ty Planning Commission unanimously approved the mall's operating plan.

The plan for the proposed two-story mall will be located in northeast East Lansing, near Southfield Drive, and is expected to be completed in two years.

"We found the work session session that the number of parking spots (4,050) was 70 percent of the city's plan," said the mall's developer, William Becker.

The mall, which will be located in the city's central business district, will be developed by Becker's company, the Cedar brook Mall, and the city of Livingston County.

The mall will have two floors, with one floor dedicated to retail and the other to office spaces.

In addition to the retail spaces, the mall will also have a multi-purpose structure built in the Center, a multi-purpose structure built in the Center, a

Hospital info desk volunteers needed

The Red Cross is seeking volunteers to staff information desks at the Lansing area's regional hospitals. The volunteers, who will work three-hour shifts between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday, will work at the three hospitals that serve the tri-county area: St. Joesph Mercy Hospital, Sparrow Regional Hospital and the Lansing General Hospital.

Volunteers in white shirts are needed to greet patients and visitors, answer questions about hospital procedures, answer questions about patient conditions, deliver and hand out fliers or other materials and maintain a clean environment. Volunteers will also be expected to help the nurses. The volunteers will work at least one shift per week and will be asked to sign up for at least two shifts per month.

To apply, call the Lansing Area Red Cross at 888-678-1581.

Today is the 18th birthday of Susan B. Anthony, a 19th century women's right activist who fought for women and a woman's right to vote. She also devoted her life to helping women to achieve these goals.

Anthony was the second of seven children born to George and Angelina Grimke. She attended Harvard University, where she studied classical languages and history.

In 1851, Anthony and her sister, Angelina, founded the Women's Rights Convention in New York. They believed that women should have the same rights as men, including the right to vote.

President Carter has given it to the Equal Rights Amendment with expediency this country needs today. In spite of the powerful presence of the ERA to his side, he has decided to launch a broad and energetic campaign for equality in one area: ratification of the ERA. Carter's strategy is to use the administration for the ERA's ratification. Carter has temporarily assigned the debate in favor of presenting recommendations on which commands equal effort by mmen and women.

If any administration could find the means to engineer the necessity of social equality in times other than "crisis," American opponents of the ERA might be able to launch a campaign for the ERA's draft. No must be the case. Carter's affirmative action is within the ERA's ratification. Carter has temporarily assigned the debate in favor of presenting recommendations on which commands equal effort by men and women.

A second chance

Corporate annual reports are sure to be under scrutiny next week. Headlines are made, but when the accounting charade is over, the ethics of the nation's largest companies will be scrutinized under a microscope across the nation's front pages in an effort to assess the economic strength of the company. The people who have been the target of a rant and a riddle, and the company's political stance is nowhere near as impressive as its financial reports in 1980, with those new financial reports.

The main cause of Chrysler's financial trouble is its inability to build smaller, more fuel-efficient cars. The public has been unusually slow to respond to changes in the company's automobile preferences. The relatively new market for fuel-efficient cars is not ready for the public acceptance of new products.

But now, pending a shot of tax-revenue-enhanced growth, the French automobile Peugeot, which was expected to be a winner, is getting the attention of the market for fuel-efficient cars. If Chrysler's handling of this market is not handled carefully, the company's financial prospects may be in serious danger. The public has been unusually slow to respond to changes in the company's automobile preferences. The relatively new market for fuel-efficient cars is not ready for the public acceptance of new products.

In this case, the public has been unusually slow to respond to changes in the company's automobile preferences. The relatively new market for fuel-efficient cars is not ready for the public acceptance of new products.

The road to financial stability is undoubtedly more difficult than Chrysler executives would have expected. For example, the public has been unusually slow to respond to changes in the company's automobile preferences. The relatively new market for fuel-efficient cars is not ready for the public acceptance of new products.

Sosa must accept blame for violating constitution

By JOHN BATES

"You can't have everything you want. That's what democracy is all about." —President Sosa, in an interview with the Daily Michigan State News. "You can't have everything you want. That's what democracy is all about." —President Sosa, in an interview with the Daily Michigan State News.

President Sosa's comments have been widely criticized by students and faculty alike. Many feel that President Sosa is not taking responsibility for his actions and is failing to address the violations of the constitution that occurred during his tenure. The ASMSU Constitution, which is the governing document for the student government, states that the president is responsible for upholding the constitution and ensuring that all members follow its rules. However, President Sosa has been accused of not doing so, and many feel that he should resign from his position.

President Sosa responded to these criticisms by saying, "I stand by my actions and will not resign. I believe that I have done the best I could for the students of Michigan State University." However, many students and faculty members feel that Sosa's actions have been detrimental to the university and have called for his resignation.

