For people who love cars — a car that loves people.

If there's one thing we're good at, it's winning friends and influencing people. And our new 1967 Pontiac Le Mans is one of the winningest influencers we've ever come up with.

Could it be its standard 165-hp Overhead Cam Six? Or its luxurious all Morrokide interior? Or the list of options you can order that includes wonderful things like that hood-mounted tach up there? Or the 215-hp OHC 6 with or without the Sprint option? Or the 250- and 285-hp V-8s? Or the standard safety items that include the energy absorbing steering column developed by General Motors, passenger-guard door locks on all doors and folding front seat back latches?

We're not sure. But we have a sneaking suspicion it's all these things. See your Pontiac dealer and find out. 67 Pontiac Le Mans/Ride the Wide-Track Winning Streak

Old Rivals Meet In Biggest Game

It's the game of the year, decade, century or history of college football. Take your choice.

The winner will get a beat-up old megaphone that was put up for the series back in 1949 by the Detroit alumni clubs of both schools.

ABC-TV will beam the action to a good portion of the country as a regional "Game of the Week" in the NCAA television series. The part which isn't getting it is screaming bloody murder.

Everyone else has experted the game. You might as well, too. Here are some comparative statistics to help stimulate your thinking:

Team rushing—Notre Dame has gone 226.7 yards per game and allowed 75.6, while State has gone 240.3 and permitted 47.

Team passing—The Irish have netted 178.2 per try and permitted 99.8. State has hit for 122.4 and allowed 161.1.

Individual rushing—Nick Eddy tops Notre Dame with 498 yards on 67 carries for a 7.4-yard average and seven TDs. Clint Jones heads State with 771 yards, a 5.1 average and six TDs.

Individual passing—Notre Dame's Terry Hanratty has hit on 77 of 143 for 1,221 yards and eight TDs. He's had ten intercepted. State's Jimmy Raye has clicked on 55 of 103 for 968 yards and ten TDs. He's had six intercepted.

Pass receiving—ND's Jim Seymour has snared 37 for 712 yards and six TDs. State's Gene Washington has caught 22 for 554 yards and seven TDs.

THANK YOU, NOTRE DAME

Past favors will count for little in the heat of today's football action, but Spartan fans should at least be aware of the considerable debt Michigan State owes Notre Dame.

It was Notre Dame which extended a helping hand right after World War II which aided materially in State's gaining admission into the Big Ten.

Michigan State officials were told by Big Ten folks that a major drawback to their conference candidacy was a too-small stadium (26,000 capacity). Yet when the Spartan leaders sought to schedule Big Ten teams in Spartan Stadium so that an enlargement program could be justified, they met a stone wall. It seemed a hopeless impasse until Notre Dame agreed on home-and-home play starting in 1948. The stadium was enlarged to 51,000 by that season and a year later Big Ten membership was attained.

It also should be acknowledged that the results of the modern Notre Dame series have done more to project Michigan State into the national football limelight than anything else. One of the greatest of these was last year's epic defensive struggle at South Bend which State won 12-3 to complete a 10-0 regular season.

Actually, Notre Dame is the oldest gridiron rival on State's schedule. The Irish and Spartans (then the Michigan Aggies) first played football in 1897. Michigan came on the schedule a year later.

Spartan Potpourri

The Spartan Stadium record attendance of 78,833 set against Michigan earlier this season probably won't be topped today. But the record press throng of 553 recorded in the same game will be broken easily. Over 225 newsmen have signed in for the game. These, plus radio and TV personnel, photographers, telephone and Western Union people, press box staff and others will add up to 650-700 people. It could be the biggest press count at any game in college football history.

The annual Spartan Football Bust will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 29, in the Civic Center in downtown Lansing. Several thousand people are expected. Sportscaster Curt Gowdy will be master of ceremonies. Tickets at $10 each may be obtained by phoning Lansing 353-2958 or dropping into office 220, Jenison Field House.

The Harlem Globetrotters, with American League triple crown winner Frank Robinson as an added attraction, will appear in Jenison Field House on Tuesday, Nov. 22. The Michigan State Varsity Club is sponsoring the event for the benefit of the Ralph Young Scholarship Fund. Tickets may be purchased at Paramount News Center, Jenison Gym Ticket office or any Varsity club member. The prices are $1 for students, $2 general admission and $3 for reserved seats. Show time is 7:30 p.m.

Quarterback's Pick!

Quarterbacks are selected for their ability to call the right play at the right time. They know the capabilities of each of their teammates—who is good for three yards and a first down off tackle, who is fast and aggressive, with fingers that stick to a pass like glue, and when the going gets tough just who to call on to boot the pigskin out of danger, supply the point after touchdown, or kick the game-winning field goal.

Picking the right printer for the right job calls for some fine quarterbacking, too. Take a football program for instance—does your printer have the presses and equipment, plus craftsmen with know-how, to get the job done and delivered at the stadium gates game after game, year after year? Speaker-Hines & Thomas does. You call the play and we'll take it from there!

ONE OF THE GREAT senior classes in Michigan State football history winds up collegiate eligibility here today, and fittingly bows out in a battle for the national championship.

Eighteen Spartans will wear their Green and White togs for the final time. During the period in which they've played, Michigan State has recorded some of its most brilliant gridiron achievements.

Among many accomplishments of the group are helping the Spartans to post a 23-6 record over three years, to capture two straight Big Ten titles, to win one national championship and earn a shot at another today, to get a Rose Bowl trip, and to win 19 straight regular season games over a two-year period.

