Masterpiece of Stagecraft by Max Reinhardt

Festival Production of Classic Play Stimulates Drama in Chicago

By Charles Collers.

Max Reinhardt's latest venture is "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which is to be performed at the Civic Opera House here, in Chicago. This will be the first time that an American audience will see the play, as it was written in 1595 by Shakespeare. The production is being presented under the auspices of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, with the assistance of the Art Institute of Chicago.

The play is said to be a masterpiece of Elizabethan literature, and its production is expected to stimulate a great deal of interest in the arts.

The story is set in Athens during the summer months, and the action takes place in a garden near the city. The play centers around a group of people who are attending a wedding, and their lives are turned upside down when they are caught up in a series of events.

The production is directed by Reinhardt, who is known for his theatrical productions. He is a respected figure in the world of theater, and his work has been praised by critics around the world.

In addition to the performance itself, the production is expected to bring a lot of attention to the city of Chicago, which has been experiencing a decline in its cultural offerings.

The production will run for several weeks, and it is expected to draw a large crowd. The Civic Opera House is one of the most famous theaters in the city, and it is expected to be packed for the entire run of the play.

The production is expected to be one of the highlights of the season, and it is sure to be a treat for theater-goers of all ages.

It is a testament to the creativity and hard work of Reinhardt and his team that they are able to bring such a masterpiece to life.