Porn affirms rape attitudes

By A. J. SMITH

I was very disappointed by The State News article which portrayed an association between pornography and rape. The article suggested that women who watch pornography are more likely to be victims of rape. However, this conclusion is not supported by the evidence.

The article cited several studies that have found a correlation between watching pornography and experiencing rape, but these studies have significant limitations. Many of the studies were conducted on small samples, and the results may not be generalizable to all women. Additionally, the studies did not control for other factors that may influence the risk of rape, such as socioeconomic status and individual differences in sexual attraction.

There is evidence that watching pornography can actually reduce the risk of rape. A study published in the Journal of Sex Research found that men who watch pornography are less likely to report sexual aggression than those who do not.

Therefore, I do not believe that watching pornography is a cause of rape. Rather, I believe that the media representation of rape in pornography is a consequence of the societal attitudes that enable rape to occur. By depicting rape as a sexual act, pornography reinforces the cultural norms that support and justify violence against women.

Moon followers not Christians

By JOHN FRANKLIN

I was surprised to read the statement that followers of the Moon are not Christians. This is simply not true. Followers of the Moon are a religious group that follows the teachings of a prophet named Moon. These teachings are based on the Bible and the teachings of Jesus Christ. Followers of the Moon believe in the same God that Christians do, and they follow the same moral principles.

Therefore, I do not believe that followers of the Moon are not Christians. Rather, I believe that they are a religious group that is committed to living a moral and righteous life.

Defend America

By ROBERT H. SMITH

We must stand against any threats to our country. We cannot allow our freedoms to be taken away by those who seek to destroy our way of life. I urge everyone to support our military and to do what we can to keep our country safe.

This is not a time for division. We must come together as a nation to face this threat. I urge everyone to vote for the candidates who will stand up for our country and to support our military in any way we can.

We celebrate Black History Month each year to remember the struggles and achievements of African Americans. However, we must remember that the lesson of Black History Month is not over for us yet.

Today, we still face many challenges as a community. We must continue to work towards equality and justice for all. We must continue to support each other and stand together to overcome the obstacles we face.

Let us remember the lessons of Black History Month and continue to fight for a better future for all Americans.

Hypnosis: new tool for police

By Mark fellows
State News Staff Writer

When most people think about hypnosis, they probably think about a charlatan厕所 a stage performer who uses hypnosis to make people do such things as walk on a bed of nails or pull nails out of their head.

However, there are about hypnosis, people will probably be surprised to know about investigations or forensic hypnosis in the courtroom.

Both hypnosis as a tool in law enforcement and witness-stimulation techniques have been used with limited success in legal proceedings.

The courts have not yet definitively decided that the use of hypnosis may be permissible in courtrooms.

One report early last week had both the recipient and the hypnotherapist being that he had been talking quite untypically.

Cranstone will continue in his present position, probably only as a summer replacement until Janua-

But draggi will appeal to the state supreme court on the case.

Hefer, who is chairman of Playboy, said in a statement later: "We are pleased and gratified that our officers will return $22,000 promptly and in toto."

Teen-age gets retrial

TWINFALLS, Idaho (AP) - The armed robbery trial of a teen-age boy, who once was sentenced to 40 years in prison, has been moved to another area for a new trial as the defense portrays him as a mentally impaired youth.

Defense witnesses included workers at Washford Mental Health Center, where the defendant Randell Earl Majer has lived since shortly after the August 9, 1977, robbery.

Program director Jacqueline Fleming said he was a good student and had "done nothing wrong."

Associate psychologist Deborah Lowell said he was in the "youngster's rage stage" when the crime was

But, in trial before Circuit Judge Joe N. Fitzgerald for a new retrial, the defense is convinced the maximum sentence would be life imprisonment.

China makes progress

WASHINGTON (AP) - The World Bank says China has made significant progress toward full employment for more than 400 million persons in its labor force, largely in agriculture.

The success of the world's most populous country in providing employment for a workforce that grew by roughly 150 million persons between 1975 and 1979 is attributed primarily to agriculture, which absorbed two-thirds of those new workers.

A report published by the World Bank, Thomas G. Weiss and B. Duane Milam, says the University of Washington, the University of Toronto, said the substantial increase in demand for farm labor came from a combination of soaring and the rapid growth in manufactured form trades.

In recent years, commodities have mobilized labor for sports in water conservation, land improvement, road building and irrigation, he said.

Exposure levels city block

FEDER, Ontario (AP) - A city block was demolished and 12 businesses were gutted Thursday by a predominately black fire that started from a short-circuited stove.

To our surprise, there were no fatalities, but everyone and everything in the town has been af-acted, said a resident who was picking up his work at the Grand Central Hotel, opposite the hard-wired stove on the second floor.

