

'U' grad arraigned for rape, stabbing

By PAULA DYKE
State News Staff Writer

An MSU criminal justice graduate was arraigned Thursday in Eaton County following his arrest Wednesday in connection with the rape of a 15-year-old girl and the stabbing of the girl's younger brother.

Donald Gene Miller, 23, faced charges of assault with intent to murder, first-degree criminal sexual conduct and breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony. He was held on $100,000 bond.

The victims, a 15-year-old Delta Township girl and her 13-year-old brother, were taken to St. Lawrence Hospital in Lansing.

The girl was listed in good condition Thursday, while her brother's condition remained "serious but stable."

Police said Miller of 530 Gainsborough Drive in East Lansing, was engaged to Martha Sue Young, the MSU woman who was reported missing on New Year's Day 1977 and was never found.

In questioning following Young's disappearance, Miller said he had taken his fiancée out to celebrate the holiday and returned her to her home at 1978 N. Harrison Road around 2 a.m.

Young's mother contacted police when she found no traces of her daughter the following morning.

Young's clothes and identification were found 10 months later in a Bath Township swamp.

Police were alerted to the rape incident Wednesday by two men driving by the victims' home in separate vehicles around 3 p.m. Ken Dorin, chief of the Delta Township Fire Department, and James Regan, a local resident, both spotted the girl victim fleeing her home, nude except for a necktie.

Dorin picked up the sobbing girl, who told him about the incident and said "the man" was still in her house trying to kill her brother.

Regan said when he saw the girl, he pulled his pickup truck into the girl's driveway, blocking a brown 1973 Oldsmobile later identified as belonging to Miller.

Regan said as he approached the house, a man came out, jumped into the Oldsmobile and locked all the doors.

According to the two witnesses, the man then backed up into Regan's truck and spun across the front lawn onto the road in a frantic attempt to escape.

At that point Dorin arrived at the house with the girl and radioed the car's description and license number to East Lansing police, who arrested Miller less than two hours later at his current girlfriend's residence in Meridian township.

Police later learned the attacker had entered the home after asking to use the telephone when the children's parents were not at home.

Carter kills arms bill; cites fund distribution

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter on Thursday vetoed a $37 billion military weapons authorization bill, which includes $2 billion for a new nuclear aircraft carrier, because it "cuts into the muscle of our military defense."

The president told a nationally televised news conference that the money authorized by the bill should be redistributed to give greater emphasis to military readiness.

"This is not a question of money," Carter said. "The Congress reduced only slightly the amount of money I recommended. It's a question of how that money is going to be spent."

Carter said that as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, he is obligated to see that American troops are combat ready and properly equipped.

"The nation's interest and my oath of office require me to veto this bill," the president said.

Over Carter's objections, Congress voted to authorize $2 billion for a new aircraft carrier. But Carter said, "we cannot afford to waste our defense dollars."

Carter's public announcement of the veto followed a White House session earlier in the day in which he notified congressional leaders of his intentions.

Pentagon officials said they could recall no previous presidential veto of a weapons authorization bill.

These officials said the president would prefer to spend $1 billion to improve Army and Air Force weapons and equipment used in connection with North Atlantic Treaty Organization activities, $500 million for spare parts for Air Force and Navy aircraft and Navy ships, and the rest for research and development.

Carter had until midnight Thursday to sign the bill, veto it, or let it become law without his signature. The veto would be Carter's fifth since taking office nearly 19 months ago.

Balloon voyage ends in French wheat field

By MARCUS ELIASON

MISEREY, France (AP) — Three jubilant Americans eased the Double Eagle II into a wheat field and a riotous welcome 600 yards from this farming hamlet 80 miles west of Paris on Thursday evening, completing the first trans-Atlantic balloon crossing.

French and American flags flapped from the gondola of the 112-foot-high balloon, which had wilted to the shape of a silver exclamation point but stood upright against the fading evening light.

Cheering crowds abandoned their cars and rushed to the balloon to congratulate the occupants — Maxie Anderson, 44, Ben Abruzzo, 48, and Larry Newman, 31, all of Albuquerque, N.M. — as they jumped from the red-and-yellow gondola to secure the balloon in a stiff evening breeze.

Two bottles of champagne, one from the balloon, were opened and sprayed on the cheering crowd.

U.S. summit failure may lead to 'conflict'

By MAUREEN SANTINI

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said Thursday a rapid deterioration in the search for Middle East peace left him no choice but to convene an admittedly-risky summit at Camp David. But he conceded that failure "could result in a new conflict" in the area.

"It is a very high-risk thing for me politically," the president said in his first public comment on the summit scheduled to begin at the presidential retreat on Sept. 5. At a nationally televised news conference, Carter also took a tough line with Congress, announcing a veto of a $37 billion military authorization bill, and hinting of several more vetoes to come.

Carter said he was "absolutely convinced" both Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat want peace. Both men swiftly accepted invitations to the summit, showing their good faith, the president added.

"We do not have any assurance of success," Carter said.

NO THREAT OF VETO

Tax cut favors rich—Blumenthal

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said Thursday the $16.3 billion tax-cut bill passed by the House is tilted much too far toward upper-income Americans, but he stopped short of threatening a presidential veto.

Instead, Blumenthal told the Senate Finance Committee that the Carter administration stands ready to help the Senate produce a bill that is acceptable to Congress and the president.

Blumenthal said the House-passed bill is about right in size. Aware of the panel's record of favoring larger tax cuts than the House, Blumenthal pleaded, "I hope the committee will not let its enthusiasm run away and report out a bill that is too big. We really can't afford a (bigger) deficit."

The $16.3 billion bill passed by the House is, by the administration's reckoning, only $1.2 billion below the newly re-estimated cost of what the president proposed.

The House measure includes $10.4 billion in relief to individuals, $4 billion for business tax cuts and $1.9 billion reduction in the tax on capital gains, which are profits from the sale of assets owned a year or longer.

In its treatment of individuals, Blumenthal said, the House bill violates the principle that taxes should be based on ability to pay.

"The share of the total individual tax cut going to persons below $20,000 annual income should be increased from 25 percent to about 40 percent while the share for those above $50,000 should be reduced from 24 percent to about 10 or 15 percent," Blumenthal said.

President Carter is sticking with his recommendation that the basic part of the individual tax cut include elimination of the present $750-per-person exemption and the $35-per-person tax credit and replacing them with a credit of $240 per person.

This concept, which was rejected by the House, would tilt more tax cuts toward middle- and low-income persons. A credit, which is subtracted from taxes owed, is worth the same dollar amount to everyone, regardless of income. An exemption, subtracted from income subject to taxation, is more beneficial to upper-income persons than to those at the lower end of the scale.

As to Carter's flexibility on the matter, Blumenthal said, "The president has indicated he will look at the final bill and in light of that, determine his reaction to it."

Several committee aides commented on the conciliatory tone of Blumenthal's testimony. They contrasted it with the administration's refusal until the last minute to talk compromise when the

Croatians seize consulate

BULLETIN: At presstime, it was reported that the Croatians had surrendered in Chicago. Details were not available.

By MARC WILSON

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Croatians nationalists armed with pistols and bombs seized eight hostages at the West German Consulate on Thursday and demanded freedom for a militant countryman imprisoned in West Germany. Two hostages were quickly released.

The terrorists said that if their demands were denied, they could detonate a bomb powerful enough to destroy five stories of the downtown building, which houses the consulate on the 10th floor.

The gunmen, described by police as "Croatian terrorists" from the Chicago area, negotiated with consulate officials and authorities while placing a call to the prison in Cologne, West Germany, where Stjepan Bilandzic was being held awaiting possible extradition to Yugoslavia.

In Bonn, a West German Foreign Office crisis staff met to consider the terrorists' demands. A spokesman for Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, vacationing near Hamburg, said he was being kept informed.