No one would quibble if Coach Duffy Daugherty applied the phrase "That Wonderful Year" to 1963 when these outstanding athletes enrolled at the East Lansing campus.

The ledger becomes crowded when considering the seniors individually.

Four of them—Clinton Jones, Webster, Smith and Washington—achieved All-America and All-Big Ten honors a year ago. Those four plus Jerry Jones, Kenney, Thornhill and West already have won two varsity letters.

Washington and Webster have been starters since the first game of their sophomore seasons. West, Thornhill and Clinton Jones worked their way into starting lineups to stay a few games later in 1964.

Washington, Smith and Clinton Jones have played in every game of their entire careers.

Kenney has been strictly a kicking specialist but how valuable he's been to the Spartans. He is the school's all-time field goal kicking leader and one of the most effective punt and kickoff men the team has had over the years.

Fame has been late coming for three of the seniors. Gallinagh, Richardson and Hoag blossomed out as defensive starters just this year and have done bang-up jobs.

Jerry Jones and Summers have traded defensive starting assignments over the past two years, and Brawley has been a top defensive line reserve for two years.

Lukasik and Mullen have been valuable jack-of-all-trade reserves over three years. Skidmore and Lowther own reserve status too, with Lowther's moment to remember a six-yard TD dash against Ohio State in 1965.

Redd has carved his own special niche. He was not invited back for early fall practice but answered an emergency call when the team needed a center to snap the ball back for punts and placement kicks.

We're happy to salute this outstanding senior group and thank it for many, wonderful memories.

25 Years a President

Dr. John A. Hannah

A REPORTER ONCE ASKED Dr. John A. Hannah how he viewed his role as university president, one of the toughest jobs around.

The newsman, collecting data for a national story on college presidents who are pioneering changes on campus, received a quick reply.

"As a college president," Dr. Hannah said, "you can accomplish more for more people than anywhere else in society."

For what he has accomplished since becoming president of MSU more than 25 years ago (July 1, 1941), Dr. Hannah was honored at a recognition dinner last night at the Lansing Civic Center. A distinguished gathering of more than 1,200 alumni, faculty, friends and leaders in education and government was present.

Messages from President Johnson and former Presidents Eisenhower and Truman lauded Dr. Hannah for his long years of public service. Since 1957, he has been chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, a position he also held under President Kennedy. Also paying tribute to Dr. Hannah was Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame.

Dr. Hannah, who has guided the university's growth from 6,356 students in 1941 to 38,107 on the East Lansing campus this fall, was also cited as a leading spokesman for higher education and a champion of the land-grant philosophy, which MSU pioneered.

The MSU president is less than a hundred miles from his birthplace, (Grand Rapids, Oct. 9, 1902) but his views are far from parochial. His work as an agriculture extension specialist, immediately after he received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture at MSU in 1923, put him in close contact with people in all parts of the state. His global interests were sparked in 1949 when he was appointed by President Truman to the International Development Advisory Board which formulated policy for the Point Four program.

Today, MSU is a leader in international programs with educational projects in Asia, Africa and Latin America. A government official recently termed MSU's business education program in Brazil the most successful overseas project by a university.

"So intense and so persistent are the pressures on higher education today," the MSU President believes, "that innovation is mandatory for colleges and universities."

Anticipating what was ahead for MSU, Dr. Hannah some years ago named a special faculty committee to take a long, hard look at traditional practices and chart the future of what was to become one of the nation's top 10 universities. Out of this has come, among other things, MSU's University College, offering what Dr. Hannah calls a core of knowledge to which all persons ought to be exposed; the Honors College which offers special programs for academically talented students; the living-learning facilities, incorporating classrooms and faculty offices in residence halls.

In a further move to meet the challenge of bigness, MSU last year opened Justin S. Morrill College, a small college within the larger university. A second such college will open next year.

MSU has its roots in agriculture, but under Dr. Hannah's guidance, the university has expanded to 13 colleges. Today, such disciplines as biochemistry, nuclear physics and African languages mingle with business, education and the traditional arts and sciences. The university conducts more than 1,700 research projects and is the national center for research on the effects of radiation on plants. The opening of the new College of Human Medicine this fall was another significant development in the university's history.

However, Dr. Hannah points out, "people, not things, are of primary importance, and education should be their handmaiden wherever they are and whatever their callings may be."

Perhaps this observation, more than any, epitomizes the thinking of Dr. John A. Hannah under whose guidance 85,050 graduates have begun their careers.

Dr. Robert S. Shaw, MSU president from 1928-41, awards John A. Hannah honorary doctor of agriculture degree. Dr. Hannah succeeded Shaw as president in July, 1941.

Serving as Assistant Secretary of Defense in 1953, Dr. Hannah met with former pupil Col. Emil P. Eschenburg (center) and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor in Korea.

Dr. Hannah joined Nnamdi Azikiwe (center), then Governor-General of Nigeria and Dr. George M. Johnson, head of the MSU advisers, at University of Nigeria dedication ceremonies in 1960.

Dr. Hannah awards honorary degree to 1960 June commencement speaker, former President Harry S. Truman.

LOBUND of Notre Dame

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH on up-to-the-minute subjects is going on in three inauspicious brick buildings located near the University of Notre Dame campus—research which plays a major role in the new microbiology department at the University.

Scientists, who wrestle with such problems as cancer, tooth decay, and malnutrition, are members of the Laboratory of Bacteriology, University of Notre Dame—conveniently called LOBUND. They are also concerned with the U.S. Space Program and the effect of radiation on animal life.

