CHICAGO THOUGHT UP SUPERROADS - DIDN'T BUILD 'EM

Question of Modern Woman: What's Under the Car Hood?

BY JERRE NICKEL.

... if you held to the old belief that women have no mechanical ability, you are in for a rude awakening. The developing interest in the automobile has resulted in a new demand for automobile repair shops, and the number of women mechanics is rapidly increasing. In addition, the women who have always been interested in the car, but who have not been able to learn much about it, are now taking a new interest in the car. This is partly due to the fact that more women are driving their own cars, and partly due to the fact that more women are working in repair shops, and partly due to the fact that more women are working in repair shops.

BLAMES A WEAK DRIVERS' LICENSE LAW FOR DEATHS

BY SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS.

... the law is not tough enough. There are too many exceptions to the law, and it is not enforced properly. The result is, that many people who are not fit to drive are allowed to drive. The result is, that many people who are not fit to drive are allowed to drive. The results are, that many people who are not fit to drive are allowed to drive. The result is, that many people who are not fit to drive are allowed to drive.