"They are polite but strict and very stern," said Vice Consul Werner Icksadt, a hostage who was interviewed by telephone. "If they don't release him they say they are prepared to stay for days and weeks and months."

The consulate switchboard operator, Pia Ortlep, said she was allowed to stay in a hallway to make the call to Germany, where a court ruled last week that Bilandzic could be extradited to Yugoslavia.

In exchange, Yugoslavia would extradite to Germany four terrorist suspects, but the German government said it had made no final decision on the swap.

Ortlep said the terrorists, men between 30 and 40 years old, had hurt no one but threatened to.

"It doesn't look good," she said during one of several brief telephone interviews. "They're threatening to shoot everyone. I could leave, but they threatened to shoot someone if I did. I'm trying to be brave, but it's hard."

The gunmen invaded the consulate at midmorning. Two hostages were quickly released, including the daughter of Consul General Egon Raster. Six of the remaining seven were being kept in a corner office.

Consulate receptionist Renate Woitton, who was not among the hostages, told staffers in the German National Tourist Office that a man in a brown suit arrived at the consulate and asked to see the vice consul. When he came out of his office, the man pulled a gun from a briefcase.

Police cordoned off the area around the building, located on Michigan Avenue in the city's downtown section and the site of a peaceful demonstration by Croatians on Monday. The scene was witnessed by hundreds of people, many of them in line to see an exhibit of artifacts from Pompeii on display at the Art Institute of Chicago across the street.

Fritz Ziefer, press officer for the German Embassy in Washington, D.C., said Bilandzic, held in Cologne, West Germany, was jailed for "explosive attempts in Yugoslavia and attacks on Yugoslavian citizens living in Germany."

Raster said Bilandzic, 39, was convicted of attempting to murder a Yugoslav official in Dusseldorf, Germany. Raster said a death sentence issued for Bilandzic in Yugoslavia apparently had been commuted to life in prison.

Various Croatian nationalists, who seek separation of their region from Yugoslavia, have demonstrated in support of Bilandzic.

Soviet asylums used for punishment

MOSCOW (AP) — A Moscow psychiatrist said Wednesday that people without mental problems are hospitalized in Soviet asylums as a form of punishment. He was the first medical man to confirm to Western correspondents the accusations brought by dissidents.

At a news conference held by a dissident group, Dr. Alexander Voloshanovich said he decided to speak out because of the conviction Tuesday of Alexander Podrabinek, a young dissident who gathered evidence about the situation in psychiatric hospitals.

West alleging widespread misuse of psychiatric treatment, was convicted of "anti-Soviet slander" and given five years of Siberian exile.

The dissidents said he rejected the help of his Soviet lawyer, refused to take part in the court proceedings, lit a cigarette in violation of court rules and was finally ejected when he began whistling the foreador music from Bizet's opera "Carmen."

Voloshanovich, 37, is on the staff of Moscow's Dolgoprudny psychiatric hospital. He said he checked 27 people who told Podrabinek's group they were wrongly committed for treatment, and "Among those I examined I found not a single case of definite mental illness."

Zaire to receive $26 million from U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, responding to recent moves by Zaire to curb corruption and human rights abuses, has decided to release $26 million in food and other assistance to that country, the State Department said Wednesday.

normalization of relations and reportedly have taken steps to ensure there will be no further cross-border raids from either country.

Department spokesperson Hodding Carter said the decision to release the previously withheld aid also was linked to successful efforts by Zaire and Angola to end their long-standing border tensions.

Carter said Zairean President Mobutu Sese Seko, responding to heavy western pressure, also has agreed to the placement of officials from the International Monetary Fund in the Central Bank and the Finance Ministry to monitor the government's financial transactions.

The May border crossing into Zaire by Katangan rebels based in Angola, where more than 20,000 Cuban troops are stationed, produced a minor East-West confrontation.

Carter also noted that Mobutu has granted amnesty to a number of political prisoners.

He said future assistance from the United States and other donor countries will be linked to additional reforms by Zaire in the economic, political and military fields.

Only Tuesday, Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, alluding to the support of the United States, France and other western countries in behalf of Zaire last May, blamed the West for "mounting tensions" in Africa.

The $26 million had been appropriated months ago but was held up pending adoption of measures the United States considered necessary to ensure Zairean recovery from the May attack, which disrupted production at a major copper mine, Carter said.

In recent weeks, however, Zaire and Angola have reached agreement on a

"You almost are in the position of being like Caesar's wife," Carter told employees of the troubled intelligence agency that his administration has been trying to rebuild.

CIA spokesperson Herbert Hetu said "none of these people were able to be outside or in the hallway. They're all undercover."

The president flew by helicopter from the White House to the sprawling, campus-like Central Intelligence Agency offices in Langley, Va., about 10 miles from Washington for the pep talks.

Carter, addressing the several hundred agency employees, said:

Ray: location evidence 'wrong'

Three U.S. marshalls wait close at hand to escort James Earl Ray from the hearing room where he is testifying before the House Assassinations Committee. Ray is talking to his attorney, Mark Lane.

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Earl Ray told House investigators Thursday he would take the blame for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassination "right here on television" if they could prove he was in Atlanta three days before the slaying.

The House assassinations committee displayed evidence that he was, but Ray countered by saying the committee's evidence was wrong. In response to the presentation, Ray suggested that the evidence "might be a mistake... or some kind of forged document."

The exchange came as lawmakers zeroed in on the convicted assassin's oft-told story that he was framed for King's slaying by a man identified only as Raoul.

The committee suggested that Ray, who is serving a 99-year prison term for King's assassination, had been stalking King. The committee produced evidence that Ray was in Selma, Ala., the day after King visited there two weeks before the assassination. And it submitted evidence purporting to show that Ray was in King's home city of Atlanta just days before the murder.

"I know I didn't return to Atlanta," Ray swore under oath, "and if I did, well, I'll just take responsibility for the King case right here on TV." Ray, who pleaded guilty to killing King but recanted three days later, was referring to live television coverage of the hearings.

The committee then displayed a huge blowup of two laundry tickets showing Eric S. Galt, the alias Ray agreed he was using, put clothes in the Piedmont Laundry in Atlanta on April 1.

And then it produced a transcript quoting Jimmy Delton Garner, operator of Garner's Rooming House in Atlanta, as saying Ray was there the day before and paid him $10.50 rent.

"Well, he's in error," Ray told Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio. Ray said he is sure he deposited the laundry on March 25 and that the laundry slip is either forged or the clerk wrote down the wrong date.

Earlier, the committee had produced a motel receipt showing Ray stayed in Selma, Ala., March 22, the day after King was there.

Ray said he simply got on the wrong road while driving from New Orleans to Atlanta "and I wound up in Selma so I stayed there."

Ray said he did not know Atlanta was King's home city, and said he was going there because Raoul had summoned him to begin a gun-smuggling operation to Mexico.

He said he and Raoul then went to Birmingham on March 29 to buy a rifle that Ray said he was told was to be a sample for the Mexico customers but which is identified as the gun that killed King.

ISRAEL CONTINUES SETTLEMENT

New outposts dedicated

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel dedicated two Jewish outposts on the West Bank of the Jordan River on Thursday, pushing ahead with its controversial plan to settle occupied Arab lands whether the Arabs agree or not. Israeli officials and the settlers, hoping to avoid repetition of past criticism from Washington and the Arab world, emphasized that the settlements had been approved by the government in January and, strictly speaking, were not new.

Previous announcements of new Jewish enclaves on land captured from the Arabs in the 1967 Mideast War have drawn sharp denunciations from Arab capitals and statements from Washington that they were an "obstacle to peace."

"I hope people will understand that this is not politically important, because the government decided long ago to settle here," an 18-year-old settler, who identified herself only as Rivka, told a reporter at Tapuah, one of the West Bank outposts.