The work is still more notable because of the way the scientists go about their research—using germ-free animals.

The idea to use germ-free animals began in the mind of a Notre Dame student, James A. Reyniers, in the late 1920s. The culmination of his dreams is the contemporary research center just north of the campus. Reyniers now is located in Florida doing his own research, and Dr. Morris Pollard, a member of the faculty since 1961, is the Director of LOBUND.

Some of the current projects under way at LOBUND include cancer research, dental carries, radiation, nutrition, and extra-terrestrial life. Two LOBUND scientists are working under a multi-thousand dollar grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Dr. Pollard describes other projects also under way at LOBUND in this way: "Controlled environments can be provided: (1) for surgery under unsanitary conditions; (2) for protection of human burn patients against contamination by antibiotic-resistant flora in hospitals, and (3) for portable, inexpensive isolation rooms for patients with contagious diseases."

In June, 1950, Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C. who was then president of the University, announced the establishment of LOBUND as a distinct unit. In subsequent years, LOBUND became more closely allied with the academic realm of the University. Today, it figures highly in the graduate degree programs in the department of microbiology.

During the process of maturation of the dream to the reality in 1950, there was an era of "gadgeteering" which brought about new techniques and instruments to keep the animals germ-free. During the period the isolator used at LOBUND was developed from the Reyniers-type (resembling a big metal can on its side) to the Trexler-type, which looks like a plastic tent. Scientists work inside the isolators through rubber gloves attached to the isolator.

In Holland, Japan, England, and France scientists are doing germ-free animal research, due largely to the definitive experiments performed at LOBUND.

Dr. Pollard has selected two examples of work done at LOBUND which relate to cancer research. One is with virology—which relates to the existence of flora in germ-free animals, flora which could cause a virus. The other is oncology—a study based on the idea that germ-free animals may be not-viral, in which case scientists may use the germ-free animals to study as on a tabula rosa the other possible causes of cancer—chemical and physical agents.

Mice, rats, guinea pigs, rabbits, Japanese quail and chickens have been maintained and propagated at LOBUND; turkeys, sheep, dogs, cats, monkeys, pigs and goats have been kept at LOBUND under germ-free conditions, but not propagated.

Speaking in general terms of the prospects of LOBUND and other such laboratories in the world, Dr. Pollard comments, "They do provide unique experimental advantages which could be exploited. The results will surely justify the faith and perseverance of the pioneers in germ-free research."

HIGHLIGHT OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL WEEK

National Championship Showdown

AT WHAT BETTER TIME could Notre Dame and Michigan State, the No. 1 and No. 2 ranked college football teams, meet to decide the mythical National championship than on the final day of College Football Week.

This year, 1966, and the eight-day span of November 12-19, has been officially designated College Football Week by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Football Coaches Association. Many great Americans have referred, some with considerable eloquence, to the place of football in our free society.

When President Lyndon B. Johnson received, in January of this year, the Tuss McLaughry Outstanding American Citizen Award from the American Football Coaches Association, he unmistakably spoke his personal conviction that the game of football and the men who coach it make significant contribution to the strength of this nation and its people. Mr. Johnson's remarks included:

"Football is really and truly an American institution. It embodies our highest ideals of character and courage . . . Presidents and Cabinet Officers and Justices and leaders in every walk of life have first learned the lessons of discipline, of dedication, out on the athletic fields of the United States.

"If all the nations in the world would conduct their affairs with the same dedication and with the same fair play and with the same friendly competition that the game of football stands for, peace would have been secured a long time ago."

Cage Opener 12 Days Away

Aitch drives for score.

READY TO STEP INTO the spotlight as Michigan State's top winter attendance sport is basketball, with Dec. 1 the debut date.

That evening Coach John Benington will send his second MSU varsity squad onto the Jenison Field House court to face Western Michigan, coached by former Spartan assistant Sonny Means.

The prospects are that State's 1966-67 squad should be about as strong as last year's fine comeback five, but the record is not likely to show it.

Main reason for this is that the surprise element is gone. This time around, the Spartans have been pegged as a Big Ten title contender, which means every other club in the circuit will be gunning for them.

Little was expected of the 1965-66 team, Benington's first at State, but it proceeded to rise from tenth to second in the league and post fine 17-7 overall record.

The Big Ten mark was 10-4, one game behind Michigan, and who can forget the thrashing the Spartans gave the champion Wolverines in the season's finale in March.

Gone from the team via the graduation route are big guns Stan Washington and Bill Curtis, 1-2 in scoring and in rebounding their senior seasons.

It'll be almost impossible to replace them, but Benington will have a solid nucleus with which to build the new unit.

Three regulars are back. They're center Matthew Aitch (6-7), and John Bailey (6-0). Also on the roster are key 1965-66 reserves center Jerry Geistler (6-8), forward Art Baylor (6-6) and guard Shannon Reading (6-1).

There are four sophomores who figure to help the Spartans. Forward Lee Lafayette (6-6) could be a first-stringer from the word go, and a lot is expected from center Tom Lick (6-10), forward John Holms (6-4) and guard Richie Jordan (5-7).

Still others with good possibilities are guard John Gorman (5-11), forwards Ted Crary (6-5) and Heywood Edwards (6-5) and guard Jim O'Brien (6-3).

The best-bet starting five would seem to be Lafayette and either Baylor or Geistler at forwards, Aitch at center and Bailey and Rymal at guards.

