Jennifer, Kelly lead Eagles

Caseville Valedictorian Jennifer Krause and Salutatorian Kelly Wagner

The 1985 Valedictorian and Salutatorian of Caseville High School were announced during Commencement Exercises on Saturday.

Valedictorian is Jennifer Krause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Krause. She had accumulated a grade point average of 3.48 in her eight semesters of high school and was a member of the National Honor Society and served as class president during her senior year. In addition to participating in a lead role in the school play this year, she was active in track, cheerleading and varsity volleyball during her four years of high school.

She plans to attend Michigan State University in the fall to study business administration or pre-law.

Kelly Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zimmer and Phillip Wagner, earned the honor of being salutatorian with an overall grade point average of 3.30.

She was a member of the National Honor Society and served as vice president of the senior class. She participated in varsity volleyball as a junior and senior and was elected secretary of the Student Council this year. At Caseville United Methodist Church, she serves as vice president of the youth group.

Her future plans include a college career at Saginaw Valley State College, where she plans to study business and accounting.

Pigeon, Sebewaing Co-Ops consider merger plan

Farmer-stockholders of Sebewaing Farmers Cooperative, Inc., and the Co-Operative Elevator Co., of Pigeon are being asked to consider a unification or merger of the two organizations.

Sebewaing Co-Op President Victor Engelhardt and General Manager John Williamson and Pigeon Co-Op President Gerald Elenbaum and General Manager Ted Leipprandt have contacted all stockholders of their respective groups by letters, dated Monday, June 10. The letters say the Board of Directors and management of both Elevators have studied and discussed the plan for some time, and have voted in favor of unification.

The Boards have instructed management to work with legal counsel to draft a formal plan for members' approval by shareholders of both Elevators.

Each stockholder will receive a copy of the plan of merger, prior to a stockholder vote, the letters say -- and members are invited to bring their questions or concerns to management or directors of either company.

The letter points out both Co-Ops are in sound financial condition, have excellent employe staffs, offer services in dry beans, grain, feed, fertilizer, seed, chemicals and petroleum, and serve similar agricultural patrons.

According to the letter, 37% of Sebewaing's stockholders are also stockholders of the Pigeon company, and 18% of the Co-Operative Elevator Company's stockholders are members of the Sebewaing elevator. The Pigeon firm's 1984 total sales were $56 million, and Sebewaing's '84 sales totaled $10.5 million.

With competition coming from other states and countries, rather than "the elevator or farmer down the road," the letter says "the opportunities for eliminating duplicate expense and providing improved service at a lower cost creates considerable excitement."

Pigeon Co-Op's Elenbaum said discussions have been taking place for several years. "We're very positive about this possible merger. We're looking forward with enthusiasm, to provide better

Laker voters turn down millage request, 665-387

Laker School District voters turned down the 3.5-mill renewal and 1-mill additional millage question nearly two-to-one, in moderate balloting during Monday's Annual School Elections.

The millage request failed 665 "no" to 387 "yes" votes, with six spoiled. For the first time in recent memory, the five-year request failed in all three voting precincts of Elkton, Pigeon and Bay Port.

Incumbent J. Sidney Smith of Bay Port and newcomer Paul Clabuesch of Caseville were elected to the two four-year posts on the Laker Board of Education. Smith was top vote-getter with 770 ballots, while Clabuesch followed with 534. The third candidate, Lonna Fisher of Elkton gathered 462 votes.

"Obviously, we're disappointed," Laker Business Manager Bob Drury said following Monday's vote tallies. "Some people suggested a big rah-rah get-out-the-vote campaign, but we didn't believe that would be useful in our millage request."

"We campaign by our every day action.

What we've done is a sales effort every day, with striving for excellence in our educational program," Drury said.

School officials are uncertain what action will be planned next. They'll discuss options at the July 8 regular meeting, or they may call a special session before that time.

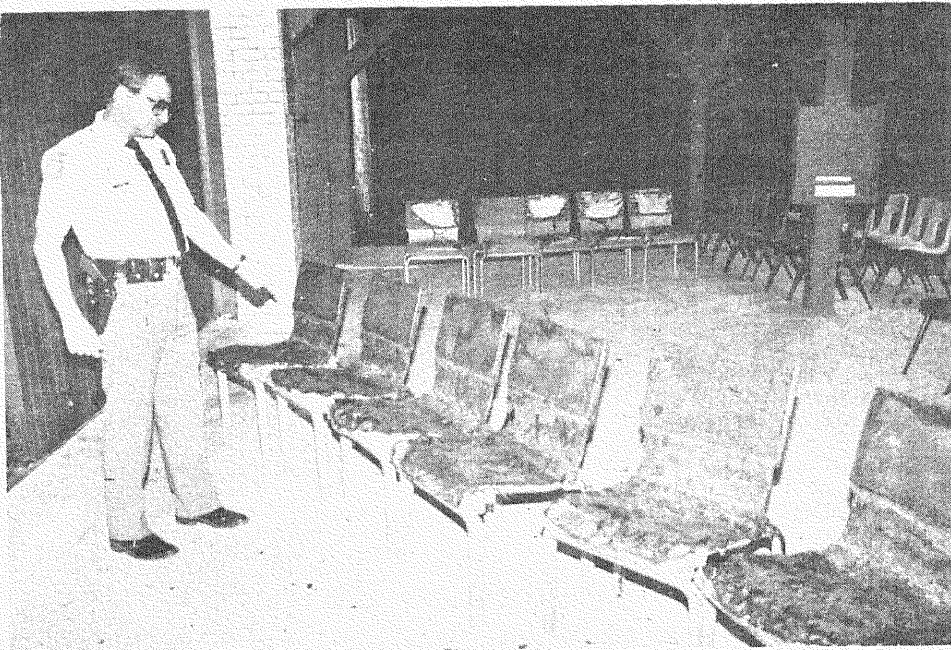

A decision to again place a millage renewal and-or increase question on the ballot will require about 45 days for scheduling, Drury said.

Here is the vote total, by precinct, in balloting:

School Board Candidate or Millage Issue	Elkton Precinct	Pigeon Precinct	Bay Port Precinct
J. Sid Smith	325	362	83
Paul Clabuesch	230	280	44
Lonna Fisher	254	154	54
"Yes" votes	164	190	33
"No" votes	344	249	72

Two spoiled ballots were reported in Elkton, four in Pigeon and none in Bay Port.

Arson damage at St. Roch's

Arson has been judged the cause of a fire early Sunday at St. Roch's Catholic Church, Caseville. The altar area, walls, chairs and carpeting were damaged in the attempt, plus smoke damage was reported throughout the building, according to Caseville Police Chief Jack Jensen. An accelerant was spread on carpeting, chairs and walls, to promote fire burning and matches were found at the scene.

Here, Caseville Officer Larry Wilding inspects damage to some of the chairs. The Michigan State Police Arson Squad was called to the scene, and took samples for testing. Jensen says his investigation is continuing.

The fire was reported about 2:09 a.m. Sunday by Robert McCurdy, St. Roch's pastoral director for youth and evangelism. He spotted the fire from his residence on the second floor of the church rectory nearby. Caseville Fire Department responded, and about $3000 in materials plus smoke damage were reported.

Jensen said Diocese Bishop Kenneth Untener is cooperating fully with the investigation. No arrests are expected until after testing and interviews are completed, Jensen said.

Public meetings gather more airport data

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER

Another turn was taken on the merry-go-round discussion of the proposed Caseville Township airport last Thursday, when state officials conducted an informational meeting on the project for area citizens.

As in the past, questions by opponents of the $1.3 million airport centered on future tax increases to maintain the airport and the project's impact on the environment.

The meeting was scheduled by Michigan Aeronautics Commission Airport Development Division Administrator Raymond Raught because correspondence he received in reference to the proposed airport indicated some area people questioned various aspects of the project.

He also invited representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration, U.S. Department of the Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service and Michigan Department of Natural Resources to attend the meeting in an effort to answer questions concerning the airport.

