

of elimination select one of the
at court for the third arbitrator.
posed Choice by Elimination.
elimination process is to be conducted One side to strike out a name the list of said judges, then the other strike out a name, and so alternately side to strike out a name until but one remains; the one so remaining to be the winner, the side to make the first to be chosen by chance.

Should the second proposition not actory to you, I propose that we it of the Circuit court judges of Cook and by a method of procedure similar proposed in proposition number one the third arbitrator.
Mr. Fleming made the folreply dated Sept. 16:
of the 13th inst. in the above matter ved, suggesting as the third arbitrator Mayor Harrison or one of the Superior court judges. In our first interin discussing the selection of the third I stated that the third arbitrator should man holding an elective office or pointee of any such office holder.

oming Refuses Public Officials.
I have given your suggestion the most consideration and I still think that principle should be adhered to in ing the third man. I am the more convinced that it is necessary to follow this view of the position taken by Mr. Shelton, ident of division No. 290 at a meeting of Chicago Federation of Labor at which said:

The strike as a weapon is obsolete. The st weapon which the workers will have to to get justice is the ballot. When we together on the political field strikes will be unnecessary, as we can remove the use of strikes.

There are other sound reasons why the is submitted by you would not be suit-for a third arbitrator. The mayor, as probably know, has already taken part long series of conferences between the
and the company, and in the course these conferences assumed a positive with reference to some of the same questions which are now to be submitted to ation.

Objects to Another Jurist.
In references to the selection of one Circuit or Superior court judges as the arbitrator it is, of course, apparent board of arbitration so constituted I consist of two men who are not only bers of the same profession but two men have been more or less intimately aced as judges in the same or practithe same court. I am, as you know, engineer for the company, but I would consider it advisable to suggest to you the third arbitrator another engineer, ever disinterested he might be, for the son that some professional bias might it in having two men of the same profession on the board.

I think we should endeavor to select for third arbitrator some man entirely disinterested, of good standing, and of such tical experience in business as to enable to view the questions involved from y standpoint, and one who would take his work with his mind absolutely open to the same. I am, as you know, an Morgan, Butler, and Keyes, submitby Mr. Fleming.

Scanlan and Fleming Clash.
These days later Judge Scanlan sent an wer, in which he said:

Frankly, I am surprised that none of the propositions made by me in my letter ould prove satisfactory to you. I ematically disagree with you in your con-tion that the third arbitrator should not be a man holding an elective office or the pointee of any such office holder.

In taking such a position you seriously fect on the judges of this county, who day er day are called upon to decide lawsuits volving disputes of every kind and character and between litigants of every class.
Your argument, carried to a conclusion, means that no judge elected by the people is fair and impartial between capital and labor.

"With reference to the gentlemen proposed by you for the third arbitrator, the three gentlemen named are all so intimately associated with the men who control and manage the transportation companies of this city that they are entirely disqualified from serving as the third arbitrator.

"I insist, again upon a reconsideration of the three propositions made to you by me in my letter, and in addition thereto I make you a fourth proposition—Judge Orrin N. Carter of the Supreme court of Illinois, to be the third arbitrator. Judge Carter, as you know, is the only Chicago member of the court."

AUGUSTA STRIKE UNSETTLED.
Augusta, Ga., Sept. 29.—Another conference between Mayor Barrett, other city officials, and representatives of the street railway company this afternoon in an effort to bring about a settlement of a street car strike proved unavailing.

The city is quiet after the exciting events of the last few days, in which three citizens were shot to death by members of the state militia.

Efforts of the company to operate cars today were frustrated by obstructions which had been placed on the tracks at various points.

POLICE BATTLE LAWRENCE MOB

Parade of 20,000 Strikers Broken Up After Fight of Knives and Clubs.

ARRESTED LEADER FREED Carlo Tresca Taken from Captors by Mob; Two Patrolmen Stabbed During Fracas.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 29.—Police and paraders fought with knives and clubs today prior to a demonstration by members of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Two officers were stabbed, a number of demonstrators were clubbed, and an Industrial Workers of the World leader captured after a hard fight and then freed. Only two arrests were made. One shot was fired from the ranks of the paraders. The clash was unexpected.

Carlo Tresca, of Pittsburgh, Pa., an editor who is an organizer of the Industrial Workers, was in custody, but gained his freedom a minute or two later. Onlookers said Tresca was rescued by comrades. Tresca, with a smile, said the police let him go. The police professed ignorance of the occurrence.

More than 20,000 operatives were at the railroad station to welcome 700 members of the I. W. W. who had come from Boston to participate in a parade to the graves of Anna Lopizzo and John Rany, who were killed during the strike riots last January.