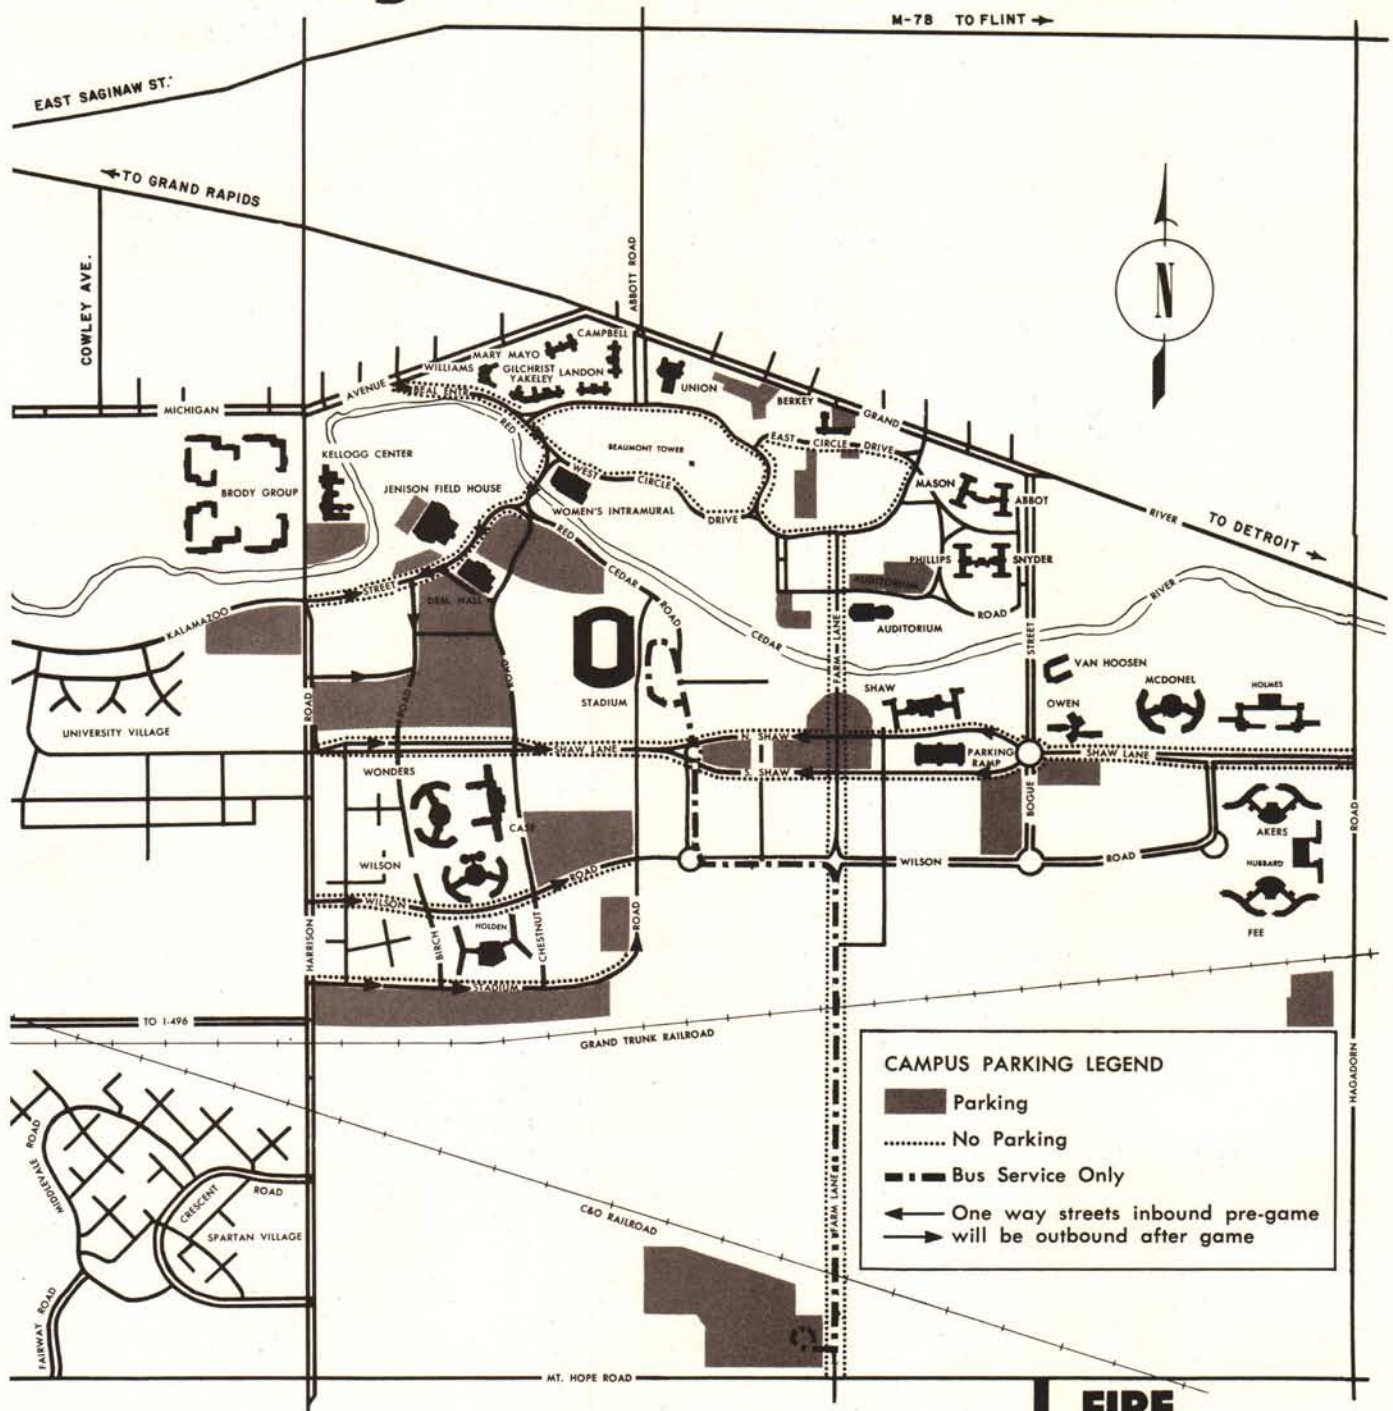

The team's major assets figure to be an experienced back-court crew, good team speed and great spirit. Major problems are to locate and develop able relief men at the forwards and at center.

State will play nine non-conference games in December including three in the Quaker City Tourney in Philadelphia during the holiday period.

The always-rugged Big Ten schedule of 14 games will open Jan. 7 at Illinois.

Working with Benington this year will be new assistant Gus Ganakas and holdover frosh coach Bob Nordmann.

TV Brings Fan to the Game

By ROONE ARLEDGE, Vice-President and Executive Producer of ABC Sports

MILLIONS OF FOOTBALL FANS from across the country will come to the Michigan State-Notre Dame battle today via television.

ABC-TV is broadcasting the battle from Spartan Stadium as the first half of an action-packed Saturday double-header.

Armchair fans will be seeing the latest in sports broadcasting techniques as ABC makes an effort to bring the fan to the game rather than taking the game to the fan.

Before 1960, telecasting college football consisted of simply photographing the game while the announcer described it. All that was changed with the arrival of these telecasting innovations: small, hand-held cameras that roamed the sidelines, shooting game and spectator action alike, and long range microphones that isolated the exciting sounds of football above the roar of the crowd.

The isolated camera was added; then instant replay, stop action and slow motion re-runs, end zone cameras and cameras high above the field on cranes and blimps, announcers interviewing players and coaches on the field.

At ABC-TV the world of sports is a 52-weeks-a-year activity. The culmination of this year-round activity is NCAA football, which we are extremely pleased to welcome back to the ABC Sports line-up after an absence of several seasons.

The organization and execution of a football television series is an incredibly complex operation.

Today's State-Notre Dame game is typical of the coverage situation in most NCAA telecasts.

On Wednesday evening five production people rush for a plane at Kennedy airport in New York City—a producer, an associate producer, an associate director and two production assistants. The camera director is already en route from Los Angeles.

Twenty-four hours ago the technical group, consisting of an engineering management supervisor from the network, a technical director, four videomen, two audiomen, seven cameramen, two driver/maintenance men for the mobile control unit, two video tape engineers, an engineer for the stop action device and three cable/utility men, arrived on location. The unit manager has been in town for two days checking production arrangements.

The mobile unit, a $1,500,000 color TV station on wheels, was driven 700 miles from last week's game location and is now parked and hooked up to power at the west side of Spartan Stadium. Several members of the local telephone company are on hand to install special phone lines and broadcast audio and video circuits.