More than 100 people attended the two-hour afternoon and evening sessions, but the issues voiced amounted to a rehash of past meetings.

FUNDING: Officials were questioned about the source of funding for the airport, proposed to be located south of Crescent Beach Road between Caseville Road and M-25.

Raught indicated the FAA would pick up 90% of construction expenses, with the remaining 10% split equally between state and local sources when the project receives final approval.

Caseville Township Aeronautical Board Chairman Lowell Kraft assured those present that the local portion of the funding will be raised by private donations from local businesses and individuals.

Raught stated that federal and state funds were available only for airport construction, and future maintenance costs must be generated locally.

Kraft explained that operating and maintenance expenses will be generated by a trust fund created from airport revenue and pilot fees. No local tax increase would be necessary to maintain the airport, he said.

Airport foes expressed doubt that the project would be self-supporting in the future and asked Raught if there were other small airports in the state that didn't depend on local taxes for operation.

Raught said he was personally aware of three airports of approximately the same size in the state that are self-supporting. There might be more, he stated, but he knows of those three examples because he was recently involved with them.

ENVIRONMENT? Questions concerning the future impact an airport would have on the environment and wildlife remained basically unanswered, because the Michigan Environmental Review Board is currently studying the situation.

Raught noted the Review Board's report is the main obstacle preventing the airport project from moving ahead.

Raught pointed out the sessions did not constitute a public hearing, because the required hearing was previously conducted, but the intention of the meeting was to answer questions of area residents. Following the meeting, he said his office was trying to determine the objections people had to the airport so documentation for the project addresses those concerns.

Nearly all the concerns voiced at the meeting were already covered in documentation, he added.

GOOD PROJECT: "We think from an aeronautical standpoint this is a good project," Raught stated. As evidence the project is needed, he cited the fact that 14 planes currently use a private landing strip in the area. He added an expansion of tourism and business would probably result from an airport.

A more immediate effect would also be felt on the community when project construction begins, Raught noted. Forty new jobs would probably be created during construction, based on a national formula which predicts one new job for every $32,000 in construction costs for such projects, he added.

If airport construction is approved by the Review Board, the project will then be considered by the FFA and prioritized along with other Michigan and national airports to be created, Raught said.

Actual construction will probably only take one building season to complete the project after the FFA approves funding for the airport, Raught added.

That starting date, however, cannot be determined until all present paperwork and governmental reviews are completed. Raught couldn't speculate when the project might be approved.

PRO SIGNATURES: Following that meeting, the pro-airport group known as Citizens Against Reckless Elections (C.A.R.E.) has announced circulation of petitions seeking signatures from persons in favor of the airport.

The youths will also conduct a Paper Drive on Wednesday, June 26. Residents wishing to have papers picked up may call the following numbers: 453-2255, 375-2262, 656-7268 or 883-3759.

Summer hours for HDC

Laker Board paying more

By RICH

SWARTZENDRUBER

The Elton - Pigeon - Bay Port School District is evidently paying the price for being located in a state where juries award large settlements in lawsuits.

At Monday's Board of Education meeting, Laker Superintendent Harry Brunel reported the district's building and contents insurance will be cancelled for "non-compliance," effective Aug. 1, 1985. The termination, which is six months earlier than the expiration date of the policy, is the result of a recent inspection of the building and grounds.

Brunel stated he suspects Laker's insurance carrier, Insurance Company of North America, is attempting to eliminate coverage for most districts in Michigan due to current legal situation.

As a result of investigation of the problem, Business Manager Bob Drury stated he learned other schools are experiencing similar cancellation problems.

After policy cancellation, Centerline Schools saw its premium cost jump 280% when it rebid the coverage, Drury cited as an example.

"We do have a problem. If we have any solice, its in that we are not alone in the problem," Drury said.

The deficiencies listed in the report will be corrected as much as possible in an attempt to get the policy extended to the regular maturity date, noted Drury. If that is unsuccessful, the district could face an early rebidding process, with huge premium hikes, he predicted.

3-POINT SHOT: Donning the Athletic Director's hat, Drury explained a new Michigan High School Athletic Association basketball rule alteration which permits three-point shots from a distance greater than 19 feet from the basket. Still in a trial period, the new rule change will only take effect in games when both competing teams agree to use it.

Drury said a deadlock resulted in a recent vote among Thumb B Association representatives on whether to use the three-point shot during the coming season. PLEASE TURN TO PAGE 12

Airport

The petitions, available to area persons who favor the planned airport, say in part:

"We say 'Yes' to Michigan, our county and our communities. Saying 'Yes' means supporting the efforts...to construct a new airport to serve northwestern Huron County, to attract new industry, provide new jobs, generate additional revenue, strengthen the tax base, increase recreational opportunities and for 'the good life in a small town.'"

Persons gathering signatures Monday reported more than 100 signers the first day of circulation. The favorable petitions will be forwarded to local, state and federal agencies, showing there are many more supporters for the project than opponents, organizers say.

"Most people are quiet on the subject, but we only hear from 100 or so anti-airport people, over and over again," one organizer said. "These petitions will show most people see the clear benefits to this project, at no local governmental cost," he added.

Thumb Weekly News Round-Up

FIVE DISTRICTS NEGOTIATING

Four Thumb Area public school districts are among a handful in Michigan which have not yet ratified contracts or made tentative agreements with their teachers for 1985-86, according to a survey by the State Board of Education.

The four are among 144 state districts — or just 27% of the state's 526 total districts — who have not yet settled contracts for the coming year. That's the lowest number of districts still negotiating ever, the State Board says.

Caseville, Elktion-Pigeon-Bay Port, Reese and U5ly have not yet made final agreement for the coming year, representing the only local districts still negotiating, the State Board says.

One Thumb Area school — Mayville — is among 15 in the state which have completed the current year without reaching contract settlement. That's the lowest number in two decades, the State Board says.

"It would appear that we will have fewer teacher strikes than at any time in nearly 20 years," Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip Runkel said last week.

LOCAL ROAD WORK STARTS

Several roadway replacement projects have been started during the traditional busy summertime construction period by the State Department of Transportation and County Road Commissions.

The most ambitious project — rebuilding 18 miles of M-25 between Caseville and Port Austin — has begun, with completion expected by mid-October. Traffic will not be rerouted, but may include some stop-and-go conditions from time to time.

The new bridge and resurfacing project on M-25 from the Bay County line to Wisner is now underway in Tuscola County, and traffic rerouting is being done along M-138 from Unionville through Akron and back to M-25.

Asphalt resurfacing projects are planned for: S. Elktion Road, from Elktion to Sebawaing Road; Ruth Road from M-142 south to the Huron-Sanilac County line; Parisville Road from Atwater Road south to the county line, and Kinde Road, from M-25 west to Huron City Road.

None should be completed closed to traffic during the projects, officials say.

One Huron County bridge project will start next month. The Moore Road bridge across the Pinnebog River will be rebuilt July through September, with traffic re-routing along M-142 and Elktion Road expected.

WORKSHOPS HELP PLAN STATE HIGHWAY FUTURES

Twenty-one workshops — offered with little advanced promotion — were scheduled this week to help discuss the future of Michigan's highway system.

The Michigan Department of Transportation welcomed local government officials and interested citizens to discuss how to best allocate limited resources to maintain and upgrade the 9500-mile state highway system during the 1985-94 decade.

The Thumb Area's highway forum meeting was planned for 2 p.m. this past Monday, June 10, at the Brentwood Restaurant, 178 Park Drive, Caro. Notice of the meeting was not received by local media until Thursday, June 6 — too late for advanced publication in nearly all local publications.

Deciding priorities for construction was to be discussed at the 21 meetings, State Transportation Director James Pitz said. "Since we cannot possibly do every project that is needed and wanted, we must decide which ones can be undertaken with the limited funds that are available."

