

New Radio Signals Spur Hunt for Amelia—Two Flying Boats Over Atlantic in Passenger Survey Hops

ONE OF LAST PICTURES OF AMELIA—Photo sent from London by radio and wirephoto showing Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, in Batavia, Java, recently. Rescue efforts were spurred last night by new radio signals. (Associated Press Radiophoto.) (Story on page 1.)

STARTS WESTWARD ATLANTIC HOP—The British flying boat Caledonia, which was on its way early today from Foynes, Ireland, to Botwood, Newfoundland, while an American plane was making the flight in the other direction. (Associated Press Radiophoto.) (Story on page 1.)

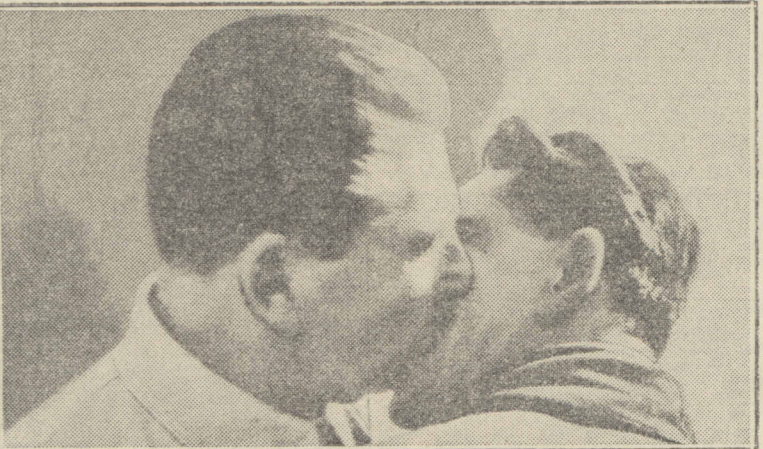

"I'D DO IT AGAIN," SAYS JARDINE—The Rev. Robert Anderson Jardine, who married the duke of Windsor and Wallis Warfield, with his wife as they arrived in New York yesterday. Jardine will lecture in the United States. (Associated Press Wirephoto.) (Story on page 17.)

