Police nab 150 KKK members

By NADINE DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A signature double-decker bus packed with more than 150 Klansmen rolled into this state Capitol city Saturday ahead of a large rally for the white supremacist group.

Klan members, who were on one parade route, and both the Klan and the state Capitol were surrounded by police and Alabama Highway Patrol, plus a few hundred federal and state police officers.

Police said Saturday that a car driven by a state Capitol employee was chased by the Klan bus and that the bus had earlier been seen near a prison.

In Washington, D.C., the FBI said it had been notified about the incident.

ON SATURDAY, officers arrested 15 Klan members at the exit of the city and at the state Capitol, and a large crowd gathered around them.

Police on Sunday directed the Klan members to an adjacent parking lot and continued on page 3.

Dayton Hudson announces land options

By ROLAND MCKINNON
Staff News Reporter

Dayton Hudson Properties has announced that it will reopen a former General Motors auto plant in this city as a new corporate headquarters for its toy and gift division.

But the company also said that it may choose to lease land in Lansing Township as an alternate location.

"Our information is that there is a large question mark over Dayton Hudson options," said James Anderson, coordinator of Citizens for a Usable Community. "Where there is smoke, there may be a smoke-generating machine."

Sudan official fired amid violence

KHARTOUM (AFP) - Premier Mahdi Badreddine's military has shot dead a policeman and arrested 30 others in an apparent effort to subdue continuing unrest in the troubled state. Sudanese police were called out for the second day in a row to dispersed mobs of rock-throwing demonstrators in the main cities of the country. Unconfirmed reports said the violent incidents had spread to provincial capitals Saturday, but because of poor communications details were not available.

Rabin memoirs shake Israeli party

JERUSALEM (AP) - Former Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's memoirs have shaken Israel's Labor Party with charges that party leader Shimon Peres is a political and moral failure.

In the two new memoirs written together in the last labor government, Mr. Rabin said he knew that Mr. Peres was simply an empty vessel who would go next.

"I've received copies of your letter this morning, exactly the same word," said Mr. Peres of the Nationalists and Orthodox Administrators. "Where are we out of here where we are. We're not meaning to head away from a relationship that we care.

Increased defense spending needed - Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Sunday that the US must maintain a nuclear defense spending base and that assignments of a new administration's leadership are "incredibly important." A 10-day 12-day time period in which the people had prepared to cope with nuclear power, he added, would be "ruinous.

Energy-saving program may be costly - FTC

WASHINGTON (AP) - An agency has warned that a proposed energy program may cost billions of dollars and could cost billions of dollars in the future.

Petitions for election to annex part of 'U' wait for county OK

By ROLAND WILKINSON

State News Staff Writer

Petitions seeking an election to annex a section of MU to Elmhurst Township were filed recently with a variance of following an opinion by the county attorney Friday that they were properly filed.

A three-day County Court hearing may now determine if 8 percent of the total number of registered voters in the affected area signed the petition last spring, attorney Fred Heid said.

The township boundary line runs through several MU residence halls in East Campus, excluding the student population like the voting student body.

It was assumed by MU to be the proper petition because it was not advantageous for the students to be in the township.

To STOP the red ink shortage, Grebehr and Menasha township will probably take legal action.

Although the township was "snagging" an action, it said it might be able to get a legal reaction by using legal action.

Township Supervisor Richard Konetzke and legal action was possible, but that action would be taken.

Grebehr said the township stands to lose a lot of tax dollars if an annexation takes place.

To verify the registration, the township July 24 sent out 418 domiciliary notice in the petition for which they were waiting to be signed.

This is considered illegal because the township is not registered and was waiting for action from the county attorney.

ADDRESSING THE TOWNSHIP Board of Trustees last week, Grebehr said the legal tactics being used to invert a few years' taxes was taken at the county register without awaiting the action.

Grebehr summed up to Richard Konetzke, also said the letters were illegal. Giving a 1873 Supreme Court decision, Konetzke said students cannot be treated differently for voting purposes.

The township may have to file a suit to stop the proposal from going further.

The Delaware Township Village Plans, a letter to a director of Delaware County, and a final decision, saying that only those students requesting that they be includible the resolution of the State Commission Act, which would make the township responsible for determining the student's eligibility.

Bingo, 7-year-old elephant, in critical condition again

Bingo, the 7-year-old elephant in Lansing's Potter Park Zoo, is again in critical condition.

The newspaper reported last week that the elephant was recovering from surgery.

It was noted that she had been in poor health for some time.

Bingo was weighed by area veterinarians on Tuesday, and it was found that her weight was only 1,000 pounds.

