

WOMEN HOLD UP PLAN FOR MAY 2

Mrs. Medill McCormick Will Be Heard Before Board Here Decides Question.

TEACHERS ASK FOR PAY.

Want Election Clerk Earnings Deducted; Judge Owens Stands Pat on Opinion.

The congressional committee of the National American Woman's Suffrage association, of which Mrs. Medill McCormick is chairman, scored a victory yesterday. The board of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association refused to take action on the plan for a big demonstration by Chicago women on May 2, laid before them by Mrs. Jessie Hardy Stubbs of the Congressional union.

From 1:30 o'clock to 5:05 nine women of the board discussed the plans and other important business behind closed doors. It was decided not to take any action before Mrs. McCormick is heard. Mrs. McCormick left Chicago in the morning to be present at a board meeting of the national suffrage organization in New York today.

Question Fairness of Plans. "We're fond of Mrs. McCormick and the congressional lobby at Washington," said Mrs. Trout after the board meeting. "As long as Mrs. McCormick is a member of the Illinois board we do not think it fair to the congressional committee to take any action before hearing from her."

Convention for Chicago. The board voted to accept the invitation received from the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Chicago Woman's Association of Commerce at the Peoria convention to hold the next annual convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association in Chicago, beginning on Oct. 29.

Teachers Ask for Pay. The finance committee of the Chicago Teachers' federation passed a resolution during the day urging the board of education to pay teachers acting as judges or clerks of election the difference in salary between that paid by the election commission and the board.

Owens Stands by Decision. County Judge John E. Owens during the day reaffirmed his statements of Dec. 10 when he handed down an opinion giving Chicago school teachers the right to serve as election officials in the various precincts.

WHITMAN TALKS TO WOMEN. John L. Whitman thinks the house of correction is a model cellhouse. He so informed the Chicago Equal Suffrage association yesterday in the residence of Mrs. Emmons Blaine at 103 East Erie street.

The house of correction has been in use three years, Mr. Whitman said, and no attempt at escape has been made by any inmate. "The great problem before the men who manage such institutions is that of keeping the inmates employed, without meeting criticism."

"If the contract system is abolished—and it should be eventually—some substitute should be supplied in its place. In the attempt to make some headway in doing away with contract labor in the house of correction I presented to the technical board a plan for having the inmates make articles for the city's use. The board and the mayor approved the plan. Notice already has been served three companies."

Hidden Values in Seeds. Some automobile makers boast the hidden values of their cars—values invisible and impossible of laboratory analysis. "Under the Hood" is their summary. In the case of SEEDS, hidden values far greater lie dormant beneath the seed coats, which all definite and potential, still not to be estimated in the laboratory or without values to be seen in the maturing crop only, after a season's time and labor is spent—then what differences are manifest? The difference between pleasure and disappointment, between success and failure.

AMATEUR HORSE BUYER PAYS DEARLY FOR 'DOPED' STEEDS.

Charges That Auctioneer and "Capper" Got Him to Buy Animals at Price Far Above Their Real Value.

Herman Levy, sitting disconsolate in Judge Ryan's courtroom yesterday, waiting for his charge against John Burd of 5611 South Halsted street to be heard, told of his brief career as a horse dealer.

"A fellow told me some good horses were to be sold cheap at the Bacon Teaming company's barns at 5611 South Ashland avenue," said Levy. "He said to watch him, and when he winked to buy. I did. I spent $711 and got six horses."

"At 2 p. m. I was given the horses and started to drive them home. At 2 a. m. I got them there. One of 'em fell on his nose before he'd gone a block, and from then on I was pickin' 'em up, settin' 'em on their feet, and waitin' for the next one to drop. My wife and son came down the road to meet me, or I'd never ha' got 'em home. They were doped."

Burd won a two weeks' continuance. A warrant is also out for Hopper O'Neil of 6720 South Marshfield avenue, auctioneer at the sale.

SUPPOSED ED WEISS PLACE OPENS DESPITE LAWSUIT.

Drinks Are Sold in New Englewood Saloon, Although League Attorney Files Notice to Enjoin Owners.

Despite a notice from Attorney John H. Lyle of the Englewood Law and Order league that he would ask Circuit Judge Baldwin this morning for an injunction restraining "George L. Berman" from opening his saloon at 6319 South Halsted street, Berman last night opened the place and sold a few drinks.

"Mr. Lyle understands the real backer of the place is Ed Weiss, levee saloonkeeper, whose license has been revoked by the mayor. Many of the signatures on the petition for the saloon were found to be fraudulent. H. G. Adams, whose name was forged, has joined in the bill for injunction."

