

The Somnometer has discovered a bed spring of surpassing comfort — heed its findings

IN RECENT years leading educators, physicians and beauty experts have given a vast amount of study to the subject of sleep. They have contributed much scientific data proving the pathologic importance of complete comfort during sleep.

And now a new comfort instrument shows us that the comfort of our sleep equipment is a measurable quality. Now you need not rely merely on opinions or claims for the comfort of the sleep units you select. Now you have accurate facts by which you can easily judge them.

For now the comfort value of various types of bed springs has been established and recorded on charts produced by a new instrument called the Somnometer. When connected to the bed spring on which a person is sleeping, this ingenious device registers every period of comfort or discomfort.

The comfort charts shown in the lower left corner of this page are the permanent records of a series of sleep tests recently conducted with the Somnometer. A group of students acted as subjects of the experiments. Note that some nights they slept restlessly like this: . But when sleeping on Union Masterpiece Springs they slept comfortably like this: .

Normal sleeping conditions were maintained. Scientific exactness was demanded. The reputations of various springs were ignored. Prejudice or salesmanship had no influence. Solely on its merit the Union Masterpiece Bed Spring was demonstrated to be the most comfortable spring tested.

Such results are not accidental. Over fifty years' experience in the mechanics of comfort are built into the Masterpiece. This is the reason these students slept better on the Masterpiece. It is the reason you will sleep better on the Masterpiece.

But be certain you obtain a genuine Masterpiece Spring with the true double-deck coil construction. Other springs resemble it. But the Somnometer proves there is a vast difference in results. The Somnometer is impartial. The salesman who shows you bed springs may not be.

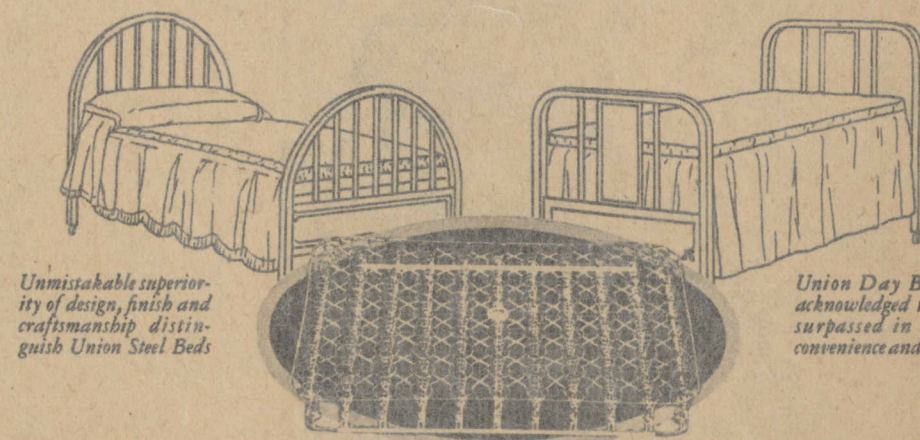

Call at any reliable furniture store and ask to see Union's Masterpiece Bed Spring. If you see the above Masterpiece emblem on the spring shown to you, have no hesitancy in selecting it. Then you will know you are getting the bed spring that the Somnometer proved to be surpassingly comfortable.