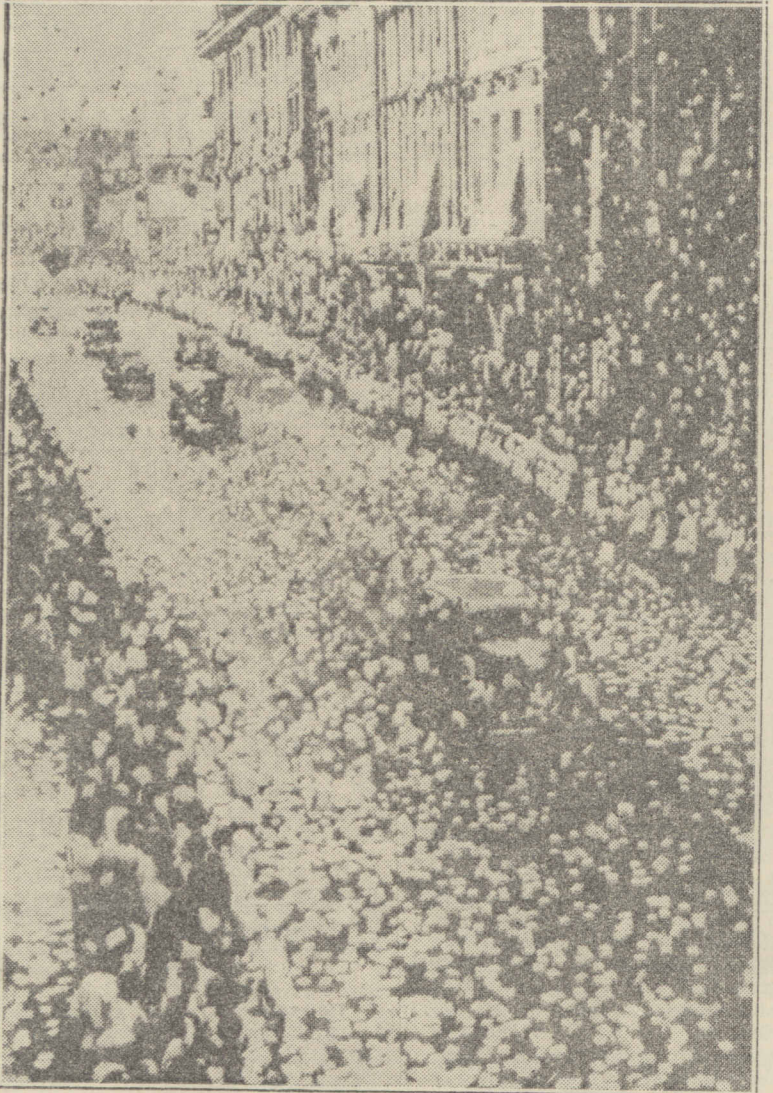

MRS. FRANK O. LOWDEN DIES—The former Illinois governor and his wife, Mrs. Florence Pullman Lowden, who died yesterday at Sinnissippi farm at age of 68. She was a daughter of the late George M. Pullman. (Story on page 14.)

MOSCOW GREET POLAR FLYERS

When members of the soviet union's north pole expedition returned home they were greeted affectionately by Dictator Josef Stalin and other government leaders. Here Stalin (left) welcomes I. T. Spirin, chief navigator of the expedition, with a kiss.

Scene on Gorky street in Moscow as joyful Russians rained tons of paper on the heads of the aviators who flew to the north pole and there established an observation base for the soviet union. This was part of a spectacular welcome accorded the flyers. (Associated Press Wirephotos.)

Demand Death for Slayer of Children

Albert Dyer, a WPA crossing guard in Inglewood, Cal., who has confessed killing Madeline and Melba Everett and Jeanette Stephens, being carried from district attorney's office in Los Angeles after he collapsed after hours of questioning. (Story on page 4.) (Associated Press Wirephotos.)

Dyer (above wearing white cap) was photographed at the scene of crimes, but at time was not under suspicion. (Acme Photo.)

Mrs. Isabel Dyer, wife, who is standing by her husband. The state demands his execution for the crimes.