Before airtime on Saturday afternoon, the entire technical crew alone will have spent close to 1,000 man-hours in travel, and labor in setting up and checking out color cameras, zoom lenses, microphones, headsets, tape machines, cables and monitors. In the meantime, the production staff will be holding continuous meetings, while the announcers do homework on statistics, biographies, players and team defense and offense.

To give you an idea of what goes on at airtime, let's take a quick look at just the internal communications system needed for a football telecast.

To begin with, there are interconnecting phone lines from the producer in the mobile unit to the announcers and production assistants, both in the press box and on the field, in addition to the area where the visual scoring and identification devices are located. The associate director who will handle the relaying of cues is connected to the producer's circuit, and also to the coordinating studio in Chicago.

Another circuit connects the director to each of the seven cameramen and the stop action engineer; another from the technical director to the videomen who control the quality of the individual camera pictures.

These and other innovations in production methods and techniques have revolutionized TV football coverage and certainly increased enjoyment of the game to the fans at home.

MICHIGAN STATE's Intramural program is run not only for students but to a large extent by students.

Some 150-160 men and women work in various capacities from residence hall area supervisors to graduate head supervisors each term. All students working in the Intramural program are chosen for their ability to perform various responsibilities. The most crucial area, however, is their willingness to accept the philosophy of service to the participating students.

It is primarily student employees who are in contact with student participants, and, therefore, it is the student employees who actually implement the philosophy of the program.

To provide adequate supervision and control for 260 touch football teams this fall, a staff of approximately 60 officials, including sports supervisors, is required on the seven lighted fields. The soccer and volleyball leagues require six and five officials, respectively, while bowling is covered adequately with one man.

During the fall season, volleyball is the biggest women's team sport with 58 teams—22 officials are needed for the six volleyball courts. At the same time, four officials are working with four field hockey teams.

In addition to sports officials, a variety of other vital jobs are performed by students. The supply room in the Men's building issues as many as 25,000 items of equipment during a month. This may include 4,000 paddleball paddles and 2,000 basketballs.

