Marie Ruby is more than just a 'book teacher'

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER

Third grade teacher Marie Ruby retires this spring after 38 years of teaching. She will be missed by her students and fellow teachers for more than just her "book teaching."

The most unique and enjoyable learning activities for Ruby's students in past years have been science lessons that literally come alive.

Close to Easter vacation each year, the veteran teacher provides an experience in observing new life, which is symbolic of the reawakening of nature in the spring. A thirty-year-old incubator is used to produce baby chicks from fertilized eggs.

The first signs of life in the egg can be seen by the students about three or four days after the hatching period begins, says Ruby. The youngsters carefully chip off part of the shell and see the heart beat, she says.

Excitement reigns supreme in the classroom when the new bundles of life peek their way out of the eggshells.

"We don't plan to do much work for a couple days after the chicks hatch," Ruby says with a smile.

Another favorite project for her students in the fall is creating and eating a full course meal. The school is filled with a mouthwatering aroma, as sweetcorn, baked potatoes, sausage, butter and applesauce is prepared by the children.

The food tastes especially delicious after the efforts the students exert in preparing the meal. Butter is "homemade" from cream, the applesauce is created from the raw apples and the meat is also prepared by the students with an old-fashioned sausage stuffer.

Bay Port kindergarten teacher Jeannie Swartzen- druber says Ruby is admired among her colleagues for her "hands-on" activities with science lessons.

"Among the teachers we kind of joke that we can't wait until the kids get to third grade to get some science in them," she laughs.

Another surprise Ruby provides at school is a variety of animals for the children to see. Swartzendruber remembers ducks and eels.

Life after college... Looking at a routine

By Kadey Blount

When things become part of a routine, they are easy to do. This is true for many daily tasks, such as brushing your teeth or eating breakfast. When you do these things regularly, they become automatic. But what happens when things change? What about when you have to do something new? How do you handle it?

The key to handling change is to think about what you need to do. Think about what you want to accomplish. Think about how you can achieve your goal. Then, think about what steps you need to take.

For example, if you need to learn a new language, you might start by taking a class. Then, you might practice by talking to someone who speaks the language. You might also read books or listen to music in the language.

The most important thing is to be proactive. Don’t wait until you absolutely have to do something before you start thinking about it. Start now.

Steelheads and Tippy Dam

Steelheads and Tippy Dam

Steelhead fishing is a popular activity in the area, and there are plenty of opportunities to catch these fantastic fish. Here are some tips for success:

Spring is steelhead time, and there is plenty of action along the St. Clair River. During the peak season, steelhead can be found in close proximity to the river mouth. These are some of the best opportunities to catch these incredible fish.

Steelhead fishing requires patience and skill. It is important to use the right equipment and follow local regulations. Steelhead fishing can be a challenging and rewarding experience for those who are willing to put in the effort.

I personally enjoy fishing for steelheads during the spring season. I have caught several healthy steelheads in the past, and it is always a great feeling to catch这种 fish.

Yearning for the past

On the other hand, the Tippy Dam offers a different experience. This dam is known for its abundance of fish, and there are plenty of opportunities to catch steelheads there. The dam is located in the middle of the St. Clair River, and there are several access points where you can try your luck.

I have fished the Tippy Dam a few times, and I have always had a great time there. The dam offers a different experience from steelhead fishing, and it is always exciting to try something new.

Overall, steelhead fishing and Tippy Dam offer unique and rewarding experiences for those who are passionate about fishing. Whether you prefer catching steelheads during the spring season or trying your luck at the Tippy Dam, there is something for everyone in the area.

The Easter Story Is A Message Of Hope and Joy

Since earthly history began, the great event that turned the tide occurred before the eyes of man. The Day the Lord was crucified, there was no crime, and yet He died to forgive. He died to wash away sin. He died to make the sacrifice. Your Church empowers you to see the joy He gave a world bottom. By proving He's deity. When He arose on Easter morning.

—Glora Nowak

Hospital invites everyone to birthday party April 25

Invitations are now being sent to hospital friends, no plan contin- ues the fourth annual Scheurer Hospital Spring Benefit "Birthday Party" on Thursday, April 25. A special "birthday" menu will be offered at the evening's festivities.

The fund-raiser's theme is in celebration of the 40th anniver- sary of the opening of Scheurer Hospital in 1945. Purse will be served during the social time at the Lakeview. Lakeview School is at 6 p.m. - 9 p.m., according to the organizers. Dinner starts at 7 p.m., featuring a mystery "birthday" menu.

Entertainment will be provided complete with birthday party cake and ice cream to celebrate the anniversary.

Just because invitations are being sent next to some hospital friends doesn't mean anyone isn't in the know, says Hospital Community Relations Director Bob Mace. "Everyone who would like to help Scheurer Hospital celebrate this special occasion is welcomed and encouraged to at- tend, or support hospital work with a donation. There's a big list of per- sons who attended past Hospital functions, but we're hoping our public invitation to all," he says. "The doors are available by calling the Hospital switchboard at 469-3233."

"You're invited to share an en- joyable evening with us April 25, with all proceeds going toward needed equipment at Scheurer Hospital." Franchuk says. Proceeds from these dinners have gone toward hospital equip- ment needs. An average of the persons have attended in past years.

The first such fund-raising event is scheduled to coincide with the new hospital building opening.