Persons with questions about additional workshops can call the MDOT at 373-2160. Other nearby workshops which have not yet passed include: Gaylord, Bagley Township Hall, Wednesday, June 12 at 2:30 p.m.; Lansing, Harley Hotel, same day, 1:30 p.m.; and Big Rapids, Ferris State College's Rankin Center, same day, 9 a.m.

FIREMEN COMING TO COUNTY

Between 800 and 1000 people will descend upon Bad Axe and Huron County Wednesday through Sunday during the 110th annual conference of the Michigan State Fireman's Association.

Meetings will be conducted at Bad Axe High School and at the Huron Community Fairgrounds, according to State President Bill Reimann of Bad Axe.

Delegates from full-time and volunteer departments throughout the state are expected to attend. Workshops, exercises and exhibits are planned — and every hotel, motel and guest room in the county has been reserved for the group, representing nearly 400 fire departments in the state.

POLICE BLOTTER NEWS

■ More than 3000 area residents were without electrical power following the May 31 and June 1 wind storms, which included wind gusts of 50 mph and higher.

Some residents in Sebawaing, Pigeon, Port Austin, Kinde, Elktion and other communities were without power for up to four hours, mostly in rural areas. Some possible flooding was seen along Saginaw Bay in the Unionville, Sebawaing, Bay Port and Rose Island areas, but no major damages were reported.

■ Ruth E. Houthoofd, 55 of Saginaw, became Tuscola County's most recent traffic fatality when her auto went into the Kirk Road drainage ditch in Akron Township last Thursday, May 30. The former Akron resident may have died of a heart attack or the traffic accident, Tuscola County Sheriff's Deputies say.

■ More than $800 in signs, flag poles and a ladder were stolen from the Real Estate Office on Lake Street in Port Austin about June 1. The items were located behind the business, and Port Austin Police are investigating.

Something MUST be done at local railroad crossings

Another traffic fatality has been reported involving a train and auto, and it's little wonder people are upset and angry. Two lives have been lost in the past month locally -- plus countless others before, to bring untold heartbreak to innocent families.

Something must be done to make railroad crossings more safe, and to insist motorists pay more attention to getting across those crossings safely. And nothing will be done until you -- and others -- quit talking about it and DO SOMETHING about it!

The old question, "which came first, the railroad crossing or the car?" is easily answered. Railroads were here first, but few people give crossings the dignity and attention they require. Every motorist is guilty of giving passing glances -- and nothing more -- to those X-shaped railroad crossing signs, from time to time, as they zip across the tracks.

Sometimes, such inattention is deadly. Families have been deprived of daughters, sons and fathers two times in the past 30 days needlessly. The grief continues, but no remedy is brought forward.

Many people say flashing lights and crossing arms must be erected at each crossing. It cannot and will not be done. Costs of such warning systems are in excess of $250,000 per crossing -- and many of the rural roads don't generate enough traffic for such expenses, railroads point out. Flashing lights aren't a viable alternative.

Concerned persons say all railroad cars should be equipped with reflectorized stripes, so trains are more easily seen at dark rural crossings, where both local persons were killed. Such markings are a good first step helping drivers see trains, especially on dark nights when no on-coming cars help identify the moving railroad cars.

But still, drivers must heed the railroad crossing itself. We've got to closely watch for the possibility of approaching trains EACH time we cross tracks EVERYWHERE. It begins with the person behind the wheel.

One way of making persons truly watch for trains is erecting "Stop" signs on both sides of every train crossing in Huron County. Yes, such stop signs would be a nuisance 98% of the time, for nearly all drivers. And people can speed through stop signs just as they fail to observe the present "Yield" signs at crossings.

But stop signs are treated with more respect by our subconscious minds than are yield signs. Stop signs at each crossing are the best alternative, at the most reasonable cost, to the possibility of continuing train-auto accidents.

Train and auto collisions will not stop until motorists do -- stop, look and listen. We all learned it as children, but we must practice this procedure as adults. EVERY time we cross railroad tracks. No matter what. Motorists who avoid stopping must be ticketed, for their own good.

We urge the Huron County Road Commission and State Transportation Department to erect stop signs at each railroad crossing. Immediately. Even one more life is too many to waste.

Letters from our Readers

Thanks, Caseville, for Bike-A-Thon support

DEAR EDITOR:

On behalf of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation of Greater Michigan, I would like to express our thanks to all the wonderful people in Caseville, who helped make the National Honor Society Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon such a fantastic success.

Several businesses in our community donated snacks for the riders in the Bike-A-Thon and we are very grateful to them for their generous contributions to such a worthy cause.

Cystic Fibrosis would deserve our concern and support if it struck only one family. But CF is America's number one genetic killer of our youth, and one out of every 20 of us carries the gene that can pass the defective gene along to the next generation.

We have a long way to go to conquer Cystic Fibrosis. Each one of you who supported and participated in the Bike-A-Thon helped us take another step closer to that cure or control.

Once again on behalf of the thousands of kids and young adults with CF right here in Michigan, thank you Caseville for this special gift of hope.

Sincerely,
KELLY WAGNER,
NHS Secretary

Roses AND Thorns

By MARK KARLS

Pillows Make the Man

Fourteen years ago this fall I graduated from Naval Officer Candidate School and headed for my first assignment as a young Ensign in the Navy (Do you remember Ensign Parker in "McHale's Navy"? -- Tim Conway played the typical Ensign who walks into walls and trips over his own feet, etc.).

Well, it did not take much intelligence to realize that the Navy was just like any other lifestyle -- it will either make you or break you, depending on how you approach it. I have never met a person who came out of the armed services the same as he/she went in. They have either matured or regressed.

I was bound and determined that my Navy experience was going to make me and not break me. I set certain priorities prior to entering the service of what was necessary to assure a positive and priceless experience. Part of those priorities was to determine limitations in areas of my life where I would get into trouble if I surpassed them. I saw that one of the first things to fail in a person's character in the service was integrity. So I placed a premium on integrity in everything I did.

I was on board ship less than two weeks when we were to have a personnel and quarters inspection by the Commodore of the squadron our ship was attached to. I mean, this inspection counted heavily on our ship's Captain's career development -- and thus the career development of every officer on the ship -- so that the pressure was very intense.

I had 110 men under me in the engineering department. Each man had assigned to him a bunk with pillow, sheets and blanket. Unfortunately, we were about 12 pillows short for the inspection. The engineering officer (my boss) called me into his stateroom with a plan to get through the inspection without being graded down for the lack of pillows. He had arranged with the engineering officer on another ship in port to borrow 12 pillows for the inspection and then immediately return them.

Well, this would certainly do the trick. It seemed easy enough except for one thing. It did not mesh with my commitment to integrity.

So I told the engineering officer that I could not go along with his plan. He then straightened up and said, "Mr. Karls, I do not think you understand. . . I am not suggesting you get these pillows for our inspection. I am ordering you to get these pillows." What do you do? I mean, this is your boss, your job is on the line, you are in your first two weeks on the job and he can make life pretty difficult if he cannot replace you. Just what do you do?!

I figured I could always get another job, but I could not get another integrity anywhere, so I refused to obey the order. Not accustomed to disobedient subordinates, the engineering officer unloaded his four letter vocabulary and then threw me out of his stateroom with the words, "You'd better think it over real good this time, Mister!"

You think I was hurting? You had better believe it!

Within the hour the engineering officer called me back to his stateroom where he was sitting with the operations officer, who happened to be the most senior officer aboard under the Captain and Executive Officer. The engineering officer proceeded to lay out his new plan where we would be borrowing pillows from another ship, but we would be using pillows from our own ship. The operations department bunks forward in the ship and the inspection starts at the forward sections. So when the inspecting team is midships, then I will have some men ready to take 12 pillows back to the engineering bunks. Pretty simple, right?!

Again, the problem remained. It was not an issue of where the pillows came from. It was an issue of whose pillows they were and they were not our pillows. We would be deceiving the Commodore. I refused to obey the order -- this time being witnessed by the operations officer.