"This is not a move against the Camp David summit. We are moving in now because houses weren't ready for us before," said another woman, who declined to be identified. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat will meet with President Carter at his Camp David, Md., retreat Sept. 5 in an effort to revive the stalled peace talks.

Few other settlers at Tapuah would speak to reporters, and the gate at Tel Haris, the second village, was strung with barbed wire to keep away outsiders.

The Mideast peace plan proposed by Begin's new government includes a demand that Jewish settlements remain in the West Bank. Egypt has rejected the plan but Jerusalem officials say it will be Israel's starting point in the Camp David negotiations.

Times reporter Farber to surrender manuscript

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber, in jail for contempt of court, said Wednesday he will surrender his draft manuscript on the Dr. X murder case to trial Judge William J. Arnold.

Farber's attorney, Eugene R. Scheiman, said the reporter was forced to turn over the manuscript "by the obfuscation of the issues in this case." The release of the manuscript does not constitute a waiver of Farber's right to protect his files on the case, Scheiman said.

Arnold scheduled a hearing Friday at which he will decide whether to accept the manuscript. He refused to comment on Farber's offer.

"I showed no one — no one — my confidential notes," Farber said in a statement to Arnold. "I make no apologies for my stories. I make no apologies for later entering into a contract to write a book whose only function can be to inform the public. I make no apologies for being paid for my honest labor."

Farber's book contract with Doubleday on his investigation of Dr. Mario Jaselevich drew criticism last week from a federal judge who refused to release Farber on bail pending an appeal of his contempt conviction.

U.S. District Court Judge Frederick B. Lacey said Farber was motivated by greed and wanted to see Jaselevich convicted. Jaselevich, who was referred to as Dr. X in Farber's early accounts on the case, is accused of murdering three hospital patients with the muscle relaxant curare 12 years ago.

"I had no plans to write a book when I conducted my inquiry into the Riverdel (Hospital) deaths for 'The Times,'" Farber said. "I later decided to write one. I respectfully submit that the book remains irrelevant to any question of the guilt or innocence of Dr. Jaselevich."

Senate ERA foes ready to filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, said Wednesday he has 13 or 14 senators lined up to assist him in a filibuster against a proposed extension of time for ratifying the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

The time extension, setting June 30, 1982, as the deadline, passed the House Tuesday.

Garn said he believes a Senate vote will not take place until next month at the earliest.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said he was not sure the Senate would debate the issue this year.

"As of now, I just can't say," Byrd told reporters. "We have so many things to get done in so short a time."

Congress is aiming at an Oct. 7 adjournment. Garn said Sens. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and 11 or 12 senators whom he did not identify have offered to take part in the filibuster.

draw their approval and a rule requiring that the extension be passed by a two-thirds majority.

Both of these proposals were rejected by the House.

Garn said he had "no idea" how many senators were prepared to vote for the extension or how successful efforts to cut off debate would be. It takes 60 votes to stop a filibuster.

Garn, an opponent of the ERA, said granting additional time for ratification without allowing states that have ratified to change their minds was "like prolonging a basketball game in order to increase the chances of the side that's losing."

"While I personally would prefer to avoid a filibuster, I cannot, in good conscience, allow the Senate to act in a way which will damage the integrity of the constitutional amending process," he said.

The ERA, which would prohibit discrimination based on a person's sex, must be ratified by 38 state legislatures by next March 22, unless Congress approves an extension, to become part of the Constitution.

Public criticizes nuclear power

By PAUL COX
State News Staff Writer
Leaders of a statewide coalition of concerned citizens groups met with the Public Service Commission Thursday to criticize nuclear power and a lack of citizen input in energy decisions.

Mary Sinclair of the Great Lakes Energy Alliance presented the group's concerns to Daniel J. Demlow, chairperson of the PSC. She added that the alliance is primarily concerned with the big utilities building uneconomical nuclear plants, leading to increased energy rates to consumers.

The alliance has asked for immediate action on a number of proposals or it will organize a bill-payment withholding campaign, Sinclair said. She added that she could not say exactly how many people would withhold payments but cited growing interest in such a move from many groups both in and out of the state. Sinclair said 50,000 persons withheld payment in a similar protest in New Jersey.

Steve Freedkin, acting executive director of the Public Interest Group in Michigan, said a partial withholding of payments is currently thought to be legal under the PSC's customer bill of rights. He added that, under the bill, when there is a dispute, payment withholding is permissible until a hearing can be held to settle the dispute.

The alliance's nuclear concerns focus on Consumers Power's Midland nuclear generation plant and Detroit Edison's Fermi II nuclear plant, which are both under construction, Sinclair said.

She cited a Nuclear Regulatory Commission report that stated an alternative Midland coal burning plant could have produced energy at a cost one-third less than the nuclear plant now being constructed.

Helen LeTarte of the alliance charged a U.S. federal loan program which encourages low-income community utilities to buy nuclear energy as being an effort "to bail out the nationwide bankrupt nuclear industry." She said the U.S. department of Agriculture's Rural Electrification Administration is loaning money to northern Michigan's rural electrical cooperatives if they will invest in the Midland or Fermi II plants.

She added that coercive sales techniques that led northern co-operatives to buy 20 percent of the Midland plant will unnecessarily increase electric rates.

Sinclair said, at the meeting, the PSC did not agree to assist the alliance sending a letter outlining the "hidden costs" of nuclear energy to all utilities and energy cooperatives in Michigan. These hidden costs include soaring nuclear fuel prices, unknown nuclear waste costs, unknown plant disposal costs and unknown future nuclear regulatory changes, Sinclair said.

The alliance also made the following requests:
*give the PSC overview authority on energy decisions before a facility is built by a utility. Unless the facility can be

NATIVE AMERICAN STUDENTS WILL BENEFIT

Lansing schools granted $48,018

By JOANNE LANE
State News Staff Writer
The Lansing School District has been awarded $48,018 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to help educate the city's 383 native American students in their tribal culture, history and heritage.

The money is part of $2.6 million dollars that was awarded to Michigan school districts to educate 20,706 native American children.

The Lansing district, which has received Indian Education Funds from HEW since 1973, will begin using the funds when the new fiscal year starts in September.

Barbara Katz, coordinator of the Indian education program for the Lansing School District, said, "The money will be used to hire two new staff members. We will now have a total of six native American teachers working in the program."

Katz said that the program has developed over the years since the first funds were allocated in 1973. The main goal of the program is to assist Indian children in having a positive school experience.

She said that the program includes the tutoring and counseling of the students in their studies and also some cultural awareness. "Sometimes during or after school hours the instructors will hold classes in Indian art, dancing or language," Katz said.

The program also emphasizes strong parental involvement, Katz said, and is closely monitored by a parent committee so that all proposals or changes in the budget are first looked over and approved by the parent committee.

"Since we have such a small ratio of teachers to students we try to focus on the children with the greatest needs," Katz said.

Lester Gemmill, coordinator of Indian education programs for the Michigan Department of Education, said, "This year's grant totaled $2.6 million, which was slightly more than last year."

He said this year's grant will serve 120 school districts, seven more than last year and 20,706 students, approximately 1,600 more than in the 1977-78 school year.

The largest two grants will go to the Detroit and Wayne-Westland school districts with each receiving $108,000. Together the two districts enroll some 1,720 Indian children.

Michigan was one of 42 states to receive HEW funds. Oklahoma, Alaska, Arizona and California are the only states which received more money than Michigan.

In all, the HEW program provides $35.3 million for nearly 325,000 Indian children in 42 states. Oklahoma, which has the largest Indian population in the nation, will get more than $6.3 million going to 257 school districts.

Eighty percent of the Indian children in the country, plus Eskimos in Alaska, will benefit from the grants during the coming school year, HEW said.

