

CHOSEN AS A SPANISH "VENUS" was Senorita Ariza, pictured in the distinctly non-classical costume she wore in the recent contest in Madrid, when she won the title.
(Acme photo.)

PERU'S PRESIDENT, Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, is seen standing before Dr. German Arenas as the latter administered the oath to the chief executive, swearing him in as president of the council of ministers and minister of public works, the latter being the least important post in the cabinet of seven ministers through which the president administers the affairs of the country. The country's constitution provides that the signature of a minister is necessary to validate any act of the president.
(Acme photo.)

MODERN JONAH'S JOURNEY IN A MECHANIZED WHALE—The cavernous hold of this ferry boat, the Schwerin, which plies between Germany and Denmark, across a stretch of the Baltic sea, has greatly facilitated travel. Before the construction of this novel vessel, into which cars are driven on the landing stage level, it was necessary to hoist them aboard.
(Acme photo.)

MILLIONS OF WOMEN HAVE SPENT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS because of this seventy-nine year old Frenchman's admiration for his mother's wavy hair. He is Monsieur Marcel Grateau, inventor of the hair wave which bears his given name. He lives in retirement near Paris and is shown with the bust presented to him ten years ago by the coiffeurs of the city.
(Wide World photo.)

WASHINGTON'S CHIEF OF POLICE, Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, wanted to determine the effectiveness of his department's tear gas equipment, so he staged a sham riot, inviting many of his friends to attend. They, with the chief himself, soon discovered that the tear gas was all that had been represented, and perhaps a trifle more.
(Acme photo.)

PASSERS-BY GREET THE BABY PRINCESSES, Elizabeth and Margaret, daughters of the duke and duchess of York, as they leave for their daily drive in London.
(Acme photo.)