The engineering officer screamed and persisted. I kept refusing. Finally, the engineering officer repeated the vocabulary he had earlier unloaded, added a few threats for good measure and left the stateroom -- and it was his stateroom I could have died. But no job is worth losing your integrity over.

Now all of this sounds pretty petty. I mean, pillows??? Certainly there are more important issues to take a stand on. Please turn to Page 20.

4 from county are Rapes scholars

Four young people from Huron County have been selected as recipients of the Anthony L. Rapes Memorial Scholarship for the 1985-86 school year. Tony Rapes was an Extension Agricultural Agent in the county for many years and involved in agricultural education his entire life.

Dan Ritter of Elkton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ritter, will begin the Crop Production Program at Michigan State University this fall. He was very active in high school, receiving honors and awards in all aspects of Future Farmers of America, as well as being an award-winning athlete. National Honor Society and scholastic awards rounded out an outstanding high school career.

Steve Gayari, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gayari, will also begin the MSU Crop Production Program this fall. He was active in band and church groups while in high school and especially excelled in FFA activities. He participated in many outstanding FFA teams and was a state winner in crop judging, as well as a state proficiency winner. He was also an Honor Society member and was always on the honor roll.

Amy Thuemmel of Port Austin, daughter of Douglas and Nancy Thuemmel, will be a junior at MSU next fall, majoring in Pre-Veterinary Medicine. She was very active in 4-H, FFA, Red Cross and school activities during high school and her involvement in extracurricular activities has continued in college, where she has been in the MSU Marching Band, dorm government and most recently, an Overseas Study Program in London, England.

Lynn Kubacki of Uby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kubacki, will be a sophomore at MSU, majoring in Food Systems Management. Active in FFA, student council, National Honor Society and as a class officer in high school, she is now a member of the Block and Bridle Club at MSU.

"The Rapes Scholarship rewards academic and extracurricular excellence for students continuing their education in agriculture," says Andy Sommers, Extension Agricultural Agent. "This year's recipients are truly outstanding in every area the scholarship committee evaluated. It is indeed comforting to know the future of agriculture is in such capable hands."

Taxation hearing planned in Elkton

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER

Elkton Village Council scheduled a "Truth in Taxation" hearing for Wednesday, (tonight) at 7:30 in Village Hall to provide citizen input on town's millage rate. Council is proposing to keep the rate at last year's assessment of 10.7 mills, but must schedule the hearing under the Headlee rollback because a SEV hike would generate additional funds over last year. Last year $134,418 was generated in Elkton by 11.6 mills. Without scheduling a hearing to keep the same millage rate as last year, the tax rate would drop to 10.7, which would generate an estimated $138,423.

Village President Elmer Ropp noted additional local revenues will be necessary next year to loss of $27,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

The maximum millage that could be assessed by Elkton under state law is 11.965.

Village Treasurer Dennis Learman updated Council on changes in tax collection procedures in recent state legislation.

The county is now instructed to reimburse the village for delinquent taxes within 30 days of the Sept. 14 cutoff date, rather than waiting until collection is made at the state level. County government also benefits under the new legislation which sharply increases percentages for fines and collection fees. Delinquent taxes in the village amount to about $10,000-11,000 annually, Learman said.

AUDIT: Village auditor John Walsh, C.P.A. of Pigeon reported $347,225 in actual revenues compared with a budgeted amount of $290, 630 for the fiscal year ending Feb. 28, 1985. The village received about $30,000 more in revenue sharing than expected to account for most of the difference in the projected and actual revenues.

Council also received a favorable report of expenditures as the yearly amount actually totaled $303,877, compared with a budgeted figure of $317,007.

The increase in revenues and reduction in expenses generated a fund balance of $43,348 for the year, to increase the overall village fund balance to $204,000 as of Feb. 2.

CRUISER SOLD: Council accepted the $131 bid of Charles Painter of Bad Axe for the used police car. The five bids opened at the meeting ranged from $801.51 to the high bid of $1,131.

Some confusion resulted from Painter's bid because $1,131 was written in numeral form, but $1,130 was the amount included in the words for the amount. The situation was further compounded by a $1,130 bid received from Car Wars Used Cars of Kentwood, Michigan.

Council decided Painter intended to bid $1,131, and accepted the bid for that amount.

HIRED: Kelly Rae Leach of Caseville was hired as director of the village summer recreation program at a rate of $5 per hour. The Central Michigan University student was the only applicant for the position.

The recreation program is scheduled to run for approximately seven weeks beginning June 18.

OTHER BIZ: Council also:

■ Adopted a set of rules for Riverside Cemetery;

■ Donated $100 to Huron County Awareness Day sponsored by Huron Economic Development Commission;

■ Heard a complaint about visibility being obstructed by angle parking at the corner of North Main and York Streets.

■ Discussed procedures for issuing citations for violations of the village ordinance regulating burning within the village limits.

Araceli says she'd like to thank all the Laker Junior High teachers who helped her this school year. She was able to complete all her courses and is a good student, the Leipprandts say.

She enjoyed meeting her fellow students and will always remember them, and appreciated the chance to perfect her English. "Thank you for making me welcome in your school," she said. Plans this fall include the study of French in her native Mexico.

Students in her school can take four or five languages - generally French, English, German and the native Spanish.

CAPITOL NOTES

By State Representative
Dick Allen

Bill would grant prosecutors the right to appeal lenient sentences

Legislation has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives that would grant prosecutors the right to appeal lenient sentences in district and circuit courts.

Under current laws, prosecutors cannot appeal a ridiculously lenient sentence. H.B. 4686 (introduced by Rep. Ernie Nash, R-Dimondale) would address this issue and could also save the state time and money.

Frequently, such as in the Vincent Chin case where the defendants originally received probationary sentences, prosecutors are blocked from pursuing appeals in the courts where the lighter sentences are handed down. This bill gives the prosecutors the right to an appeal directly to the next higher court.

The bill would also allow prosecutors to appeal trial court rulings which weaken the people's case or nullify a jury verdict of guilty.

BIG BLOOMER:

No, this plant not an oversized Easter lily.

Retired Pigeon rural mailcarrier Calvin C. Anklam bestows plenty of attention on his Amaryllis plant which exploded this spring with four flowers and one unopened (so far) bud. During the five years Anklam has cared for the plant, only one, pure white flower was produced each season. He was surprised by the plant twice this year, however, by the blooms and also a tinge of pink in the flowers for the first time.

Evidence of Anklam's green thumb can be seen in the rose bushes and landscaping work around the house. His retirement hobby keeps him so busy, he wouldn't have time to work a regular job again, Anklam says.

Tax returns can be amended

Taxpayers who have filed their federal income tax return and later find that they did not report some income or failed to claim a deduction or credit may file an amended return, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, should be used to correct Forms 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ. Do not file another of these original forms. Form 1040X also may be used to claim a refund of individual income taxes.

The taxpayer should write the income, deductions and credits on the Form 1040X as they were reported on the original return, as well as any changes being made and corrected amounts, the IRS says.

An amended return must be filed within three years from the date the original return was filed or within two years from the time that the tax was paid, whichever is later. A return filed early is considered filed on the due date.

BACKACHE.

The little pain that lasts and lasts.

Back pain often starts small. Sometimes it disappears; usually it returns; often it gets worse. If left untreated, back pain can linger for years as a nagging reminder that all is not well.

Your job may be the culprit; you may sit all day hunched over a desk; you may lift heavy objects; you may be constantly bending over, caring for children. These are common causes of misaligned vertebrae of the spine and may be good reasons why you have back pain.

And because the spine is a complex system which is connected to other areas of your body, misaligned vertebrae in the spine can also be the reason for tension, stiffness, fatigue and more specifically, constipation and headaches.

Doctors of Chiropractic are specialists in back care. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further complications.

Thanks A Million

DEAR MR. ROSS:

I am writing with all the frustrations of a wife, mother and homemaker who wants to make things a little better for her family.

My husband is a good man and father. He works extremely hard - up to 12 hours a day. We've always had food on the table and a roof over our heads. But with four young children, ages three, eight, 10 and 12, it's very difficult to make ends meet.

