Local bars ads opposition to bid PIB proposal

Inside Debye's East Lansing, patrons, T-shirts, hooters and bong smokers did not Prevent PIB from being voted down. The group scored a historic victory this past week after coming up with the idea to purchase the building for $50,000 and converting it into a bar.

The AM 820, 920 WAC, AM, has had about 15 employees部署ed to register veterinarians management and Social Security number.

Gary Feist, owner of Debye's, 523 Albert Ave., is the "trader" and head of the group. Feist said, "They're not trying to buy an entire building but they are buying the property up to the 53rd floor.

If Proposal PIB passes by a single majority, the same age would take effect after the 1972 election.

It's the first time I've ever seen anyone from the city show up at a vote on this kind of issue. I'm in support of Proposal PIB.

On Tuesday night, Goss and more than a dozen local residents were gathered at the 53rd floor of the Grand Hotel to hear the debates and the results of the vote.

The results of the vote were not announced until Wednesday night. Goss said, "I wonder if they did any research before they went out to begin this process.

There are a few different ways we would like to see Proposal PIB passed.

It would be a good idea to have Proposal PIB passed but we don't have enough money to do it.

To all the US2 supporters, we have decided to support Proposal PIB.

An April 23 letter to the editor is attributed to "the people who are voting for the building.

"I've been told that some people have been voting in favor of Proposal PIB.

The building is in poor condition and needs extensive repairs.

High school organization asks ASMSU for help in fight against Proposal D

By R.H. ROBINSON
News Sports Staff Writer
At some point last week, state Representative Clarence "Bob" Stockwell announced that the Michigan State University student body will be asked to decide whether a bond proposal approved by the Board of Trustees will go to the ballot as a part of the November election. Stockwell's statement is the latest in a series of recent developments which show how important the bond proposal is to the future of the university.

The bond proposal, known as Proposal D, would provide funds for the construction of new dormitories, libraries, and athletic facilities. If approved, the proposal would result in a significant increase in the cost of tuition for Michigan State University students. The university administration has been lobbying vigorously for the passage of the proposal, and the ASMSU has been asked to help in the campaign.

In a letter last week, the ASMSU said that it would do what it could to support the university administration's efforts to pass the bond proposal. The ASMSU also expressed concern about the increase in tuition costs that would result if the proposal were not approved.

The ASMSU has been working closely with the university administration to develop a campaign plan. The plan includes a variety of tactics, such as the distribution of flyers and pamphlets, the organization of rallies and demonstrations, and the coordination of media campaigns.

The ASMSU has also been working to build support for the proposal among the student body. The ASMSU has been holding meetings with student organizations and clubs to discuss the proposal and to build support for it.

The ASMSU has also been working to build support for the proposal among the faculty and staff of the university. The ASMSU has been holding meetings with faculty and staff groups to discuss the proposal and to build support for it.

The ASMSU has also been working to build support for the proposal among the alumni of the university. The ASMSU has been holding meetings with alumni groups to discuss the proposal and to build support for it.

The ASMSU has also been working to build support for the proposal among the parents of Michigan State University students. The ASMSU has been holding meetings with parent organizations to discuss the proposal and to build support for it.

The ASMSU has also been working to build support for the proposal among the general public. The ASMSU has been holding meetings with community organizations to discuss the proposal and to build support for it.

The ASMSU has been working closely with the university administration to develop a comprehensive campaign plan. The plan includes a variety of tactics, and the ASMSU is confident that the plan will be successful in passing the bond proposal.

 MU student called number one in sin by visiting self-styled preacher

By NANCY ROGERS
Stockton News Staff Writer
At the end of a recent speech on "The Power of Prayer," Dr. John R. Robinson, a self-styled preacher, was introduced to the students of Michigan State University. Robinson, who claims to be a former member of the Church of England, spoke about the importance of prayer in everyday life.

As Robinson was leaving, a student approached him and asked if he could have a word with him. The student, who identified himself as "Mr. Scott," said that he had read an article about Robinson in the Detroit Free Press and was interested in knowing more about him.

"I've heard a lot about you," Scott said. "I'm interested in your message and I would like to talk to you about it.

Robinson agreed to meet with Scott and the two of them spent about an hour discussing various topics, including the role of prayer in society and the importance of education.

"I think we have a lot to learn from each other," Robinson said. "We both have a lot to offer.

The meeting ended with Scott thanking Robinson for his time and leaving with a newfound appreciation for his message.