The supply room in the Women's building also serves physical education as well as intramural participants. Students are needed to staff the information and reservation desks in both buildings. These men and women serve their fellow students by reserving courts and dispensing information concerning sports schedules and opportunities. Over 30 other students are needed to staff the five pools used for informal and competitive swimming.

Hundreds of other students are elected or appointed as independent, fraternity, sorority, and dormitory team managers, house or residence hall athletic directors, and graduate resident advisors responsible for intramural activities.

STADIUM INFORMATION

As guests today of Michigan State University, your cooperation is solicited in maintaining the dignity and reputation of the institution.

We request your cooperation in observing the rules and traditions of this University and of the state law which makes it illegal to bring or consume alcoholic beverages of any kind on the campus.

LOST AND FOUND

Lost and found articles should be reported to the Police Information Booth, located at northeast corner of the stadium, not later than 5 p.m. on the day of the game. Inquiries at any other time should be directed to the Lost and Found department, Student Union Building. Telephone 355-3497.

POLICE BOOTH

This unit is located at northeast corner of the stadium.

SERVICE TO PHYSICIANS

Doctors anticipating emergency calls during the games are requested to notify attendants at the information booth in the center of the West stands. This service cannot be extended to the general public.

REST ROOMS

Rest rooms are located underneath both the lower and upper decks—in the East lower stands under sections 6 and 11, and in the West lower stands under sections 21 and 26—in the East upper stands under sections 105 and 112, and in the West upper stands under sections 120 and 127.

CAMERAS AND RADIOS

Movie cameras and radios are NOT permitted in the stands during the game. Please check such items at the Police booth, located at northeast corner of the stadium.

EMERGENCIES—FIRST AID

Nurses are on duty during games at units located under the West stands between sections 23 and 24, and under the East stands at the University garage office. In case of illness or an accident, fans should attract the attention of the nearest uniformed or arm-banded attendant for prompt aid.

PUBLIC TELEPHONES

Pay stations are located under sections 6, 11, 22 and 25 in the lower stands and under sections 105, 112, 120 and 127 in the upper stands.

TICKETS

Ticket offices in Jenison Fieldhouse will be open until 11:30 a.m. before the games for persons desiring to purchase tickets for the remaining games on the schedule.

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM ANNOUNCEMENTS

No special announcements are made over the public address system except in cases of gravest emergency. Please do not request this service needlessly.

FIELD REGULATIONS

Spectators must keep off the playing field at all times during the game and at the completion of the game. At the end of the game, spectators must use the ramp and section exits rather than the field level exits.

Meet Olds Toronado—'67 edition.

Awards for this. Awards for that. Awards for just about everything. But rest on its laurels? Not Toronado. Swinging new look outside. Posh new detailing inside. Doors with torsion-bar spring assists that open easier than ever to the flat-floored, room-for-six interior. Even that fabulous front-wheel-drive ride is smoother and quieter for '67. And front disc brakes and radial ply tires are available. Trend-setting Toronado: Proved and applauded by tens of thousands of satisfied owners. Greater than ever the second time around!

Olds thinks of your safety, too, with the GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column that can compress on severe impact up to 8 1/2 inches; with four-way hazard warning flasher; outside rearview mirror; dual master cylinder brake system, plus many other safety features—all standard for '67.

Engineered for excitement . . . Toronado-style!

W. H. Davis (left), Alcoa's General Manager—Industrial Relations, says: "We've found that Army ROTC graduates with active duty experience as officers possess better than average initiative, foresight, and responsibility. These are qualities we rate very highly, and we gladly pay a premium to get them."

Why did Alcoa hire Rod Wilson?

Because Alcoa needs men to fill key positions—men capable of moving to the top; men who seek and measure up to responsibility. Rod Wilson is that kind of man. An Army ROTC Distinguished Military Graduate at Colorado
State University, Rod won an officer's commission in the Regular Army along with his degree. Forty-four months of active duty, including 16 months overseas as an artillery commander, earned Rod Wilson 24-carat credentials as a leader, a man schooled in the demanding disciplines of command, the kind of man Alcoa looks for.

If you're this kind of man, prove it to yourself, and to the companies like Alcoa who are looking for you. How?
Get in Army ROTC. Stay with Army
ROTC, all the way to success.

Spring Squads Not Forgotten

Mickey Szilagyi

OUT OF USE as winter nears, ball diamonds, tennis courts and golf links, are not forgotten in three Michigan State athletic offices.

The Spartan sports teams that use the facilities in the spring already are pretty much formed in the minds of coaches Danny Litwhiler (baseball), Stan Drobac (tennis) and Bruce Fossum (golf).

These coaches have had brief fall workouts for 1967 prospects and late in the winter will be starting regular drills. And they like what they see.

For baseball, it'll be a big rebuilding year what with 14 veterans gone from a 1966 nine that was 24-13-1 over-all and 8-5 in the Big Ten for fourth place.

The key returnees are pitchers Bob Peterson and Dick Kenney, infielders Tom Binkowski, Steve Rymal and Bill Steckley (moved to third from catch), and outfielders Dick Harlow and John Walters.

Top players coming in from what Litwhiler calls an outstanding frosh group include pitchers Zana Easton, Marv Knight, Dan Bielski, Mel Benney and Matt Mazza, catcher Harry Kendrick, outfielders Paul Smieska, Richie Jordan and Tom Hummel, and utility man Dave Williams.