The newspaper reports were not clear whether the elephant's illness is connected with her previous conditions.

Bingo was purchased by area elementary school children who raised $6,000 to help her in 1972.

HMO takeover plan gets debate

By W. JAMES KATES

State News Staff Writer

A small but influential group of Health Care workers called a meeting in Michigan last week to discuss plans to take over HMO companies.

"We want the models by which the Blues are run to be less consumer-oriented," said Ralph Stahl, a health care worker at the meeting.

"I'm not sure the people who run the Blues care enough to run the business," said Stahl. "I'm not sure the people who run the Blues care enough to run the business."

The group did not announce a specific plan to take over the HMOs, but said a meeting was held to discuss the possibility of forming a nonprofit company to run the HMOs.

"We are all aware of the need for a more consumer-oriented health care system," said Stahl. "We are all aware of the need for a more consumer-oriented health care system."

Mackey may get his first big test

After President Gerald Ford’s appointment last June, it became rather fashionable at MSU to discuss what his most urgent concern should be. Some said that legislative matters — the new “business” approach to running a large university — should attract most of his attention. Others claimed the quality of education and academic matters should grab that first presidential gleam. But Mackey will not implement those policies. It has, instead, been made for that.

Christine Wilson, former director of the Office of Supportive Services, went to work for the state just one week after she resigned her position two years ago; Wilson’s resignation followed the abrupt resignation of presidential assistant Lloyd Cole and the firing and breakup of Assistant Provost James Hillary to be an even greater team.

In addition, the appointment of Robert Weeks, a white male with a poor record of minority hiring: Wilson’s system has intensified the problem of a white majority government at MSU. Mackey, it seems, has been careful to appoint people who reflect the state’s real character.

The State is in quite a perplexing position. Mackey was promoted to director of Supportive Services under Hillary in 1974. In that position, his job was to prepare the legislators for the annual budgeting. His position has been taken in part of the budgeting between Wilson and her assistant, Barron, and the governor’s office. Barron has been replaced by Wilson, claiming that MSU attempted to breach her right to free speech through the dismissal of their Prentice. Wilson has been asked why she has not been able to handle her duties, this report indicates, that her actions be at issue again at this point, if nothing else. Barron is not the MSU at this time, and it becomes obvious that MSU attempted to handle her duties. It is, therefore, in an amusing situation that it has presented itself favorably with the Michigan State — a dilemma which will demand an early test of its strength and leadership.

Not surprising

Senate documents affirming possible spring activities in the United States by foreign intelligence agencies should come as no surprise to students of history, especially the present one. That most of the reports have been received by President and former President Richard Nixon, are quite aware of and used to similar activity in the past.

In the spring, the FBI should be asked to conduct an inquiry on the most recent local disturbances, and similar operations at home. This is because the FBI has long been aware of the situation and has dealt with it in the past.

In the spring of 1969, the FBI was trying to stop the disturbances by providing information on the activities of the University. These students have been informed that the FBI has been watching over them and their families.

Furthermore, FBI officials have been informed that they can rely on the FBI to protect them from harassment, intimidation, and assassination. However, the FBI may still be limited to the disturbances by providing information on their activities, but they have been successful in this regard. The FBI may have assisted in the past in protecting the University.

Now that the FBI has left the University and the United States has broken ties with China, spring is at least as much involved in its struggle as in January. There is, therefore, a need for more surveillance in the spring.

Marcuse is gone, but his influence remain with us

Marcuse went, but his influence remains with us. Marcuse died in 1979, but his ideas and theories continue to influence the way we think about and understand the world. Marcuse's work challenged the status quo and inspired people to think critically about their society.

Marcuse argued that the modern capitalist society was not a utopia, but a prison that imprisoned its inhabitants. He believed that the society was structured in a way that oppressed certain groups of people, and that this oppression was maintained by the use of propaganda and other forms of manipulation.

Marcuse's ideas have had a significant impact on the way we think about the world. His work has influenced the development of critical theory and has been used to challenge dominant ideologies and power structures. His ideas have been instrumental in the development of movements for social justice and equality.

Marcuse's influence is still felt today, and his ideas continue to inspire people to think critically about their society and to work towards a more just and equitable world.

Kinks and Hunter: Detroit rocks!

By REGINALD THOMAS
State News

I've been waiting years to write this. When Ray Davies and Dave Evans were in town last summer, their new album, "Krown Of Kings," was a triumph. Now it's the turn of Kinks and Hunter, a blues-rock band, and their latest LP, "Krown Of Kings," is an even greater triumph.

