

DERMERS VOTE STOP DANCING ALL CABARETS

Brewers' Plan Amended to Limit Programs to Music.

Dancing in cabarets was deemed undesirable by the city council license committee, which is considering legislation giving in connection with the liquor license, a provision for the elimination of dancing in all places where intoxicants are served.

Bowler's Amendment.

Bowler's proposition, which was adopted by the committee and incorporated in the brewers' measure, provided for the following: No liquor shall be sold in any place which permits other than musical and vocal entertainment, skating, dancing and all other adjuncts of cabarets being served.

Special Bars Allowed.

Special bars are not to be prohibited by the Bowler measure, "protects pianos and entertainment given by the United Societies and other bona fide organizations."

A committee will meet again tomorrow morning to consider the Bowler measure. It was predicted yesterday that it will be recommended to the council tomorrow.

Barrett Again
Is Sued By A
Former Pupil

Charles R. Barrett, president of the Institution of Shortland and writing, 23 West Monroe street, made a defendant in a $25,000 damage suit filed in the superior court yesterday by Mrs. Eva Strong. According to Strong's attorneys, Barrett is charged with having taken undue liberties with the plaintiff when she was a pupil in his school. This is the second case of the same nature filed against Barrett this week. Virginia Van Horn was the other plaintiff.

Barrett is an attempt to ruin his business reputation," said Mr. Barrett yesterday.

"These two girls attended my school in 1914 and they were both ex-girls. If they were sincere in their claims, why did they not bring the suit sooner—over two years have passed since the alleged indiscretion occurred?"

Barrett is an attempt to ruin his business reputation," said Mr. Barrett yesterday.

AUGUSTE RODIN, NOTED FRENCH SCULPTOR, DIES

Victor in Fight Against Poverty and Ridicule
Expires at 77.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Auguste Rodin, France's great sculptor, died early today. The 77 year old sculptor had been ill for only a brief time of congestion of the lungs.

M. Rodin died in his villa at Meudon in the outskirts of Paris. Had he lived, M. Rodin would have been elected a member of the Academy of Fine Arts by almost unanimous vote a week from today.

FIFTY YEARS' STRUGGLE.

Auguste Rodin struggled fifty years against poverty, and abuse, and ridicule for his unconventional ideas before he achieved celebrity as one of the most famous sculptors of the world.

When first recognized, M. Rodin was hailed by his admirers as "the Michael Angelo of the modern world."

Born in Paris in 1840 of wretchedly poor parents, he was first heard of in 1864, when, after a short time spent in studying under Barye, he sent his mask, "The Man with the Broken Nose," to the salon. It was refused, and he spent the next six years in drudgery.

His second attempt to gain recognition at the Paris salon was humiliating. He submitted, in 1877, "The Age of Bronze," only to have it rejected and to have himself accused of casting it from life instead of creating an original work.

It was not until 1880, after the exhibition of his "St. John the Baptist," that the tide began to turn in his favor.

Controversy Over Monument.

From then on he created a number of notable works, among them his "Victor Hugo," "The Burghers of Calais," and his statue of "Balzac," the latter being received with almost universal jest and jibe.

For years after the Balzac controversy, Rodin devoted himself to a great decorative composition some twenty feet high, "The Portal of Hell," for the Museum of Decorative Arts.

A bronze bust of "La France" by Rodin was presented to the United States by the people of France during the tercentenary celebration of the discovery of Lake Champlain, and has since been mounted on a monument to Champlain at Crown Point, N. Y.

Rodin in his later life received many honors. Upon the death of Whistler he succeeded as president of the International Society of Painters, Sculptors, and Gravers.

P. J. Gibbons, Former Police Captain, Run Over

Former Police Capt. P. J. Gibbons was injured yesterday by an automobile truck driven by Francis Eichen of the South Suburban Motor Express company. The accident occurred on Clark street, near Randolph.

He is believed to be suffering from scalp wounds, a fractured rib, and other injuries. Eichen was held at the central station.

Gibbons is 67 years old, a bachelor, and lives with his sister at 2333 Lakeview avenue. He resigned from the police department in September, 1915. He was captain of the central station for eighteen years.

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA.

Regents of Chicago circles of the National circle, Daughters of Isabella, were entertained at a luncheon in the Hotel Le Salle yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Elizabeth Morgan, 7609 Ridgeland avenue.