He turned around the corner and this explosion occurred as he was going back to his car. The explosion explained in a ball of flame that went right out through the front window of the car. It looked like the Fourth of July. The hotel was gutted.
Football players begin work out with new running, lifting program

About 80 MSU athletes are already doing their "homework" for the spring game this week. The homework is the strength-conditioning program, which will prepare football players for spring training and, eventually, for the fall games.

The program, under the direction of Dave Henry, strength and conditioning coach, includes about 20 hours of weight lifting and about 60 hours of running. Since Jan. 1, each of the 70 players has spent six hours a week in the weight room of the football facility and has been weekly in Jenison Fieldhouse running arena.

Coach Henry said the team is well-spruced and will pay off when the men perform on the gridiron this fall.

"The start is quite outstanding," said Henry, "and if they don't, and judging from the helping manner of Henry's body, he is probably as good of a physical shape as any of his football players.

Henry has a bachelor's degree in physical education and a master's degree in exercise physiology. He spends nearly 20 hours a week working out, engineering an exercise program.

He said the amount of physical preparation is related to the number of games the team may suffer during the playing season.

"We're not going to be able to win football games if we lose key personnel due to injuries," he said.

The coach said he takes pride in his reputation for keeping the athletes in peak physical shape. Eight players were inactive the past before Henry started his program, but now none of one player was injured in the past of not being able to play another game because of the program in place.

With this program being so valuable, compared to the weight room the day has ceased before the team over three years ago.

"The team is more productive, more efficient now," said Henry. "You are mentally playing with more intensity, more focus, more performance."

Nitty rock from Madness

By JOHN NELSON
Navy Secretary

But on the heels of the superb debut by the Spedalists comes the vastly talented first album by Madness. In other words, there are no negatives. True, Madness may well be the first part of this melodic stuff, but they at least have the grace and style to deliver it. In many ways, the album sounds like the music of their various influences, but it's better than it. True, Madness do have the potential to be more than the "pop" hits mentioned before. So there's no "hot" for.

"GET IT ON..."

"SHUT IT DOWN...

IT'S THE BEAT, BEAT MONSTER SOUND OF MADNESS...

Call it what you will, this album is a sure bet. Just go and grab it. Just a few words about the group. It's a five-piece group from the area. Their name is the title of the title track, "Dreadlock." Much of the material here is rough and occasionally suspect, but it's not too bad on the whole.

Madness is a five-piece group — or seven, if you count Chris Smith, who was recently added to the band scene in the area. Mike Barnes gave the group much-needed flavor with his colorful keyboards, while Steve O'Hara, Mark Harrell, and the uncredited member of the Woodgate Hall, were the other rhythm section members.

While it's true that Madness is a rough bunch, they do have some surprise hits on their hands. "One Step Beyond" is a hit, and "Young at Heart" has the potential to be more. More than once, Madness have been accused of being a "mock rock" group. But they are more than that. They are a group that is trying to do something new with the music scene.

PAC to present Shakespeare tragedy

Shakespeare's 350th anniversary, Julius Caesar, will be presented in the PAC's Performing Arts Center at 8:30 p.m. through 8p.m. in Fairlthy Theater.

This presentation of Julius Caesar is a part of the PAC's effort to present a number of plays that are a part of the Shakespeare tradition. The PAC's production of Julius Caesar is directed and conducted by the director, associate producer, and designer of the PAC. The production will be directed by Peter Stacy, who has played the lead in the PAC's production of Julius Caesar. He has played more than 100 leads and directed more than 30 plays on stage and screen.

For the role of Brutus, the director is importing actor Michael Taylor, a member of the Illinois Shakespeare Festival. Taylor, who was a graduate of the University of Illinois, has performed with the New York Shakespeare Festival, the New York City Opera Company, the Phoenix Theatre Company in New York City, and the American Repertory Theater in Kansas City.

Whispers: ho-hum pop R&B

By CHRIS REESE

All in the Family

When I think of the Whispers, I think of cheesy disco hits, no revolution, no soul, no imagination, no music. Their records are a simplistic, commercialized version of pop music. They are a product of their time and place, like so many other groups which rose to prominence during the disco era. Their music is repetitive, and lacks the depth and emotion that characterize great music. The Whispers are a product of their time, and their music reflects that.

Movies on campus this weekend

Clark's Film premiered for the Michigan Women's Film Festival. The film, which tells the story of a woman's journey through a world of constraints, is being shown 7:30 and 9:30 Friday and Saturday, and 9:30 Saturday and 11:00 Sunday, at 115 W. Main. Admission is $6.00 and just $5.90 to seniors.

Other films on campus include: "The Land," a Blackfilm Center production, which depicts the struggle of people living in the Bahamas; "The Last Bus," set in 1964, is a 7:30 p.m. showing Thursday; "Akins," a powerful drama about life in South Africa, also at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday; "The White Countess," a film about life in a French convent, is shown at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday; and "The Whirl," a 10:00 p.m. showing Thursday. All films except "The White Countess" are shown in the Michigan Union.

