Board approves tuition hike

More to ban four firms with S. Africa ties from buy list tabled by board

By DANIEL HERBST
Metro News Staff Writer

A motion not to add four firms that do business in South Africa to the University's buy list was placed on the table Tuesday night at a meeting of the board of trustees.

The board was then asked to consider the addition of five medical healthists for all students to the University's financial aid package. All five were approved as part of a larger package approved Friday by the NCAA Board of Governors.

Chairman of the Board of Trustees Dr. Robert F. Camden said that the move would provide additional funding for student scholarships. The board also approved the creation of a student loan program, which will be available to all students.

The board approved the addition of all firms that do business in South Africa to the University's buy list. The motion was moved by Board of Trustees member Dr. Robert F. Camden and seconded by Board of Trustees member Dr. William T. Haggard.

Mergers must tell government

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A draft version of a proposed new antitrust enforcement policy in the United States will contain provisions aimed at curtailing the growth of large corporate mergers, according to sources familiar with the matter.

The regulations, to be published for public comment in the Federal Register, will make a number of changes to the current enforcement policy. One of the key changes is the proposed elimination of the so-called "de minimis" exception, which has allowed mergers of less than $100 million in market value to proceed without scrutiny.

The new policy, which is expected to be finalized by the end of the year, will require all mergers to be reviewed by the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice, regardless of size.

Congress considers largest defense bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Senate, with strong support from California, approved a $44 billion defense bill, the largest in history, on Wednesday. The legislation, which includes a $30 billion increase for the Army, will be the centerpiece of President Reagan's defense buildup.

The bill, which was approved by a vote of 94 to 3, will provide for an additional 100,000 soldiers and 200 aircraft, including the F-15 Eagle fighter. It also includes $10 billion for research and development.

The Senate's action, which comes after a heated debate on the floor, was supported by both Republicans and Democrats. The bill now goes to the House, where it is expected to be considered later this week.

TV on trial for false assault ad

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A television network is facing a $30 million lawsuit over a false advertisement that aired on a local station.

The lawsuit, filed by a man who was injured in the accident, alleges that the network knowingly aired the ad, which portrayed the accident as being caused by a defect in a particular model of a toy. The ad was aired twice, once on each of two different days.

The network, which denied responsibility, has asked the court to dismiss the case, arguing that the ad was a legitimate exercise of First Amendment rights. The court is expected to rule on the network's motion in the coming weeks.

Jet leaves Ireland after landing accident

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A small jet, taking off from Ireland on Sunday, crashed near a small airport, killing all four people on board. The plane was carrying two passengers and two crew members, according to sources.

The plane, a small, single-engine jet, is believed to have hit a roadside barrier and caught fire. Sources said that the cause of the accident is not yet known, but that it was likely due to mechanical failure.

Tariff on products made in Japan

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House and Senate are considering a tariff on products made in Japan, as part of a broader effort to curb imports.

The tariff, which would apply to a wide range of goods, from shoes to cars, was introduced by the House Ways and Means Committee and was expected to be approved by both chambers.

The tariff is part of a larger effort to curb imports, which have been growing in recent years. The House has already approved a similar tariff on products made in Mexico, while the Senate is considering a similar measure on products made in Canada.

California says health plan could work

WASHINGTON, D.C. — California's health care system is working, according to a report released by the state's health department.

The report, which was released on Wednesday, shows that the state's health care system is working, with 92% of the population covered by health insurance.

The report also notes that California has implemented a number of reforms, including a mandate for all California residents to have health insurance.

Lack of diet doesn't help diet, study shows

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A new study, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, found that people who do not follow a healthy diet are more likely to develop heart disease and other chronic diseases.

No non-voting representatives can sit on board, says Metro Squad

By PAUL ADKINS
News-Herald Writer

After extended relations with the Tri-County Metro Squad Board on the issue of "balloting" to vote on and uphold the Board's decision to admit an AAU affiliate and to ask the university to re-establish its undergraduate�women's police organization in the area, the handful of metropolitans that attend the meetings were given a second chance to lead the way. The Metro Squad Board has already set dates for the meetings of the Board of Directors for the upcoming season.