Phone info plan unveiled

Michigan Bell Telephone Company has asked the Public Service Commission to approve a new method of getting customers to pay for Directory Assistance.

The plan would provide a savings for customers who make 10 calls or less a month to Directory Assistance, a Bell spokesperson said.

Donald M. Lambe, Michigan Bell assistant vice president, said nine out of 10 customers would save money under the new plan.

Customers making five or less Directory Assistance calls a month would save 53 cents over the present system, or $6.36 per year, the spokesperson said.

After five calls, there would be a charge of 10 cents per call up to the tenth Directory Assistance call. All calls after that would cost the customer 20 cents each.

Handicappers who require the services of Directory Assistance would be exempt from the proposed charges, the spokesperson said.

The purpose of the system, Lambe said, is "to reduce and redistribute the costs of Directory Assistance so that all customers save money except the relatively few who make heavy use of the service."

A statewide survey conducted earlier this year by Market Opinion Research, Inc. showed customers preferred a plan of basing Directory Assistance charges on usage rather than the current spreading of costs by a six to one margin.

Give the voters something to vote on in November

The Dayton Hudson mall controversy is building in suspense like a grade "B" thriller, complete with plans and counter plans, accusations and counter accusations. On one side is a slick multi-million-dollar corporation that has undoubtedly seen the likes of East Lansing many times before; on the other, concerned citizens who may not have the organization and savvy of their opponents; but what they lack in sophistication, they more than make up for in dedication.

The Citizens for a Livable Community do not want the Dayton Hudson mall in East Lansing. They have nothing personally against Dayton Hudson per se, they do not want to see anything built on the north side of East Lansing. They cite noble reasons for their displeasure — wasted energy, noise, air pollution and urban sprawl.

The Citizens for a Livable Community also have on their side a rather unusual partner, the East Lansing business district. Shopowners on Grand River are justifiably worried about the amount of business that will be taken away by a new mall. These people bring in experts to prove the mall is being built in an area where it is not needed and then rely on the steam of the CLC to carry through their message. In the confusion of two parties being opposed to the mall, some things are going reported as fact that simply are not. Unfortunately, the CLC has to live with this disparity by virtue of the fact they are the most vocal of the two groups who are opposed. East Lansing is moving northward. Even a cursory glance at a map or one quick drive northward on either Abbot or Harrison roads will bear this out. If a mall has to be built, it does make sense to build it where Dayton Hudson has proposed. The area is wasteland. Small animals are virtually non-existent in the area. Vegetation is scrub at best.

But does the mall need to be built at all? Probably not. But East Lansing is too crowded. There are too many cars parking in too few spots.

Congestion in East Lansing is a problem. It will not go away in any simple solution like making parking meters cost a dollar instead of a quarter. And if they did build the mall, you can be sure that the major Grand River stores will have a mall store also. And what student would walk all the way to Lake Lansing Road to buy a textbook? As for convenience, all those people who have bought new homes on the north side of Saginaw Road would much rather drive north to a new mall than drive south to the squalor of East Lansing.

The Dayton Hudson Corporation-Citizens for a Livable Community controversy is not as cut-and-dried an issue as all the parties would like us to believe. No grade "B" thrillers ever are. But the least the two parties could do would be to get their act together enough so we can once and for all go to the polls in November and vote one way or another.

The 'Cedars' mall as proposed by the Dayton Hudson Corporation

If you build, build it right

Back in 1972 when ecology and environmental awareness were still new, wonderful concepts, the cross-campus highway was rejected by the MSU Board of Trustees. Environmentalists claimed the victory, but the trustees remained silent. Maybe the environmentalists actually did win one. But this time around, a new argument will have to be used since all the prospective plans will take into account such things as air and noise pollution, convenience of exits and entrances and even the esthetic qualities of the landscape.

In effect, the arguments that doomed the plan in '72 are being answered before anyone ever agrees to go ahead with the highway. What could some of the new arguments be? The most selfish would go along the lines of: "Why should we (MSU) have to pay for the traffic congestion problems plaguing East Lansing? The state told the city they should widen Grand River Avenue, so why does the city have to be so hardheaded and refuse?"

The city does not want to widen Grand River Avenue because they are afraid students will have problems crossing a speeding three-lane highway to get over to the shops on the other side. The city is concerned about our welfare.

The city has also had to pay the price of our phenomenal growth. In the last two or three decades, MSU — under the presidency of John Hannah — witnessed phenomenal growth. Buildings and people popped up like mushrooms after a spring rain. East Lansing got the good and the bad end of that deal. On one hand, shop-owners and storekeepers had a field day with all the new customers. On the other, East Lansing's tax base did not increase proportionally and as a result, city planning — new roads, alternate transportation, parking areas and the like — was left behind in the growth.

The point is, it seems as if MSU is going to host the highway whether we, environmentalists, the Citizens for a Livable Community or anyone else likes the idea or not. Our recourse then — those people who really aren't too keen on the idea of the highway in the first place — is to monitor the highway every step of the way.

If it is going to be built, don't build it in a place that will effectively divide the campus in half — get it far enough south that nobody will notice it — like around Mt. Hope or Jolly roads. Make sure no noise will filter into the campus. Make sure no exhaust fumes will hover over Beaumont Tower. Make sure we, the people of MSU, know exactly what is planned and how it will affect us.

The road is coming, that much seems sure. But if it has to cut through our campus, let us be sure that it will be our road.

'Dirty' words don't need to be censored

Most of the words in our language commonly referred to as "dirty" are actually not dirty at all, and quite harmless. Of course, it's going to be difficult for me to explain my point in this column, since I am prohibited from using many of the words I've just referred to.

Take for instance, the four-letter word which refers to, among other things, the product of defecation. I can't use it here. Why? Is its meaning "dirty?" No, it's all right for me to use the words "feces" and "crap," both of which together cover its meaning quite sufficiently. So if the meaning is not what some people consider "dirty," what then? The number of letters? No, "crap" has four letters also.

OK, then what? The particular letters involved? Well, I know of nobody who would insist that the letters "t," "i," "h," and "s" are "dirty" when set next to each other... aha, unless they are arranged in a particular order. This order of letters is as crucial as the correct proportions of compounds in a lab experiment. The Almighty hath decreed that the concept of defecation or "crap" must not be expressed by those letters in that order, else the speaker be guilty of invoking divine wrath. I think this is sort of like numerology.

I'm sick of this silliness, actually. It seems that the real reason these words are still considered taboo in 1978, a time when we are supposedly "tolerant," is that a tiny band of editors, publishers, broadcasters and — to a lesser extent — advertisers, are just chickens-t. These are the people who help keep our language under control and out of the gutter. E.g. an editor refuses to let a word get through because he knows that if he does, he will invoke the publisher's wrath and maybe lose his job. The publisher, in turn won't let the word through because he's worried the advertisers in the paper will start howling and withdraw their all-important monies. However, the advertisers aren't howling because they're morally outraged, either; they're just afraid their potential customers will be offended. This whole system plays to a lot of totally-irrational and pointless pseudo-moral prejudices.

And isn't it strange that the federal government should first declare the use of George Carlin's "Seven Dirty Words" on television and radio unlawful, but then allow Georgia gubernatorial candidate J.B. Stoner to use the word "nigger" contemptuously in his political ads on TV? Such logic is absurd!

Not that Stoner should have been censored. Allowing him to use the word "nigger" brought his racism right up front where people could note it and be aware. The point is that no words should be censored in this country. So-called "dirty words," which can readily be found in an unabridged dictionary, ought to be recognized as the legitimate and expressive words they are; and those people who are offended by them should recognize the moral right of others to express themselves in whatever way they see most fit.

VIEWPOINT: FAMILIES

Have a cigar—it's a baby!