The Kinks and Hunter are a virtuoso rock band, with Ray Davies on guitar and vocals, and Dave Evans on bass and vocals. Their music is a mix of rock and roll, blues, and country, and their live performances are always exciting.

The Kinks and Hunter have played in Detroit several times, and they always draw a huge crowd. Their music is loved by fans of all ages, and their live shows are always a hit.

If you haven't seen the Kinks and Hunter in Detroit, you should definitely check them out. They are one of the best rock bands in the country, and they are definitely worth seeing live.

Podiatric Warning: Disco hazards to your feet

This is an employment opportunity for high school and college students in the Detroit area. Please bring a resume and photo ID to the meeting.

DTWCDY... Wadable disco kings and queens beware. Podiatrists say these foot enemies' will be out in force to protect the foot from the next generation of hard-partying dance floors.

The problem of "foot feet" was realized Friday by the Foot Health Council, which met to discuss ways of protecting the foot from the hazards of disco dancing.

It is an effort not only to protect the foot but also to educate the public about the dangers of disco dancing.

More information on this subject can be obtained from the Michigan State University Podiatrician, Dr. John Smith.

We are on the move to develop greater awareness of the need for foot care in the disco scene. This is an important issue that needs to be addressed by the public and the disco industry.

The problem of foot feet can be prevented by following a few simple steps:

1. Wear comfortable shoes.
2. Avoid dancing on wet floors.
3. Use foot protectors when dancing.
4. Stay away from high heels.

These simple steps will help prevent foot injuries and ensure a healthy and enjoyable disco experience.

Journey soars in Lansing

Stage News Review

Journey is a prime example of a band that has a great deal of promise, but has not yet sputtered in the performing arena. Keyboardist Greg Perry, singer Steve Waites, guitarist
Christian "Steed" ledge, and drummer Larry Herlick are the four members of the band that has been compared to the Monkees, who has received as much attention. The present tour is one of the band's first major endeavors, and since its formation in 1973, Journey has been received as well as the "Only One of Us," is a major hit.

The review of Replicas (AAR No. 45 157) by Gary Newman and Tubeway Army proves a definite awareness of what one can expect to find ahead. The band's debut single has an opening hook that is familiar to the average rock fan. The song opens with a guitar riff that is followed by a drum beat. The rhythm is consistent throughout the song, and the song is a perfect introduction to the band's talent. The drums are a prominent feature in the song, and the band's guitar work is excellent. The bridge section of the song is particularly enjoyable, with the band's guitar work and vocal harmonies.

Tubeway Army's science-fiction sounds

The March 1979 edition of the Michigan State News includes an article on the replications of Journey's single, "Only One of Us," and a review of Replicas. The article highlights the band's debut single, "Only One of Us," which is a major hit. The review notes the band's guitar work and vocal harmonies, particularly in the bridge section of the song. The article also mentions the band's debut album, which includes a song titled "Replicas." The band's debut album is described as a science-fiction sounds experiment, with the band's music being compared to the sounds of the future. REALISTIC GOAL, WILDCAT COACH CLAIMS

Northwestern wants winning season

BY ADAM TEOCHER

State Journal

It’s still early in the season, but there is no denying it: Northwestern has arrived. The Wildcats are 2-0, a far cry from the team that lost seven of its last eight games last season.

Northwestern head coach Tim Brahm says the team has made a significant turnaround.

"We’re not going to be satisfied until we win a game," Brahm said. "We’ve got to keep improving and playing our best football."

Dole predicts Kennedy for 1980

"I think we are addressing our voters: Dole in 1956 and Carter in 1960," Dole said in an interview. "The candidates for the Democrats in 1980 will be the same as in 1960." Dole said that in 1960, Kennedy will be the Democratic nominee and that in 1980, he will be the candidate for the Republicans.

Dole also said that he is preparing to announce his candidacy for the presidency. He added that he will announce his candidacy after the primary season, which is expected to begin in March.

The interview was conducted on Thursday, and Dole is expected to announce his candidacy in the next few days.

Economist discusses energy crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economist discusses the energy crisis and its impact on the economy. He notes that the crisis is causing a recession and that the government needs to take action to address the problem. He also emphasizes the need for conservation and the development of alternative energy sources.

He stresses that the government must take decisive action to prevent the energy crisis from escalating. He points out that the crisis is not only affecting the United States but is also impacting the global economy.

The economist concludes by expressing concern over the long-term implications of the energy crisis. He urges the government to take a proactive approach and to work with the private sector to find solutions that will be effective in the long run.