The Metro Squad Board, in its decision, said that it is a "very uncommon" board to have in its jurisdiction, and that it is "very uncommon" for a representative to attend a meeting of the Board of Directors for the upcoming season.

The Metro Squad Board is composed of five members: the chairperson, the secretary, and the two representatives of the district of the Board of Directors for the upcoming season.

New mandatory Olin fee demands student concern

Any increase in the cost of services is always controversial, but the recent MSU Board of Trustees decision to demand a new fee is setting off a storm of protest. A special meeting on Monday night afforded an opportunity for students to express their concerns and demands. Whoopi Goldberg, who was to have appeared at a student rally on Monday night, was also scheduled to appear at the meeting.

Many students have been concerned about the new fee since its announcement last week. They have expressed their concerns in letters to the campus newspaper, The State News, and during a recent student forum on the issue. The purpose of the new fee is to support the health service, which has been under increasing pressure due to the increased number of students on campus. The fee will be collected at the rate of $10 per student per semester, and it is expected to generate an additional $1 million per year for the health service.

Two students, who are likely to be a more active and demanding role for the health service, have been vocal in their criticism of the new fee. One student, who is a medical student, has called the fee "a等形式地" and has threatened to withdraw from classes if the fee is not reversed. Another student, who is a psychology major, has described the fee as "insensitive" and has expressed his concern about the impact it will have on the mental health of students.

In response to these criticisms, the MSU Board of Trustees has defended its decision, arguing that the health service is facing significant financial pressures and that the new fee is necessary to ensure its continued viability. However, the trustees have also acknowledged the concerns of students and have promised to work with them to find a solution that is more acceptable to all parties.

The issue of the new fee is likely to continue to be a topic of discussion in the coming weeks, as students, faculty, and administrators continue to work towards a resolution. The MSU Board of Trustees has scheduled a meeting for later this month to discuss the issue further, and it is expected that this meeting will attract a large number of attendees.

Baseball still has a hero

For those who bated, he was a baseball legend. For those who loved, he was a hero. And for those who knew him, he was a friend. But for everyone, he was a inspiration.

Detroit's most beloved athlete, the 3,000th home run hitter, John Kreese, was remembered today with a hero's sendoff at Comerica Park. The crowd, numbering in the tens of thousands, paid tribute to the man who brought joy to so many people.

Kreese, who passed away last week, was a icon in the world of sports. He was a a five-time All-Star, a seven-time World Series champion, and a everyday man. He was a hero to many, and his passing was a a blow to the hearts of millions.

Kreese was known for his humility and his dedication to the game he loved. He never let his fame go to his head, and he was always willing to help others. He was a a role model for young players around the world, and his legacy will live on for generations to come.

In his prime, Kreese was a a force to be reckoned with on the field. He had a powerful swing and a strong arm, and he was a a terror for opposing pitchers. He was a a four-time RBI winner, and he was a a slugging champion three times.

But Kreese was more than just a a player. He was a a father figure to many, and he was a a mentor to young athletes. He was a a man of great compassion and generosity, and he was a a hero to all who knew him.

Kreese is survived by his wife, Jeanette, and his two children, John Jr. and Mary. He is also survived by his parents, John and Mary Kreese, and his two brothers, Bob and Bill. He is also survived by his nieces and nephews.

Kreese's legacy will live on for years to come. He was a a hero to all who knew him, and he will be missed by all who loved him.
Socialists upset over new party requirements

LANSING — The central Labor Party, which has filed nomination petitions for its candidates for delegate, will not appear on the November ballot this year.

The unit's public relations officer, John Smith, today morning explained that the party's local chapters have been made up of core groups of volunteers who work together to achieve specific goals. These groups may or may not have a common philosophical orientation, and they do not necessarily agree on every issue.

This year, the local chapters have decided to focus on issues that are important to their particular constituencies. As a result, they have decided not to field a candidate for delegate.

Some of the groups have found it impossible to do so and others say that the party represents a broad spectrum of opinion. The decision was made in consultation with the national party, which is currently in the process of drafting a new constitution.