I haven't worked outside the home since a year after we married - that's when the kids began. Several years ago I started babysitting in my home during the day to help supplement our income. In the afternoons when the children were napping and in the evenings I began to sew simple clothes for them. Before I knew it, I was sewing for friends and neighbors. I truly enjoy sewing and it has become a good source of income on which we've grown dependent.

Here's where the frustration comes in. Good old "Bessie" (my sewing machine) broke down. It is beyond repair at this point, but considering it was over 30 years old, I guess it's understandable.

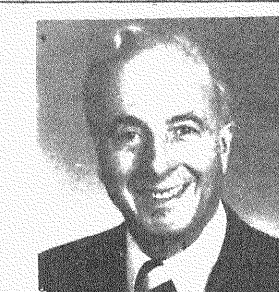

Like many other families, we live paycheck to paycheck. Our money always seems to run out before the month does. Mr. Ross, there's no way my husband and I can muster up the money to buy another machine. Would it be possible for me to borrow the money to get a good model?

My neighbor has a Viking sewing machine that can do everything but clean the kitchen sink. I don't mean to appear greedy, but I'd give my right arm (I'm left-handed) to have one of their machines. All I'm really asking is that you help me, so I in turn can help myself. - Mrs. S.W., Ortonville, Minn.

DEAR MRS. W.:

I can clearly see that you wrote your letter out of need and not greed. Because your attitude is one of wanting to help yourself, it's help you're going to get. I am personally delivering a new 940 Viking machine to your home.

With the additional income you'll be bringing in, I hope you will find the time to sew yourself a new dress. Mom's like you deserve it and so much more.

By PERCY ROSS

DEAR MR. ROSS:

Boy, do I need a car. I am 16 years old and short on cash. I've been scrimping for weeks and still need about $900 to get a good used car.

I really need it badly because I like this girl and she won't go out with me unless I have one. Could you please help me? My parents won't. - T.J., Uniontown, Pa.

DEAR T.:

If the girl won't go with you because you don't have a car, it's not you she's interested in.

DEAR MR. ROSS:

Would you help my grandpa? He's really old, but he's the best grandpa in the world! I bet he's got 10 different birdhouses in his back yard. He builds them by himself out of scrap wood the lumber company gives him that he used to work at.

He says he won't have many birds coming around this year cuz he can't buy them bird seed like he used to. Would you help him feed the birds this year? - C.G., Bryon, Ohio.

DEAR C.:

You bet I'll help grandpa with a little seed money. My check is in the mail! And to insure it gets there quickly, I've mailed it by U.S. First Class Mail instead of carrier pigeon.

DEAR MR. ROSS:

Ever since I was a child, I've dreamed of owning a magic lamp. I would simply love to have one! Just think - my very own genie, to perform at my beck and call.

This way I can have all the things I've always dreamed of owning and not have to write you and ask for them. How about it, Percy? Got any magic lamps in your bag of tricks? - L.L., Sacramento, Calif.

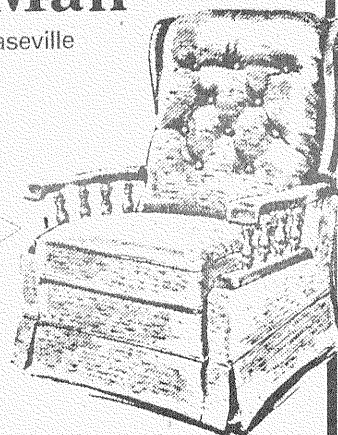

DEAR MISS L.:

None . . . I don't even have one up my sleeve. Sorry!

The 4-4 vote resulted when the league's Class C schools of Laker, Bad Axe and Cass City favored the change, while the Class B schools of Imlay City, North Branch and Caro turned it down. The Laker athletic director said he expects a future vote to favor the change.

BUS BELTS? Brunet informed the Board students might be required to wear seat belts while riding school buses in the future.

Beginning July 1, 1985, bus drivers must buckle up. Monitoring seat belt use by students could require an extra adult on each bus and add an estimated half-hour to each bus route, Brunet added.

SOFT LANDING: As a result of concern aired by a parent at last month's Board meeting, sand was placed under playground equipment at Bay Port Elementary School. The sand was added to prevent injury from

Scenic notes

By MAVIS PECHETTE

President Bertha Egyet conducted the June meeting of the Womens' Division of Scenic Golf and Country Club. A new member, Doris Watzke and a guest, Bea Olsen, were introduced.

The annual Mother-Daughter Day will be June 11. On June 18 the ladies will be guests at Verona Hills for golf and cards. A special card party luncheon is scheduled for Wednesday, June 19 at Scenic.

The raffle was won by Mavis Pechette and Doris Strauch. Upcoming tournaments include the Four-Man Best Ball on June 22 and the Womens' Invitational on Tuesday, June 25. Entry forms and details are available in the pro shop.

The play of the day for golfers was low gross minus putts. Dody Yahn was the winner in championship flight. Lillian McLean won in first flight with Jean Johns and Flo Carravallah taking the prizes in second and third flights, respectively. Mrs. Carravallah scored a birdie and chip-ins were recorded by Bea Anklam, Doris Strauch and Carrie Gaiera.

The afternoon bridge group continues to draw a large number of players. Eight tables were in play with Gen Kohn having the highest score. Other prize winners were Margaret Watson, Pat Koykka, Hazel Osterhoudt, Marie Beach, Helen Trailer, Evelyn Stomp and Marion Fountain.

SEBEWAING: Paula Sue Good, bachelor of music in Education.

PORT AUSTIN: Linda Szymanski, bachelor of arts in Journalism. Outgoing CMU President

Harold Abel addressed the graduates at May 11 commencement exercises and Michigan Molecular Institute Interim President Robert Hefer was awarded an honorary degree.

Fresh produce plentiful in June

Fresh home-grown strawberries are the highlight of the June food outlook, according to Ada Shinabarger, extension food marketing agent. Less firm but more flavorful than California strawberries, locally produced strawberries will be available most of June.

Prices for the early shipped-in strawberries have been very attractive. Shoppers cannot realistically expect Michigan-grown strawberries to sell below the shipped-in strawberries. Michigan producers have more than a dollar in each quart before they leave the farm gate.

Other Michigan fruit crops are also looking good. Barring inclement weather, cherries, peaches and apples will all top last year's crops. Conditions for blueberries also look favorable.

Check prices of crisp lettuce and other salad greens weekly to determine the best value. Aside from tomatoes, other salad vegetables are likely to be selling at summer-low prices throughout the month.

Fresh sweet corn and green beans will increase in availability and decrease in price as the supply sources get closer to Michigan.

Eggs continue to be a super value for shoppers and a loss for producers.

The broiler supply is up and prices are attractive. Broilers, turkeys, and other poultry and seafood items continue to displace more and more red meat purchases.

PARTIAL PREPLANNING

While it would be ideal to preplan all aspects of one's funeral arrangements down to the last detail, this is not always possible. Many people live the sort of fluid lifestyle which precludes purchasing a cemetery lot or even choosing a particular funeral home.

One solution to this problem is to write a general "Letter of Instructions on Funeral and Burial" to your spouse, next of kin, or to whom it may concern. Put down only those instructions about your funeral and burial which any qualified mortuary can fill.

Anything that can be done to lessen the burden on those left behind will certainly aid in ensuring that most of your requests be followed, as you would want them.

... and takes you along for the ride.

Firewood, stone, livestock, hay, crates... or people, the brawny 4-wheel Heald Hauler moves a 500-lb. load quickly and easily. Steering wheel and foot pedals for acceleration and braking (with rear dual-hydraulic disc brakes) make driving a breeze. Take short-cuts and maneuver into narrow places with an overall width of less than 4' and forward and reverse gears. ## Attend the Church of Your Choice This Sunday and Every Sunday

Your Father's Love
Appeared In Many Forms

It is a wise father that knows his own child.
—William Shakespeare

"My son, hear the instruction of thy father."
—Proverbs 1:8

When you were young and free from care,
To guide you, he was always there;
And all the time you were aware
The things he said were true.
Now, any time you went astray,
He punished in a loving way.
For everything you are today,
Your thanks to him are due.
Your Church will make you understand
That each and every reprimand
Has proved to be a helping hand
Your father gave to you.

