Fan Gives Lowdown on Barnum vs. Jenny Lind.

Dear Miss Tine's: With reference to your remarks on the Barnum picture, the phrase about "suckers" is more or less incomplete. Barnum had the complex that any exaggeration about his attractions was justifiable. In fact, he often declared that the public liked to be fooled, meaning, of course, on that point. And he also declared that "There was a sucker born every minute and none ever died."

In persuading the Swedish nightingale, Jenny Lind, to come to America, he resorted to writing poetry: So Jenny, come along! You're just the card for me, And quit these kings and queens, For the country of the free; They'll welcome you with speeches, And you will touch their hearts, and I will tap their pockets; And if between us both the public isn't skinned, Why, my name isn't Barnum, nor your name Jenny Lind.

The above poem proves that the slang of a century ago is just as expressive as it is today.

Concerning Barnum's galaxy of Lilliputian military men, Gen. Tom Thumb, Commodore Nutt, and Admiral Dot, all this was most amusing to President Lincoln, a frequent visitor at the Barnum show, and who, on one occasion, remarked: "Barnum, you have some mighty small generals," then, with a twinkle in his eye, "but I can give you cards and spades and still beat you at the finish."

Lincoln, of course, made this wisecrack during the first half of his administration, before Grant had gotten into the war picture or had a chance to display his military genius.

Regrets Absence of "Babes in Toyland."

Dear Miss Tine's: Can you explain why the picture "Babes in Toyland" has been taken out of circulation? You gave it a swell write-up, and I planned on treating my young nephews to a good picture while they are home from school, and look what happens. Why hasn't it been shown at a time when the kids are home and when the shopping rush is over? Seems to me some one forgot to use the old bean.

ONE OF THE LEGION OF DECENCY.

Editor's note: People wouldn't go to see it.

Medical Faux Pas Upset Observer of "Grand Canary."

Dear Miss Tine's: Just returned from seeing "Grand Canary," a good picture. Was pulling for Dr. Leath when he came to the doctor when an error in the sickroom brought me back to Iowa with a bang. Dr. Leath inserts a thermometer in Mary's mouth and she rolling in delirium. It would be impossible for her to hold it in an upright position, as she did in her condition.

And every medico and nurse learns in the first lesson, "Never put a glass thermometer in a delirious patient's mouth."

A little error, but it broke the realism and made me "only moving picture" conscious.

AN OBSERVER.

Editor's note: When you observe you observe, don't you!

"Chu Chin Chow" Wins Praise and Approval.

Dear Miss Tine's: This is the first time I have written to you, but I really would like to see my letter in print, especially in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

I am writing to you about the picture "Chu Chin Chow." When I went to see it the theater was only half filled. I don't know if the picture did not like the sound of the name, or because of the picture being made in England. The acting and the scenery in the picture were wonderful. John Garrick, who played All Babes's son, sings and looks like John Boles. But I fell in love with the villain.

Yours very truly, WILLIAM S. EDITOR'S NOTE: Interesting!