In tennis, Drobac welcomes back lettermen Big Ten champs Mickey Szilagyi (No. 2), Vic Dhooge (No. 5), and Jim Phillips and Dhooge (No. 2 doubles) from a second-place 1966 outfit. State also has an additional letterman in Rich Monan and fine newcomers in sophs Chuck Brainard and John Good, junior college transfer Steve Schafer and senior Bob Schneider.

Fossum has high hopes for his golfers who include lettermen John Bailey, Steve Benson, Troy Campbell, Sandy McAndrew and Al Thiess and reserve George Buth from a squad that tied for fourth in the league in 1966.

Best of the newcomers are Dick Hill (fall tournament winner), Larry Murphy and Dennis Hankey.

All three squads have Southern training trips scheduled in late March, with baseballers going to Florida, netmen to the Carolinas and Georgia, and golfers to North Carolina.

Spread a little happiness.

Smoke Cookie Jar aromatic mixture!

A winner two ways—for you and the folks around you! Cookie Jar's mild, sweet taste is only the beginning. Its rich, aromatic blend of tobaccos (specially cured, specially flavored) gives you the air of a man who knows what he wants and where he's going. More important, it makes people want to go along. Try Cookie Jar and start to spread a little happiness.

Great Day for the Irishman

By MIKE MORRISON, MSU '65

TODAY IS DOUBLY SPECIAL for Duffy Daugherty.

Not only do his Spartans meet Notre Dame to decide the national championship, but the jocular Irishman completes his 13th season as Michigan State's head coach, tying him with Charlie Bachman in longevity.

In a profession known for its insecurity, Duffy has weathered as many Big Ten campaigns as any other active coach except Woody Hayes of Ohio State. In addition, his winning percentage is second only to Hayes' in the conference.

Today's finale against the Irish is a fitting anniversary. A victory would close two consecutive regular seasons without a loss and could result in Duffy's first undisputed national championship.

Three decades ago he arrived at Syracuse University fresh from the Pennsylvania coal mines wearing a wide-brimmed hat more suggestive of Hoot Gibson than the gridiron celebrities of the day.

The hat went, but Duffy stayed to play three years of first string guard and co-captain the Orange in 1939. After war service and a year of prep coaching, the Syracuse publicity department announced "Stubby" Daugherty would return as line coach under Clarence "Biggie" Munn in 1946.

He followed Munn to Michigan State the following year, and in 1954 got the Spartan head coaching job when his boss moved up to athletic director.

Already known for his recruiting abilities and his lines dubbed "Duffy's Toughies," he immediately became one of the best known personalities in college football. In his second year he was voted "Coach of the Year" by the widest margin in the 21-year history of the honor.

His wit has become almost as prominent as his coaching success, and his quips to sportswriters, alumni groups and banquet audiences have ranged from football ("It's bad luck to be behind at the end of the game") to capitalists ("If I had a little money I'd be one myself").

It is ironic that State's opponent in today's game—which one columnist has predicted "could be a classic of our time", is Notre Dame.

Duffy has been a perennial thorn in Notre Dame's side, beating the Irish nine of the eleven times he has coached against them. Last year the Spartans survived their afternoon with Ara Parseghian's once-beaten crew to give Duffy his first perfect regular season schedule.

Several years ago while he was testifying before a Senate committee, Sen. O'Mahoney asked Duffy how he managed to beat Notre Dame so consistently.

"Notre Dame only had two All-Catholic All-Americans last year," Duffy said. "We had four."

In a more serious mood, Duffy has reminisced about the last 13 years.

"It has been a great association," he said. "The administration, the student body and the alumni have always given us their full support. And you can't have success without that kind of support.

"In the Big Ten, of course, it is important to win. We are lucky to have a president like Dr. John Hannah who likes to win, but who has standards more important than winning, values like the welfare and reputation of the school.

"Because these standards have been adhered to over the years, our job has been made easier. When we want a boy to play for us, we've got something to sell him above the football program itself—a name institution with the finest of academic facilities and a high level of support."

Spartan Songs and Cheers

SPARTAN FIGHT SONG

On the banks of the Red Cedar
Is a school that's known to all;
Its specialty is winning,
And those Spartans play good ball;
Spartan teams are never beaten
All through the games they fight;
Fight for the only colors,
Green and White.

CHORUS . . .

Go right thru' for M.S.U.,
Watch the points keep growing,
Spartan teams are bound to win,
They're fighting with a vim.

RAH! RAH! RAH!

See their team is weakening,
We're going to win this game.
Fight! Fight! Rah! team, Fight!
Victory for M.S.U.

MSU SHADOWS

M.S.U. we love thy shadows
When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy covered halls;
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.

When from these scenes we wander
And twilight shadows fade,
Our mem'ry still will linger
Where light and shadows played;
In the evening oft we'll gather
And pledge our faith anew,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.

"Revolt against kiddy car compacts. Go '67 Dart!"

DODGE REBELLION OPERATION '67

How about you? Still smouldering about the size and shape of today's compact cars? You know the kind. Alarmingly small on the inside . . . amazingly dull on the outside. Cool it. There's a new way to go. Big-new, all-new Dodge Dart GT for 1967. And if its obvious beauty and fresh styling don't turn you on, maybe this list of standard equipment will. An all-vinyl interior. Bucket seats. Carpeting, front and rear. Retractable front lap belts. Redesigned, recessed instrument panel. Curved side glass. Unique, concave rear window. And more . . . much more luxury than you'd expect from a car carrying a compact price. Add to this a choice of Six or V8 power and a dozen or more safety features, and you've got quite a car. So, stop toying with the notion that a compact has to be dull, boxy and uninspired. See your neighborhood Dodge Dealer soon. Sign up for a bold, new '67 Dart GT. Pleasant duty, we assure you. The Dodge Rebellion Operation '67 wants you.

