President endorses commission on Iran

By BART SCHWID
WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Carter entered the White House tonight to deliver his second major speech in two months. His address was designed to shore up sagging administration morale as he readied to face the crucial test of his term. The speech was delivered in Washington, D.C.

The administration's policy in Iran, the president said, is to work "for a solution that is fair to all concerned". He warned that American forces would have to be prepared to take action if necessary to protect American lives and interests.

"A solution that is fair to all concerned means that we must work for a solution that is fair to all concerned," he said. "This is the kind of solution that is fair to all concerned."

"The problem of Iran is complex," he said. "We have a responsibility to the American people to work for a solution that is fair to all concerned."

The president's speech came in response to the 1979 revolution in Iran, which overthrew the Shah and established an Islamic republic. Carter's speech marked the first time a U.S. president had spoken publicly about the situation in Iran since the revolution.

"We are working for a solution that is fair to all concerned," he said. "We are working for a solution that is fair to all concerned."

The president's speech set the stage for his upcoming trip to the Middle East, where he will meet with leaders from both sides of the conflict. Carter said he believed that a diplomatic solution was possible, but that it would require "determination and courage on the part of both sides".

"We are working for a solution that is fair to all concerned," he said. "We are working for a solution that is fair to all concerned."

Carter said he would continue to work on the issue, and that he would hold meetings with other leaders in the region. "I will continue to work on this issue," he said. "I will continue to work on this issue."

The president's speech was widely praised by both Republicans and Democrats. "This is an important speech," said House Speaker Tip O'Neill. "This is an important speech."
Winter Olympics begin

The International Olympic Committee, as has been expected, decided to exclude Taiwan from the 1960 Olympics. This decision was made despite the fact that Taiwan had previously been allowed to compete in the Olympics. However, the International Olympic Committee has decided to exclude Taiwan due to its status as a constituent country of the People's Republic of China. This decision is based on the principle of one China, which recognizes the People's Republic of China as the only legitimate government of China.

Draft exemptions

The American government has decided to grant draft exemptions to those who are married to women from Taiwan. This decision was made in response to the Chinese government's request to exclude Taiwan from the Olympics. The United States has chosen to grant these exemptions in order to demonstrate its support for the Chinese government, which includes the People's Republic of China and Taiwan.

Lack of students, funds may close some colleges

By TIM EMMONS

State News-Beat Writer

Michigan State News, Bob Miller, wrote in his column that students, funds, and the future of some colleges may be in jeopardy.

"It seems that every college is facing the same problems," Miller said. "Students are dropping out, funds are running low, and the future of some colleges is in question." Miller went on to say that the colleges need to take action to prevent this from happening.

Mary Owen, student of MSU's College of Education, said that she feels that the colleges are in a very difficult position. "The colleges need to find a way to keep their students and their funding," Owen said.

Valerie Studer, student of MSU's College of Business, said that she feels that the colleges need to do more to attract students. "The colleges need to do more to attract students," Studer said.

FBI looks for Cooper's body

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — FBI agents armed with rifle scopes and accompanied by a helicopter continued their search Wednesday for the body of fugitive David Couch, who calls himself Cooper. Couch is wanted in the slayings of three women, and federal agents have been combing 200 miles of the Columbia River since Thursday.

The agents tore up the sandy beach where an 80-year-old woman was found dead last weekend in the Columbia River, now off-limits to boaters.

A gaping pit, about 30 yards from the woman's body, was searched by a diving team as law enforcement officials combed the area with dogs and boats.

Officials said the entire population of the far-flung community owned or rented large, fast boats.

"There's nothing to do except sit until something happens," said Keith Bannister, sheriff of Rusk County.

"Everybody's fine," he said. "There's nobody left in the town."

Nuke spill reporting delayed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Three Mile Island nuclear reactor's operator must meet federal radiation requirements during this spill of radioactive water into the nearby Susquehanna River.

The move was outlined Wednesday by regulators and officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources, which oversees nuclear facilities.

Officials said the entire population of the far-flung community owned or rented large, fast boats.

"There's nothing to do except sit until something happens," said Keith Bannister, sheriff of Rusk County.

"Everybody's fine," he said. "There's nobody left in the town."

Virginia Senate defeats ERA

Richmond, Va. (AP) — A state senator used a conflict of interest rule to stop an amendment to ban discrimination on the basis of sex from reaching the Senate floor.

Rep. James R. Miller, a Democrat from the 3rd District in the Senate, has been identified as the sponsor of the amendment. The amendment is one of the six ERA-related measures that has been introduced in recent weeks.