Bristol speaks
at fellowship
breakfast

Goldie Bristol of Sand Point will be the featured speaker at a fellowship breakfast scheduled at the Bad Axe Presbyterian
Church on Friday, June 14.
The event, sponsored by the Interfaith Council for Community Service, is slated to begin at 9 a.m.

Bristol is the author of two books, "These Tears Are For Diane," and "When It's Hard to Forgive." She also speaks at retreats, women's seminars, gatherings and fellowships, and is involved in the lives of prison inmates and an organization for ex-offenders and their families called CON-ANON.

The author and her husband Bob recently returned from California where they were involved in the ministry of Prison Mission Association, the mission that helped them locate their daughter's assassin in 1975.

Reservations are not necessary. A free-will offering will be taken.

Beware of fraud by area firms

Because of numerous inquiries from Thumb Area residents, Social Security
Representative Bill Pierson advises people in the area to beware of firms selling services which are provided at no charge by every Social Security office. He says several firms are operating in the Huron County area which offer information concerning the programs which are administered by the Social Security Administration, for which they charge an individual anywhere from one to 10 dollars.

READ MATTHEW 25:31-46

On a cold day in France during the fourth century, a soldier rode into a town with his companions. At the gate they saw a beggar shivering in his tattered rags and holding out his hands for help.

The soldier, Martin of Tours, stopped his horse and with his sword cut his elegant woolen cape, giving half to the beggar.
His companions ridiculed him for this, saying he had spoiled a good cape for a worthless beggar.

That night Martin had a dream in which the beggar turned out to be Jesus. He was so moved by the experience that he devoted his life to Christ, serving the poor and oppressed.

In his account of these My brethren, you did it to Me." He indicated areas of Christian service: food to the hungry, drink to the thirsty, friendship to the lonely, clothing to the naked, help to the sick, concern for the prisoners.

Let us not forget that sometimes the people who need our help are close at hand—at our very gates, perhaps within our own family. Christ sacrificed Himself for us, calling on us to be His hands and arms as we continue His work of love.

Lord Jesus, give us the sense of sacrifice, which will help us to serve rather than be served. Amen.

SOUND-OFF!

Call 453-2323 anytime to SOUND-OFF. Selected statements will appear in the next Progress-Advance, so watch for yours! Deadline: 5 p.m. Mondays.

This is in response to the comment about cleanliness next to Godliness. I found four good scripture passages. I suggest the inquisitive person read Leviticus 16:30, II Sam.

22:25, Ephesians 5:26 and Hebrews 9:14. Each stresses that we need to be cleansed of our sin, to be close to God. Leviticus 16:30 is the closest.

It was interesting to read in the School Board minutes that teachers could be reassigned after five years, to avoid burn-out. Maybe the School Board should use the same standards to look at our principals and superintendent. Thank you.

A request was made in SOUND-OFF for the origin of the quotation that "cleanliness is next to Godliness." This is found in Jewish writings. Phineas Ben-Yar quoted, "Cleanliness into Godliness." Francis Bacon said, "Cleanliness of body was ever deemed to proceed from a due reverence to God."

It could happen to you. Another person just hit the train. How sad. Please, each of you, write your state officials asking them to pass a law requiring all trains to add reflector strips to their cars. This is concerning you.

Now that we've had another circus instead of a real meeting about this needed airport in Caseville, when are the good people who want progress here going to come forward? The world will soon think these 80 opponents are the majority. The election proved most Caseville people are not opposed to the airport.

I'm calling about the so-called kind people of Pigeon, especially the kids. I'm still getting harassed about my weight. Today it was the worst. There's a girl wearing a green Lakers shirt. She is no skinnier than I am. She looks like a pregnant elephant in heat. And I hope you print this.

In the last issue of The Progress-Advance, there was a letter from Charlene Neer, a missionary-nurse in Ethiopia. She said she saw some beans and corn that was shipped there from the Co-Op Elevator in Pigeon. She's the daughter of George Keim of Bay Port.

I was embarrassed for Caseville when all the riff-raff monopolized the airport meeting with terror tactics. The programming that went into these rude puppets by the CCC was phenomenal. Do we want mob rule in Caseville? Of course we don't.

To the person who speeds up and down Brush Street in his black pickup truck: Do you realize there are children living on our street who sometimes go out in the street to get a ball, or are riding their bikes? Please slow down. We love our children and don't want anything to happen to them.

Orders are still being taken for homemade noodles, to help send Michigan Ave. Menonite Youth to their summer convention. Call 453-2255, 656-7268, 375-2262 or 883-3759 to order.

Coach McLellan, you deserve front page news!

Thanks for everything you done for showing our kids only get excellence by working hard for it.

Do we really want Pigeon water rates double just so we get a new water system? Some questions I better be asked, and because this sounds too expensive to me. And I've heard others say this, too.

Our group had to cancel upcoming event when learned another group had one scheduled on the same day. Why is there no community master calendar to avoid mix-ups like this? At least, that's something P.A.C.E. Council did well.

right? But not really. Pillows were not the real issue. I was simply the circumstances through which the real issue of integrity surfaced. In refusing to obey the direct order from a senior officer, it was important for all of us to understand he was ordering me to deceive those whom I was responsible to. There was no choice but to take a stand or to lose integrity.

I sat in the engineering officer's stateroom literally cried and chafed off the next three years of active duty as inevitable nightmare. The operations officer looked at said, "I bet you think your department head is really off at you. Well, he really is, but he'll get over it. And when he does, then he is going to realize he's got a junior officer under him that he can trust with anything, even his life, knowing will never be deceived. You just watch!"

Sure enough, within seven months we were constantly making life and death decisions in Viet Nam and you know the man came to.

What can we learn? I am committed to the Pigeon area will patronize the local merchants even if it means paying for or waiting longer for something to come in. But these local merchants I will never patronize. Why? I have their integrity (or lack thereof) in other areas of life. Friendship (some are very close friends) does not compensate for integrity. They may think their carelessness in integrity to be a minor thing — "Everybody in this business cheats this way" — but major things begin in minor ways, can still be friends, but my business goes elsewhere.

Now does this make me out to be a pious prude? I hope I am not perfect and I slip on occasion. The issue is not perfection. The issue is one of trying to do right and be sensitive to that which is wrong about myself. Any business who tries at integrity has got my business.

Boat safety given top priority

By ELIZABETH DOLE, Secretary of Transportation

Last year, an estimated half of all recreational boating accidents occurred because someone had too much to drink and got careless. More than 1,200 people died on our nation's waterways, many of them from alcohol-related incidents. Boating is supposed to be fun, but recreation can quickly turn to tragedy if alcohol is involved.

Drinking even small amounts of alcohol while operating a boat is more dangerous than most people realize. Even without drinking, the effects of wind, noise, glare and motion can cause fatigue and slowed reaction time after just a few hours on a boat. And if a boat operator has been drinking as well, these effects are compounded.

Drunk boaters not only endanger themselves; frequently they put other waterway users at risk. That is why the U.S. Coast Guard and state boating authorities are cracking down on alcohol abuse. They want to save lives and make boating more pleasurable for everyone.

You should be aware that the federal government and many states have recently toughened laws against drinking and boating. For example, boating accident reports must now state whether alcohol contributed to any casualties, and anyone convicted of operating a vessel while intoxicated in waters under federal jurisdiction faces a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine and a year in prison.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, of which the Coast Guard is an important part, is working closely with the states to strengthen laws against drunken boat operation. All but one of the states now have laws against operating a boat while intoxicated. In addition, a growing number of states are setting limits on blood-alcohol content levels and requiring mandatory breathalyzer tests for those suspected of drunk boating. I hope and expect to see more of these laws enacted during 1985.