By BRUCE GUTHRIE

Have a cigar! It's a boy! They never said why they got married. If asked, they would probably have answered that they loved each other. They never considered the problems. And they never considered the effect these problems would have on the children.

John had a violent character. His parents had been none too tender in their dealings with him. These lessons remained when he married.

They could afford only two children but the Catholic background was there and four children came. There were financial difficulties. And emotional upsets. The lessons of childhood: John became a wife-beater and child abuser. The law until just recently said that whatever happened within a family was legal. John could not be touched by the law for doing anything to his family. The police spent their time dealing with illegal assaults.

The children grew up in a world where their father would say he loved them at one moment and beat them the next. Love and pain were synonymous. The relationships the children formed with other people were very loose so there would always be a chance to escape.

There was no escape for their mother. The church had taught her that marriage was a sacred institution. It's so easy for a bachelor priest to condemn two people together for life. So the woman watched her children growing up scared. The beatings continued. And she was powerless; marriage meant forever.

Luckily, John shortened forever. He stopped by the side of the road in his truck one night and took out the bottles again. The alcohol flowed nimbly to his brain and put him to sleep gently. He never woke up. The truck was left running. Carbon monoxide.

And the children grew up forever aware of the lessons their father taught them. It was noticed that the only son had taken to slapping up his girlfriend. The daughters either avoided relationships with men altogether or had many fleeting ones. The mother watched them quietly. She began to wonder why she had stayed married all these years to that man.

"DEAR PRESIDENT CARTER, I THOUGHT YOU WOULD BE PLEASED TO HEAR THAT HARRY AND I ARE NO LONGER LIVING IN SIN WHEN I MENTIONED YOUR VIEWS ON THE SUBJECT, HARRY TOOK OFF."

Have a cigar! It's a girl! Ed and Ruth were married a long time. They too once loved each other. A long time ago.

They had one son. It was said they tried sex once and didn't like it. He grew up in a house where he never heard his parents say they loved each other. They never mentioned sex either. It was a dog-eat-dog world, they'd say. Not enough time to love someone.

And he went to college with these lessons. He met a woman there. Had an affair and got married. They too loved each other.

She was an independent woman who needed to have something besides marriage and kids. He was a traditional man who felt that women should stay home in the kitchen, washing room, and bedroom. Never loose enough to let go in bed, she said he couldn't keep the home fires burning and she had seven affairs. That kept her happy for awhile until the last affair broke up and she tried to commit suicide. Dozens of little colored pills. He came home early that day and had her stomach pumped out. They got divorced.

The children learned the lessons of their parents. Some became like their mother. Others like their father. And some day they'll marry, have kids, and the cycle will find a new generation to destroy.

Have a cigar! It's a person! Leslie and Gilbert Brown couldn't have children naturally. They were upset. In this society, people are judged as full human beings only once they produce children to carry their genes into the future. Genetic ownership. The rest of human effort is secondary to having children.

The Browns are now the proud "owners" of the first human test-tube baby. Neighbors were happy that the Browns at last had children. The press hailed the event as a new hope for "barren" women. The Catholic theologians said the doctors had tampered with God's work. No one questioned whether the Browns had a right to have children at all. It was assumed that the Browns, like everyone, did.

No one asked whether the Browns were people who could give the child all the necessary love and patience needed to raise it properly. No one asked whether the Browns were open enough with each other to allow the child to strive for such a virtue. No one asked whether the Browns would be teaching the child the necessary basics of logic to allow it to reasonably judge the moral and ethical values it will be spoon-fed in its life by parents, teachers, clergy, the media and advertising. No one even asked what effect being a first would have on the baby.

No one asked these questions of the Browns because no one asked them of anyone else. The wife-beaters and child-abusers produce their own. The aloof and lonely generate more. The miserable create misery. And no one questions their right to do so. Or even the right of the child not to be born into such a situation. Marriage and children are sacred. Have a cigar.

SN reviewer gets egg in his face

My girlfriend and I came in a bit late for the Pablo Cruise concert last Thursday night at the MSU Auditorium. After reading Paul Cox's review of the concert in the State News, we were disheartened to learn that we missed undoubtedly the high point of the whole evening — Springer Mountain, the warm-up band, "sucking eggs". (We're a couple of old egg lovers from way back.)

Too bad Mr. Cox didn't elaborate more, or even offer some constructive criticism of the band. Maybe he was too busy laying an egg.

Test-tube pheasants? Not exactly...

The Department of Poultry Science is conducting experiments on artificial insemination for the purpose of increasing egg production in breeder pheasants.

The experiments, being done on the MSU poultry research farm on Jolly Road, are being conducted by Rich Reynnells and Glenn Carpenter, graduate students in agriculture.

Carpenter is doing pedigree work and Reynnells is testing the effect of the calcium phosphorus ratio on the hatchability and fertility of cage-laying pheasants.

Partially funded by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the tests on artificial insemination have been taking place since 1975 because natural and mass mating methods were inefficient, said Reynnells.

Poultry Science Department Professor Cal Flegal, who is in charge of the project, explained that about eight years ago the DNR was getting pressure from the state Legislature about the declining pheasant population. After some discussion, it was decided that the DNR would begin a project to raise the pheasant population. MSU was asked to handle the experiment, Flegal said.

"We need to know the families and keep them separate to increase egg production. We have to keep records. We've tried individual and multi mating (one rooster bred with many hens) with poor results. Results were also poor with natural methods, about 25 to 30 percent hatching of eggs. We have doubled or more that figure with artificial insemination," said Flegal.

To start the experiments, Reynnells explained, the rooster pheasant is ejaculated and the semen collected into a vial. The semen is then aspirated from the vial into a glass straw assembly by Carpenter or Reynnells and immediately blown into the female.

"The difference between this and nature," Reynnells said, "is you are putting in a known amount of sperm. This increases the probability of fertilization of the egg, unless you have a higher ratio of males to females."

This mass mating system covers up for one sterile male mating with several females, Reynnells added.

The experiments are being conducted on dairy cattle and turkeys.

"There are no requirements for breeding pheasants. Game farms would like to have a known number (of poultry). The data is inadequate on breeding pheasants," said Reynnells.

Carpenter keeps intense records on the females and males he mates. Reynnells, using pooled semen, keeps complete records of females only.

Sun Ra heads new jazz releases

By DAVE DIMARTINO
State News Reviewer

Three new jazz albums have recently been released, and though none really bear any great relationship with the other, each serves as an excellent indicator of the many directions contemporary jazz seems to be taking.

The first LP, Sun Ra & his Arkestra Live at Montreux (Inner City 1039), is my favorite of the three. Sun Ra should be well known in this area, as he's appeared here in full force twice in the past few years. Each time he's come, he and his troops have put on spectacular multi-media shows that literally have to be seen to be believed. This new recording, a two-LP set, was recorded at the 1976 Montreux Jazz Festival and can probably serve as the definitive Ra recording of the '70s. With Ra is a 21-piece "Intergalactic Cosmo Arkestra" consisting of usual Ra stalwarts like John Gilmore, Marshall Allen, Pat Patrick and Danny Thompson. Generally the personnel and song selection pretty nearly corresponds to what Ra performed when last here, thus the LP is an excellent document of a typical Ra set.

Without question, the stand-out track here is the side-long rendition of Billy Strayhorn's

"Take the A Train," which begins with an unbelievable piano solo by Ra that easily eclipses the whole of his solo LP for Paul Bley's Improvising Artists label.

What makes this LP especially stand out is the set's pacing. Shifting from free form to traditional, from vocal pieces like "We Travel the Spaceways" to densely-arranged, almost orchestral pieces, the LP contains none of the excesses that might scare away listeners unfamiliar with Sun Ra and his distinguished tradition.

