INQUIRY FACES DILEMMA OVER ROOSEVELT TAX

Fish Demands Publicity for Income Return.

BY ARTHUR BARDEN.

A former fisherman and_vintage boat owner, who now spends his time in the study of nature and the history of the sea, wrote to the editor of this newspaper regarding the recent controversy over the income tax.

"It is my belief," he wrote, "that the government's claim to the income tax is based on a misunderstanding of the nature of fishing. Fish are not creatures of the sea, but rather of the land, and their income is therefore subject to the jurisdiction of the land, not the sea. The government's attempt to tax the income of fish is therefore a violation of basic principles of justice and fairness."

Charges of WPA Rackets in N. Y. Go to President.

"An investigation into the WPA rackets in New York City has revealed a pattern of corruption that is nothing short of shocking," said a prominent New York attorney.

"These rackets," he continued, "are not limited to the WPA alone, but are found in other government agencies as well. The problem is systemic, and until it is addressed, our government will continue to be plagued by corruption and waste."