ASMSU to hire junior lawyer, change board attendance policy

The ASMSU announced today that it has hired a new junior lawyer to help with its legal affairs. The new lawyer, Thomas A. Wilson, will be responsible for handling all legal matters for the ASMSU.

Wilson, a graduate of Michigan State University, has been practicing law for several years and has experience in a variety of legal areas, including contracts, corporate law, and labor relations.

The ASMSU also announced that it will change its board attendance policy. The new policy will require that all board members attend at least one meeting per month.

"This policy will help ensure that the board is keeping up with the needs of the student body," said ASMSU President Robert D. Lofgran.

The new policy will go into effect immediately.

Homecoming king, queen candidates' applications due today in Union office

Students who are interested in becoming candidates for the Homecoming King or Queen at Michigan State University should submit their applications to the Union Office today. The applications should be submitted to the Union Office at 200 East Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard.

Applications should include a biography, a photo, and a statement about why the student should be chosen as Homecoming King or Queen.

The applications will be reviewed by a committee of faculty and staff, and the chosen candidates will be announced at the Homecoming festivities.

The Homecoming festivities will include a parade, a football game, and a dance. The parade will start at 2:00 p.m. and the football game will begin at 5:00 p.m.

The Homecoming king and queen will be chosen at a ceremony to be held at 7:00 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

"I hope that this year's Homecoming festivities will be a huge success," said ASMSU President Robert D. Lofgran.

"I believe that the Homecoming king and queen will be an inspiration to all of our students."
opinion

ASMSU should expedite passage of revised AFR
so all others can approve

The ASMSU resolution designates a point of order which, if raised from the floor, puts the rule of order. As pointed out, the point of order is a well-reasoned, overbear idea.

As vice-president for student affairs, my objective is not to make rules, but to have a handful of administrative duties without the extra burden of being the ultimate arbiter of student grievances.

For the latter, the role of the ASMSU president as a student affairs officer is clearly in the best interests of the student affairs office to keep busy days running smoothly.

The resolution is the only function for the ASMSU president, and it is the one thing that appears to be working as intended. It appears as if students were not interested in making a decision in matters involving their peers, and a best alternative would be to make a joint decision of an administrator.

Nonanizer himself has made no comment on the resolution, exercising his judicial duties. And he has made no comment on the resolution. He either has more faith in the Student Faculty Judiciary than the AFR implies, or he is quite busy with other issues.

We would like to believe he has faith in the Student Faculty Judiciary.

Steve Palm, chairperson of the ASMSU Programming Board, was appointed for his own enjoyment of the obvious. The bill should have been passed through ASMSU red tape and approved by the Student Council, Legislative Board and Association of Student Affairs, Academic Council, President and other unspecified entities. We urge all parties to seriously consider the motions and approve this passage as quickly as possible.

The need for student rights is a hard concept to grasp in the first place, especially when one considers that every student at MSU is a legal adult and entitled to the same rights and responsibilities as any other citizen.

A awareness is inevitable because students should be treated in an equitable manner when a grievance arises over living conditions, educational issues, and the many other issues that do not always go smoothly.

Milliken's abortion stance admirable

It is becoming increasingly apparent the Michigan Legislature appears to support abortion but not to favor it. They have again released to allow Michigan funding for abortions. They are unwilling to spend public money on abortion, as they are unwilling to spend public money on education or health care. They have voted to fund abortion, as they are unwilling to fund education or health care. They have told us it is not their way to cooperate with any legislation that would fund abortion. They have told us it is not their way to cooperate with any legislation that would fund abortion.

Milliken has taken a strong, respected stance on the abortion issue. This is important in light of the current debate. He is not alone in his decision. He is not alone in his decision.

The legislature is not alone in this decision. They have voted against funding abortion, as they are unwilling to spend public money on abortion. They have told us it is not their way to cooperate with any legislation that would fund abortion. They have told us it is not their way to cooperate with any legislation that would fund abortion.

viewpoint: greek lifestyles

Greeks aren't geeks, they're good citizens

Greek letters have varied influence on campus. Sometimes they are helpful, and sometimes they are not. Greek organizations can vary in terms of how they perceive and handle issues of diversity, inclusion, and accountability.

Researchers have found that Greek organizations have unique values, traditions, and social structures that can positively or negatively impact the social, academic, and emotional well-being of members. Some Greek organizations may promote healthy social connections, opportunities for leadership, and a strong sense of community. However, others may contribute to biodiversity and inclusion, and promote harmful behaviors such as hazing, sexual assault, and alcohol misuse.

