FROM FOUR PAGE DAILY TO WORLD Pinnacle—that's Tribune Saga

Start in Loft Room Sows
The Seed for Home in Skyscraper
[Historical facts here]

J. C. Freer, one of the four founders of The Tribune in 1847.

First Steamboats Bring U. S. Troops and Cholera

THE LIVING

THE DEAD

50th Anniversary Edition of Tribune a Sensation

Fifty years ago today, as the citizens of The Chicago Daily Tribune were observing the 50th anniversary of the Tribune, there was much jubilation and pride in the achievements of the newspaper.

The Tribune Company has been a leader in the field of journalism for over a century without any apologies or any modifications in its policies or standards. It has stood firm in the face of criticism and controversy, and it has continued to grow and thrive.

The Tribune has been a voice of the people, a source of information, and a force for good in the community. It has been an advocate for justice and fairness, and it has been a defender of democracy.

The Tribune has been a part of the fabric of Chicago for over 150 years, and it continues to be a vital part of the community today. It is a newspaper that is respected and admired, and it is a newspaper that is loved and cherished.

The Tribune has been a leader in the field of journalism, and it continues to be a leader. It is a newspaper that is innovative and forward-thinking, and it is a newspaper that is committed to excellence.

The Tribune has been a part of the history of Chicago, and it continues to be a part of the history of the world. It is a newspaper that is proud of its past, and it is a newspaper that is looking forward to its future.

The Tribune has been a newspaper that has been true to its ideals, and it will always be true to its ideals. It will always stand for the things that are right, and it will always stand up for the things that are just.