"I heard of the plan," said Mr. Lyle, "and telephoned Capt. Smith of Englewood, asking that the place be prevented from opening, as it could be only a technical coup anyway. The fixtures are not complete. Capt. Smith refused to intercede. We will now go ahead with our bill."

DROPS SUITS AGAINST WIFE.

Dr. Burnett Reconsiders Charges of Cruelty and Resolves to Remain with Bride.

C. L. Frankhauser, attorney for Dr. Ira A. Burnett, announced last night the dentist had reconsidered and had withdrawn both suits against his wife, one for divorce, the other for an injunction restraining her from interfering with his entrance and exit at their residence, 838 Montrose avenue.

Burnett brought his suits last Friday after four months of wedded life. He charged his wife with cruelty. She weighs something over half as much as he does.

BAREFOOTED PREACHER FOUND PRAYING IN SIDEWALK CAVE.

Refuses Food and Shoes When Taken in Custody by Policeman—Thin Blanket Only Covering.

John Martin, an itinerant preacher who calls himself "a messenger from God," was arrested last night when found fasting and praying in a cave under the sidewalk at Jackson boulevard and Canal street.

Martin, who goes barefooted through the winter months as a means of humbling himself in the eyes of the creator, was taken into custody by Detective Sergt. Albert Woodrick after the policeman had waded through a deep snow pile in a vacant lot.

Martin said he had dug the cave several weeks ago. The only covering found in the primitive habitation was a light blanket used to protect himself from the cold at night.

Martin refused to put on a pair of shoes. He also refused food, saying he was fasting. When placed in a cell he spent several hours in prayer.

EIGHT DROP OUT OF COUNCIL RACE

Hoben Makes Good Promise to Quit in Sixth and Is to Run as Independent.

WILL OPPOSE AID. NANCE.

Mrs. Robins Decides Not to Handicap Miss Vittum in Seventeenth Ward.

Withdrawals by aldermanic candidates caused politicians to revise their calculations in several wards yesterday. At least three important contests were affected. Those permitted to retire by the board of election commissioners are:

- Louis Kasselbaum, Prog., First ward. Allan Hoben, Prog., Sixth ward. P. W. Ryan, Dem., Seventh ward. Reuben Favis, Dem., Tenth ward. Mrs. Raymond Robins, Prog., Seventeenth ward. Joseph A. Willens, Dem., Nineteenth ward. Frederick Dunham, Dem., Twentieth ward. William B. Worthington, Dem., Thirtieth ward.

Prof. Hoben, who is a member of the University of Chicago faculty, made good his promise to quit as a partisan so that he might enter as an independent candidate after the primaries. In all probability his chief opponent then will be Ald. Willis O. Nance, Republican.

Clears Way for Harriet Vittum. Mrs. Robins, who is the wife of the Progressive state committee chairman, retired as the Moose candidate in the Seventeenth ward to handicap her friend, Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of the Northwestern university settlement, who is expected to run as a nonpartisan after the primaries.

Prof. Hoben's withdrawal leaves the Progressives without a party candidate in the Sixth ward, while the retirement of Mrs. Robins gives Albert F. Singer a clear field in the Seventeenth for the new party ticket. Kasselbaum was filed in the First ward both as a Progressive and a Republican. He elected to make the race on the G. O. P. ticket. His withdrawal from the Moose primary contest is considered advantageous to Miss Marion Drake's candidacy. Her only remaining primary opponent is Karl N. Wells.

Seven women representing Miss Drake began a systematic search of the lodging house addresses and registration lists in the First ward during the day with the announced purpose of cleaning the rolls of itinerant hobos who may have been induced to register by Coughlin or his agents.

The investigators were Mrs. Anna May Jewell of 4778 Chapin avenue, Miss Emma Jacobson of 4839 Langley avenue, Mrs. Arla Black of 5503 East End avenue, Mrs. Charles W. Kayser of Wheaton, Mrs. Lillian Boynton of 6711 Lakewood avenue, Mrs. Caroline Woodward of 6700 Lakewood avenue, and Mrs. Emma M. Hevener of the Hyde Park hotel.

Czarnecki Offers His Help.

Election Commissioner Czarnecki announced he would aid the supporters of Miss Drake in cleaning up the lodging house rolls. He also said his investigation would extend into the Eighteenth and Twenty-first wards parts of which include lodging house territory. Detectives will be put to work today.

John W. Cuiper of 6634 Ingleside avenue, a clerk of election in the Fifth precinct of the Seventh ward, complained to Chief Clerk Stuart of the election board that Mrs. Ella Perigo, also an official in the precinct, was a "disturbing element." Both have been summoned to appear before the board.