It received its first reading Tuesday and is expected to be voted on next week.

Miller said he was using the conflict of interest rule to stop the Senate from debating the measure.

The amendment would ban discrimination in all aspects of society, including employment, housing, and public accommodations.

Iran, England discuss arms sales

LONDON (AP) — An Iranian military today has commented on the possible acquisition of British arms by Iran.

The sources, who declined to be identified, said the talks were focused on the sale of surface-to-air missiles. The sources said Iran was interested in obtaining such systems.

The talks are part of a larger initiative by Iran to acquire weapons systems for its military.

Bids for the sale of such systems have been made by both the United States and the United Kingdom.

Britain said it was not aware of any deals for such systems, but the sources said the talks were part of a larger initiative by Iran to acquire weapons systems for its military.

Gold medal to honor Canadian

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, acting on an unopposed Senate resolution, passed a gold medal to honor the Canadian ambassador to the United Nations, who helped negotiate a peace treaty with Israel.

The plaque is awarded for "outstanding" achievements in peace, adjustments of international conflicts, or contributions to international peace.

The Senate is holding only its third session this year.

Rep. William Froehlich, R-Vt., who voted against the medal, said it was a "political" move.

Is it ‘Love’ or lust in drag?

By HUGH SCHULZ

Thanks to ‘Full House’ Gest and Charlie Brown specials, you have been exposed to‘drags’—male impersonators who recall the ‘burlesque’ of the twenties—enough to know what they are. Their haunted faces, with such a touch of male machismo, are all too familiar to us. But now the word ‘drags’ has taken on a new life. They’ve been made into successful stage shows, and women are being ‘dragged’ and women are being ‘dragged’.

So what is the reason for this sudden interest? Why are these male impersonators making a comeback? Why are women attending these shows in such numbers? We asked some of the people involved in these shows to explain why they are being so popular.

Politics Of Culture

Nina, who was given as ‘Beau,’ said: “The problem is, ‘dresses’ and ‘All You Need Is Love,’ a musical version of a famous song, are being performed on television every day. It’s hard not to be influenced by this same kind of thinking. If you have to dress up in a man’s suit, you might as well try to make it look good.”

But why are women interested in drag shows? Many women see these shows as a way to escape from their everyday lives and to express their feelings. They are looking for something that is different from their normal lives.

UNPRETENTIOUS AND LUMBER MUSIK
Karr — a dynamic duo

By WILLIAM KERNER

Gary Karr, the world’s foremost doublebassist, and his pianist partner, Gary Lewis, star in the Tony Award-winning stage production, The World of J.S. Bach. This musical event is a tribute to a master, a genius who has left his mark on the world, and on an instrument that is rarely played on Broadway these days.

No doubt the evening left musical conservatives disconcerted, it was far from the stodgy world of pomp and pretension usually associated with musicians considered without soul. Karr’s music was performed with — band a widening beauty and assembly, with Lewis an instrument of expression and depth, to the audience. The Willow-Haired Twin was at his finest, — written for Karr, contained two movements in three.

Road whammy faces MSU tonight; cagers at Wis. before hosting U-M

By ADAM FEUER
State News Sports Writer
The MSU basketball team hasn't been effective on the road in the 1980 Big Ten campaign, winning just one of six games thus far. The Spartans' high-scoring team in Madison, Wis., starts a battle with the University of Wisconsin Badgers. Tipoff is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. and Slaning time and date will be local televising of the contest.

The Spartans return to FACilities to square off with the University of Michigan at 9:30 Saturday. MSU's only road victory of the year came against the Wolverines in Ann Arbor, Mich., last Feb. 14. The Maroon-and-Gold team is 2-3 in the season and has lost two in a row. The Spartans will be looking to snap their six-game road losing streak when they square off with the Wolverines at 8:30 Saturday.

Fencers after Irish streak this weekend

By WILL KNOWLES
State News Sports Writer
Capping off fencing showing this weekend, the Spartan men's foil team must try to keep its momentum rolling when the squad meets in Ann Arbor, Mich., for the Central Collegiate meet tomorrow. A full list of names will be represented at the meet, including MSU and the universities of Michigan and Wisconsin from the Big Ten. Other invited universitites include the Mid-America Conference teams, plus Notre Dame University and the Universities of Santa Clara and Stanford will be in attendance as well.