Greek organizations play a role in shaping the attitudes and behaviors of their members, as well as influencing the wider campus community. The impact of these organizations can vary depending on their specific values, norms, and practices. While some Greek organizations may promote positive behaviors and contribute to a strong sense of community, others may perpetuate harmful and exclusionary practices. It is important for the campus community to be aware of these dynamics and work together to create a safe and inclusive environment for all students.
Letters say no, but what will the Nov. 7 voting tell?

RHA’s position: check facts, vote

By J. DAVID WHITAKER

According to the results of a public opinion poll conducted by the Lansing State Journal, 50 percent of Michigan’s voters favor passage of Proposal B, the constitutional amendment that Michigan’s drinking age is 21 years old. However, the Lansing State Journal poll did not include any substantial opposition to the amendment, which could lead the reader to believe that the amendment will pass. Here’s what you need to know:

1. The proposal is a constitutional amendment, not a statutory one, and it will become a part of the Constitution of the State of Michigan, not an act of the legislature.

2. The opinion of the Lansing State Journal is based on a survey of likely voters, not on scientific sampling.

3. The proposal will affect all adults age 18 and older, not just people age 21.

4. The amendment will affect the constitutionality of laws and regulations that prohibit teenagers from purchasing or consuming alcohol.

5. The proposal will affect the ability of public schools to determine who is over 18.

McCarthy doesn't give 'em Hell

By DEMARCO HEYWOOD

When I was in sixth and seventh grade my favorite books were Laura Ingalls Wilder's Little House books — An Old-Fashioned Girl, Jack and Jill, and All About Mrs. Little Right, Good Friday, and Bean. Little Women, I despised those books, reading and rereading such an old-fashioned tome. I guess I consider myself some kind of bastard. After a month ago I read a set of the Dustbin books by Dash's Mill, and, as he graduated from his personal books to a teen genre. We spent a few hours going through the house and on the Graff, is a face of Little Women and, of course, the Dustbin books the Dustbin Family, I took with a little renovation of that face. It is a little restoration of personal clothing, thought to part in my friends and contemporaries, Emerson and Theodore. So, naturally, when I learned another version of Little Women was made for the TV. (Comedy Union, Thomas) I didn't have a clue. As I read the Dustbin books, the Dustbin Family, including their friends and neighbors, was so far unprepared for the demand of books. That day I was virtually unprepared, and the language was difficult for me. After the initial culture shock that seemed passing the beginning of the show, it was easy to believe I was reading the old easy story. To see the one-sided story of a woman who might have had Magie and the Dustbin books that Dustbin woman no longer quite true. But William Sherman, however, was the main topic. As Professor Bello, he quoted a German name and several to provide the personal charm of the Dustbin woman that must make the story. It's a major step for women who wanted to keep the traditional role of a woman role equal to the man's role. All of this, through both the style and method to the end of the form, no one ever. Sherman's theme is that we support the world.

What's important, I think, is not in our senses and perceptions of the world in 1948 who said the actions of these in the past. Even if our ideas and values made in the whole world now, we must not forget that it's not always a matter of modernizing others with different values. I was somewhat. It was in 1948, in some directions, but that's not a course to move, especially the language. Dressage instructor keeps a tight rein on his horse course

by REBECCA HICKEN

In a step cited for the long, heavy dressage leading in the Rensselaer County Dressage Show, you know that horses are not allowed to run around in all directions here.

James P. Rowe, a dressage instructor at MSU, leads one of his horses around the arena at the Rensselaer County Dressage Show in Rensselaer.

James P. Rowe, owner of the stables on July 6 in Rensselaer and Bellows Falls, Vt., has developed a dressage program that he believes is the best in the United States.

Dressage is a form of equestrian sport that originated in Europe and is now practiced worldwide. It involves a horse and rider performing a series of structured exercises and movements to the music of a specially composed piece.

The music is selected to complement the movements of the horse, and the rider and horse must work together harmoniously to create a visually pleasing performance.

Rowe's program is designed to develop the horse's mental and physical abilities, teaching it obedience, suppleness, and partnership.

East Lansing council may limit parking along residential streets

by JANET BALBONI

A proposed parking plan for residential streets in East Lansing could limit parking near homes and public buildings.

The proposal, which was presented to the East Lansing City Council on Oct. 13, would create parking restrictions in certain areas to protect residential and public safety.

The plan includes restrictions for parking near schools, parks, and other public buildings, as well as near homes.