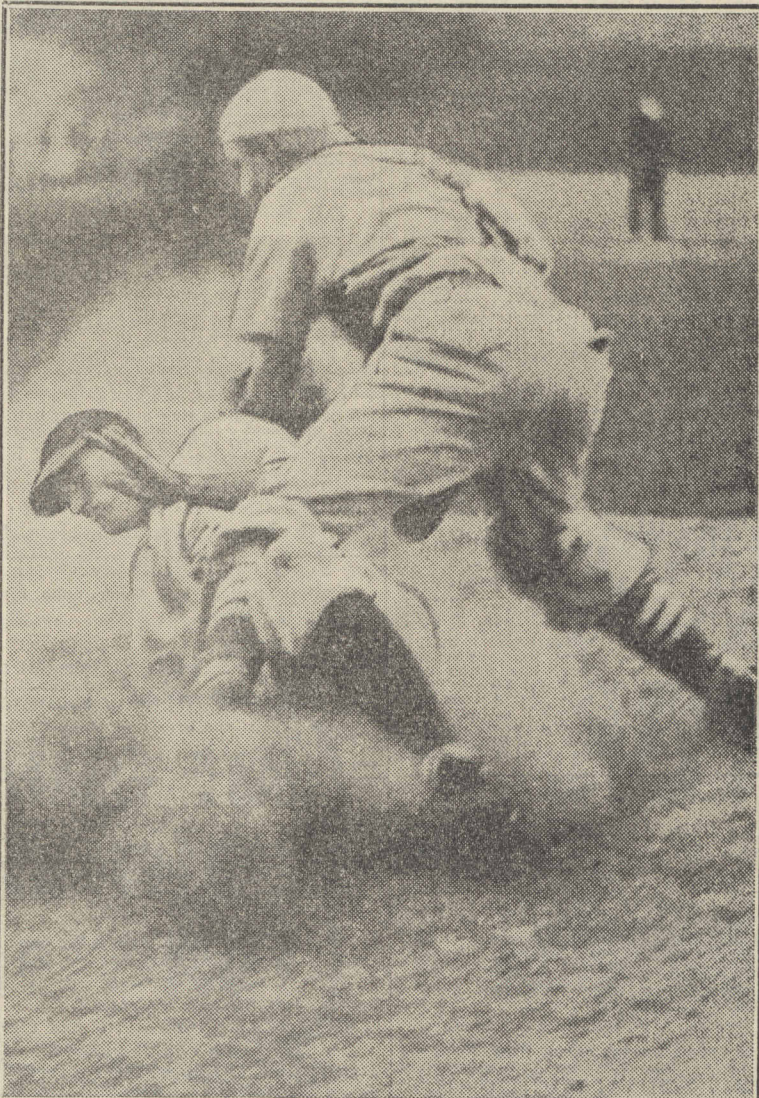

Nearly 80,000 Attend Arlington Races and Cubs-Cards Double-Header

(TRIBUNE Photo.)

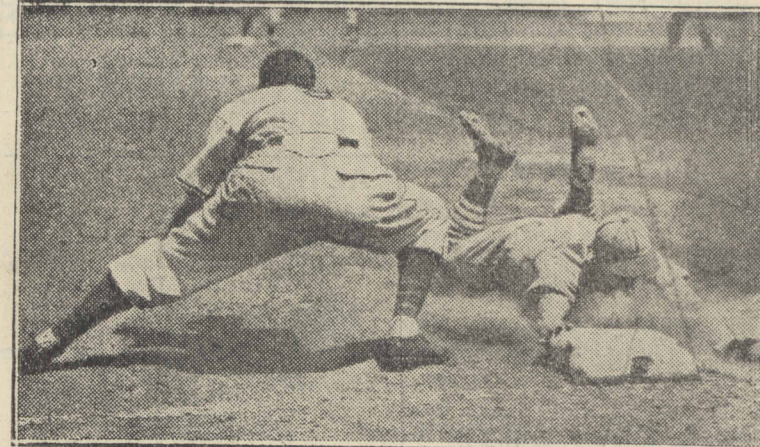

Yesterday was a sports holiday for tens of thousands of Chicagoans. This is a portion of the crowd of 40,000 fans who went to Arlington Park for an afternoon of racing favored by clear weather and a fast track. They saw the annual running of the Stars and Stripes handicap in which the two favorites, Whopper and Finance, who finished in a dead heat in a sensational race last week, were defeated by Corinto. The crowd was one of the most enthusiastic in years, and the betting was heavy. (Story on page 21.)

(TRIBUNE Photo.)

The finale of the thrilling first game of the double-header at Wrigley field yesterday, which the Cubs won from the St. Louis Cardinals, 13 to 12. Demaree slides home with the winning run on Jorges' hit in the 14th inning under Catcher Ogradowski's glove. (Story on page 1.)

(TRIBUNE Photo.)

Second Baseman Brown of the Cards beats the ball to third base in the third inning of the first game. Hack of the Cubs is taking the throw. Spectators at the two games were treated to three home runs, six triples, and thirteen doubles. (Story on page 1.)

(TRIBUNE Photo.)

Ray Johnson (left), Cubs' coach, and Charley Root, winning pitcher in the first game, talk things over in the dugout. Root pitched the last six innings and yielded only four hits. (Story on page 1.)

(Northwest Air Lines Photo.)

Air view of Wrigley field during yesterday's double-header. More than 39,000 spectators sat in the stands for six and a half hours while the Cubs won both games. The score of the second, which didn't get started until after 6 o'clock, was 9 to 7. Both games were typical Cub-Cardinal contests, with plenty of slugging, plenty of argument, and a parade of pitchers. (Story on page 1.)