GLIMPSES OF THE NEW COLOR VOGUE

MOLYNEUX wraps his professional silks in shaded velvet this fall, like this stream-lined frock that shades from darkest brown to gold. Nothing is the way of shoulder straps holds this dress up, but the shoulders are high-lighted by many bills of brown tails.

LUCIEN LELONG designs this evening ensemble for the First Ladies of Fashion, uniting sable and the glorious new velvet mohair which is in two tones, green and sable brown. The mohair velvet frock has the new extra-deep narrow V decolletage. The changeable effect of the material is big news.

MAINBOCHER shows us how to be practical and glamorous at once in this tweed ensemble with a full length cape hanging off the shoulders of the jacket. The belt and gloves are made of brown antelope, as is the sportive hat. A work of the tweed is tucked into the jacket front.