A mass meeting of Twenty-seventh ward voters will be held in Myrtle Masonic hall tomorrow night for the purpose of attempting to agree upon a nonpartisan candidate for the council.

COP STOPS BATTLE OF 'LIARS'

"Shooes" Reporter from Clash with Ald. Kjellander.

CAUSED BY M. V. L. DEBATE.

Councilman Blames "Bunko Shooter" for Resolution.

Patrolman James Crowley has been detailed on special assignment at the city hall for more than two years. His chief duties have consisted of preventing inebriated job-seekers from sleeping on the leather couches and of protecting the sacred precincts of the council chamber from unseemly invasions on meeting nights.

Crowley's record for maintaining the peace without the laying on of hands has been pronounced perfect; and it probably would have remained unbroken if Ald. John Kjellander had not wandered into an idle discussion yesterday with Eugene Quirk, a city hall reporter for a morning newspaper. The discussion opened regarding the authorship of Ald. Victor J. Schaeffer's resolution for an investigation of the Municipal Voters' league and organizations that appear before council committees.

Excited Few Minutes Before.

Ald. Kjellander had become excited about the same subject a few minutes before. The resolution was presented on Monday night and was sent to the judiciary committee scheduled to meet at 2 o'clock. At that hour Chairman Donahoe announced the meeting was postponed at the request of several members who said they wanted to "make hay" in their campaigns for reelection. "That subject probably won't come up anyway," said Donahoe when asked about the Schaeffer resolution. "It won't reach us from the clerk's office for several days and we have other questions set for today."

"When it does arise I shall move promptly to place it on file," said Kjellander. "There's no use wasting time with nonsense like that."

He relieved himself of further condemnation of the resolution and wandered down to the anteroom of the council chamber. There Ald. Charles E. Marrett was poking fun at Quirk, telling him he had not made the Schaeffer resolution "broad enough."

Situation Gets Hot.

"What happened to your investigation?" Kjellander asked the reporter, but there was no answer.

"The whole thing's a lot of bunk got up by some bunkshooter," persisted the alderman.

"Don't you call me a bunk shooter!" shouted Quirk suddenly.

"Well, you are if you wrote that resolution."

"You're a liar!"

"You're a liar!"

Quirk shouted something about Kjellander's political backing and yelled the word "graffiti." There had been a scramble for ringside seats as the two advanced on each other, but at this juncture there appeared the uniform of Patrolman Crowley. Getting in front of Quirk he backed him out of the room, led him down the hall, and "shooed" him up the stairs.

Chairman Donahoe said he had not considered when a meeting of his committee would be held.

NO TRACE OF LOST CANVAS.

Police and Private Detectives Search in Vain for Stolen "Harvest Scene" by Fedder.

Neither the police nor a private detective agency succeeded yesterday in finding a trace of the "Harvest Scene" by Fedder, stolen from the exhibit in the Marshall Field & Co. galleries Saturday. It was a part of the $150,000 collection of Peter A. Gross, the collector who dropped dead last month shortly before the opening of the exhibit. Capt. Halpin has ordered a search of all pawnshops and second hand art stores, but suspects the thief is a fanatical artist.

Preliminary Announcement

The Tebbetts and Garland Store, food stuffs, will soon be located at Nos. 16 & 18 N. Michigan Blvd.

Between Madison and Washington Streets

This store is a reorganization of one of the oldest grocery establishments in Chicago—one that has always enjoyed the reputation of selling only the best merchandise.

The new organization prefers to make no promises—but rather to establish a good will with each individual as they give us the opportunity.

The store itself will be equipped, not elaborately but conveniently, for the satisfactory handling of its different lines of merchandise. Supplementing this, we shall try to provide a wholesome and satisfying store atmosphere.

You may expect to find at this store anything and everything usually carried in a good grocery establishment. We would also call attention to a rather unusual line of candies and confections, a well-equipped soda fountain, and every possible condiment and delicacy for the table.

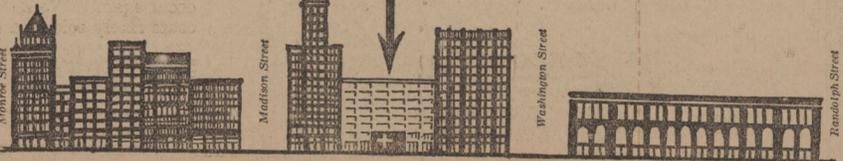

The whole purpose of this business will be to establish a consistent and painstaking policy that may best benefit its customers—whether it be in the gathering and distributing of merchandise, or in the character of its service, or in the courtesy and real interest in each one's special requirements.

This store wants your confidence and consideration and will work ambitiously to that end
