

man in the true meaning of that expression. He was a man of forgiving heart and great practicality."

Mr. Kelly was one of the original petitioners for a subway in 1923 and was chairman of the bondholders' committee of the elevated lines in recent negotiations looking toward a unified local transportation system.

He was an incorporator and trustee of A Century of Progress exposition. In 1932 and 1933 he was chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, whose advice was valuable in restoring the city's financial standing. Previously he had been active in persuading bankers to purchase city tax anticipation warrants.

Head of Catholic Charities.

He had been president of the Catholic Charities since its organization in 1918. He was made a knight of St. Gregory in 1920 and a knight of Malta by Pope Pius in 1931. One of his last civic activities was an effort to obtain a suitable head for the Cook County hospital. It had been his intention to devote more time to this on his return from Europe.

Director in Many Enterprises.

Mr. Kelly was a director in several corporations, including the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, Wilson & Co. Kresge Department Stores, Inc., and the Consumers company. He was a director of the Grant hospital and a trustee of Henroth hospital. He was a supporter of the Art institute, the Field museum, and the Chicago Historical society.

At one time Mr. Kelly was president of the Chicago District Golf association. He was a member of the Chicago club, the Chicago Athletic association, and the Exmoor, Old Elm, and Knollwood golf clubs, and the Everglades Country club of Palm Beach, Fla.

Surviving Mr. Kelly besides his widow and his daughter are two grandchildren, Mary and Philip Vogel.

Mundelein Adds Praise.

Cardinal Mundelein, a personal friend of Mr. Kelly, praised him not only as a first citizen of Chicago, but as a man "charitable toward his fellow men."

"It is with deepest sorrow I learn of Mr. Kelly's death," he said. "He was one of the most public spirited citizens of Chicago. He was always ready to give his time, his services, and his money toward every good cause which would benefit his city and its people."

"The fact that from its foundation nearly 20 years ago to the hour of his death, Mr. Kelly was president of the Catholic Charities of Chicago, is the best evidence of his deep Catholic faith, of his charity toward his fellow men, and his willingness to serve the best interests of his church and of his city. I mourn in his passing the loss of a dear friend, and an ever willing helper."

Attributes Death to Exhaustion.

Mr. Sexton, like Mr. Kelly, knight of St. Gregory, recalled many incidents of Mr. Kelly's life. He remembered particularly when Mr. Kelly was ill and went to Arizona some time ago.

"I never expected to see him alive again, but he came back," said Mr. Sexton. "That was typical of him. He conquered his physical frailty with constant service to mankind. He would not stop even in the face of warning signs. Mr. Kelly died from exhaustion."

Col Sprague, who worked on many civic matters with Mr. Kelly, said that Mr. Kelly gave his full energy and ability to bringing about a proper consolidation of the traction interests.

"In civic, religious and business affairs, he gave unflinchingly of his strength," said Col. Sprague. "His death is a great loss to Chicago. Only last week I had a cablegram from him. It had to do with improving the administration of the Cook County hospital. Even away from Chicago, he could never forget its problems."

A radiogram, telling of Mr. Kelly's death, was sent to James Simpson, aboard the Queen Mary, en route to England. Mr. Simpson, now head of the Commonwealth Edison company, was for many years, as head of Marshall Field & Co., a State street colleague of Mr. Kelly.

DEATH TOLL 6 AS 7 DAY RAIN DELUGES EAST

Homes Are Swept Away; Crops Ruined.

(An article by Wayne Thomas—"Why Did Five Navy Bombers Crash?"—appears in today's Graphic section.)

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Torrential rains which have swept the eastern seaboard for nearly a week continued unabated today, causing the death of at least six persons and resulting in millions of dollars of damage to property and crops. Blinding rain caused a naval bombing plane to crash near Woodbridge, Conn., killing two navy aviation officers and an aviation cadet. The three, Lieut. W. J. Drumtra of Gloucester, Mass., and Lieut. J. F. McDonough, and Cadet J. R. Patch, both of Boston, were flying from Floyd Bennett field to save them from the rain. The flyers were stationed at Norfolk, Va.

Killed in Bus Crash.
Morse Circus, 41 years old, of Brooklyn was killed and six others were injured when a Greyhound bus overturned near Vienna, N. J., as the driver attempted to bring the bus out of a skid. In Plainfield, N. J., Angelina Bengeweg and Warren Totten, both 17 years old, were drowned.

Although the deluge extended from Maine to Florida, heaviest damage resulted in the New York metropolitan area and in New England, where rain was forecast for tomorrow. Homes were demolished, bridges and highways were washed out, streets were flooded, and railway and road traffic was disrupted.

Fifteen passengers on a New York Central train were injured by broken glass when an earth bank gave way at Yonkers, N. Y., and struck two cars of the train.

Villages Are Isolated.
Downpours in the Catskills isolated a number of villages and swept huge buildings along as if they were pebbles.

High winds and rain struck the Rochester, N. Y., area, and lightning damaged six buildings. Considerable damage also was reported at Niagara Falls. Water stalled nearly 200 cars between Yonkers and White Plains, N. Y., and approximately 100 between Pleasantville and Hawthorne, N. J.

In the Connecticut valley damage to the tobacco crop was estimated at 1 million dollars, due chiefly to excessive moisture, which reduces the value of the crop.

In eastern Pennsylvania, where rain has fallen for seven days, crops were reported to have suffered the greatest damage in years. New Jersey also reported crop damage.

Massachusetts Area Hit.
Rivers and lakes throughout eastern Massachusetts were overflowing. highways were pitted with holes, telephone lines were broken, and crops were ruined over a wide area. General rains also were reported over Virginia, West Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, and Alabama.

