Reagan and Carter win N.H. primaries

By The Associated Press
CONCORD, N.H., Jan. 24 - President Ronald Reagan and Vice President Walter Mondale each clinched a narrow victory Tuesday night in New Hampshire, where both had campaigned aggressively. But the two candidates had campaigned in the state that day, with no place to go but to hear the results.

While Mondale won in New Hampshire and Carter lost there, where Carter also lost, he was twenty minutes in the equivalent扭曲 versions of the previous presidential.

REagan was the front-runner for former U.S. Ambassador George Bush and five other GOP candidates. The second place finisher was 75-year-old Elyse Wondry.

VIOLENCE CONTINUES
Pro-Soviet forces arrest Moslems

Washington, Jan. 24 - Soviet forces have arrested more than 300 civilians in the central region of the Afghan capital of Kabul, the Associated Press reported Tuesday.

The arrests, which occurred in the days following a major Soviet troop buildup in the region, were made within a day of explosions in key city houses that were considered to be involved in the recent militant activities.

The Associated Press said relatives of those arrested were not permitted to see their relatives, asking in a carriage which was commandeered by Soviet forces.

Rioting in Kabul's provincial government offices and demonstrations by the opposition to the government have been reported.

HOSPITALS IN Kabul have reported more than 300 civilian killed in the last six days and more than 400 wounded.

Among the wounded were those who had been injured during the previous week's riots.

Foreign broadcasts by Kabul radio have reported that the Panjshir Valley, which closed by the Soviet forces, is still controlled by the Afghan resistance forces.

On Monday night, the Afghan resistance forces were reported to have taken control of a town in the Panjshir Valley.

The Associated Press said the new unrest in Kabul is caused by the threat of Soviet intervention over the control of the city by the Afghan resistance forces.

In Kabul, West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dieter Strack met with the Afghan resistance forces' leaders.

Ms. Strack arrived in Kabul on Sunday night to discuss the situation in Afghanistan and his trip to the Soviet Union.

The Associated Press said the visit of the German foreign minister was the first official visit to Afghanistan by a Western leader.

IRAQ ANNOUNCES
Iran approves return of foreign journalists

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTO, Jan. 24 - The Iraqi government has decided to welcome back to the two all journalists who were expelled from the country last week.

The move comes as a result of a diplomatic agreement between the United States and Iraq.

Bruce Gear, an Associated Press correspondent who was expelled earlier this week, was allowed to return to Iraq on Monday.

The Associated Press said the decision was made after the Egyptians and the Soviets agreed to provide assistance to the Iranians in their efforts to secure the release of the journalists.

OPPOSING RALLIES COLLIDE

Ottawa, Jan. 24 - Opposing rallies collided Tuesday night in downtown Winnipeg, where two large groups of people had converged to protest against the policies of the federal government.

The confrontations started after a group of about 500 people, including members of the Workers' Party, held a rally in support of the workers' strike in London, England.

Another group of about 2,000 people, mainly students, had gathered in the area to protest against the government's policies.

The two groups met at the intersection of two main streets, where a large police force was deployed.

The Associated Press reported that the two groups were separated by a fence, but that a small number of people tried to cross the fence.

Bill would restrict redumpsting of old motor oil

By LAURA ARMSTRONG

Car owners who change their oils often as well as those who are into the use of oil just for pet or yard work, it's likely that they will be interested in the Michigan bill that is before the Senate this week for consideration in the form of an amendment to the cable television agreement.

The current two-year agreement with National Cable Co. expires in May. The amendment will change the language of the present and extend the period to receive fees for both spring and summer months, or may add the option of receiving spring fees only in April.

The amendment may be filed in the Office of the Senate Secretary at 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Who’s giving the orders in Iran?

If the Ayatollah Khomeini had cradled the militiants holding the 50 American diplomats hostage in Iran, President Reza Pahlavi’s Bani-Sadr did a poor job of blocking, as the hostages might have gone free as soon as he had completed his investigation. His failure was due not only to his failures, but to his weakness and political lack of unity, the latter of which has united the United States, every one believing that a political tribunal would wish the survival of Khomeini and the students.

It is said to be the case of our President optimism that it was his first with the hostage crisis. Now we have learned that it is not the case of not, but it is the case of our President’s weaknesses. It is the case of our President’s weaknesses that have united the United States, every one believing that a political tribunal would wish the survival of Khomeini and the students.

Kresge’s dilemma

The screams of art students who were partially despoiled last week when a renowned and respected art instructor, Richard Kresge, was dismissed from the University, have heard that one of the charges against him was being thought to have been raised in the Eleanor Building. He was recently confined to a three-stage program, the first small stage of which has been very small, the second stage of which has been very small, and the third stage of which has been very small. The event that followed the restrictions was the death of a University’s art student, who was also a student of Kresge, and who was also a student of Kresge, and who was also a student of Kresge.

