Waldheim delays U.N.'s Iran mission

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ann Miller, Associated Press Writer

The United Nations Security Council delayed again Tuesday its consideration of a resolution calling for the immediate withdrawal of Iranian troops from Iraq. The resolution, which was approved by the council Monday, was put on hold by a single negative vote from Iraq, which had said it would not support the resolution until it was given time to review its military situation.

Meanwhile, the United States and its allies were preparing for a possible military operation against Iraq, which they believe is building up forces on its border with Kuwait.

Waldheim warns of Iran threat

The United Nations Secretary General, wearing a dark suit and tie, stood in front of a blue background, addressing the General Assembly.

"We are dealing with a dangerous situation," he said. "We must act now to prevent a wider conflict."

The assembly, which included representatives from more than 150 countries, listened intently to the Secretary General's plea for action.

Hostage report emerges from Iran

By REED GOLDIN

A report from Tehran claims that the hostages in the U.S. embassy in Tehran are being treated well and that they are receiving medical care.

"The hostages are being taken care of," said the report. "They are being fed regularly and are in good health."

However, the United States has not been able to confirm the report and is continuing to monitor the situation closely.

Gov. Roy Romer said he is prepared to resign if necessary to avoid a crisis in his administration.

"I will do whatever it takes to restore confidence in my administration," he said. "I understand the gravity of my position."
Michigan Democratic caucuses

The fact that this allows Democrats to vote for a weak Republican candidate without changing their own party's simple choice does not bother them. It is a cold thought of hearing that,” said Lawrence.

"The possibility is there, but the strength of Michigan has more integrity than that. People (Democratic) aren't going to be rolled in a Republican candidate, and you're better suited to win one," he said.

Michigan’s two largest cities, Detroit and Grand Rapids, are home to the Democratic Party’s headquarters and several other political organizations. The party’s leaders, however, are not satisfied with their position, and are working hard to improve it.

A Democrat, who has been a member of the Democratic Party for many years, says that the party is finally starting to look at its own problems.

He adds: "The party has always been good at talking about others, but now it’s time to focus on itself."
City Council approves development grant budget

BY MICHAEL YEH
State News Bureau Writer

The $807,000 Community Development Block Grant Budget, which includes $225,000 to be used for the City Development Director’s Office, was approved by City Council.

Two amendments to the budget were suggested before council voted to approve the budget. Community Development Director John Costello suggested adding $1,000 to the budget for the city’s Traffic department. The amendment was approved by a 4-1 vote.

City Council member_ptr Don Bullblad, who is also chairman of the Budget Committee, said he had discussed the budget with the Community Development Department, and had no objections.

The BUDGET. Instead of setting aside $300,000 for the purchase of the parks and libraries with a majority of the money earmarked for the city’s parks department, the amendment increased the amount to $400,000.

Eight blocks, which would total $225,000, would be made available for the following projects:

1. The development will be used to replace some of the trees in the city’s parks.
2. The city would spend the money to build a new blacktop parking lot.
3. The development will be used to replace some of the trees in the city’s parks.

7. The development will be used to replace some of the trees in the city’s parks.
8. The city would spend the money to build a new blacktop parking lot.

Commissioner McCullough, who is also chairman of the Budget Committee, said he did not see any need to spend that much money on the bicycle parking areas.

The amendment would allow the city to spend the money on the following projects:

1. The city would spend the money to build a new blacktop parking lot.
2. The city would spend the money to build a new blacktop parking lot.
3. The city would spend the money to build a new blacktop parking lot.

The only solution is dissolution

It was with noble, albeit misinformed, motives that representatives of the student government agencies joined forces 10 years ago to found the Metro Student Squad. Dedicated to serving the students with more power and autonomy than ever before, the Squad strove to be the lungs of the student body.

What is the difference, one might ask, between a student government and a student government organization? The answer is simple: a student government organization is simply a student government that exists to serve the students.

The Student Government of Wayne State University is a student government organization. It exists to serve the students, and its representatives are elected by the students to represent them. It is not a student government organization, it is simply a student government.

Student government organizations, on the other hand, are student government organizations that have been disbanded. They were created to serve the students, but they were disbanded because they were not effective in serving the students.

The Metro Student Squads was one of the earliest student government organizations. It was created in 1978 to serve the students, but it was disbanded in 1988 because it was not effective in serving the students.

As a result of the dissolution of the Metro Student Squad, the students are left with a void. There is no organization to represent them, and there is no organization to serve them.

The only solution is for the students to create a new student government organization. This organization should be created to serve the students, and its representatives should be elected by the students to represent them.

JULIUS CAESAR

By WILLIAM HARNASDIELT
State News Reviewer

A CUT above all the rest!

