delicious possibilities of neck stew, according to Mrs. Jean Prescott Adams, who spoke at a meeting of the Woman's Asso ciation of Commerce last night in the Monadnock building. Beef shanks, well done, were also recommended. Mrs. Adams was offering hints on cutting the cost of food.

"The neck," she said, "is a piece of meat our grandmothers knew well. They used it for mincemeat. As a stew or for a casserole it has an excellent flavor. Clod steak also is tasty when cooked with pickle, onion, and cloves, and allowed to simmer for a long-time.'

Forty groceries a week are going out of business, according to Mrs. Adams, because of the increased cost of service and the present campaign of economy. She urged the women to carry home their packages.

The women passed a resolution urging the president to appoint one or more women to the proposed food commission. Women were urged to take the positions of men made vacant by the call to arms, and to insist upon equal pay. Miss Florence
