EN ROUTE TO THE DOCTOR—Streams are forded and many obstacles overcome by the good Samaritans of the Frontier Nursing service, a philanthropic organization operating in the remote regions of Kentucky. One of the corps of twenty-six nurses here takes a mountaineer mother and her little brood to the nearest town.

A RIDE DOWN THE HILLSIDE—Transporting a Kentuckian injured far from hospitals or medical service. The nurses carry on their errands in all kinds of weather, day and night, summer and winter, over rough bridle trails, in a country without railroads, automobile roads, or bridges.

A NIGHT CALL ON THE FRONTIER—A hurry-up summons brought this angel of mercy to a mountain shack long after most of us had finished our day's activities. Life along the outposts of civilization bears heavily upon the women and children, and it is in relieving their distress that the nurses do their most important work.

THE NEW LINCOLN JUDKINS THREE-WINDOW BERLINE

A New Expression of Established Excellence

THE new Lincoln is a fresh expression of an ideal—to make a motor car as nearly perfect as it is possible to produce. Built in a precision plant famous throughout the world, backed by the entire resources of the Ford organization, this fine car more than maintains the Lincoln tradition of well-balanced excellence.

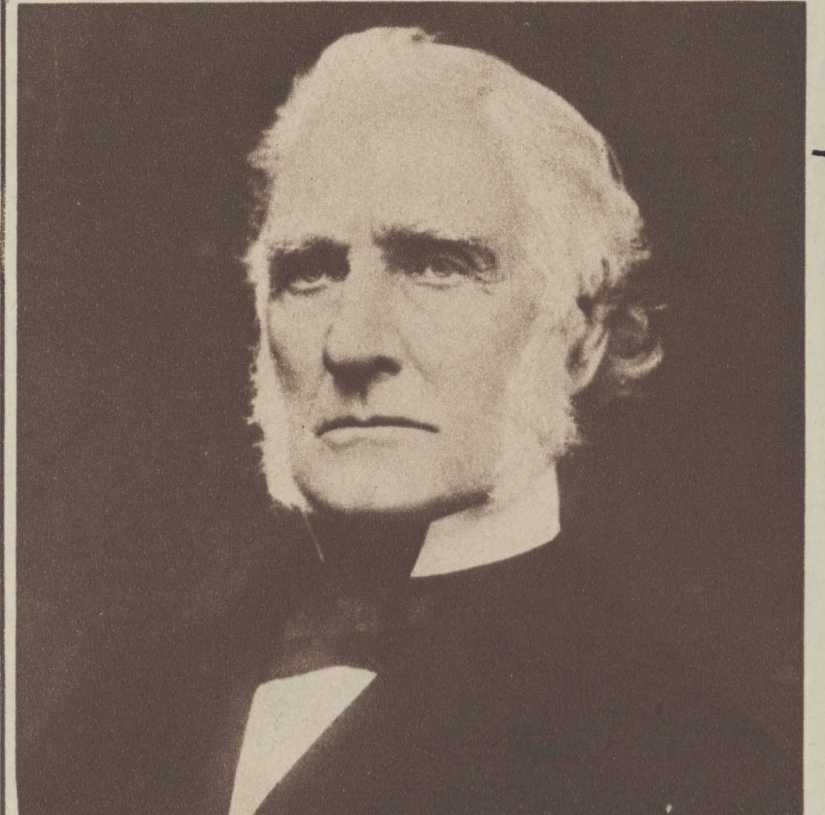

One is first impressed with this Lincoln's poised beauty. Gracefully long and low, its sweeping lines reflect a spirit of swift, fleet motion. All appointments are restful and relaxing, luxurious in every detail, to make complete the pleasures of fine car motoring.

The new Lincoln engine supplies a generous power that is smooth-flowing and silently alert. Driving brings a sense of gliding ease. With the new Lincoln free-wheeling transmission all gear shifts are gentle and precise. Between second and high speeds, back and forth as you will, shifts are made without disengaging the clutch.

Embodied in this Lincoln is that expected distinction of design, that traditional precision of engineering long associated with Lincoln motor cars. Prices range from $4400 f. o. b. Detroit.

THE GUIDING SPIRIT—After a distinguished wartime career in France with Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Mary Breckinridge founded and is now director of the Kentucky nursing service. A Chicago committee co-operating in the work includes Mrs. Frederic Upham, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Eugene Buffington, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Mr. and Mrs. William V. Kelley, Mrs. Frederick Haskell, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings. Mrs. Breckinridge was a recent visitor here. (Caulfield and Shook photos.)

AN EARLY CHICAGO FRIEND OF FREEDOM—Philo Carpenter, whose home was a station on the Underground Railway in the 50's. He was the founder of the First Congregational church of Chicago. He is a figure in today's installment of "When Chicago Was Young," by Herma Clark, which will be found in the society section. (Chicago Historical society photo.)
