YOUR ROOM SCHEME

Curtains so largely affect its Harmony

The old lace makers of Venice contributed many rare lace designs. Scranton designers bring some of the best of these to you.

THE FURNITURE, the fabric and the color scheme of each room—these three elements are most important in selecting your curtains. Are you striving for a dignified, proud room? Or a cosy, dainty, gay room? For your glass curtains only lace can adapt itself to any mood. Lace, and lace alone, gives the final deft touch of character that you want.

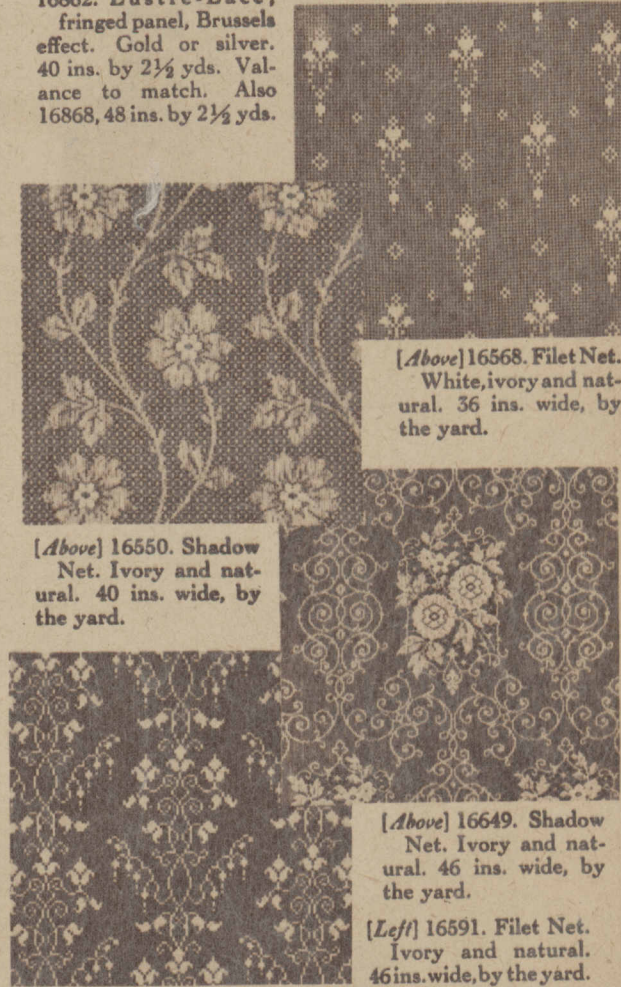

Here are a few Scranton patterns—each design planned definitely to meet a certain need in decorating. Your favorite store can show you these and many others.

And you will find that Scranton fabrics combine two things. Designs that are ever new and fresh. Quality that women have accepted for two generations as a standard by which to judge drapery laces.

Ask to see Scranton drapery laces at your favorite store, or mail the coupon for booklet. It gives you detailed suggestions for selecting the right curtains for the right window—plus suggestions for making curtains for that window which is particularly hard to trim.

The lace drapery material shown in the four squares at the right is sold by the yard. It can be made into glass curtains to fit any size or shape of window.