Warren Bernhardt, a session pianist who's played jazz, rock and almost everything else has released his first album, Solo Piano (Arista/Novus 3001).

Bernhardt is a very impressionistic player, sounding at times as if he's had thorough training playing Debussy, among other classicists. Though this particular LP sounds almost ECM-ish in approach, as the first in Arista Records new Novus label it is probably the exception rather than the rule. Other LPs in the series are by such artists as Muhai Richard Abrams; somewhere between its Freedom and Savoy lines Arista must have decided that a new in-house jazz label was needed.

In all, Solo Piano is a beautiful album, filled with imagery and some very beautiful melodies. Initially I approached the LP with some trepidation, thinking it part of the session-man-makes-good syndrome, but clearly, it's not. Bernhardt not only is a fully-capable player but an excellent composer as well, and the combination makes for some extremely pleasant listening.

Guitarist Kenny Burrell, again recently in the area, has a new LP called Stormy Monday (Fantasy F 9558), though actually the recordings were made for the label four years ago. While never before released, Stormy Monday definitely doesn't sound as if it's come from the reject pile.

Joining Burrell are pianist Richard Wyands, bassist John Heard, and drummers Lennie McBrowne and Richie Goldberg. Wyands accompanies Burrell especially well, particularly on the title track, which is far and away the LP's best cut. Burrell's contemplative approach here makes the LP sound occasionally stark; though a warm player, the two blues heard here occasionally border on bleakness — fitting, I suppose, with the blues-feeling Burrell is attempting to project.

Burrell continues to evolve as a player, and though Stormy Monday was recorded in 1974, it is no less valuable a documentation of a superb guitarist in his prime. It's very much worth a listen.

This Weekend:

By JOHN NEILSON
State News Staff Writer

Get your tape recorders ready, culture-lovers. Tomorrow on WKAR-FM (90.5), National Public Radio will present The Rhinegold, the first of four operas that make up Richard Wagner's Ring of the Nibelungs cycle. The opera, which will be presented in English by the Seattle Opera Company, will be broadcast starting at 1 p.m., and the three succeeding parts of the epic will air on following weekends. The Ring epic, first performed in 1876, deals with gods, dwarves and giants and the mythology of ancient Germany, set to Wagner's own brand of heavy-metal orchestration.

If for some reason your taste runs more to less bombastic forms of music, you might be interested in the Good Times Music Parlor. Good Times is a bluegrass festival scheduled for Saturday at noon at the Arts Council Center of Greater Lansing. The festival will begin with a jam session, to which all pickers, plunkers, and yodelers are welcome. This will be followed by performances by the Hi Canyon Ramblers and the Cabinet County Boys. General admission is $2, or $1 for students and senior citizens.

The third annual Hesperia Women's Music Festival, by the way, is running now through Saturday at an undisclosed location. See the article on page 12 for more details, or contact the Womanself Bookstore in the University Mall.

If you find yourself feeling nostalgic for "Pomp and Circumstance" or "Everything's Coming up Roses," check out the high school marching band show on campus tomorrow morning. Bands from eight Michigan high schools that have been involved in Band Camp at MSU will show off what they've learned at 10 a.m. on the field adjacent to the Vet Clinic. The show will feature over 800 participants, and is absolutely free.

Also in the works for tomorrow (sounds like a full day, doesn't it?) is the second annual Sidewalk Art Festival, to be held at the North Washington all between Michigan Avenue and Shiawassee Street. This free festival will show the works of almost 150 artists, and will feature a Purchase Prize Competition for $3,200 in prizes.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

FROM SOUTH OF THE BORDER COMES . . .

RAMON'S RESTAURANT AND LOUNGE

RAMON'S...you may have known it before as "Bill's Restaurant and Lounge" located at 718 E. Grand River, in Lansing for the past 54 years. But since September, RAMON'S has been the "hot spot" for your south of the border favorites.

RAMON'S offers specials every day, Monday thru Friday on their Mexican favorites.

Monday's especialidad: Tacos. Three sub-shell corn tortillas heaped with juicy ground beef, tomatoes, onions and shredded cheese and lettuce.

Tuesday is beef enchilada day: Your choice of chicken, meat or cheese, wrapped in a fried corn tortilla, topped with a mild mouth watering sauce, diced onions and shredded cheese; 3 per serving.

Wednesday's favorite is Burritos: Two flour tortillas filled with expertly seasoned ground beef, topped with delicious home-made chili con carne, diced sweet Spanish onions and shredded cheese.

Thursdays RAMON'S serves Tostadas: Three crisp fried corn tortillas served open-faced with your choice of seasoned ground beef or refried beans, (frijoles), topped with crisp fresh lettuce, diced tomatoes, onions and shredded cheese.

And back by popular demand, Friday's special serves Tacos again, so you can enjoy RAMON'S favorite twice a week at a very reasonable price.

So you can sample a variety of Mexican "comida," RAMON'S offers combination plates for any size appetite. The feature combination plate is complete with a taco, tostada, meat enchilada, cheese enchilada and carne guisada, and like all RAMON'S south of the border specialties, is served with Spanish rice and refried beans, all for only $3.95. RAMON'S also serves a variety of mini combination plates for $2.95, all deliciously seasoned and tempting to the taste.

A light dinner suggestion from RAMON'S is "El Pepito." From Guadalajara comes this version of the steak sandwich, thinly sliced and served with avocado spread and frijoles on a mini french roll. Chili or taco sauce takes the place of catsup or steak sauce. A crisp salad and french fries completes this exciting sandwich, all for only $3.50.

RAMON'S has imported beer and Mexican spirits to complement your meal. Come and try a Toro Bravo (Kahlua, fresh lime and tequila) or a Margarita, welcome any time in the evening.

RAMON'S is open from 11 am to 11 pm on weekends and from 11 am to 3:30 pm on Fridays and Saturdays, 12 noon till 11:00 on Sundays. Bar stays open till 2 on weekdays. Come and enjoy the flavors from south of the border here in Lansing. No reservations necessary. Just come as you are and bring a friend, any day...! OLE!

PONTIAC — The Detroit Lions have swapped running back Eddie Payton for John Brockington of Kansas City and put veterans Larry Hand and Jim Yarbrough on injured waivers. Brockington, a 6-foot-1, 225-pounder, was considering one of the top running backs in the NFL during his first three seasons 1971-73 with the Green Bay Packers when he rushed for 1,105, 1,027 and 1,144 yards.

"He had some great seasons," said new Lions' coach Monte Clark. "He was the hottest thing going, a brutal runner who ran right over people."

However, the former Ohio State star's production slipped to 883 yards in 1974 and has been going downhill since. Brockington, who will be 30 next month, hit his NFL low last year after being traded to the Chiefs, gaining only 131 yards in 54 attempts.

"It's a further thing in the search for a fullback," Clark said of the swap for Brockington. "We're trying to improve ourselves in that area."

The Lions are trying to come up with a runner in the mold of 230-pound Lawrence Gaines who has undergone three knee surgeries and was on the injured reserve list during last year.

Payton, only 5-foot-8 and 175 pounds, is the brother of Chicago's star Walter Payton and became popular with Lions fans last season as a member of the special teams.

In the season finale he ran back a kickoff 98 yards and a punt for 87 yards, both for touchdowns.

PHILADELPHIA — The "saga" of George McGinnis and the Philadelphia 76ers has ended.

And in its place comes what the 76ers hope will be the era of Hoboy Jones and Julius Erving.

The 76ers formally announced Wednesday that McGinnis, credited with bringing the club back to respectability three years ago, had been traded to the Denver Nuggets for Jones, a premium forward, and guard Ralph Simpson.

The teams also exchanged draft choices. Denver obtained the 76ers' first draft choice of this year and Philadelphia will receive a No. 1 pick from the Nuggets in a season to be designated between 1980 and 1984.