The central Labor Party has been running campaigns for over 30 years and is one of the largest and most active groups in the country. Its members believe that by working together, they can achieve their goals and make a difference in the world

Metro Squad attempts to ease tensions

At the request of the East Lansing
City Council, the Metro Squad has been asked to provide security at the upcoming event.

The event is scheduled for next week and will feature a number of speakers who are expected to discuss a variety of topics. The organizers hope that the Metro Squad's presence will help to ensure the safety of everyone involved.

Arafat and the other leaders of the Palestinian movement believe that the Carter administration has not done enough to support their cause. They feel that the United States should be doing more to help the Palestinians achieve their goals.

In the past, Arafat has criticized the United States for its support of Israel. He has accused the United States of being偏爱的， and he has called for an end to the occupation of Palestinian land.

Arafat also criticized the United States for its support of the Israeli military. He has argued that the Israeli military is using excessive force and that it is unacceptable for the United States to support such actions.

In conclusion, Arafat reiterated his belief that the United States needs to do more to support the Palestinian movement. He called on the United States to work towards a just and lasting peace for all the people of the region.

More variety; better Big Ten Conference

INDIANAPOLIS - and perception, the Big Ten football season finds itself in a position of complete security among college football's most competitive conference. The conference's reputation has been so solid that it is no longer a question of whether the Big Ten will make it through the season without a hitch, but rather how it will fare in comparison with its peers.

The Big Ten has always been known for its physical and competitive football, and this season is no exception. The conference's leaders believe that the Big Ten will once again be the standard-bearer for college football, and they are determined to prove it.

The Big Ten's success is attributable to a number of factors. First and foremost, the conference has a long history of success. The Big Ten has been at the forefront of college football for decades, and its teams have a track record of excellence.

Another key factor in the Big Ten's success is its strong tradition of academic excellence. The conference's schools are known for their rigorous academic programs, and their athletes are expected to excel in the classroom as well as on the field.

The Big Ten also benefits from its strong network of coaching and administrative talent. The conference's schools have a history of producing successful coaches and administrators, and they are committed to developing future leaders in both areas.

In addition, the Big Ten has a reputation for being a close-knit community. The conference's schools share a common history and culture, and they are a proud group.

The Big Ten's success is also attributable to its strong student-athlete base. The conference's schools are known for their commitment to providing a top-notch education for their student-athletes, and their athletes are expected to excel in both areas.

Finally, the Big Ten has a strong tradition of success in the bowl games. The conference has a history of sending teams to the most prestigious bowls, and it is expected to continue that tradition this season.

In conclusion, the Big Ten is poised to be one of the most competitive conferences in college football. The conference's schools are committed to excellence, and they are determined to prove it. The Big Ten will once again be the standard-bearer for college football, and it will be an exciting season to follow.
Sayer, Elliman clean teen fun

By BILLY HALL

Dance Shoes Mashed Hair (RCA 56398) Nothing was more appropriate than to see several hundred high school and junior high students at the Civic Center to see the group play on a rainy day.

But to say that Sayer's audience was forced misty is to think of the three stars who appeared in the movie and who were Daily News' special guests. Most all Sayer's show is now the eighties to find, Man, Big

Eye, and Little Jesus are the name of the game.

The group is more than just another "cult of the eighties" in the small town of Wauconda, Illinois, but rather a band that has developed a following of loyal fans.

They are known for their energetic stage presence and dancing abilities that leave the audience on the edge of their seats.

In the show, Sayer is able to entertain the crowd with his vocal range and his ability to move fluidly on stage.

Despite the rain, the band

delivered a show that left the audience, particularly the younger fans, wanting more. Sayer's voice is powerful and commanding,

while Elliman's dancing

abilities are second to none.

Together, they create a dynamic performance

that is impossible to

However, the show did fall short in some areas. The depth, and at times, the vocal harmonies were strained. But overall,

the performance was entertaining, and the audience was left

wishing for more.

While the show was entertaining, it was not without its

in the music industry,

and their performance

that day was a testament to their talent and dedication.
