The Knit-tex Throw-on . . . $30

Adapted From the English Town and Country Coat

This is the type of coat that is generally worn in England by well dressed men to meet the changing moods of English weather — where in a single day it can be warm, cold, wet, dry and windy. And we frequently have the same conditions here.

With the collar open as in the photograph above, it is one of the smartest topcoats imaginable.

With the collar buttoned up as in illustration (A), you are protected against windy or rainy weather.

With the collar completely turned up, as in illustration (B), you are insulated against real stormy weather.

In each case, the coat retains that air of swagger and non-chalant smartness resulting from the natural raglan shoulders and the full English flare and sweep of the skirt.

And best of all, it is made of genuine Knit-tex cloth; light as a feather, warm as toast, soft as velvet.

ANGORA KNIT-TEX $35. The photograph above is of the Knit-tex Coat at $30. There is also the Angora Knit-tex Coat, a super-luxurious edition of Knit-tex blended with the soft silken hair of the Angora goat at $35.