DETROIT — A year ago Steve Foucault was the Detroit Tigers' bullpen. Today he is no longer even with the team.

Foucault, who will be 29 on Oct. 3, was claimed on waivers Wednesday by the Kansas City Royals. The right-handed reliever, eligible to become a free agent at the end of the season, had not pitched for Detroit since July 23.

The Tigers purchased the contract of right-hander reliever Dave Tobik from their Evansville affiliate in the American Association to replace "Foukie" on the roster.

Tobik, 25, a native of Euclid, Ohio, who now lives in Lyndhurst, Ohio, was Detroit's top choice in the secondary phase of the January 1975 draft. He pitched collegiately for Ohio University.

ST. LOUIS — Performance bonuses, inter-league play and designated hitters in the National League all were rejected by major league baseball executives, who called for a review of umpiring and a study on the possibility of using three divisions in each league.

Few changes on Midwest grid scene

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer

CHICAGO — In six of the last 10 years, Ohio State has won three Big Ten football championships. Michigan has won one and the two have shared the crown six times. Don't look for a change in 1978. One or the other most likely will wind up on top, or they'll share the title again, even though most of the rest of the league should be improved enough to make the path to glory more difficult.

Don't look for a change at Notre Dame, either. The defending national champions, despite losses, should be potent again, particularly on offense, and should Coach Dan Devine find

Buckeyes challenge for seventh straight Big Ten conference title

By JERRY BRAUDE
State News Sports Writer
Editor's note: This is the eighth of 10 articles in which the State News will look at the football prospects for each of the Big Ten schools.

Ohio State has won the Big Ten either outright or shared it the last six seasons by stomping over the weaker conference opponents with little flair.

This year should be no different as coach Woody Hayes' stingy defense and "crum-it-down-your-throat" offense should carry them to another Big Ten showdown with Michigan to close the regular season and a bowl game appearance somewhere.

It has been in the post-season play against opponents of equal caliber, however, where Woody has faltered during the 1970s. Ohio State has come close to claiming the national championship almost every year in this decade but has come up empty handed because of only three wins in eight bowl games.

The Buckeyes had the national championship in their pockets going into Rose Bowl play in 1970, 1974 and 1975, but refusing to put the football in the air had ruined their hopes.

Last year, Ohio State's offense crumbled when it fell behind against Alabama in the Sugar Bowl during the 35-6 laugh. Hayes still believes in keeping his "three yards and a cloud of dust" offense, but he may have found an answer, if he decides to use him, in "High School Football Player of the Year" due to his ability to stay in the pocket and throw the football to his downfield receivers.

Schlichter's high school team never lost a game in which he started at quarterback, and he passed for 4,397 yards.

Hayes, however, hasn't coma running threat for the offense the past two years and has directed the option well, but his passing game has been sporadic.

But for the majority of the season, it won't matter much who directs the offense as long as their strong running game is present with Ron Springs.

Spring, who is a scoring threat from anywhere on the field, ran for 1,166 yards last season and averaged 5.8 yards per carry.

The offensive line, though, is subject to some uncertainty as to who will start.

Hayes said that he will have "pretty much the same team as last year" as a good balance of seven starters from both the offense and the defense are returning.

The key member of the defensive unit is All-American inside linebacker Tom Cousineau, who is the best conditioned athlete on the team. He was also the "Top Defensive Player" in the 1977 Orange Bowl game.

The secondary should also be strong with all Big Ten defensive back Mike Guess moving to safety.

defensive replacements, the Irish will be hard to beat.

Even Devine recognizes this. "I don't think we should be rated No. 1, but I think we can win the national championship again. Somebody is going to have to beat us to take it away. I'm not saying it's impossible, but it will be tough to do."

The Irish retain quarterback Joe Montana, running backs Vegas Ferguson and Jerome Heavens, wide receiver Kris Haines and a strong offensive line, but need to rebuild the defensive front four. Linebackers and defensive backs are veterans.

Michigan was fourth nationally last year in fewest point allowed and Coach Ho Schembechler concentrates on defense, perhaps because his offense usually is potent. This year he has to replace six defensive starters, including most of the backfield but found good prospects for every position in spring training.

On offense, he again has quarterback Rick Leach, running backs Russell Davis and Harlan Huckleby and flanker Ralph Clayton. His offensive line was riddled by graduation but lettermen with good prospects are available.

Woody Hayes has seven starters back on both his offensive and defensive units, and among his individual standouts are linebacker Tom Cousineau, quarterback Rod Gerald and running back Ron Springs. Buckeye backers believe the starters will be good enough to challenge for another title, with depth the major problem, and Hayes will find that.

Rated the major challengers were Michigan State, third-place finisher last year with lettermen available at every position and boasting one of the nation's top pass receivers in Kirk Gibson, and Minnesota, in fifth place last year, but a bowl visitor. The Gophers must settle on a quarterback, but have Kent Kitzmann and Marion Barber returning as running backs. Jeff Anhorn at slot end and number defensive standouts.

Indiana also was figured as a possible challenger, based on its fourth place finish a year ago, and Coach Lee Corso's opinion that the team should be improved in maturity and personnel.

Purdue returns quarterback Mark Herrmann, who could be the Big Ten's best, if not a challenger for national honors. But Coach Jim Young has to find depth as eight starters have graduated.

Six new coaches appear in the Mid America conference and one of them, Tom Reed at Miami, could be on the spot as the pre-season favorite. Reed inherits a team that was 10-1 last year, with quarterback Larry Fortner and tailback Mark Hunt the standouts among 30 veterans returning.

Another newcomer, Dwight Wallace at Ball State, has a stellar pass combination of Dave Wilson and Rick Morrison, plus all-conference defensive tackle Ken Kremer and the No. 1 punter, Mark O'Connell.

Perhaps the best player in the league will be Western Michigan's Jerome Persell, who has rushed for 2,844 yards and was a good bet to reach 4,000 this season. But the Broncos and the rest of the league don't figure are title challengers.

Pre-season predictions rated Miami, Ball State, Western Michigan, Central Michigan and Bowling Green as the potential first division finishers.

Bastien in tourney

Rodger Bastien, MSU's All-Big Ten shortstop, is one of two Big Ten players who will represent the United States in the 25th annual World Amateur Baseball Championship Tournament in Italy later this month.

Steve Howe, Michigan's All-Big Ten pitcher is the other conference player.

Bastien hit .353 for MSU and was fourth in the league in hitting with conference average of .397.

Bastien, a native of Grandville, is playing in a summer baseball league in Illinois now. The United States squad of 20 players met in Fairbanks, Alaska, to work out and play a series of exhibition games before leaving for Milan, Italy, Aug. 24 for the tournament.

Bastien was a second-team All-Big Ten selection his sophomore year and will have one more season of eligibility left for the Spartans.

Texas A & M coach Tom Chandler is the manager of the United States' team.

Detroit Pistons in town for benefit softball game

Area residents can get their first look at Dick Vitale and his "re-vitale-ized" Detroit Pistons when the NBA team is in town for a game Saturday.

It will be a benefit softball game, though, against WILS and a group of area celebrities beginning at 2 p.m. at Ranney Park, just west of Brody Complex on Michigan Avenue.

No one is safe from its attack. It can victimize people of all ages, yet generally preys on young children before they are old enough to understand. By weakening the muscle tissue and gradually affecting the entire body, muscular dystrophy is a deadly "crippler."

Modern science had not yet been able to discover any methods to cure or even arrest the disease. Because of this they must call to the public for help to raise funds for costly research.

Individuals in the Greater Lansing Area sympathetic to the cause are prepared to eat, dance, skate, play and take part in a variety of other activities to help combat the dreaded disease.