Kresge’s dismissal has raised the question of who is giving art students the freedom of expression. Kresge’s dismissal has raised the question of who is giving art students the freedom of expression. Merrill Lynch president sees mid-year recession

Bob VARIA State News Bureau

The country will experience another recession by the middle of this year, the president of Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., has forewarned.

"I don't think we have as many signs of this time as we did in 1973," Judge Birk said in a brief talk which he delivered..."People are so much more aware of inflation now."

"But we are going on a recession this year more severe than expect, surely," Merrill Lynch president Judge Birk said.

June will create a need for making information more newsy by available through home radio and television, Birk said.

The Mutants: Detroit's best

By BILL KOLZELHEIM

News Reviewer

The Mutants, Detroit's sexiest local favorites — now a devoted Monday night, and the band demonstrated once again why it's one of the city's most popular punk rock units.

The band, which has been together since late 1977, is the most recent lineup to generate local interest. Even now, they haven't run ad: "rock 'n' roll." The Mutants are very tight. Right.

Their music is passionate and intense, driven by a versatile rhythm section and a powerful, well-honed lead organ. Their sound is very original. And original, as well as their music is also their style.

The Mutants are very enthusiastic, running the greatest fan base of any Detroit band. They're also one of the few local bands that can entertain the largest audience.

The music itself is a delight. From the driving rhythm section and a powerful lead organ, the band delivers an exhilarating concert experience.

In addition to the mutual sense of humor among their band members, the high-energy setlist and a great sense of camaraderie, the band's energy never let up. The eight-piece band, browsing with Steve-Son, their lead singer, was the perfect combination of style and substance. The band's energy never let up. It was a perfect combination of style and substance.

Kool & his R&B party gang are back!

Crack that needle!

Alice, who were known as the Kool and the Gang and have been a hit for more than a decade, are back with their new album "Azalea." The group, who have been a hit since the early 1960s, are now cranking out their latest album, "Azalea," with a new sound and a fresh style.

These guys were once a group with a style in the 60s, and they still have that same style. They are the strongest party band of the 60s. They were the greatest party band of the 60s. Theirs was never set to the "Jungle Boogie."

But this time, they have a different style. Theirs is a new style, and it's a style that the Kool and the Gang has made it evident on this way. They sound like a top-notch party band, something they could never claim before this.

Their ability to keep the beat, with their new style, is what makes them the best party band. They are reliable, and they are also able to keep the beat, and make it a hit.

Of course, you can't keep the beat, and make it a hit. You have to keep the beat, and make it a hit. Theirs is a new style, and it's a style that the Kool and the Gang has made it evident on this way. They sound like a top-notch party band, something they could never claim before this.

Senior Moore emerges as NCAA distance star

By NELL KARLISH State News Sports Writer

Senior Keith Moore of MSU’s indoor track team has come into his last race week at the NCAA’s.

Moore, the team’s top distance runner, will be in Lake Placid, New York, at the Olympic Games this year.

Moore, the 1980 Olympic winter parade, won gold for Minnesota, and 1980 won for Michigan State.

Moore said that Moore, who had been out of the Olympics for two years due to a broken bone, would compete in the 1,500-meter run at the Games.

Moore has been training for the Olympics since last summer, and is considered one of the top distance runners in the country.

Moore has won six NCAA titles and has been a member of the U.S. Olympic team for the past four years.

Moore is expected to be one of the top medalists at the Games, and is considered a strong contender for the gold medal.

Moore has been training with coach Eileen Moore, who is also a former Olympic gold medalist.

Moore said that he is looking forward to the opportunity to compete in the Olympics again, and is excited about the chance to represent his country.

Lansing nearly named ‘Eldridge’ when capital was reestablished

BY SHIRLEY MIKA
Super News Staff Writer
Lansing would have been called ‘Eldridge’ instead of its current name—according to the original wish of the state’s founders. The name was changed because those who had settled in the interior part of the state felt that Detroit should not have too much influence over the affairs of the area, notes a bosom from the Capitol.

It was also felt that Detroit was too close to the Canadian border, they said, ‘would be worse for the capital and all money of an enemy’s gain.’

Latin America relations

subject panel discussion

U.S. foreign policy toward Latin America will be reviewed in a panel discussion at 8 p.m., Thursday, in the MSU Union, Lansing's union room.

The meeting will be open to the public and will be mediated by Dr. Eldridge Kestenbaum, assistant professor of foreign relations at MSU.

The panel members will include:

Joab Bausch, professor of history at MSU.

Artur P. Grenna, professor of anthropology at MSU.

Donna Smith, professor of government at MSU.

The discussion will cover the following topics:

The U.S. Latin American policy

The future of the Latin American policy

The impact of the U.S. Latin American policy on the country

The impact of the U.S. Latin American policy on the world

The impact of the U.S. Latin American policy on the college

The impact of the U.S. Latin American policy on the university
