

ALLIGATORS at a Los Angeles 'gator farm, after their dormant winter, advance hungrily upon their first spring breakfast. (Acme photo.)

YEOMEN OF THE GUARD of the Tower of London, colloquially known as "Beefeaters," attired in their Tudor uniforms, march to church. At their head is the governor of the Tower, Lt. Col. Dan Burgess, V. C. (Chicago Tribune Press Service photo.)

AIRPLANE GRAVEYARD—More than 6,000 planes, from the tiny Moth to the huge Schneider Cup racers, have met their end at this salvage yard in Surrey, England, where useless and obsolete planes are reduced to scrap, various parts being salvaged for use in motor cars. In this picture is a pile of scrapped propeller blades. (Acme photo.)

A SUMMER FORECAST—Mary Brian wears a printed flowery frock and a wide brimmed hat of straw in this advanced showing of milady's summer garb.

EQUINE GRACE—Capt. Tupper Cole on "Avocat" jumps a table at Santa Monica, Cal., where Maj. H. D. Chamberlain and his teammates of the army, who will represent America in the Olympic games, staged a recent exhibition. (Acme photo.)