In honor of the annual Labor Day Jerry Lewis Tele-thon the Lansing Jaycee Auxiliary is sponsoring "Jems for Jerry." Anyone wishing to take part is encouraged to bring old jewelry including silverware, rings, watches, or any other metal objects to various pick-up points. The items will be collected at Michigan National Bank downtown office, all Schmidt's Supermarket locations as well as all Lansing Shoppites now through Sept. 5.

Waitresses at Elias Brothers Restaurant on Trowbridge

Road, plan to empty their pockets this Saturday, as they donate their tips throughout the entire day. Not to be outdone by this generous deed, the owners-managers have pledged to match the employees' earnings.

MSU Promenaders and U of M A Squares are sponsoring their second annual Muscular Dystrophy Square Dance Marathon Aug. 19 and 20 beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday at Brighton High School in Brighton.

Area junior and senior high school students plan to roll their way to a goal of $4,000 as they participate in a skate-athon this Sunday at Edru Roller Skating Rink, 1891 S. Cedar St., Holt, on Sunday.

The doors of fashion will open Tuesday Aug. 22, at Everett High School Auditorium when the Lansing Knapps stores in conjunction with Seventeen Magazine sponsor their show of styles.

Golfers can get into the swing of things Sept. 2, 3 and 4 by entering the Veevay Golf Courses MD tournament.

Balloon crossing ends

About 50 police officers stood in an arm-in-arm cordon around the crew.

"I did it, dad, I did it, dad," said Newman, burying his head in his father's shoulder and weeping. His father, Herb, had come to Europe to greet his son.

The only serious problem Anderson described was "when we iced up badly about halfway across the Atlantic. It cost us a lot of ballast and height."

"Last year we went down off Iceland," he said, "and we're kind of glad to be here in France this time."

Anderson and Abruzzo tried the crossing last year but ditched five miles off the coast of Iceland.

Asked why they didn't set down in Ireland once they had made the crossing, he said, "I guess Ireland would have done it, but we flew across Ireland last night, and it was real beautiful."

"The reason we wanted to come to France was Charles Lindbergh," Anderson said. "He's an inspiration to many generations of Frenchmen and Americans."

The balloon touched down at 7:50 p.m. Paris time (1:50 p.m. East Lansing time) 137 hours, 18 minutes after it lifted off Friday from Presque Isle, Maine.

The three appeared in good health and spirits after succeeding where 17 other teams had failed since the first try in 1973. Seven people died in earlier attempts.

The spectators had been following the balloon, often with the help of binoculars, as it drifted across the checkerboard fields of western France on the last leg of its journey. More poured in from nearby Evreux as the radio announced a landing was imminent.

France, where serious ballooning originated nearly two centuries ago, erupted in celebration as word of the landing spread.

Air France said it would fly the three home free in a supersonic Concorde.

Samuel Gammon, the U.S. charge d'affaires, offered the three and their wives rooms at the American Embassy residence in Paris, including the bed where Charles Lindbergh slept after his history-making solo flight across the Atlantic from New York to Paris in 1927.

The three American balloonists who successfully completed the first recorded trans-Atlantic balloon crossing are enthusiastically greeted by reporters and locals on touchdown.

Attendance good at plan meeting

Public attendance at an East Lansing Planning Commission meeting to involve citizens in the formulation of plans for the city's future was called "generally good" by commission chairperson Ralph Monsma.

The Wednesday night meeting was held to orient citizen advisory committees, which will work on problems and make recommendations for the city's Comprehensive Plan.

Monsma described the Comprehensive Plan as "the general map to outline issues" in the areas of recreation, housing, commercial development, land use, transportation, public facilities, environment and energy in East Lansing.

Commission literature said the primary purpose of the citizen advisory committees "is to provide the commission a mechanism through which it can receive and examine subjective input on the city's problems, goals and priorities."

Three of the advisory committees, recreation, land use and transportation, are scheduled to finish their studies in January, 1979. Two committees, housing and energy, will operate over a period of nine months with their final report coming in May 1979.

The final three committees, studying commercial development, environmental quality and public facilities will begin their work in January 1979 and finish in March.

The five-month study groups will be funded about $1,000 and the two longer operating groups will be funded $2,000.

Those with a big appetite can join in the fight Sept. 3 and 4 as all Lansing Area Domino's pledge to contribute $1.25 for each large pizza ordered.

Anyone interested in helping to combat MD can show support to these as well as many other organizations.

LOCKS CAUSED 29 DEATHS

Crash blamed on crew

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparently in their haste to get a late plane off the ground, flight and ground crews forgot to remove control locks from the rudder and right aileron and packed too much baggage in the rear, causing the crash that killed the University of Evansville basketball team, a federal safety board said Thursday.

The twin-engine aircraft hit trees and crashed into a field less than 90 seconds after taking off from fog-shrouded Dress Regional Airport, Evansville, Ind., last Dec. 13. All 29 aboard died, including 14 basketball players.

The safety board said the principal cause of the accident was the failure to remove the two external control locks. When the plane is parked on the ground, these locks are designed to prevent damage to movable surfaces from the wind or from the wake of a taxiing aircraft.

MSU grad arraigned year-old Kristine Rose Stuart, missing from East Lansing since Wednesday, Naert declined to name Miller as a positive suspect in the disappearance.

The boy was knifed several times. He was apparently going into shock when Regan entered the house.

The body of Marita Choquette, 27, of Grand Ledge, was found 12 days after her disappearance June 15 in a rural woodlot near Holt. Choquette had been the victim of multiple stab wounds.

East Lansing Police Chief Steven Naert said he has "no concrete evidence" linking Miller to the recent disappearances of three other Lansing area women, but because of circumstances of the case, Miller may be considered a suspect.

MSU senior Wendy Bush is still missing after seven weeks, Department of Public Safety officials reported. Bush, 19, disappeared from the MSU campus on June 27, the same day Choquette's body was discovered.

Although Miller lives only blocks from the home of 30-notify all electrical rural co-operatives and municipalities that have or are planning to purchase nuclear energy that they are financially responsible for disposal of nuclear waste and decommissioning plants; and initiate a formal study of the potential co-generation of power in the industrial base of Michigan and recommend legislation to exploit this potential.

Co-generation is the re-use of heat after it is used to generate electricity, Sinclair said. This operation is both profitable and possible for much of Michigan's industry but is prohibited by law, giving the utilities a monopoly on electrical generation.

She said the potential energy in Michigan through this process is equal to that of approximately four large nuclear plants.

Congress deals with budget matters in two ways. First, it passes authorization bills which set limits on spending. This action is followed by passage of appropriations bills which ac-

Vegetarians cautioned against breast-feeding

BOSTON (AP) — Breast-fed babies of vegetarian mothers may suffer a severe, sometimes fatal nutritional deficiency unless they take vitamin supplements, doctors warn.

A study in the New England Journal of Medicine said that because of their mothers' diets, these infants do not get enough vitamin B-12, and they may fall into a coma and die.

The doctors emphasized that breast feeding is still safe, as long as vegetarian mothers realize that their milk does not always provide their child with a complete diet. The study did not concern breast-feeding mothers with conventional diets.

Summit failure could cause 'conflict' enhance the Soviet's military capability and whether Moscow was "the only reasonable source of supply for that item."

He said the pace of negotiations for normalization of relations "must be one that is mutually set."

Carter vetoes arms authorization

(continued from page 1) Carter has argued that construction of a fifth nuclear carrier for the Navy's fleet was unnecessary and would be built at the expense of his efforts to rebuild conventional military forces.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said Carter had made a good case for his disapproval of the measure.

We will have to face that when we come back from recess."

Tax cut favors rich

In addition to urging a shift to greater tax relief for low- and middle-income taxpayers, Blumenthal called on the Senate to modify the House-passed reduction in capital-gains taxes, which would benefit mainly those earning more than $50,000 a year.