The Coast Guard is also coordinating an ambitious public awareness program to educate boaters about the hazards of mixing alcohol while operating a boat. This includes a number of "safe boating" courses available all over the country. The courses are offered as a public service by such groups as the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadrons, the Red Cross and individual states. If you are a boater who have never taken one of these courses, I urge you to do so. The overwhelming majority of boaters who have fatal accidents have never had any safe boating education.

No one wants to stand in the way of a good time, but boaters cannot truly enjoy themselves unless they can be assured the waterways are safe. You owe it to yourself, your family and fellow boaters to operate a boat responsibly.

The U.S. Department of Transportation is working closely with the states to strengthen laws against drunken boat operators. All but one of the states now have laws against operating a boat while intoxicated.

Laker baseballers bow out in regional finals

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER

The hearts of the Laker varsity baseball players were probably broken along with the leg of teammate Dan Bouck last Saturday in the regional tournament championship at Clare. The Laker sluggers, however, pulled together to nearly claim the trophy in spite of the situation.

Lakers upended Ithaca 7-4 in the semi-finals, but came up of the short end of a 4-1 decision to Rogers City in the championship contest.

Starting catcher and leading RBI man Bouck broke his leg in two places during a first-inning collision with the Ithaca first-baseman Terry Hessbrock. The tragic collision resulted when a bad throw pulled Hessbrock off the bag and into the path of Bouck.

Lakers displayed poise in concentrating on the task at hand, however, as they pounded out 11 hits to score seven runs in the first four innings and held Ithaca at bay for the win.

Once again Laker hurler Al Gies provided the team's defensive backbone by striking out 10 Ithaca hitters to pick up the win.

Rob Irion performed well as the replacement for Bouck behind the plate, according to Coach Bill McLellan. The substitute has past experience at the position, but played only two innings as Laker catcher this year, the Laker coach added.

An 11-hit Laker attack was paced by Jeff Caverly with a triple and single, Ron Dubs with a double and single and Tim Patterson with three singles.

The Green and White squad took an early lead by scoring a pair of runs in the opening inning and adding three more in the second stanza.

In the championship game, Lakers battled the Rogers City Hurons evenly during the first part of the game as each team failed to score in the first three innings. Both teams each notched a run in the fourth inning, but Rogers City then earned the championship trophy by scoring one run in each of the last three innings of the game while holding Lakers scoreless.

Lonnie Schulz worked the first five innings of the second game before receiving relief help from Gies. Schulz fanned seven Rogers City hitters in five innings of work. Gies added three more strike-outs to the book in the final two innings of the defensive struggle.

Tim Patterson doubled and singled to lead Laker batsmen. Irion also contributed a pair of hits in the game filling in for Bouck.

A solo home run and double against Lakers by Mark Fleming of Rogers City, along with a pair of homers he belted in the champ's first game that day, undoubtedly impressed Central Michigan University scouts attending the tourney. McLellan noted the disappointed Laker players and coach can't but wonder about the come of the tourney if the fortunate injury to Bouck hadn't occurred.

"I think we would have had a good chance to (the regional) if we had full strength," McLellan said after the game.

The Thumb B Association tri-champion Laker play can hold their heads high, however, as they bow out competition this year with a 23-8 overall record.

Caseville School IN THE NEWS

By GAIL GEMBARSKI and VICKI GOSLEE

CASEVILLE SCHOOL IN THE NEWS

School is out for summer. No more homework, no more school lunches and no more practices.

This is my last article of the year and I just want to remind you a little of what we've been through.

This school year has flown by for everyone. We started back in August. The girls brought a District Trophy home to get us through November. Weekends during that time were spent on the football field as we watched our team rebuild.

Then in December, the boys began basketball. They won no banners for the wall, but made cheering for them fun because they won a few.

Girls began March by finishing up volleyball and capturing another District trophy.

Spring then was in the air. Softball and baseball began to warm up. The softball team had a long season, never playing to their capabilities. The baseball team, however, fell just one game short of a NCTL crown.

Our track team never got started with a winning season because they never found a coach.

The year in sports has been fun to report. I've enjoyed reporting the wins much more than the losses, but in high school sports it doesn't matter who wins or loses - it's how the game is played.

Besides the everyday homework and once a week quizzes to help us learn more, exams were given twice a year to test the knowledge we've gained; so that one day we can be on stage with a cap and gown, just like the Class of '85.

Congratulations, seniors, you made it!

I shall miss reporting the Caseville School News for it was so much fun, even though it got a little tough when CHS was short of news. I'd like to thank all my readers. My weekly articles helped speed my junior year by.

—By G.G.

The beginning of the 84-85 school year was wonderful. We were almost seniors, "Only two more years to go!" all the juniors cheered and this fact alone made our day every time we thought of it.

We couldn't wait for the end of the school year, but in our hearts, we knew school wasn't so bad.

The lazy autumn days passed slowly, but before we knew it, it was the end of the football season and time for the Homecoming festivities. Fan roared as the team presented them with a victory.

Fall came to a close with the beginning of winter sports, boys basketball and volleyball. Students finally realized it was time to get down to serious study, as many of them didn't have much time to improve their grades.

The counselor, Mr. Grueze, interrupted our classes many times to give us more decisions to make about our futures.

Winter seemed long and unusually hard, but then again, they always seem like that. For many kids their only break seemed to be their favorite sport.

Semester exams came and went and a variety of emotions could be witnessed in the hall on the day that report cards were handed out.

Spring finally arrived and brought with it the high school play. Students started to weigh the decision to play a spring sport (baseball, softball) in their minds.

Many became disappointed as a search for a track coach drew to a close and the sport was finally cancelled.

Once again Mr. Grueze visited the juniors with more information on the ACT tests and how we should prepare for them. I'd like to know if anyone really did, but don't let Mr. Grueze find out.

Outdoors As We See It...

Fishing Tournaments By Jack Pine

There has been an increased interest in fishing tournaments throughout both the U.S. and in Michigan. What started out as an amateur bass circuit in the south has now grown to include bonafide fishing professionals who pursue their riches, not only in bass, but trout, salmon, perch, walleyes and even carp.

Why this sudden interest in competitive fishing? Is it the age-old macho syndrome that says, I can catch more fish than you can catch! Or perhaps it's the lure of rich prizes, which have reached the $1 million mark, that causes ordinary anglers to get bug-eyed when you mention a contest.

Whatever the reason, you can be sure of one thing - the fishing tournaments are here to stay. The question is being asked, are fishing tournaments good pro-motors of what perhaps is the most popular American pastime?

Proponents of fishing tournaments claim they are. They are quick to point out that fishing tournaments are responsible for the increased interest in fishing in general. It's not the competition, or prizes, they say, but rather the comradery that fishermen experience with one another.

They also point out, tournaments are good for the economic side of fishing. Fishing is a multimillion dollar business, and tournaments are one means of keeping the money flow in circulation.

Opponents of the fishing tournaments are quick to say that fishing is a pastime and not a sport. It is an activity where the means is far more important than the end result. This side also claims the fishing tournaments pro-

Summer has finally arrived and it is accompanied by job applications and seniors preparing for college in the fall.

The year 1984-85 was a good and bad school year, and one which many students will always remember. There are many aspects which complete it, some of which are included above.

I definitely think next year will be better, at least for the now seniors who will be busy with future plans.

I'd like to say good-bye and thank my faithful readers. I've enjoyed my short-lived writing career and will always consider it to be a special part of this school year.

IN THE KNOW ...

...AT LAKER HIGH SCHOOL

By CONSTANCE ABDALLA and C. DRUMMOND

Well, "the party's over and everyone has gone home."

What a mess! Want a bucket of potato salad? How about a bag of cake?