Some persons attributed the abnormal rainfall to the superposition that rain on St. Switth's day—July 15—presages fort, days of rain. The weather bureau, however, scoffed at this belief, saying that the rains resulted from a high pressure area off the Atlantic coast.

CITY'S NEW CENTRAL RELIEF BUREAU TO BE MANNED BY EXPERTS

The most efficient relief workers in the city will be selected to staff the new central intake office at 10 East 11th street, relief officials said yesterday. A. E. Rose has been appointed to direct the experiment in applying business efficiency to examination of relief applicants. Rose resigned on Friday as executive secretary of the Illinois council of public assistance and unemployment to take the city position.

Selection of Rose's staff from the ranks of the relief administration's 19 district offices probably will begin this week. Social workers will be used in so far as they can qualify as experts on relief eligibility. The central office in its trial stage will replace only three of the district offices.

TRACE 3 LOST WOMEN THROUGH COMPACT MIRROR

Grants, N. M., July 23.—[Special.]—The reflection of sunbeams from a small compact mirror today led searchers to three women tourists who had been lost in the trackless lava badlands of western New Mexico for four days. A hunt for them, led by Gov. Clyde Tingley, was started after their empty car was found yesterday near the Perpetual Ice caves, 130 miles southwest of Albuquerque.

The rescued are Miss Irene Piedalue, 45 years old, of Winchester, Ky.; her sister, Miss Laura Piedalue, 47 years old, of New York, and Miss Marie Antoinette de La Forrest, an instructor in the University of Kentucky at Lexington. All were suffering severely from exhaustion, thirst, and hunger. They were taken to Albuquerque in the governor's car.

Irene Piedalue said they had left their car to visit the lonely caves and had become lost in the broken lava. The needle-like rock points cut their shoes to pieces. They were only three miles from the car when they were found, but were too exhausted to do more than flash their mirror signals at intervals.

SPECIAL SERMONS TODAY USHER IN COURTESY WEEK

Special sermons will be preached in many Chicago churches today to usher in Courtesy week, which begins officially tomorrow morning. The program, which will last through next Saturday, is sponsored by Chicago's New Century and Keep Chicago Safe committees, both headed by Mayor Kelly.

First reminders that Chicagoans are expected to drop rude manners will be cards attached to milk bottles tomorrow morning urging all to be courteous. Police and all city employees have been instructed to be on their good behavior—and every one else is expected to follow suit.

DIES IN BRIDEWELL HOSPITAL.

SUPREME COURT MAY DECIDE ON FANSTEEL CASE

Labor Board and C. I. O. to Seek Review.

It appeared certain last night that the United States Supreme court will have an opportunity to rule on the legality of the sitdown strike as a labor weapon. This certainty was embodied in the disapproval expressed by counsel for the National Labor Relations board and the Committee for Industrial Organization as the result of a decision Friday by the United States Court of Appeals in Chicago.

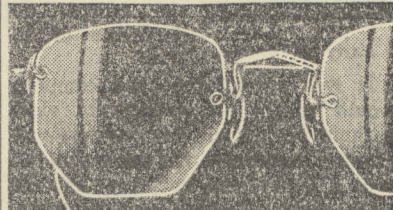

The court's two to one decision set aside an order of the NLRB holding that the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago was guilty of unfair labor practices, and directing it to reemploy ninety-two men who were discharged after a sitdown strike.

Twice Caused Rioting.
The strike twice caused outbursts of violence before the strikers finally were driven from the Fansteel plant on Feb. 25, 1937, by deputy sheriffs armed with tear gas.

In Washington last night, Lee Pressman, general counsel for the C. I. O., was particularly bitter. "The court's reasoning supplies an all too easy method for companies to use in evading the national labor statute," he declared. "As the La Follette committee has brought out, these companies can maintain their spies and thugs to incite violence among the workers or actually commit it while posing as workers. The corporation could then use this as an excuse for not reinstating the men."

Charles Fahy, general counsel for the NLRB, pointed out that Judges Will M. Sparks and Walter C. Lindley, in their majority opinion, had accepted the board's finding that the Fansteel company employed labor spy and fostered a company union to oppose the C. I. O.'s Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. It was the C. I. O. union that launched the sit strike.

Agrees with Treanor.
Fahy declared he agrees emphatically with Judge Walter E. Treanor, recent appointee of President Roosevelt, who wrote the dissenting opinion.

DRIVE ON SALES TAX CHEATERS MOVES TO LARGER LOOP OFFICES

The bureau of the state department of finance, which has been carrying on a drive against sales tax cheaters, moved into new and larger offices at 105 West Madison street yesterday. Formerly, the bureau occupied offices in the Criminal courts building.

Simultaneously, Robert M. Stowers, head of the Chicago office of the finance department, reported that since the drive began on June 25 six major cases of tax evasion have been prepared for prosecution. The total tax and penalties involved amount to nearly $250,000, he said.

An estimate of how much money has been collected as a result of the campaign cannot yet be made, he said. The investigation bureau is headed by former Assistant State Attorney Thomas Bugan and Investigator Gus Bartels.

ion in the Fansteel case. Treanor held the court had no jurisdiction over the unlawful sit strike because its perpetrators already had been punished by the state. [Thirty-seven of them served contempt sentences.] Both Fahy and Pressman recommended that the NLRB appeal the court's finding and it was indicated last night that this will be done in time for the Supreme court to rule on the issue this fall. The board's method of appeal will be to ask the high court for a writ of certiorari and a review of the case.
