The KNIT-TEX TWEED TOPCOAT

Now Made of Imported British Wool

$30

Knit-tex is worn by more men than any other topcoat in America—perhaps you yourself have worn one.

The reasons for this preference: It wears longer, is lighter in weight, is very warm, soft to the touch and attractive to the eye.

The new Knit-tex Tweed pictured here now brings to you a type of cloth formerly loomed by hand. It has the feel and the rich smartness of the genuine hand-loomed imported fabrics. Even the primitive colorings formerly obtained from berries and herbs of the British Isles have been faithfully reproduced.

If you will look at the large photograph above, we believe you will consider it really unusual that this expensive type of tweed coat has now been made available at $30.

The British Knockabout*

This is an adaptation of the English town and country coat, appropriate for both business and general knockabout wear. The deeper armholes make it as easy for you to slip into as a raglan. The flare at sides and back provides freedom of movement for your legs. The roominess at shoulders accommodates the new modern type of broad-shoulder suit. It will flatter your appearance no matter what your age or size.
