YOUTHFUL MAJOR, KIND OF AIR, TO BE HOME SOON

Major Legare B. White was the guest of honor at a dinner dance given in his honor by the New York University Alumni Association at the Elks Temple, here last evening.

Major White recently retired from the Army, was born in Chicago and is a graduate of the New York University Engineering School. He is the second son of the late Col. John T. White, the longest serving officer in the U.S. Army, who was killed in action during World War I.

Mr. and Mrs. John White are the parents of the Major. The Major is also the brother of Col. John T. White, United States Marine Corps, who is currently serving in the Pacific Theater.

Mr. and Mrs. White are very proud of their son's achievements and are looking forward to his return home soon.
