Pigeon okays Casting tax abatement request

It took 30 minutes of discussion, deliberation and analyzing samples, but the Pigeon Village Council approved a 50% tax abatement request for the $257,000 expansion underway at Huron Casting, Inc.

Two neighbors of the plant told Council fly ash, sand or other substances released from the plant are unsafe, and one of them, Joseph Walsh, produced an envelope of a sand-ash substance he says falls regularly on his property.

Huron Casting President Leroy Wurst said his company is being forced to reclaim the sand used in foundry operations, noting the $257,000 project will retain 118 present jobs and will create about 22 new employment positions. In answering past Council questions about dustiness at the plant, he admitted dust might be picked up during re-mixing operations. Any substances landing on security property isn't ash, he said, since his firm burns no coal in its operations.

Sand was being emitted from the company's stack in recent months, since efforts to remove excess sand from the system weren't working. Wurst said $63,000 is machinery is still being fine-tuned, and sand nearly all such sand will be caught by the new equipment.

The company plans to install an auger system, which would eliminate air cooling of foundry moldings. "So no sand could get drawn out and go up the stack," he added, saying the improved system would be fully installed in six to eight weeks.

Harold "Puffy" Rounds, the other neighbor, said it was before casting, not after. Casting doesn't put down sand leads being taken to landfills, since much of the substance blows around at those times. "That's where we're getting 90% of our trouble now," Rounds said.

Wurst said the substance is sand, not fly ash, and added he expects 90% of the sand used by Huron Casting will be reclaimed when the expansion is complete. Huron's expansion system is installed. Wetting such sands would require a "tremendous amount of water.

Walsh produced the sample he said he wiped off his patio table, telling Wurst. "I don't know what the front of your place looks like, but this is what's coming from your back. I'm talking about inside of my lungs. We're breathing this. Can you guarantee we won't get this in our lungs?" Walsh said he would have the sample analyzed, noting he isn't sure it came from Wurst's plant, adding "I'm breathing it through my lungs, and you're making money on it. There are dozen of people down there breathing that jack, and you fellows are laughing all the way to the bank."

Huron County Economic Development Director Ralph Iden spoke in favor of the tax abatement, which will grant 50% property tax relief for 12 years. "Some people feel they lose money on tax breaks, but you're actually getting 50% of the new property tax and eventually 100%. I think Huron Casting is a credit to your community, and to the company's management ability," Iden said.

He agreed any health hazards should be discussed separately, should be addressed.

Village President Norris Diebel noted the Council has "wholesaleheartedly backed Huron Casting" in the past. He acknowledged communications problems still exist, "but I feel they have immediately corrected an." Council voted 7-0 in favor of the abatement.

Council discussed creating a Public Service Committee to keep lines of communications open on such on-going complaints, but took no action.

NO TO HOSPITAL: Council took no action following a public hearing on a request from Scheurer Hospital Administrator George Dussault to change stop signs to allow ambulances direct access along Muehle Street, from 36-40 (Michigan Ave.) north to the rear of the hospital.

Council said a revised plan could be considered if necessary, noting only one of the existing four stop signs could easily be changed now.

ORDINANCES: Council passed one of two proposed new ordinances presented by Village Attorney Michael Ott. The new law allows the village to change water and sanitary sewer charges by resolution, not revised ordinances.

HELP ON WHEELS: A display of community concern could be seen in a sugar beet field at the Ackerman family farm a mile south of Elkton last Saturday, when friends and neighbors pitched to help complete the Ackerman beet harvest.

Three harvesters and 14 semi-tractor trailers were manned by friends representing five different church denominations to harvest the beets before a hard freeze trapped the crop in the ground. Although the work was slowed by muddy conditions, the work crew was able to harvest 35 acres during the day.

The friends of George and and son, Dale, put their concern into action as a result of recent surgery and hospitalization of the elder Ackerman.

FINGERPRINTED THUMBS: Pigeon Elementary School kindergartners Chet Craig and Heather Orr show they're ready for "thumbs up for safety," as part of the "Identify Your Child Program" conducted Tuesday at Bay Port and Pigeon Elementary Centers.

Tip of the Thumb VW Post 2238 Ladies Auxiliary is coordinating the plan, according to Community Activities Chairman Venus Thome, to help keep youngsters safe.

On Tuesday, Huron County Sheriff's Sgt. Brent Woodward and Auxiliary members fingerprinted all consenting kindergartners, as the department has to the past four years. Sgt. Woodward said about 200 youths county-wide will have information gathered, and noted that more than 3000 children have been registered in the program in its two-year existence.

"Your fingerprint pattern never changes," Woodward said. So fingerprints filed two years ago - or longer - are still usable today.

Elkon sets economic plan

By BRICH SWARTZENBERG

Elkon has taken another step toward economic recovery by establishing the last Tuesday's regular council meeting.

Elkon's economy plan, announced by Mayor William S. Elkon, is designed to stimulate job growth, reduce unemployment, and encourage business investment. The plan includes several key initiatives:

1. Tax Incentives: The city will offer tax breaks to businesses that invest in Elkon, encouraging job creation.
2. Infrastructure Improvements: Investments in the city's roads and utilities will improve the business environment and attract new businesses.
3. Community Development: The city will focus on upgrading public spaces and amenities to enhance the quality of life and attract tourists.
4. Education and Training: Elkon will partner with local colleges and training centers to provide workforce development programs, preparing the local population for job opportunities.

The plan is expected to stimulate economic growth and improve the city's financial position. The council has approved the plan, and implementation is set to begin immediately.

Another hearing slated in EPRP-OG land feud

Laker property transfer drags on

By BRICH SWARTZENBERG

Another hearing is scheduled in the EPRP-OG land feud involving the city of Laker and a local property owner. The feud centers around the ownership of a parcel of land on the city's outskirts.

The hearing was originally set for September, but was rescheduled due to scheduling conflicts. The next hearing will be held on November 15, 2023, at 10 AM in the City Hall meeting room.

In the meantime, both parties have been working to resolve the dispute, with the city hoping to acquire the land for expansion purposes. The property owner is resisting, citing insufficient compensation.

The outcome of this hearing could have significant implications for the city's future development and land use planning.

Religion... or show biz?

A ll people who know how to turn on their favorite TV talk shows have been literally bombarded by TV evangelists more and more heavily in recent years. These broad-shouldered preachers formerly overwhelmed the airwaves Sunday morning only. Now, nearly all Sunday hours are reserved for the TV evangelist. They're on all day.

They've got their own style of TV channels, too, which are among the most popular in many cable systems.

The 700 Club, for instance, provides "news, features, stories and interviews." From a Christian point of view, the PTL, "Praise the Lord," Christian Broadcasting Network and others are available, "round the clock, with religious programming from a Christian perspective . . . but, as the TV evangelists are asking for your donations, they're playing the big religious supermarket, too.

But what's TV evangelism doing? There's no evidence that religion is growing in the United States. In terms of church membership, according to the National Church Directory, the United Methodists are growing, and the United, Unitarians, Presbyterians, and Congregationalists are losing membership. Many time-lapse studies have shown that the church attendance rate is about 3% of the population.

There are nearly 300 million TV sets in the United States, and nearly 100 million are color sets. Yet the TV evangelists are reaching only about 5% of all American homes. In terms of television, the United Methodists are not reaching the vast majority of the homes in this country.

And yet the TV evangelists are asking for your money. They're playing the big religious supermarket, too.