MSU MARCHING BAND

"Hits of the Season," a collection of favorites from earlier this fall, will be featured by Michigan State's Marching Band during today's half-time show.

In addition, there will be a few musical surprises and a salute to Dr. John A. Hannah, completing 25 years as MSU president.

Selections on the halftime program include "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Tea for Two" and "Bach With a Beat."

The last number, a special arrangement by William C. Moffit, was played at the MSU-U of M game.

The halftime spotlight will also be on the band's two twirlers, Bruce Bean of Grand Rapids and John Richardson of Grand Ledge, as well as Drum Major Tom Veenendall of Wyoming.

A highlight of the pre-game show will be introduction of the band's seniors who today are playing before their final MSU football audience.

The show also marks the final appearance of the marching band under Director Leonard Falcone, who is retiring next July 1. (See Story, p. 55)

Have astronauts made pilots old hat?

Sure, the boys who go off the "pads" get the big, bold headlines. But if you want to fly, the big opportunities are still with the aircraft that take off and land on several thousand feet of runway. Who needs pilots? TAC does. And MAC. And SAC. And ADC.

There's a real future in Air Force flying. In years to come aircraft may fly higher, faster, and further than we dare dream of. But they'll be flying, with men who've had Air Force flight training at the controls. Of course the Air Force also has plenty of jobs for those who won't be flying. As one of the world's largest and most advanced research and development organizations, we have a continuing need for scientists and engineers.

Young college graduates in these fields will find that they'll have the opportunity to do work that is both interesting and important. The fact is, nowhere will you have greater latitude or responsibility right from the start than on the Aerospace Team—the U.S. Air Force!

Interested? The place to find out more is at the office of the Professor of Aerospace Studies, if there is an Air Force ROTC unit on your campus. Ask about the new 2-year AFROTC program available at many colleges and universities. If you prefer, mail the coupon below.

Quarter-Century Grid Review

Michigan State ranks fifth in the listings of the nation's top major college football teams in won-lost percentages over the last 25 years. Over that period, Spartan teams have won 152 games, lost 59 and tied nine for a percentage of .720.

Leading is Oklahoma (189-61-8, .756), followed by Texas (187-67-7, .736), Notre Dame (172-64-11, .729), Ohio State (156-59-13, .726), and then the Spartans.

Back of State and rounding out the top ten are Army (158-62-13, .718), Mississippi (165-68-11, .708), Georgia Tech (184-76-8, .707), Penn State (160-67-7, .705), and Alabama (166-75-17, .689).

The next five teams in order are Tennessee (162-74-14, .686), Michigan (148-75-8, .664), Duke (152-80-14, .655), Princeton (133-72-4, .652), and Wyoming (132-72-4, .644).

Falcone posed proudly with 1927 Spartan Marching Band—his first as director.

Falcone Leads Last Band Show

By GENE RIETFORS, MSU Associate News Editor

LEONARD FALCONE's marching and concert band's have played throughout the nation for Presidents, for college students and for the public. But it is likely that the performance he will best remember came two weeks ago on this same field when Professor Falcone's band played for him.

That occasion was a tribute to Professor Falcone's 39 years as MSU director of bands, a tenure that ends next July when he steps down as bandmaster. Today marks his final appearance as director of the marching band.

It has been calculated that since he came to Michigan State in 1927, Professor Falcone's musicians have played nearly 1,000 pre-game, half-time and post-game shows for audiences throughout the Midwest and across the nation.

But numbers fail to aptly record the impact that he has had on music in general and on his students in particular. And while his marching bands have attracted wide popular notice, Professor Falcone's concert bands have earned the highest praise from his fellow musicians.

The words written by Assistant Band Director William C. Moffit and spoken in tribute to him two weeks ago sum up Professor Falcone's contributions:

"... Leonard Falcone is recognized throughout the world as a baritone horn virtuoso. National authorities have proclaimed his bands to be in the first rank among universities. He is in constant demand as a soloist, guest conductor, adjudicator and clinician. Students from across the nation come to the campus for the privilege of studying under his guidance. Fellow musicians respect his musical standards, personal integrity, humanistic values and maturity of judgment. He stands before you today, at the head of his profession—as a giant among men.

"Leonard Falcone, you have given much to Michigan State University. In return, we recognize your achievements, your contributions to the profession and your great personal influence on your students and in the history and development of Michigan State University. We extend to you our deep appreciation, and wish for you and your family every future happiness . . ."

Would you believe...they're all made by Chrysler Corporation.

There are more than 12,000,000 Plymouth, Dodge, Chrysler and Imperial cars on the road today.

But there's much more to Chrysler Corporation. Its many divisions manufacture hundreds of non-automotive products for industry, the government, and the public. Including pleasure boats and trailers, outboard and marine engines (inboards and inboard/outdrives), and industrial engines. Air conditioners and the airport mobile lounge, aerospace components, military tanks and amphibious vehicles. Vehicles for lunar exploration. Heat pumps. Powdered metal products. Electro-optics. Structural adhesives. And the first stage of Saturn-I and IB.

As the fifth largest industrial business in America, Chrysler Corporation continues to move ahead with confidence in its growth and confidence in the future of this country.