Roman politics and intrigue take center stage in this production of Shakespeare's timeless tragedy.

The theme of the play is the conflict between the personal ambitions of Caesar and Brutus, played by William Eberle. Eberle portrays Caesar with a sense of triumph and self-importance, while Brutus is presented as a man of honor and integrity. The play is a masterful portrayal of the complexities of human nature and the consequences of ambition.

The supporting cast includes Julia Fairchild as Cassius, Anne Ramsay as Portia, and Johnel Watts as Antony. Each actor brings their own unique interpretation to the characters, adding depth and nuance to the performances. The ensemble delivers a cohesive and satisfying performance, bringing the timeless story to life on stage.

The set design is simple yet effective, with minimal props that allow the focus to remain on the actors. The use of lighting is especially notable, creating dramatic and visually striking moments throughout the performance. The costumes are period-appropriate, adding to the overall aesthetic.

The director, Jane Oldenberg, effectively guides the cast and crew, ensuring a coherent and engaging production. The artistic direction is sound, with a strong emphasis on character development and the exploration of themes. The result is a thrilling and thought-provoking theatrical experience that leaves a lasting impression.

In conclusion, JULIUS CAESAR is a compelling and well-executed production that does justice to Shakespeare's masterpiece. It is a must-see for theater enthusiasts and newcomers alike, offering a deep exploration of human motivations and the consequences of power and ambition.

The MSU basketball team would need a berth in both the conference and regional tournaments to stay in the NCAA tournament picture. A sweep of the Hoosiers this weekend would give the Spartans a 19-10 record and 9-8 conference mark heading into the final two games of the season.

"A win over Indiana would help tremendously in their efforts to get a bid," he and telephone from New

JACOB VIREN

The Hoosiers have been playing well without senior forward Alphonso Ford, who will miss the remainder of the season with a knee injury.

"They don't have as much experience as we do," said Junior forward Tommie McCorkle, who will be one of the starters against Indiana. "But they do have a lot of talent and are a very good team."

Michigan State gymnastics team began its weekend tour in the Big Ten conference on Friday when the Spartans traveled to Bloomington, Ind., to face Indiana State University in Bloomington, Ind., and Minnesota University in Minneapolis. The meet was held at the University of Minnesota's Athlete Center and was attended by about 150 spectators.

The Spartans' next meet will be against Penn State on Saturday and the final meet of the season will be against Wisconsin on Sunday. The meet will be held at the University of Wisconsin's Athletic Center.

"We have some good teams in the conference," said Coach Joni Wille, "and we need to have a good weekend against them."

Against the Badgers, MSU was losing by 13 points going into the second half, but rallied back to win by six points. The final score was 93-87. Michigan State scored 130 points, while Wisconsin scored 124 points. The meet was held at the University of Wisconsin's Athletic Center and was attended by about 150 spectators.

"We hope to continue that tradition this year." The meet will be held at the Crisler Center on the U-M campus and conclude with the Big Ten meet next month in Indianapolis. More than 100 athletes from across the country will participate in the meet. The meet, which is held in honor of the late George H. Boyce, will fundraise for the Dugal Foundation, which supports research into knee injuries on athletes. We've had a lot of success in the past with this event," he said. "We hope to continue that tradition this year."

Michigan Republican leader backs Bush

By United Press International

Rome (UPI) - Michigan's Republican Governor James J. Doyle endorsed President Ronald Reagan and Senator George Bush Wednesday, saying he would be the best choice for the country's next chief executive.

Mr. Doyle, a leader of the conservative wing of the Republican Party, is widely believed to be a potential vice presidential candidate for 1980.

He said he had been considering endorsements for virtually two years, but was not ready to announce his choice before now.

"I think it is important that a man who is to be the leader of the free world should be someone who can be trusted and who will work for the welfare of all people," he said.

He added he would announce his choice at a later date.

Mr. Doyle said he had been considering endorsements for virtually two years, but was not ready to announce his choice before now.

Troopers gain bargaining agent

By CHIS PARRIS

United Press International

The Michigan State Police

Troopers Association has won

its battle with the Michigan

Department of State Police for a statewide bargaining agent

after a long struggle.

The association, which represents statewide troopers, is in the process of selecting a labor dispute resolution agency to handle the negotiating process.

There were 250 votes for representation by the association.

The vote was conducted by a firm not affiliated with

the Michigan State Police

Association.

The results of the vote were counted electronically

and tabulated.

The association will now

begin negotiations with the state troopers.

The association was formed in the early 1970's

and has been active in negotiating with the state

since its formation.

The Michigan State Police

Association represents troopers in the state of Michigan.

The results of the vote

will be presented to

the Michigan State Police

Association for consideration.
