

ROYAL MARRIAGE IN LONDON TODAY

Wedding of Prince Arthur of Connaught and Duchess of Fife Due at Noon.

SERVICE TO BE SIMPLE.

Royalties of Europe to Attend
Ceremony; Archbishop
Will Officiate.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Remarkable simplicity for a royal ceremonial will characterize the wedding of Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Duchess of Fife in the Chapel Royal of St. James' palace tomorrow.

With such a setting of ornate decorations and richly painted ceiling as the quaint old room presents, with the uniforms of the men of the royal family and court officials, and the jewels worn by the ladies, the ceremony itself must have a tinge of the spectacular. But compared with the recent wedding of the daughter of Emperor William, and devoid of all processions and military display, the ceremony will be as simple as adherence to traditions will permit.

Largely because of mourning for the recent death of the Duke of Fife, it was decided to have the wedding a family affair.

It has been rumored for some time that King George would confer a royal dukedom on Prince Arthur on the eve of his marriage. This was not done, but by a royal decree he is created a Knight of the Thistle and promoted from a captain to a major of his regiment.

Large Group of Royalties.

There will be a large group of royalties from other countries present, including the king and queen of Denmark and Norway, Prince Henry of Prussia, the Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, and the crown prince and princess of Sweden, but they will attend as relatives and there will be no guests of state from abroad.

The king will give away the bride, while the princess royal, mother of the bride, will also support her at the altar. The bridegroom's supporters will be his father, the Duke of Connaught, and the Prince of Wales.

The archbishop of Canterbury, the highest dignitary of the Church of England, will conduct the marriage service, assisted by the bishop of London and Canon Edgar Sheppard, who are dean and sub-dean of the chapel royal. During the ceremony the king and queen will occupy gilded chairs on a raised dais facing the altar and close behind the bride and bridegroom.

St. James' chapel is a small room, accommodating about 300 people.

Ceremony Will Be Brief.
The ceremony will begin at noon and will be finished before 1 o'clock.

There will be three semi-state processions from St. James' palace to the chapel, by way of the state apartments and the grand stairway into color court. These processions will be composed of the clergy, the bridegroom with his suite, and the bridesmaid with her supporters, bridesmaids, and pages.

When the three processions have taken their stand before the altar railing the young duchess will enter, supported by the king and queen of Norway, followed by five bridesmaids and a bevy of pages. The bridesmaids will be Princess Mary, daughter of the king and queen; Princess Maud, only sister of the bride; Princess Victoria and Princess Helena of Teck, daughters of the Duke and Duchess of Teck, and Princess Mary, the little daughter of Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck.

Simple Service Starts at Noon.

The simple service of the Church of England will be performed, beginning at noon, and the archbishop's address to the young couple will be brief. Upon the Prince of Wales devolves the important duty of carrying the wedding ring, which is of 22 carat gold from the mountains of Wales.

After the ceremony the royal procession will be re-formed, with the king and queen directly after the wedded couple, and will withdraw to the historic picture gallery of St. James' palace, where the register is to be signed by all the royal witnesses, the clergy, and the principal members of the cabinet.

The trousseau of the bride will be British made and of British materials, so far as possible.

The presents received by the couple were placed on private view today. It is estimated they are worth $750,000.

TWO WOMEN FALL FROM CARS.

One Trips on Step and Sprains Ankle—Other Faints and Plunges to Pavement—Both Hurt Slightly.

Two women were injured in attempting to leave street cars on the northwest side last night. Mrs. Mary Eintrauch, 1223 East Sixty-third street, tripped and fell while trying to step from a car at North Morgan street and Milwaukee avenue. She suffered a sprained left ankle and bruises.

Mrs. Josephine Bokoro of 446 North Curtis street fainted while stepping from a car at North Curtis street and Austin avenue. Her head was badly cut.

SPENCER DEPICTS REXROAT MURDER

Re-enacts Crime Before Crowd on Way to Trial Next Week at Wheaton.

CONDUCTOR RECALLS HIM.

Authorities Take Him on Same Train He Used to Lure Woman to Death.

On the same train in which he rode with Mrs. Maud Allison Rexroat the night he confessed he killed Henry Spencer was taken to Wayne last night over the Aurora, Elgin and Chicago Electric railroad. For State's Attorney Hadley, Coroner Kopt, and Sheriff Kuhn, of Du Page county; Capt. Halpin, Detective Sergeants Trant and O'Keefe, and a crowd of onlookers he demonstrated each feature of the murder beside the railroad tracks under the viaduct.

Spencer exhibited no worry. Once or twice he laughed as he explained how easy it was to kill the woman and escape. Then he was taken to Wheaton and locked up in the Du Page county jail.

"Looks more comfortable than the one at the detective bureau," he remarked. "Thanks for your care, though, Capt. Halpin."

May Be Tried Next Week.

Spencer may be tried next week. Hadley wishes to push the trial through before Judge Irwin or Judge Slosser, and so far Spencer has given every indication of his wish to have the trial over with. If he changes his mind and demands delay it would go over until the next session in January.

On the electric train was James R. Cargo, the conductor who had that run at the time of the killing. Cargo promptly identified Spencer. Spencer calmly showed the officers where he had thrown the woman's clothing from the window as he rode back toward Chicago.

Here's the Place.

At Wayne he traced his steps down the "and along the tracks to the viaduct." "Here's the place," he said. "I remember this place."
