

DISCARDED BY HIS LABOR CONSTITUENTS, Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's first coalition premier since war days, wears a harried, troubled expression in this picture, taken during an early morning walk in St. James park with his daughter, Sheila, just after he had adopted the course of action which deprived him of party support. (Associated Press photo.)

SEAGOING OMNIBUS—During the recent storms along the English south coast this bus was photographed plowing through the spray on the shore road near Seaford. With a cargo of thoroughly drenched passengers it finally arrived at its destination. (Acme photo.)

AN UNOFFICIAL WORLD'S RECORD—Miss Violet Webb, 16 year old London shop girl, won the eighty meter hurdles race for England in the recent meet at Hanover, Germany, setting an unofficial mark of 12 seconds. (Associated Press photo.)

ONE GOLFER WHO IS A HERO TO HIS CADDY—The prince of Wales, vacationing at the Chateau de Matignon, between Bordeaux and Biarritz, in southwest France, is pictured at the nearby Chiberta golf links, accompanied by his girl caddy, Mlle. Yvonne Robin. (Underwood & Underwood photo.)

GERMAN WAR MEMORIAL—The center of the Hamburg arcades at Hamburg harbor is the site of this shaft erected to the memory of the seaport's 40,000 war dead. (Acme photo.)

THE BEAR PITS in the Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield, where the living exhibits appear to roam at will in settings made to duplicate their various natural surroundings. This outdoor home of the wild is described in an article by James O'Donnell Bennett elsewhere in today's Tribune. (Tribune photo, by James E. Wilkins.)