The parade was informal and no application had been made for a permit. The squad of twenty-five police attempted to end the demonstration. At Essex and Lawrence streets they threw a line across Essex street and awaited the arrival of the procession.

Police and Paraders Clash.

When the head of the parade reached the line of officers it halted and an argument began. The police notified the marchers that they must disperse because they had no permit. Those in the front rank were endeavoring to fall back, when suddenly the marchers in the rear pressed forward and the mill workers tried to pass the police.

Knives Used in Fight.

Policeman Thomas McCarty was cut on the head with some blunt instrument and also received a slight stab wound behind the ear. Another policeman, whose name was withheld, received two slight stab wounds in the back.

Leaders' Trial Begins Today.

Salem, Mass., Sept. 29.—Joseph J. Ettor, a former Pennsylvania iron worker, and Arturo Giovannitti, editor of a New York Italian newspaper, who for eight months have been held without bail on charges of being accessories to the murder of Anna Lopizzo, a Lawrence mill striker, will face their accusers in the Essex county Superior court here tomorrow.

MANILA CIGARMAKERS OUT.

MANILA, Sept. 29.—The cigar industry in Manila is practically suspended. Fifteen thousand men are on strike and less than 1,000 are at work. The cigar makers object to the scheme of governmental registration.

'AXMAN' MURDERS ANOTHER FAMILY

cago police may do whatever possible to aid in running down the maniac.
Neighbors of the Pfanschmidt family awoke yesterday morning to find the residence on the Pfanschmidt farm on fire. The house by this time was almost destroyed and nothing could be done to save what little remained from the flames.

After the debris cooled off the bodies of four victims were found. The skulls of the two girls were seen to have been split and similarly to the recent annihilation of a family of eight in Villisca, Ia., was noted.

The bodies of Miss Kaempfen and Mrs. Pfanschmidt were found under a mattress, which partly protected them from the flames. A pillow upon which Miss Kaempfen had been lying was not burned.

The Pfanschmidt girl's face was badly burned, but the back of her head was protected from the flames, and there is a wound several inches across.

Indications were that the four were slain while they slept on Friday night. No signs of life were seen about the place by neighbors on Saturday and telephone calls were not answered by the Pfanschmidts. This was explained when it was discovered the telephone wires to the house had been cut.

Bloodhounds Put on Trail.

Bloodhounds were put on a trail, but there appeared but little to work upon. The only possible clew is in buggy tracks on the premises, which indicate the murderer drove up in a buggy and made his escape in the same vehicle.

The Pfanschmidts, wealthy farmers, are not known to have had any enemies. A son, the only surviving member of the family, says no large sum of money was ever kept about the house. Miss Kaempfen was a school teacher who made her home with the Pfanschmidts.

Another Illinois Family Killed.

Two weeks later, on the night of Sunday, Oct. 1, William E. Dawson, aged janitor of a church, his wife and their daughter were murdered in their beds by an ax at their home in Monmouth, Ill. Their faces were mutilated brutally. The family had no known enemies. No theft was committed in the house.

The words, "Colorado Springs, Sept. 4," were scratched on a bloodstained electric flashlight, found in an asphalt in the rear of the cottage.

Point to Vice Report.

The city appointed a vice commission, which made a very cryptic report, looked the key to that report in a vault, and lost the combination thereof; they then settled back to wait for another way of reform to afford the opportunity for the appointment of another vice commission, again to toy and play with a subject that is none too easy to handle.

Says Public Has Power.

"If the public wants to abolish these houses, then let us abolish them, but while we permit them to run, let us have no hypocritical cry of virtue. The closing of these houses rests with the public. Whenever a genuine public demand is made in good faith for the closing of such houses, no one will be more pleased than I to take the necessary legal steps to that end."

Wayman Issues Statement.

State's Attorney Wayman issued a statement late in the day in which he denounced as false Miss Brooks' claim that she had reported any cases to his office. He said he had spoiled his day of rest by going down to his office and going through his dockets and files in search of Miss Brooks' complaints. He said he found none. In his statement he says:

PRAY IN PULPITS TO AID GRAND JURY

not let me tell my story. He interrupted me continuously. He would let me talk for a half a minute and then say we ought to get back to the main issue. One of the grand jurors remarked that I had been fighting vice in West Hammond for two years and ought to know a lot about conditions. I do, but Mr. Fairbank wouldn't let me tell about them.

"Those of us who are interested in the welfare of West Hammond had a meeting today. In the morning I am going to appear before Judge Burke and ask that a special grand jury with a special prosecutor be appointed to inquire into West Hammond affairs."