For this reason the Spartans have qualified for the NCAA meet in three events. Cathedral's Bob Beach heads the list with the qualifying time of 57 in the 60-yard dash. The others having made the cut are Mike White in the mile and the distance seeders of the women's foil. Cathedral's Karen Simonsen and MSU's other All-Americans, Karen Moore and Caroline McGee, are scheduled to attend.

At the Central Collegiate meet, Spartan coach Bob White will be looking to see a few more of his returnees qualify, but with the way the team has been performing lately, it is quite possible that more than just a couple of the teamsters will make the trip to the NCAA's in March.

This is one of the better weeks for the team, as some of the returnees were having some programming right on schedule, and we are having some fun in the way we test us and then timed us in order to see which are the top contenders for the Big Ten title and have a large field competing in the meet.

Kevin Morris, the best foil fencer in the U.S., has yet to set a time in the meet, so qualifying are Paul Fariborz in the high jump, Thomas and Tyrome Williams in the 800,

The 8-time All-Big Ten fencer, the 1,600-yard run is also in the mix, and Andy Wilson, with 12 All-Big Ten and 8 Mid-America Conference titles, is likely to qualify and will have the opportunity to make the Central Collegiate meet again.

County approves tax abatements

By MOLLY NORD
State News Editor

Tax abatements for two Lansing businesses, one in East Lansing and one in the city proper, were passed by the Ingham County commissioners Tuesday afternoon. The board tackled the issue in a joint session that included the city of Lansing in approval of tax abatement for Oak Printing Limited and Federal Printing, Inc.

Approval was granted to commissioners Mark Gruver and Jon Jakub, both of East Lansing, Lansing Mayor Gena, Dusan Kucan, Tom Mezina, D William Young, and Carl Russell, Lansing City Manager. Commissioners to approve the tax abatement, Mayor Gena, and Commissioner Russell were not present.

The tax abatement is limited to an increase for industrial expansion. Commissioner Carl Russell, for example, only requested $100,000 for his abatement period. Commissioner Donald Rauth, for his part, asked for $50,000 for the abatement, saying, "I am aware of operating problems." He said something has to be built before we can tax it and if people here have to keep jobs before they can tax it. Commissioner Thomas L. Hacker, for his part, said the city of Lansing should not be harvested for the expense of something that is a legal battle to encourage development.

The approval of the tax abatement will mean a rise in taxes through state testing, which involves matching of industrial tax revenues, he said.

The Soviet Union has advised key Asian, European and African nations that the withdrawal of its troops from Afghanistan is imminent.

A spokesperson for the Political Department of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said the Soviet withdrawal was not new and that it had been proposed to the United Nations in the past. The representative said that the Soviet Union had started the process of withdrawing its troops from Afghanistan in response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

The statement was made in response to reports that the United Nations had been informed of the Soviet withdrawal. The representative said that the Soviet Union had been in talks with the United Nations about the withdrawal for some time, and that the process had been ongoing for several months.

The representative said that the Soviet Union had been working closely with the United Nations to ensure a smooth withdrawal of its troops from Afghanistan. The representative added that the Soviet Union was committed to a peaceful resolution of the conflict in Afghanistan and was working towards a stable and democratic Afghanistan.

The statement was welcomed by many of the Asian, European and African nations, who praised the Soviet Union for its efforts to withdraw its troops from Afghanistan.

Tito’s condition becomes worse

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito, battling heart and kidney complications, weakened by liver fibrosis and diabetes, lay in a Belgrade hospital in “very critical” condition Thursday, according to a report that failed to dispel various rumors about his ill health.

Doctors signaled a turn for the worse last Sunday, confirming Tito’s recovery had been slowed by kidney and digestive problems.

A government source told The Associated Press that Tito’s recovery was being monitored by doctors, including specialists in kidney and liver diseases.

Tito had been in the intensive care unit of the medical center in Belgrade for most of the week, but was transferred to a new hospital nearer downtown Belgrade where he will undergo surgery Tuesday, a government source said.

Doctors were said to be withholding any report on Tito’s condition until after the surgery.

Doctors had suggested earlier in the week that Tito’s kidney condition was improving and that he might be released within days.

The source said Tito had been transferred to the new hospital from the medical center in Belgrade.

President Krzysztof H. Kuron, the Polish leader, said he was “very concerned” about Tito’s health.

Kuron said he had spoken to Tito’s doctor, Dr. Jacek M. Kozior, who told him that Tito was in a critical condition.

Despite the transfer, no further reports on Tito’s condition were expected until after the surgery.

Doctors have said Tito is improving, but that he is still in intensive care.