The council will consider the plan at its next meeting on Oct. 27.

LOOT SYSTEM TO BE USED

Change in cage ticket sales

In an effort to reduce the number of people waiting in line at the cage, the school athletic department has decided to implement a new system. The new system will allow for a limited number of people to enter the cage at a time, ensuring a more efficient and orderly process.

The new system will be implemented on a trial basis, and the athletic department will monitor its effectiveness before making any permanent changes.

Spikers sweep EMU and Wayne

BY JERRY BRANNEN
State News Sports Writer

If there was ever a week of missed work, this was it. A day game against EMU, followed by a home night game against Wayne, with Saturday set aside for a noontime game after EMU's victory, was a tough week for the State women's volleyball team.

The team had a total of three games this week, but only two of them were played. The game against EMU was a no contest, with the Spikers sweeping EMU in straight sets. The score was 25-17, 25-13, 25-10.

On Friday, the Spikers played against Wayne, and although the game was closer, the Spikers emerged victorious, winning 25-21, 25-17, 25-14.

The final game of the week was against MIU on Saturday, and the Spikers used a late run to overcome the Redmen, winning 25-22, 25-23, 25-16.

The team's week was not without its challenges, as they faced a number of difficulties. The weather was particularly bad, with heavy rain and poor visibility making it difficult to play the games.

Despite these challenges, the Spikers were able to come out on top in both of their games, which was a great achievement considering the circumstances.

The team's next game is scheduled for next week, and they will be looking to continue their winning streak and build on their momentum.
Stickers pulverize Toledo, 9-0

The MSU field hockey team virtually blew away Toledo Monday, by a score of 9-0.

Five goals were scored in the first half of the game that the Spartans controlled from the opening moment. Two goals were scored by Braidie Jones, another pair tallied by Granville's Kajornsin and a pair by GVSU's Carlin.

Jones opened the scoring, 1:45 after the start of the game, by taking a pass from teammate Granville and put it in the second string goal. Her next goal was scored on a second string move just past the 12-minute mark.

"We have made wide strides bringing the ball up and past to the forwards," said Jones after the game. "We also have opened up and a tough situation." No team has been in good health as the Spartans would like to keep up their way.

The MSU team, under Coach Bob Olin, was able to defeat Grand Valley State College from Allendale, 9-0 last year by a score of 13-0. "I think we should be proud of the win. We were able to spring that last, but we certainly get something," Kajornsin explained. Often when a team begins to win, they may think they are in trouble and begin to get anxious. Kajornsin assured that no team will work just as hard as ever on their team work.

James Allen hospitalized; talk canceled

"There's a responsible way to exit the park budget entirely," he said. "The Legislature will have to decide which programs have higher funding priorities."

The budget was adopted by 6 p.m. on Oct. 3 by the Senate Committee on Parks and Recreation. Allen, a professor at the University of Nairobi, Kenya, and a well-known archaeologist, had been hospitalized in New York.

Senators hopefuls debate low-key

Judicial candidates meet

"We need to open up the budget process and remove the obstacles to public debate," Ferguson said. "The Senate should be the last line of defense against pork-barrel legislation in the state." Ferguson called for a "gray's颔" for judicial candidates in Michigan.

"My opponent, who is an effective advocate, will continue to support the budget process," Ferguson said.

The meeting was sponsored by the Lansing Arts League of Woman's Clubs and the Civic Center.

No monument to FDR this year — too expensive

WRCF said it would want any memorial built for him to be simple. And as of now, that's all there is to it. FDR, who died in 1945, was a national hero. Many people still recall his name. It's understandable that people would want to honor him in some way, but it's also important to remember that his service to the country was recognized in his lifetime. The $500,000 that would have been spent on the monument would have been well spent on other things.

In the end, it's important to remember that people can honor FDR in many ways, without spending a lot of money. It's also important to remember that people should be able to have their say in what happens at the federal level, and that they should be able to have their voices heard.

Michigan's open records laws are designed to ensure that government transparency and accountability are maintained. They are not designed to prevent people from honoring FDR, or any other public figure, in their own way. It's important to remember that people have the right to honor those they admire, and that they should be able to do so without fear of being told that they can't.

Can it be by bill and me, 580-6400, have respect.

By M. S. M. Wilson

I think it's really important to have respect for other people and for their opinions. When someone's opinion is different from your own, it's important to listen to what they have to say and to try to understand their perspective. It's also important to remember that people have the right to express their opinions, even if you don't agree with them.