Every witness from West Hammond appeared dissatisfied with his hearing before the grand jury. Ignatz Mankowski, city clerk, said that every time he started to talk Mr. Fairbank would cut him short with an abrupt question.

State's Attorney Wayman issued a statement late in the day in which he denounced as false Miss Brooks' claim that she had reported any cases to his office. He said he had spoiled his day of rest by going down to his office and going through his dockets and files in search of Miss Brooks' complaints. He said he found none. In his statement he says:

"Speaking generally on vice conditions in Chicago. It occurs to me that disorderly houses have been running here in segregated districts, under police supervision, for a good many years. Why this sudden outburst of 'vaunted virtue' now?"

"Have we not had vice commissions, committees, sociologists, preachers, teachers of officials, judges, toyng and playing with this subject, all with the view of regulating it and never with the view of abolishing it? They are pleased to call it the 'social evil'."

"When this office struck at the root of the evil and prosecuted and convicted a police official in charge of a vice district, did anybody notice an outburst of civic virtue or indignation? No. The same people that cry now for reform bustled themselves in hampering the prosecution and, failing in that, devoted themselves to securing a pardon of the convicted official."

Points to Vice Report.

"The city appointed a vice commission, which made a very cryptic report, looked the key to that report in a vault, and lost the combination thereof; they then settled back to wait for another way of reform to afford the opportunity for the appointment of another vice commission, again to toy and play with a subject that is none too easy to handle."

mission, with a view to establishing the commission of crime in West Hammond.

"The murder charge against 'Frankie' Ford and Foss, and the bribery charges against the mayor and another, were, after due consideration by the grand jury, nobilitated. If Miss Brooks has additional evidence, or feels there is anything left undone by this grand jury, which is in session, she will be given ample opportunity to be heard."

"As soon as his exhibition of ignorance was brought to my attention I performed the duty that devolved upon me—that is, I took the steps necessary to prevent these defendants escaping prosecution by reason of Waldron's action. The evidence in these particular cases will be presented to the next grand jury and valid indictments noted."

Waldron Makes Reply.

Less than half an hour after Mr. Wayman had issued his statement Attorney Waldron dictated a reply, in which he reviewed his experiences with the state's attorney's office and the grand jury and intimated that he might reveal the name of one of Wayman's assistants, who wanted him to drop his crusade for political reasons.

Mr. Waldron asserts that on Sunday, Sept. 15, W. D. Allen, manufacturer at 153 West Lake street, and Charles F. Whitney, an insurance man, and he called on Foreman Warner of the grand jury and told him of the cases he had been trying to lay before the grand jury, and which Mr. Wayman had refused to present before that body. He said that as a result all the witnesses in these cases were called before the grand jury the following Wednesday.

"I went to the office of Assistant State's Attorney Fairbank that same morning," said Mr. Waldron, "to remind him that no grand jury minutes had been made out for 'Dago Frank' Lewis and Harry Cusick. Mr. Wayman came into Fairbank's office, and the latter told him what I wanted."

Tells of Talk with Wayman.

"Mr. Wayman turned on me and said: 'If any minutes or papers are made out in any of these cases they will be made out in my office, and you don't have to worry about it. All you have to do is to present evidence, if you have any.'"

Mr. Waldron declares Fairbank then asked him who had been to see the foreman of the grand jury, and that he had given the names of the men who called on Foreman Warner on Sunday. He asserts that Fairbank told him that seeing the foreman was enough to quash the indictments. Mr. Waldron declares Mr. Wayman heard this conversation, but said nothing about contempt of court or that the indictments would be invalidated.

"I have not given out all the facts and circumstances which reveal Mr. Wayman's attitude toward this inquiry," continued Mr. Waldron, "but I wish now to ask Mr. Wayman if he wants me to reveal through the press the name of one of his assistants who came to my office before the evidence was presented to the grand jury in these cases and asked me to 'lay off in those cases for purely political reasons?'"

Only 75 of these Kermanshah Rugs could be found

Mr. G. T. Pushman personally selected them to signalize the Opening Today of the Oriental Rug Season of 1912-1913

THESE 75-room-size rugs are pronounced the finest specimens from the celebrated hand-loom of Persia. There the ancients whispered to their children the wizardry of extracting these everlasting colors from the herbs of the hills. They trained their faculties to blend these colors with exquisite genius into designs fanciful and emblems expressive—soft rose and mellow greens and blues on fields of ivory.

And so it has come down the ages with every new generation of these curious peoples—a heritage. These 75 Kermanshah Rugs are the consummate achievement of this endeavor of centuries.

Look like fine tapestries—more valuable.

The choicest of wool was used for the nap; under wear it acquires a silk-like luster. The close-woven texture gives each Rug the appearance of a fine tapestry.