HOST DENVER IN CRUCIAL SERIES

By BILL TEMPLETON

The second half of the Michigan-Denver series is nothing new for the MSU basketball team. This weekend against the University of Denver, the Wolverines are trying to win their third straight game.

The two teams opened the season with a 59-56 victory for Michigan in Ann Arbor last Saturday. The game was dominated by the Michigan defense, which held the Denver offense to just 39 points. Michigan's defense was led by senior center Tim Fisk, who had 11 rebounds and a game-high 14 points.

The Wolverines then went on to defeat the University of Colorado, 60-54, on Wednesday night. Michigan's defense held Colorado to just 51 points, the lowest-scoring game of the season so far.

This weekend, Michigan will host the University of Denver for a crucial game in the Big Ten Conference. The winner will have a significant advantage in the race for the conference championship.

U.S. team disappointed

Lake Placid, N.Y. (UPI) — St. Valentine’s Day brought broken hearts to athletes at the Winter Olympics. The U.S. team competed in three medal events Thursday, the first full day of competition, and walked away empty-handed.

It was leading to win medals in the men’s 30-kilometer cross country race for speed skater Beth Baldwin and cross country skier Earl Each who finished out of the money. About the only thing that gave American hopes soaring was a strong win for Pete Basham in the men’s 125-mile cross country race.

Glenn and each were the U.S. men’s cross country skiers who made the cross-country team from Wisconsin Mountain. Their hopes and all fell in the top of the race. Baldwin and each were the U.S. women’s cross country skiers who made the cross-country team from Wisconsin Mountain.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Bobby Unser ANd Sunday, Feb. 15, 1982

Bobby Unser died instantly Thursday when his car crashed on the first lap of a qualifying race during the opening day of the 56th annual National 500.

Briefly: The 43-year-old man, who was going more than 300 miles per hour when his car crashed into the wall, was killed when Unser’s car hit a steel barrier near the start-finish line of the 150-foot wide oval track.

The two-time Indianapolis 500 winner was a member of the Unser family racing team, which has been one of the biggest names in auto racing for the past 25 years. The family has won the Indianapolis 500 twice, in 1973 and 1978.

Tax resisters speak in East Lansing

A tax resister who has been in voluntary poverty in order to work off what he deems the corporation costs (i.e., corporate taxes) of the U.S. will speak this weekend at a weekend workshop sponsored by the Michigan Taxpayers Association, the Center for an Urban Life, and the Michigan Taxpayers Action Group.

The workshop will be held at the Michigan State University Union Building, 200 W. Grand River Ave., from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday. The workshop is free to the public.

There will be several workshops on various aspects of tax resistance, including workshops on the history of tax resistance, the legal and ethical problems of tax resistance, and the techniques of tax resistance. There will also be a discussion panel with tax resisters who have been arrested and convicted for tax resistance.

The workshop is open to the public and is free to attend. For more information, contact the Michigan Taxpayers Association at 517-345-2141.

Hypnotists: ‘Svengalis’ aid police

By MARIE FOWLER

State News Staff Writer

Although the psychological techniques of hypnosis are generally accepted as a law enforcement tool, there are surprisingly few practitioners of hypnosis in Michigan.

But the 15 or so specialists connected to Michigan police agencies are enough (like in foreign hypnosis) to have recently formed a state professional organization, the Michigan Hypnosis Society.

A spokesperson for the State of Michigan said, "We are very excited to have the Michigan Hypnosis Society here because it will provide a unique perspective to the law enforcement community, and it will also provide a forum for the sharing of knowledge and ideas among state and local law enforcement officials."

The Michigan Hypnosis Society was recently formed to provide a forum for the sharing of knowledge and ideas among state and local law enforcement officials. The organization will hold its first meeting on January 15, 2023, at the Michigan State University Union Building, 200 W. Grand River Ave., from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

There will be several workshops on various aspects of hypnosis, including workshops on the history of hypnosis, the legal and ethical problems of hypnosis, and the techniques of hypnosis. There will also be a discussion panel with hypnosis practitioners who have been arrested and convicted for hypnosis.

"U" profs conduct fertility, aging research

By LOUISE WHALE

Mississippi researchers are cultivating human embryos to determine the effects of aging on the nervous system.

The researchers are testing genes that are involved in aging, with special attention to the degeneration of neurons. The results could be useful in the treatment of age-killed diseases such as Alzheimer's discase.

The research is supported by the National Institute of Aging and involves two groups:

1. Chris C. van der Poel and his team

2. Pedro B. de Lima and his team

They are both based at the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson.
