DAILY MAIL OF LONDON HAILS CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Praises Its Fighting Spirit
on 100th Birthday

BY WILLIAM FULTON

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
LONDON, June 10 (Tuesday)—The Daily Mail of London today joined THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in celebrating its 100th anniversary as a great, fighting newspaper.

Under the heading, "A newspaper has a 100th birthday," the Daily Mail displayed THE TRIBUNE anniversary story at the top of Page 2. This morning's issue was restricted to six pages, the story ran in two half-page columns, with a facsimile reproduction of "Chicago Daily Tribune, World's Greatest Newspaper," and "Founded June 10, 1847."

In the third column was a picture of Col. McCormick.

Here is the Daily Mail's story in part:

"The Daily Mail pays tribute today to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of one of the world's greatest newspapers."

"We have often differed violently with the views expressed in it by its editor, Col. Robert R. McCormick, and no doubt shall have occasion to continue to do so."

"100 Per Cent American
"THE TRIBUNE'S avowed policy of 100 per cent American often extends to fierce attack on Great Britain. The Daily Mail is 100 per cent British, and believes that the two countries should be able to advance together but not without antagonism."

"One thing both newspapers have in common. THE TRIBUNE, under Col. McCormick and his predecessors, has always been a great champion of liberty of the press everywhere, and its right to express views, whatever they may be, in what it considers to be the public interest without fear of any official or other interference."

"The Daily Mail has fought many battles in that cause. So has THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. We hope that with Col. McCormick at its head, it may long continue to do so."

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE began a modest start on June 10, 1847, when Chicago and the middle western 'breadbasket' part of the United States were just starting to feel their sinews."

"Smoke from Indian wigwam fires was still a common sight across the prairies. The first railroad had yet to stretch its way to this frontier outpost of 16,859 people, but the first issue of 400 copies was hand set and printed on a hand press in a one room plant in the third story of a building."

"Showed Fighting Qualities
"Early in its life, it showed the independent fighting qualities which were characteristic of its entire history."

"Joseph Medill, its pioneer editor, was one of the founders of the Republican party of the United States, which elected Abraham Lincoln as President and turned the whole stream of the country's history into a new course by emancipating the slaves."

"Today's editor and publisher is a grandson of Joseph Medill and also a fighting newspaperman. He took over the helm as president of THE TRIBUNE company in 1911."

"Under him, it has conducted many vigorous campaigns. During the '20s, it led crusades against the Ku Klux Klan, a secret hooded order terrorizing Negroes, and against the national liquor prohibition laws."

"Many happy returns! And look out, colonel!"

'NO CONDUCTING,' PETRILLO WARNS A CONGRESSMAN

Tells Kearns to Shun
Interlochen Bid

Detroit, June 9 (Special)—James C. Petrillo tonight said "we're going to drop" a member of congress "right in the lap" of Dr. Joseph Maddy, director of the summer music camp at Interlochen, Mich., if the congressman accepts an invitation from Dr. Maddy to conduct a high school orchestra at the camp July 4.

Petrillo made the threat in a speech at the convention of the AFL-Federation of Musicians, which he heads. The congressman he threatened is Rep. Kearns (R., Pa.), a music teacher, a member of Petrillo's union, and chairman of a subcommittee of the house labor committee which has begun an investigation in practices of various unions, including the musicians.

"We're going to drop him right 'in Maddy's lap' if he picks up that stick on the Fourth of July," Petrillo said. "What's more, we're going to expel him from the organization."

Kearns Undecided
The federation has ordered any musician dropped who takes part in Interlochen concerts because of the feud between Petrillo and Dr. Maddy, director of the summer music camp.

Dr. Maddy was placed on the AFM's "unfair" list several years ago and was expelled from the after a long feud with Petrillo over radio broadcasts from the camp.

In Washington tonight, Rep. Kearns said he hasn't decided whether he will conduct the orchestra. He said Maddy "just happened" to invite him.

"I am surprised that Mr. Petrillo has attacked me," Kearns said. "I have no grievance against him and I think he has done a lot of things that need correcting and our committee intends to place credit where it is due."

Petrillo assailed investigation which Kearns will head as a "one sided, lop sided" affair in which he will not be permitted to face his accusers, among whom he named the National association of Broadcasters.

Hits at Taft

Charging that labor now would do better to make its fight in the courts than in congress, Petrillo also lashed out at Sen. Taft (R., O.) for having said that the new labor bill was "labor's bill."

"Maybe we'd better throw some blankets around it to keep it from getting consumptions," the labor leader shouted. He said that the exponents of the bill "and the rest of the tripe down there [in Washington]" would hear from labor if the bill became law.

He promised that there would be a "masquerade ball" when he made an appearance before Kearns's committee, a duty from which he has been excused pending determination of the legality of the Lea act by the United States Supreme court. Petrillo brought about the first test of this legislation.

"And that's when they are going to wind up in a straight jacket," he declared.

Petrillo said that if the labor bill became law, congress would have been proven a "legalized burglar," and "that's when America is going to find out the hard way that the reactionary forces in this country are done forever."