For sale: 1 1/2 hams, two cases of pineapple-grapefruit juice; six bottles of assorted pop (attention - one "old" Coke); one bottle of black nail polish (used once); one pair of "french white" - didn't match the American made dress; one pair white heels (size 7), worn for approximately two hours, 43 minutes and 12:5999 seconds; three packages mint green crepe paper; 100 feet of silver streamers, and one slightly wilted yellow rose.

Yes, we have leftovers! Anyone who hasn't had his or her party yet, here's some advice: make half as much as you think you need. If you don't have enough send them to McDonald's (Foodliner, not the fast food place!) for "food supplies." But if you have too much, you eat it forever.

Now let's talk about "Potato Get-Rid-Itis," commonly known as the "Potato Salad Blues."

By the fifth day, the "blues" are getting bad. Mom gets the potato salad out AGAIN. It's green around the edges.

"Ahh Mom, is that a-a-a-celery on the side there?" you ask timidly.

"No dear, here have some beans. How 'bout some punch?"

"Mom, stop it! You're addicted! We have to get you help!"

Your Mother motions to the back of the kitchen. "The food's in the back. We've got plenty of punch and the cake is on the table to your right."

You scream, "MOM, STOP IT! The party's over!"

Your Mom's face turns whimsical. "Ohhh." She sits down. "But what are we going to do with all this food?"

You say, "We've been eating it for a week."

And your little brother says, after inhaling, "Let's get a big box, put bread on the bottom, all the potato salad, tuna salad, beans, ham, everything, even jello, then bread. Tape the box top, wrap it in Handiwrap and put it in the huge cooler Aunt Martha has, and send it to Ethiopia."

You look at him and say, "That's not a bad idea."

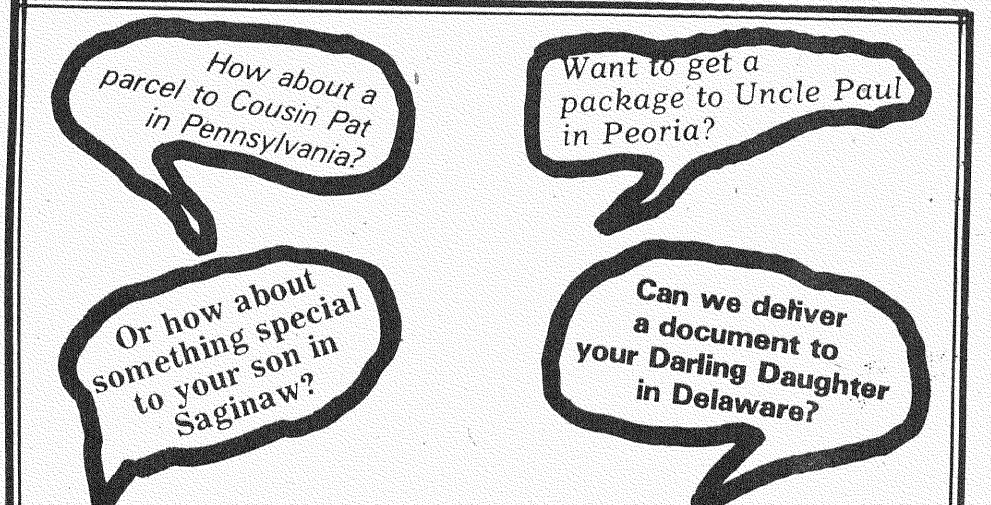

Little brother looks proud. "President Reagan might even call to thank us," he smiles. "And you can tell him I'm in the bathroom."

You mutter something under your breath as you pick up the plastic fork with only one prong missing. "Just think. Only 10 years until we have to do this again."

Your little brother looks at you. "But we're not having potato salad."

You dig your fork into the green heap. "Seems to me I said that."

Mom plops another spoon full of beans on your plate. "I thought the potato salad was kind of nice."

'Rocky roads' lead to Muslim pilgrimmage

It all began when the person in charge of the Health Center said they were going to take a health team to Sheik Houssein and would we be interested in going along. I didn't know if they were referring to the fact that they wanted us to go because of our car or because of us, but either way it was an opportunity that I did not want to miss. Here was chance of a lifetime right at my doorstep to go to this remote area where thousands of Muslims would be gathered from all over Ethiopia for their pilgrimmage.

Not only was I excited about the potential of a challenge in the area of disease control that would most probably be needed there, but I could be involved personally in a Muslim pilgrimmage. I could see firsthand the cultural and religious practices of these unique people. There would perhaps never be another chance. Can you imagine it?

Early Monday morning we loaded our two Toyota Land Cruisers with medicine, infusions, food and water to last for one week and started out on a journey that ended up being 109 km. long and took 12½ hours to reach our destination of the small wilderness settlement of Sheik Houssein. No one told us that the "road" was not meant for this modern invention of man -- the car. No one said it was nigh unto impossible to take this means of locomotion over this pathway.

The first 40 km. were terrible, but compared to the rest of the journey it was a super highway. We drove not over rocks and stones, but boulders. Never had I seen anything like this before. We kept going, thinking with each field of this boulder land, it had to get better, but not so. More boulders kept getting in our way! My shoulders ached, my head was pounding and I had blisters on my hands from holding onto the steering wheel. Where are the Wheaties when you need them?! How much more torment do we have to put this car through, not to mention the driver? Already it had been hung up on several huge boulders that had to be coaxed into sinking into the ground so I could get over them.

By now it was getting pretty dark, but we still had 36 km. over which to move the car in a slow forward manner over this rock ribbed trail. Up hill and down hill, around curves, through the woods, through the brambles and the bushes where the sane wouldn't go. Half the time I had no idea what was a place to drive and what wasn't.

Oops! What in the world is happening? I can't turn the wheel! Well, for Pete's sake, I'm sliding! No, I think I'm tipping! I stopped the car and looked out my window and on seeing this ridge of dirt and brush staring us in the face, I realized that I was in a car that was at a 45 degree angle with the rest of the world. You can imagine what was going through my mind: the axel is bent, the wheel is broken off, it isn't my car, what do you do in the middle of nowhere when your car is busted? I took a deep breath and with a feeling of dread, fear and even a bit of panic, I crawled out the other door to appraise the present state of affairs. On inspection, found that the car had slipped into a space within the dirt that is commonly known as a hole and in this case, a very deep hole that had been near-camouflaged by the brush.

It was also dark outside. The guys from the other car scrambled out all four doors and came running. "What happened, Charlene?" "I think I just fell into a hole," was all I could say. I was half on the verge of hysteria, both tears and laughter. Thank goodness someone had the foresight to bring a pick axe, sle hammer and shovel!

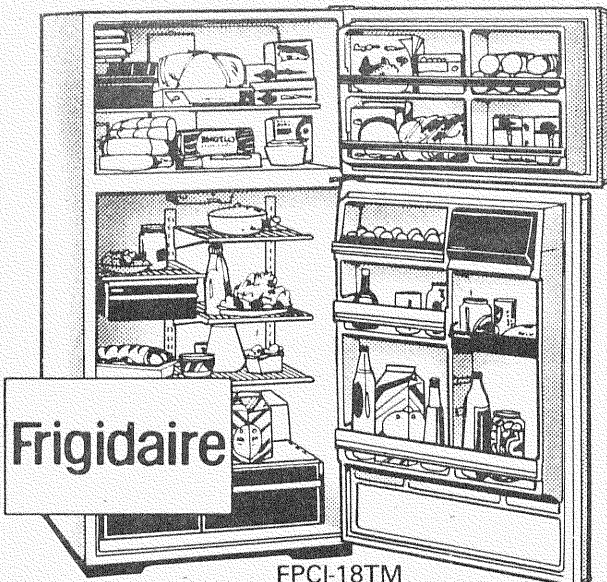

And so it was 8 p.m. March 4 that the road Sheik Houssein began to take on a new appearance as dirt flew and the stones were crushed to make a way for me to get this car out of the cavity it had fallen into. The guys pushed from the side to keep the car in an upright position while I shifted into four-wheel drive and slowly inched my way out of this fissure.

Now you do you want to hear the punch line to this episode?
