can be a very personal gift," Cleveland said. "I collect paperweights because they are beautiful and can serve as a reminder of a special occasion or event." Cleveland has been collecting paperweights for the past five years and has a small but growing collection in her room.

Paperweights are typically made of glass or crystal and are shaped like flowers, animals, or other objects. They are often used to hold down paper, but they can also be displayed on a shelf or desk.

Cleveland said she likes the way paperweights can capture the essence of a moment in time.

"Each paperweight tells a story," Cleveland said. "Some are handmade, others are mass-produced, but each one has its own unique value.

One of Cleveland's favorite paperweights is a small glass mushroom that she received as a gift from her Aunt Mary. "It's a simple design," Cleveland said, "but it reminds me of the magic world of mushrooms and the joy of giving.

Cleveland said she hopes to someday have a larger collection of paperweights and to share her knowledge with others.

"I consider paperweight collecting more of a deep interest than a hobby," Cleveland said. "I want to learn more about the history and craftsmanship of paperweights and to share that knowledge with others who share the same passion.

Cleveland said she would like to see paperweights featured more often in art exhibitions and other public spaces.

"Paperweights are a beautiful art form," Cleveland said. "They deserve more recognition and appreciation.

Cleveland said she is planning to attend a paperweight exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston next year and to continue building her collection.

"I love the way paperweights can capture the essence of a moment in time," Cleveland said. "They are a true reflection of the beauty and artistry of human creativity."
